As soon as Rep Yi finished speaking, House Speaker Chong Nae-hyok ordered that two parts of his remarks be erased from the House stenographic records by saying: It is the rule of the National Assembly that when we mention names of those who are involved in scandalous issues, we mention them by calling them "Mr so-and-so." The remark concerning "sanctuary" is unnecessary, and it is feared that the remarks might make the relations between the legislative and administrative branches delicate.

Further on Deleted Remarks

[Excerpt] Because Chong Nae-hyok, speaker of the National Assembly, has repeatedly ordered the deletion from the stenographic records of some controversial portions of the interpellations that have been made by the lawmakers of the Democratic Korean Party [DKP] at interpellations in the National Assembly, the DKP has demanded that the Administrative Office of the National Assembly present data on all deletions from the record of the interpellations since the inauguration of the 11th National Assembly. In reply to the DKP's demand, U Pyong-kyu, secretary general of the Administrative Office, called on the DKP to access the data at the Administrative Office only, saying that it is difficult to make the data public for security reasons.

Kim Chae-yong, deputy floor leader of the DKP, who had met with the secretary general of the Administrative Office, said: The Administrative Office seems to be afraid that the data would be used for a political offensive. We demanded the presentation of the data in an effort to restrict the deletion of lawmakers' remarks from the stenographic record.

BK110800 Rangoon Domestic Service in Burmese 0630 GMT 11 Oct 82

[Text] The third meeting of the Third People's Assembly of the Socialist Republic of the Union of Burma opened at 1000 today in the conference hall in the presidential compound on Ahlone Road, Rangoon. Present were 461 Assembly representatives headed President and State Council Chairman U San Yu.

Today's morning session was chaired by U Than Yu, Assembly representative from Pegu Division's Tantabin, while director general of the People's Assembly Office U Aung Khin Tint officiated as secretary of the meeting.

First, the presiding chairman of the morning session announced that 461 Assembly representatives out of the total of 468 who have taken the oath of office were present. With an attendance of 98.5 percent, the meeting was therefore valid. He declared the meeting open.

Later, the presiding chairman, after obtaining the approval of the Assembly, announced that the agenda for the meeting had been confirmed by the Assembly.

As the meeting proceeded, six new assemblymen took their oath in the presence of the presiding chairman. The meeting was then briefly recessed to enable the Assembly to elect members of the panel of chairmen from various states and divisions.

When the meeting resumed, the namelist of 14 members of the panel of chairmen elected from different states and divisions was read out by the presiding chairman. As the Assembly endorsed the list, he announced the confirmation of the Assembly.

Next, members of the panel of chairmen took their reserved seats, and the presiding chairman of the morning session, U Than Yu, handed over the chairmanship to U Nyunt Tin, Assembly representative from Pegu Division's Letpadan-II constituency.

The alternate chairman then announced the report of the State Council that there were six vacant seats in the People's Assembly, one in the State Council, one in the Council of People's Justices, the chairman post of the Council of People's Justices and one in the People's Assembly Affairs Committee. The Assembly acknowledged the report which was then put on record.

Later, U Shan Oak of Chin State's Thantlang constituency submitted a motion expressing regrets over the deaths of U Tin Aye of Pegu Division's Paukkaung constituency; Thakin Aung Min of Chin State's Matupi constituency-I, who was also a State Council member; U Hla Pru Than of Arakan State's Buthidaung constituency-II; and of U Maung Maung Kyaw Win of Rangoon Division's Rabedan constituency, who was also the chairman of the Council of People's Justices. The motion was seconded by U Ohn Kyaing of Pegu Division's Nyaunglebin constituency-II, and the presiding chairman announced that the Assembly had put the motion on record.

As the meeting progressed, Assembly representatives from Chin State, in accordance with Article 64A of the state Constitution and with Article 17D of the People's Assembly Law, nominated a member of the State Council from among themselves. The presiding chairman later announced that U Vumthu Hashim of Chin State's Matupi constituency-I had been elected as State Council member. U Vumthu Hashim then took a seat reserved for him.

Next, Assembly members voted to elect a member of the Council of People's Justices. The presiding chairman later announced that U Mon San Hlaing of Mon State's Thanbyuzayat constituency had been elected to the Council. U Mon San Hlaing then took a seat researved for him.

Later, Assembly members again cast their votes to elect a member of the People's Assembly Affairs Committee. U Thein Han of Mandalay Division's Singu constituency was elected to the committee. This was announced by the chairman.

Later, members of the Council of People's Justices, during a brief recess, convened to elect a chairman for the council. As the meeting resumed in the afternoon, the presiding chairman announced that U Tin Aung Hein had been elected as chairman of that council. As the Assembly approved the election, the matter was put on record. The new chairman of the Council of People's Justices then took a seat reserved for him.

FURTHER ON RESULTS OF AUSTRALIAN STUDY INTO CBW

BK140722 Phnom Penh SPK in French 0408 GMT 14 Oct 82

[Text] Australian scientists have recently announced that samples provided by the so-called victims of the spraying of chemicals by Vietnam in Laos do not contain any trace of toxic substances.

In its Vietnamese-language broadcast of 6 October, Radio Australia specified that these samples were leaves and pellets taken from a region said to be affected by the "yellow rain" along the Thai-Lao border. On the same day, a BBC correspondent noted that this revelation of Australian experts has more or less raised doubts as to the reliability of evidence brought by refugees on attacks by the "yellow rain." "Yellow rain" is a term invented by the imperialist and reactionary propaganda referring to the so-called toxic chemical scattering operations carried out by Vietnam against the Lao and Kampuchean bandits.

Last year, the International Red Cross also rejected these slanders of the imperialist and reactionary propaganda following the examination of blood samples provided by the Khmer Rouge, while a group of investigators, dispatched by the United Nations under U.S. pressure, found no trace of the so-called "yellow rain" at the Thai-Kampuchean border.

RADIO URGES LINKS BETWEEN CADRES, COMBATANTS

BK130808 Phnom Penh Domestic Service in Cambodian 1200 GMT 12 Oct 82

[Armed forces program editorial: "High-Ranking Cadres Should Have Close Relations With Combatants"]

[Summary] "A close relationship between high-ranking cadres and combatants is a good attitude and tradition of the revolutionary armed forces. It is also an indispensable method and work style for all revolutionary military cadres. Military commanders who have close relations with low-ranking cadres and combatants are aware of the actual situation of their subordinates. They can better understand the difficulties and faculties of their subordinates. They can assist and guide their subordinates to efficiently implement circulars and orders of high-level officers as well as the resolutions of the party committee."

Close links between high-ranking military cadres and their subordinates permit them to realize and understand the actual conditions facing their troops as well as their capacities. Through this assessment of the abilities of their subordinates, high-ranking cadres can organize training courses on various subjects.

Some high-ranking military cadres have not correctly fulfilled their duty in contacting low-ranking combatants. They have not been aware of unhealthy phenomena in their units. Such acts can even damage the ability and combat capacity of the national armed forces. They should be good models for all low-ranking cadres as well as combatants.

In order to obtain good results in the emulation drive, all cadres should first of all have a close relationship with their subordinates and troops.

His Excellency Idriss Miskine, foreign minister of Chad, briefed Khieu Samphan on the current situation of the struggle waged by the Chad people for national unity against foreign interference. The foreign minister also reaffirmed that the Chad president, His Excellency Hissein Habre, closely followed and totally supported the just struggle of the Kampuchean people and the Government of Democratic Kampuchea.

Khieu Samphan expressed the profound gratitude of the Kampuchean people and the Government of Democratic Kampuchea to the government and people of Chad for their sympathy, assistance and support.

Also present at the meeting on the Kampuchean side were Ambassadors Thiounn Prasith and Hing Un. On the Chad side was His Excellency (Michel Bood), general chief of the Chad Foreign Ministry.

SIHANOUK MEETS WITH CHAD FOREIGN MINISTER AT UN

The Chad foreign minister said Chad President Hissein Habre fully supports the just struggle of Kampuchean people against the aggressors until final victory. He affirmed that Chad will continue to support the just cause of the Kampuchean people in the current UN General Assembly session. Chad stands by Democratic Kampuchea and will participate in drafting resolutions on the situation in Kampuchea demanding the withdrawal of all foreign troops from the country.

Samdech president of Democratic Kampuchea expressed the gratitude of the Kampuchean people and the Government of Democratic Kampuchea to the people and Government of Chad, under the leadership of His Excellency Hissein Habre, for their active and firm support and expressed the admiration of the Kampuchean people and the Government of Democratic Kampuchea for the valiant and courageous struggle of the people and Government of Chad against foreign aggressors in the defense of national independence and sovereignty.

Also present at the talk on the Demoratic Kampuchean side were Prince Norodom Chakkrapong, minister in charge of the Coordinating Committee for Public Health and Social Affairs; Hing Un, Democratic Kampuchean ambassador to Senegal; and Khek Loerang, Samdech's chef de cabinet; on the Chad side was (Michel Bood), general chief of the Chad Foreign Ministry.

NOTE TO UN SECRETARY ON SRV BORDER VIOLATIONS

BK141451 Bangkok Voice of Free Asia in English 1100 GMT 14 Oct 82

[Special report: "Message From the Permanent Representative of Thailand to the Secretary General of the United Nations"]

[Text] On 5 October the Thai permanent representative to the United Nations sent a note to the secretary general of the United Nations informing the latter of the latest incidents in blatant biolation of Thailand's sovereignty and territorial integrity committed by the Vietnamese occupation forces in Kampuchea during the first half of September 1982.

On 1 September 1982, at 5:30 p.m., Vietnamese forces fired 122-mm rockets into Thai territory at Ban Mai, Aranyaprathet District, Prachin Buri Province. On 6 September 1982, at 3 p.m., 30 107-mm rockets fired by Vietnamese forces landed in Thai territory at Ban Mai Pak Hong, Aranyaprathet District, Prachin Buri Province. On 7 September 1982, at 10 a.m., Vietnamese forces fired 107-mm rockets from Thmar Puok District, Battambang Province in Kampuchea, to the area west of the 32d border post, Ta Phraya District, Prachin Buri Province. Later on the same day, at 11 a.m., Vietnamese forces again fired 107-mm rockets from Thmar Puok District, Battambang Province in Kampuchea to the area south of Ban Sangae, Ta Phraya District, Prachin Buri Province. On 10 September 1982, at 4 p.m., 107-mm rockets fired from Vietnamese forces landed in Thai territory in the area west of the 32d border post, Ta Phraya District, Prachin Buri Province. On 11 September 1982, at 8 a.m., more than 30 Vietnamese soldiers crossed into Thai territory through (Plot Thang) Pass at Ban Bu, Kap Choeng District, Surin Province, and were headed toward Ban Tha Ko, Kap Choeng District, Surin Province, before they were repulsed by Thai authorities. On 11 September, at 5:35 p.m., about five artillery shells fired by Vietnamese forces landed in Thai territory at Ban Khok Thahan in the vicinity of a Thai military camp at Ta Phraya District, Prachin Buri Province. On 12 September, at 3:15 p.m., more than 20 105-mm artillery shells fired by Vietnamese forces landed in Thai territory at Kap Choeng District, Surin Province, opposite to Kampuchea's Chong Chom.

He further stated that these incidents had demonstrated yet again that Thailand's eastern border area was far from safe and secure for the Thai citizens living there. The root cause of the lack of safety and security is the ongoing conflict in Kampuchea resulting from the continued occupation of that country by 200,000 Vietnamese troops in blatant violation of the United Nations Charter and international law and in callous opposition to world opinion.

The Thai Government demanded that the Vietnamese authorities in Kampuchea cease these deliberate acts of violation of Thai sovereignty and territorial integrity forthwith. Furthermore, Thailand hereby reaffirms her legitimate right to employ all necessary measures in order to defend herself and to safeguard her own sovereignty and territorial integrity.

The Thai permanent representative to the United Nations also stated that Thailand also renews her call supported by the United Nations that all Vietnamese troops be completely withdrawn from Kampuchea so that the Kampucheans would be enabled to exercise their right to self-determination free from coercion and outside interference.

DEFECTION OF FORMER KAMPUCHEAN OFFICIAL VIEWED

BK121222 Bangkok Voice of Free Asia in Thai 1000 GMT 11 Oct 82

[Article: "Vietnam's Conduct in Kampuchea"]

[Text] No matter how hard it tries to cover up the error of its military occupation of Kampuchea and the installment of the Heng Samrin regime without the approval of the Kampuchean people, Vietnam can never conceal the truth.

The plight of the Kampuchean people fleeing their homeland for a safer place in Thailand, the continued defection of soldiers of the Heng Samrin regime to join Prince Norodom Sihanouk's forces and the disappearance of officials of the Heng Samrin regime's information service in Sweden and India -- these are proof of the growing discontent of the Kampuchean people and officials against their living conditions and the administration by the Heng Samrin regime installed by Vietnam through the use of force.

This trend was confirmed once again with the defection from Kampuchea of Di Lamthol, 33, who once served as chairman of the Heng Samrin regime's Political Department of the Foreign Ministry and also as special secretary to Foreign Minister Hun Sen, a high-ranking Foreign Ministry official himself. Di Lamthol -- accompanied by his wife, Niang Sida, who once served as Hun Sen's interpreter, and their two sons -- fled from Kampuchea because he could no longer bear to live under the Vietnamese-installed Heng Samrin regime.

According to him, Vietnam has taken full control of policies in Kampuchea, with nothing left of the Kampuchean people's self-determination. He said Vietnam assigned 17 Vietnamese advisers to the Heng Samrin regime's Foreign Ministry. High-level officials of the ministry meet every morning with the Vietnamese advisers for briefings on policies cabled from Vietnam. Hun Sen, foreign minister and also deputy prime minister of the Heng Samrin regime, has two Vietnamese advisers working with him. One is Ngo Dien, the Vietnamese ambassador to Phnom Penh, and the other is Mr Cau, who is the leader of the Vietnamese advisory team assigned to the Heng Samrin regime's Foreign Ministry. Kampuchean officials must always be accompanied by Vietnamese advisers in conducting any talks or reaching agreements with foreign countries or when they go abroad so that the Vietnamese advisers can be assured that the policies conducted are in line with those dictated by Vietnam.

Speaking about the feelings of Kampuchean officials working under the Heng Samrin regime, Di Lamthol said the group of intellectual officials are very unhappy with Vietnam's control, but they cannot oppose or protest for fear for their own security. Anyway, there are always those trying to flee from the regime.

Di Lamthol said the Ho Chi Minh communique issued by the three Indochinese countries is in fact a set of policies worked out by Vietnam alone. Kampuchean officials only read and signed it. He said the proposal for the settlement of the Kampuchean issue put forth by the communique was aimed only at improving Vietnam's image. Di Lamthol's statement reflects Vietnam's lack of sincerity about solving the Kampuchean problem.

Di Lamthol welcomed the formation of the Democratic Kampuchean Government of the three Khmer patriotic factions for resistance against Vietnam, but said he would not join it because of his poor health. Describing the living conditions of the Kampuchean people, Di Lamthol said most of them are very poor. Anyway, they do not know much about the administration. Ordinary people are required to take 2 hours of Vietnamese lessons per week, whereas Foreign Ministry officials must take 4 hours of Vietnamese lessons per week. The people lack freedom of travel because of strict control by Vietnam. Rice is rationed in Kampuchea because of scarcity. Government officials are entitled to 16 kg, while workers are entitled to 18 kg of rice per month. Di Lamthol said he had a salary of 250 riel, equal to 250 baht. His wife got 120 riel per month as Hun Sen's interpreter. The lowest salary for government officials is 60 riel.

The interview given by Di Lamthol shows that the life of the Kampuchean people under the Vietnamese-directed Heng Samrin regime is one of poverty. The people have no freedom and are deprived of their right to self-determination. This is a serious breach of international law. Vietnam's claim that the Heng Samrin regime is representative of the Kampuchean people is therefore unconvincing. It is a lie to the world. Di Lamthol stated at the end of his interview that he hoped reporters would write about Vietnam's activities against the Kampuchean people so that the world will know about it and help to save the Kampuchean race from danger.

POST Editorial

[Editorial: "Lessons From Phnom Penh"]

[Text] It was already known to all but the most pro-Hanoi observers of the Indochina scene, but it was good to get the confirmation from the horse's mouth, so to speak. We are speaking about Di Lamthol, a former senior official in the Heng Samrin Foreign Ministry in Phnom Penh, who has decided to seek freedom and in so doing to let us know something about the Vietnam-controlled regime in Kampuchea.

A former medical student who was drafted into government service following Vietnam's 1979 invasion, Di Lamthol served as senior aide to Hun Sen, the Khmer Rouge traitor who now serves Hanoi with the title of foreign minister of Kampuchea. Currently at Khao I-Dang refugee camp with his wife and children, he briefed the press the other day on just how the Phnom Penh administration runs the country. Or, we should say, how Hanoi tells the Phnom Penh administration to run the country.

Every morning, Vietnam's pro-consul in Kampuchea -- Ambassador Ngo Dien -- and another man known to him only as "Cau" presented Hun Sen and aides with their instructions, hot off the teletype wire from Hanoi. The issues of the day were brought up and on each one Hun Sen was told what to say, what to do, how to act. Another 15 Vietnamese were stationed inside the Foreign Ministry to make sure these instructions were carried out faithfully. Not, it appeared, that any of the Heng Samrin people had any misgivings about this, for they have sold their fates, careers and very souls to Hanoi in any case.

It is one illustration of the fate of Kampuchea today. The best that Khmers can hope for, it is evident, is to be treated as members of a colonial empire set up by their long-time enemies from Vietnam. It is not a very good alternative to being free citizens of an independent country. We continue to hope that Vietnam, which fought so long and so hard for freedom from colonialism, will realise this and allow Kampuchea to become a free nation again, ruled by a government of its people's choosing.

MONS ASKED TO LEAVE KANCHANABURI BY AUGUST 1983

[Text] All ethnic Mon people in Kanchanaburi Privince are to leave the country before the August 1983 deadline set by the Interior Ministry, Under-Secretary of State for Interior Mr Phisan Mulasatsathon told the BANGKOK POST yesterday. There are about 6,000 Mon -- mostly farm laborers -- living on about 50,000 rai at the border town of Thung Kangyang of Sai Yok District, Kanchanaburi Province. "We have talked with them (their leaders) and they promise to go back to Burma by the deadline," Mr Phisan said.

The Mon settlement, said the official reports, has grown into a semi-autonomous mini-state with its own administration. The reports said that they have even set up a small army, aggravating the situation for the provincial officials.

A parliamentary foreign affairs committee, after a fact-finding mission to the settlement in July this year, recently agreed that the repatriation was necessary because the Mon people illegally entered the country and their presence was considered detrimental to national security.

Mr Phisan siad a border patrol police special task force recently met with the Mon leader, known under his Thai name "Phayap," to map out the repatriation plan. Mr Phisan said although the government used to collect "land development tax" from the Mon, "it doesn't mean they own the land or have any rights over it."

FURTHER REPORTS ON TRUONG CHINH VISIT TO CUBA

Delegations Hold Talks

OW141814 Hanoi VNA in English 1537 GMT 14 Oct 82

[Text] Hanoi, VNA, October 14 -- Vietnamese and Cuban party and state delegations held talks at the Palace of the Revolution in Havana yesterday. The Vietnamese delegation was led by Truong Chinh, Political Bureau member of the Communist Party of Vietnam Central Committee and president of the Council of State, and included Chu Huy Man, member of the Political Bureau of the C.P.V. Central Committee and vice president of the Council of State; Nguyen Co Thach, alternate member of the Political Bureau of the C.P.V. Central Committee and minister for foreign affairs; Mrs. Nguyen Thi Dinh, member of the C.P.V. Central Committee, president of the Vietnam Women's Union and member of the Council of State; Do Chinh, member of the C.P.V. Central Committee; Nguyen Viet Dung, director of the Office of the Council of State and of the Council of Ministers; Tran Danh Tuyen, deputy head of the C.P.V. Central Committee's External Relations Commission; and Vietnamese Ambassador to Cuba Nguyen Huu Ngo.

The Cuban delegation was led by Fidel Castro, first secretary of the Communist Party of Cuba Central Committee, president of the State Council and of the Council of Ministers, and included Juan Almeida Bosque, Political Bureau member of the C.P.C. Central Committee and vice president of the State Council; Carlos Rafael Rodriguez, Political Bureau member of the C.P.C. Central Committee and vice president of the State Council and of the Council of Ministers; Jesus Montane Oropesa, alternate member of the Political Bureau and head of the External Relations Commission of the C.P.C. Central Committee; Vilma Espin Guillois, alternate member of the Political Bureau of the C.P.C. Central Committee, president of the Women's Union and member of the State Council; Lieutenant General Sixto Batista Santana, alternate member of the Political Bureau of the C.P.C. Central Committee and head of the General Political Department of the Cuban Revolutionary Armed Forces; Isidoro Malmierca Peoli, member of the C.P.C. Central Committee and minister for foreign affairs; Hector Rodriguez Llompart, member of the C.P.C. Central Committee and president of the State Commission for Economic Cooperation; and Faure Chomon Mediavilla, member of the C.P.C. Central Committee and Cuban ambassador to Vietnam.

In an atmosphere permeated with cordiality, fraternal friendship and military solidarity, the two sides exchanges views on issues relating to the friendship and cooperation between the parties and governments of the two countries. The two sides also dealt with a number of international issues, particularly those concerning the world people's common struggle for peace, detente and social progress, the international communist and workers' movement, the consolidation of the solidarity among the nations in the Non-Aligned Movement, and the preparations for the seventh non-aligned summit. The two sides pointed to the strained situation in the world, particularly in Southeast Asia, Central America and the Caribbean, stressing that it stems mainly from the aggressive policy pursued by the U.S. imperialists in collusion with the Chinese expansionists and other reactionary forces.

President Truong Chinh and President Fidel Castro shared identity of views on all questions brought up for discussion.

Truong Chinh Awarded

[Text] Hanoi, VNA, October 14 -- The Council of State of the Republic of Cuba on October 13 decided to confer the Jose Marti Order, the highest distinction of Cuba, on Truong Chinh, Political Bureau member of the Communist Party of Vietnam Central Committee and president of the Council of State.

The decision to this effect says: "Comrade Truong Chinh has made great achievements in the struggle for the revolutionary cause of the Vietnamese people and the whole mankind, as well as effective contributions to the firm friendship between the peoples, parties, states and governments of the two countries."

The conferement ceremony was solemnly organised on the evening of the same day at the Palace of the Revolution under the chairmanship of President Fidel Castro.

Present on the Cuban side were also: Juan Almeida Bosque, Ramiro Valdes Menendez, Guillermo Garcia Frias, Carlos Rafael Rodriguez, Osvaldo Dorticos Torrado, Armando Hart Davalos, Sergio del Valle, Julio Camacho Aguilera, and other high party and state officials. On the Vietnamese side were the members of the party and state delegation now on an official friendship visit to Cuba.

On behalf of the Cuban State Council, Juan Almeida delivered the congratulatory speech. Then, President Fidel Castro pinned the order on President Truong Chinh and warmly congratulated him. President Truong Chinh made a speech of reply thanking the Cuban party, state, government and people for the noble award.

President Fidel Castro and President Truong Chinh proposed toasts for the success of socialist construction and national defence in Cuba and Vietnam, and for the ever-lasting militant solidarity, fraternal friendship and comprehensive cooperation between the parties, governments and people of the two countries.

GDR NATIONAL DAY OBSERVANCE COMMEMORATED

Leaders Send Greetings

OW062038 Hanoi VNA in English 1451 GMT 6 Oct 82

[Text] Hanoi, VNA, October 6 -- Vietnamese party and state leaders have extended warmest greetings to their counterparts in the German Democratic Republic on the G.D.R.'s 33rd National Day (October 7).

The joint message was sent by Le Duan, general secretary of the Communist Party of Vietnam Central Committee; Troung Chinh, president of the Council of State; Pham Van Dong, chairman of the Council of Ministers; and Nguyen Huu Tho, chairman of the National Assembly, and addressed to Erich Honecker, general secretary of the Socialist Unity Party of Germany (S.E.D.) Central Committee and president of the Council of State; Willi Stoph, chairman of the Council of Ministers; and Horst Sindermann, chairman of the People's Chamber. It says:

"Over the past 33 years, under the leadership of the Socialist Unity Party of Germany and by bringing into play their tradition of staunch revolution with their industrious and creative labour, and in close and all-sided cooperation with the Soviet Union and other fraternal socialist countries, the G.D.R. people have obtained great achievements in socialist construction. The G.D.R. has become a firmly developed socialist country with modern industry and agriculture, and advanced science and technology. The G.D.R. people's material and cultural life has been constantly improved.

"With these achievements and with its Leninist foreign policy and active international activities, the G.D.R.'s prestige and international status have been further enhanced, thus making important contributions to increasing the strength of the socialist community as well as that of the forces struggling for peace, national independence, democracy and socialism".

The message goes on: "The Vietnamese people greatly rejoice at and take immense pride in the constant growth of the G.D.R. and sincerely wish the fraternal G.D.R. people under the leadership of the S.E.D. led by esteemed Comrade Erich Honecker many and still bigger successes in the implementation of the resolutions of the 10th S.E.D. Congress to successfully continue building a developed socialist society in the G.D.R., creating basic pre-conditions for the transition to communism.

"We are very happy to note that the fraternal friendship and comprehensive cooperation between the parties and peoples of our two countries on the basis of Marxism-Leninism and socialist internationalism and in conformity with the treaty of friendship and cooperation between Vietnam and the G.D.R. signed in December 1977 have been constantly developed".

The message says: "We take this opportunity to express our sincere thanks to the S.E.D. and the G.D.R. Government and people for their precious and effective support and assistance to the Vietnamese people in their struggle against imperialism and other reactionary forces for national defence and socialist construction.

"May the friendship, militant solidarity and all-sided cooperation between the parties and peoples of the two countries last forever".

Various Functions Held

OW062051 Hanoi VNA in English 1534 GMT 6 Oct 82

[Text] Hanoi, VNA, October 6 -- A meeting was held yesterday in Bac Thai Province, north of Hanoi, to mark the 33rd National Day of the German Democratic Republic (October 7). It was attended by Vu Ngoc Linh, member of the Communist Party of Vietnam Central Committee and secretary of the province's party committee; Doanh Hang, president of the province's people's committee; Dr. Tran Duy Hung, member of the Presidium of the Committee for Solidarity and Friendship With Other Peoples; Joachim Elsner, G.D.R. charge d'affaires a.i. in Vietnam; and other officials.

Speaking at the meeting, the vice president of the province's People's Committee, Do Van Cuoc, praised the big achievements recorded by the G.D.R. people over the past 33 years in socialist construction and national defence which, he said, have contributed to increasing the might of the socialist community and maintaining world peace. He wished the G.D.R. people ever greater successes in implementing the resolutions of the 10th Congress of the Socialist Unity Party of Germany (S.E.D.) aimed at making the G.D.R. ever stronger and more prosperous. He thanked the S.E.D. and the G.D.R. Government and people for their great and effective support and assistance to Vietnam, including Bac Thai Province, in socialist construction and national defence. Joachim Elsner, for his part, praised the friendship and comprehensive cooperation between the G.D.R. and Vietnam on the basis of Marxism-Leninism and wished the Vietnamese people success in carrying out the resolutions of the Fifth C.P.V. Congress.

Earlier, on October 4, a meeting was held at the Hanoi Medical College for the same purpose. In the evening of the same day, a film show was organized at the International Club here under the auspices of the Committee for Solidarity and Friendship With Other Peoples to mark the G.D.R.'s historical day. On this occasion, a G.D.R. film drive has been arranged at the August Cinema, one of the largest movie houses in Hanoi.

NHAN DAN Editorial

[Text] Hanoi, VNA, October 7 -- The great success of developed socialism in the German Democratic Republic is highlighted in NHAN DAN's editorial today on the occasion of the G.D.R. National Day (Oct. 7). "The coming into being of the G.D.R.," the paper says, "is a turning point in the history of the German people and a splendid result of the heroic struggle of the working class and the entire people of Germany to translate into reality the great thoughts of Karl Marx and Friedrich Engels.

"Over the past 33 years, under the correct and creative leadership of the Socialist Unity Party of Germany, the G.D.R. people have overcome great trials, defeated schemes and acts of sabotage by adversary forces, and built their country into an all-sidedly powerful one. The G.D.R. today is a socialist country politically stable and economically strong, and is endowed with a developed industry, a modern agriculture, and an advance culture, science and technology, and enjoying a high living standard. The G.D.R., an important factor for peace and security in Europe, has made significant contributions to strengthening the socialist community and the forces struggling against imperialism, for peace, national independence, democracy and socialism. The status and prestige of the G.D.R. is constantly heightening in the international scene".

The paper recalls that the 10th congress of the S.U.P.G. mapped out objectives and tasks for the continued building of a developed socialist society in the country during the eighties. "The Vietnamese people," the paper goes on, "greatly rejoice at the splendid achievements of the fraternal G.D.R. people over the past glorious years. We fully support the firm stand of the G.D.R. to defend its sovereignty and territorial integrity. We also fully support its great efforts in joining the Soviet Union and the other member countries of the Warsaw treaty in persistently struggling against the arms race, for peace and security in Europe and elsewhere in the world".

The paper notes that the Vietnamese-G.D.R. friendship has a fine tradition and that the friendship, militant solidarity and fraternal cooperation between the parties and governments of the two countries have been consolidated and developed in all fields over the recent years on the basis of their treaty of friendship and cooperation signed in 1977. The Vietnamese people always bear in mind and treasure the G.D.R. people's wholehearted support and great assistance to them in the their past anti-U.S. struggle for national salvation and in their present national construction and defence, it says. In conclusion, the paper wishes the G.D.R. people "success in carrying out the resolutions of the 10th party congress aimed at strengthening their economic and defence potentials and building a developed socialist society for their own happiness and for peace in Europe and elsewhere in the world".

FRENCH FRIENDSHIP DELEGATION PAYS VISIT

Arrival of Group

OW081017 Hanoi VNA in English 0901 GMT 8 Oct 82

[Text] Hanoi, VNA, October 7 -- A delegation of the France-Vietnam friendship group of the parliament of the French Republic led by its head, Jacques Brunhes, arrived in Hanoi today on a friendship visit to Vietnam. The delegation comprises six representatives of four main political parties in France: the French Communist Party, the Socialist Party, the Rally for the Republic Party (R.P.R.) and the Union for French Democracy (U.D.F.).

Brunhes Remarks Cited

BK081650 Hong Kong AFP in English 0711 GMT 8 Oct 82

[Excerpt] Hanoi, Oct 8 (AFP) -- The head of a French parliamentary delegation here on a week-long visit said that relations between Vietnam and France had reached a "turning point" and expressed hope for even further improvement. Jacques Brunhes, a communist legislator from Hauts de Seine outside Paris, said last night that the visit of his delegation to Hanoi was "not the product of chance, but a sign of political determination" to bolster ties. Speaking at a dinner hosted by the first vice-president of the Vietnamese National Assembly, Xuan Thuy, Mr. Brunhes said: "It is clear that we are coming to a turning point in Hanoi-Paris relations." He said the aim of the French legislators' trip was to "further improve" the atmosphere of "mutual understanding" and to help "give even greater impetus to the development of new cooperation" between France and the Asian communist state. "Who can deny that France has a special role to play, even more than other countries, in contributing to Vietnam's development, especially in the creation of the new international order which Vietnam envisions?" he asked.

The French communist, heading a delegation comprised of four legislators from the leftist majority and two from the opposition, cited French President Francois Mitterrand's strong support for aid to the developing world at the October 1981 Cancun "North-South" summit.

Emphasizing the "historical ties" between Vietnam and France, its one-time colonial ruler, Mr Brunhes said Franco-Vietnamese cooperation "is not only necessary for Vietnam" but "for France itself."

On the regional situation, Mr Brunhes said the delegation supported Foreign Minister Claude Cheysson's statement that the proposal by Indochinese countries for an international conference on Southeast Asia was "a first step in the right direction."

[Excerpt] Ho Chi Minh City, Oct.14 (AFP) -- Six French members of parliament flew home from here today at the close of a week's tour of Vietnam at the invitation of the People's Assembly. The delegation, of the France-Vietnam friendship group and led by communist Jacques Brunhes, was the first group of French deputies to visit the country since the end the the Vietnam war in 1975. Mr Brunhes told AGENCE FRANCE-PRESSE that on their return to France the deputies would strive to see existing cultural, scientific and technical agreements with Vietnam were fully implemented. He said that France could, for instance, help revive language teaching in Vietnam, which suffered a setback through years of fighting. He added, however, that French was still widely spoken in Vietnam.

Bernard Schreiner, a Socialist, said that Vietnamese Culture Minister Nguyen Van Hieu might visit France early next year at the invitation of the French ministry. He said that besides enthusiasm for French cultural events, there was a great demand in Vietnam for scientific and technical training and great scope for French business interests.

NHAN DAN CALLS FOR DIALOGUE IN SOUTHEAST ASIA

BK100558 Hanoi Domestic Service in Vietnamese 1430 GMT 9 Oct 82

[NHAN DAN 9 October article: "The Path of Negotiations and Dialogue"]

[Text] On 4 and 6 October Comrade Acting Foreign Minister Khamphai Boupha, head of the LPDR delegation, and Deputy Foreign Minister Hoang Bich Son, head of our country's delegation to the United Nations, clearly pointed out the stand of the three countries of Vietnam, Laos and the PRK on the situation in Southeast Asia. In their speeches, the representatives of both Laos and our country explained with iron-clad logic the cause of instability in Southeast Asia and presented the rational policies of the three Indochinese countries to normalize relations and turn Southeast Asia into a zone of peace and stability.

The reactionary forces within the Chinese ruling circles have cooked up a so-called Vietnamese threat to the ASEAN countries and created a so-called Kampuchean problem which they claim to be the cause of the unstable situation in Southeast Asia. But over the past 3 years realities have testified ever more convincingly to the fallacy of such allegations. More and more people in the world have clearly seen that the so-called Kampuchean problem does not exist at all and that the real problem is China, which opposes Vietnam and the other Indochinese countries and rouses the ASEAN countries against Vietnam, thereby causing disturbances in Southeast Asia.

Let us review the situation since 1975. Beijing has been using the universally-condemned Pol Pot clique as the chief instrument to weaken Vietnam and carry out its expansionist policy in Southeast Asia. After this clique was toppled by the Kampuchean people, Beijing continued to use its corpse and intensified its collusion with the United States and regional reactionary forces to oppose the peoples of the three Indochinese and ASEAN countries. The latest developments show that this policy has not changed.

The expansionist, hegemonist policy of the reactionary forces within the Chinese ruling circles is the main threat to the three Indochinese countries, the ASEAN countries and to peace and stability in Southeast Asia. To normalize the situation in Southeast Asia, the first step that must be taken is to put an end to Beijing's intervention and its odious maneuvers to instigate confrontation between the Indochinese and ASEAN countries.

The overall objective of the three Indochinese countries' foreign policies is in total contrast to the attitude of the Chinese authorities. Now, as before, the stand of Vietnam, Laos and Kampuchea is to struggle for peace, stability, friendship and cooperation in Southeast Asia. Proceeding from the common interests of the peoples of the three Indochinese countries and the Chinese people, Vietnam, Laos and Kampuchea have proposed to sign with China treaties of nonaggression and nonintervention in each other's internal affairs.

The head of our country's delegation to the United Nations stressed: The current abnormal state of Sino-Vietnamese relations is merely a temporary phenomenon. As always, we advocate persistent adherence to the path of peaceful negotiation in order to settle all controversial problems between the two countries and stand ready to resume, at the earliest, the Sino-Vietnamese talks at any level or any place to normalize bilateral relations.

The three Indochinese countries firmly uphold their correct stand that a solution to the problems in Southeast Asia can only be found by promoting dialogue among the countries in the region on the principles of nonintervention in each other's internal affairs, respect for each other's legitimate interests and the giving up of all schemes of imposing one's will on others. Proceeding from this stand, the three Indochinese countries have set forth a series of proposals aimed at solving problems related to regional peace and stability. The proposals advanced at the foreign ministerial conference of the three Indochinese countries in July this year, which were further clarified in the 15 September 1982 note sent by Lao Foreign Minister Phoun Sipaseut on behalf of the three Indochinese countries to the ASEAN countries and other countries concerned, reflect respect for the legitimate interests of both groups of countries.

The proposals of Vietnam, Laos and Kampuchea - including the proposal for holding an international conference on Southeast Asia -- provide a good basis for turning Southeast Asia into a zone of peace and stability. The three Indochinese countries always sincerely desire to improve relations with their neighboring countries. The partial withdrawal of Vietnamese forces from Kampuchea is an important display of good will by the SRV and the PRK while China maintains its threat and is joined by Thailand in fostering the Pol Pot clique and other reactionary Khmer forces to undermine the Kampuchean revolution.

In July 1980 the PRK proposed the establishment of a demilitarized zone along the Kampuchean-Thai border. This was followed by a new proposal of the three Indochinese countries for a security zone along the Kampuchean-Thai border, from which non-Thai and non-Kampuchean forces would be withdrawn. International opinion also welcomes the PRK's latest good will in declaring that Kampucheans with past or current service in the ranks of the Pol Pot clique will be granted full citizenship rights -- including the right to vote and run in elections under international observation -- if they resolutely dissociate themselves from the genocidal clique and pledge to respect the Constitution of the PRK.

The three Indochinese countries' call for an international conference, with the participation of nine regional and six nonregional countries, is another expression of the flexible attitude in their persistent endeavor to settle disputes by dialogue and peaceful negotiations. Entering into dialogue and negotiation to make Southeast Asia a zone of peace and stability is a correct measure that will benefit the peoples of the Indochinese countries and the peoples of the Southeast Asian countries as well as the people of China.

Continuing to pollute the regional atmosphere and seeking to reestablish the genocidal regime, now covered with a new coalition coating, is a policy that is blind to realities and is certainly doomed to failure. The three Indochinese peoples always clearly display their good will, but they also have enough determination and strength to foil all schemes by the reactionary forces within the Beijing ruling circles and to defend their independence, sovereignty and territorial integrity.

SECOND ROUND OF PARTY CONGRESSES CONTINUES

[Text] Party committee echelons in provinces and municipalities throughout the country are now intensively guiding the holding of the second round of congresses of basic party organizations and linking it to the implementation of the pressing political tasks of the various localities.

The holding of the second round of congresses has been completed by 70 percent of the basic party organizations in Ha Tuyen Province, 45.2 percent in Quang Nam-Danang and 12.7 percent in Ha Nam Ninh. Basic party organization congresses are now being held in the remaining provinces. In the northern border areas, some 25 to 30 percent of the basic party organizations are holding congresses. During the second round of congresses, the various basic party organizations concentrated on discussing key local issues in a spirit of democracy, clearly defined the role and tasks of the grassroots level in implementing party directives and resolutions to set forth measures to overcome weaknesses and sluggishness, carry out tasks in the fields of production and national defense satisfactorily, maintain public order and security and perform other tasks.

During their congresses, many basic party organizations in Nghe Tinh Province discussed measures to implement party resolutions as actual conditions permit. For instance, the coastal areas will concentrate on resolving problems concerning labor and the various branches and trades; the rural areas will intensively step up intensive crop cultivation, carry out the new management system in agriculture and so forth; the mountain areas will make full use of arable lands, limit the practice of slash-and-burn cultivation and build interhamlet roads; areas deficient in cropland will consider sending the local people to build new economic zones; etc.

During the second round of congresses, basic party organizations in Quang Nam-Danang discussed the objectives and orientations of their efforts to develop the local economy on the basis of exploiting local potentials satisfactorily.

The basic party organization congresses in the various provinces elected many qualified comrades noted for their boldness in thought and action to the new party committee echelons. The number of newly elected comrades with a college education background increased by 3 to 7 percent over the previous figure and the number of those with a mid-level political educ education background increased by 2.5 to 5.2 percent.

Of the seven basic party organizations in Thanh Hoa Province that have held the second round of congresses, the number of party committee echelon members with a college education background increased from 28 to 33 percent.

SUDHARMONO REPORTS RESULTS OF SUHARTO'S U.S. TRIP

Suharto-Reagan Talks

BK141324 Jakarta Domestic Service in Indonesian 0700 GMT 14 Oct 82

[Text] The main part of President Suharto's visit to the United States ended yesterday with the departure of President Suharto and his party from Washington for Cape Canaveral, California [as heard] to observe activities at the U.S. space center. The visit of the head of state to the United States, which began on 10 October, will end today with the departure of the president and his party for Honolulu, Hawaii.

Minister-State Secretary Sudharmono, speaking to newsmen on his way from the U.S. Space Center in Houston, said that President Suharto had discussed many subjects with U.S. President Ronald Reagan, including world affairs, U.S.-ASEAN relations and U.S.-Indonesian bilateral relations. In the economic field, Indonesia stressed the hope that the United States would play a more positive role in the North-South dialogue.

Report on Suharto's Activities

BK141051 Jakarta OANA in English 0817 GMT 14 Oct 82

[Excerpts] Houston, Oct 14 (ANTARA/OANA) -- Minister/State Secretary Sudharmono pointed out it was not true that President Suharto came to the United States to seek financial aid for Indonesia.

Sudharmono was speaking to newsmen when on his way from Washington to Cape Canaveral in Florida Wednesday morning local time accompanying President Suharto.

ANTARA further reported from Houston, Texas, that Foreign Minister Mokhtar Kusumaatmaja, who was with Minister Sudharmono on the occasion, said that the U.S. Government was devoting great attention to the existing cooperation between the two countries.

This was reflected during a White House state banquet given by U.S. President Ronald Reagan to honour his Indonesian counterpart when the American head of state announced the appointment of the new U.S. ambassador to Indonesia, John Holdridge, assistant secretary of state for Asia and the Pacific. Minister Mokhtar said that it was unusual for an American president to announce the name of a newly-appointed ambassador during a state banquet.

While the U.S. and Indonesian Governments shared the same views on many subjects, there were also differences of opinion on other topics, which have to be ironed out, such as the problems pertaining to global negotiations, the Law of the Sea, bilateral trade and tin. As regards the Law of the Sea, the U.S. Government was not signatory of the convention. However, it did not oppose Indonesia's archipelagic principle.

Minister coordinator of the Economy, Finance and Industry Wijoyo Nitisastro, who was also with Sudharmono when speaking to the press, said that President Suharto had told Reagan, Vice President George Bush and Secretary of State Shultz many topics of interest to the two nations.

Indonesia has reiterated the importance of global negotiations, and urged the United States to contribute to the realisation of such talks. However, he said, it was entirely up to the U.S. Government to make up its mind. If the United States accepts the idea of global negotiations, it would be excellent, but if not, the country would take up the risk of bitter remarks voiced by the developing countries, Wijoyo said.

Sudharmono further emphasized that President Suharto, while in the United States, was not representing ASEAN or the Third World, but what had been discussed with Reagan undoubtedly would have an impact on the interests of the regional association and the developing countries.

In the field of trade, Indonesia urged the United States to join common efforts to also take measures to bring about an equilibrium in the balance of trade between the two countries.

President Suharto and entourage, after visiting Cape Canaveral, headed for Houston, and spent the night there. The president Thursday morning local time went to the space centre in Houston and to a Methodist hospital. Earlier (Wednesday night) he met with members of the Indonesian community.

HABIBIE SPEAKS ON NUCLEAR ENERGY DEVELOPMENT

BK150825 Jakarta OANA in English 0706 GMT 15 Oct 82

[Excerpts] Jakarta, Oct 15 (ANTARA/OANA)-- State Minister for Research and Technology B.J. Habibie reaffirmed here Thursday that at least for the next ten years Indonesia is not likely to develop nuclear energy to provide an alternative to oil energy.

Habibie said under the country's energy program of alternative energy development the priority has been given to coal, natural gas, water, geothermal power and other known sources of energy found in the country. Speaking to a group of ASEAN journalists who had just won free ticket prize for ASEAN tour from Mobil Oil, the minister pointed out development of nuclear energy is not as easy as development of other kinds of energy. Therefore, he said, its development will come much later. He said Indonesia lacks the skills to develop nuclear energy and has no regulations and agencies to control and run nuclear power generation plants.

However, while developing alternative sources of energy, Indonesia has begun preparations for the construction of nuclear power plants in order to get ready when it becomes necessary to build them later, he said. That is why Indonesia builds a nuclear technology research reactor at Serpong, 50 km west of here in West Java, he explained. The research reactor serves to prepare all the requirements for the development of nuclear energy beside to carry out tests on substances with radioactive contents and to produce isotopes.

According to Habibie, the increase rate of demand for energy in Indonesia is twice that of its gross domestic product (GDP).

Habibie said further that, the government is yet to decide whether to build an LNG [liquified natural gas] plant at Natuna Island to process its newly discovered natural gas or a fertilizer plant or to pipe the gas to the existing LNG plants through submarine pipes.

MOSCOW MAYOR PROMYSLOV CONTINUES VISIT

HK110046 Manila Far East Broadcasting Company in English 2330 GMT 10 Oct 82

[Text] Moscow Mayor Vladimir Promyslov said yesterday a memorandum of understanding between Metro Manila and Moscow will be concluded during his 8-day official visit to the Philippines. The memorandum of understanding is expected to enhance the two cities' relations in the fields of education, culture, sports and politics. Metro Manila Vice Governor Ismail Mathay Jr, who has been acting as guide to the chief executive of Moscow and his party, said the first lady, Imelda Romualdez Marcos, will sign for the Philippines and Promyslov for his city.

His impressions during his visit, which is taking him to the countryside including Cebu, focused on the diversity of the Philippines' exportable products. He views his visit as an opportunity to strengthen diplomatic relations established between the Philippines and the Soviet Union during President Marcos' state visit to Moscow in 1976.

Visit To Baguio

HK131414 Manila BULLETIN TODAY in English 13 Oct 82 pp 1, 10

[By Brenda P. Tuazon]

[Text] Baguio City, Oct 12 -- Moscow's Mayor Vladimir Promyslov declared today that Soviet Russia, having known the horrors of war, would never give up pressing for nuclear disarmament.

"Russia knows the meaning of war, its destruction and suffering and waste of lives," he told his audience at a lunch given in his honor at the Pines Hotel by Mayor Ernesto Bueno. He said that while the world political situation is not good, efforts for world peace should be pressed even harder.

Mayor Promyslov said he was doing his part for peace through the proposal to make Moscow and Manila sister cities. Good relations thus cemented between two cities will later spread to the two nations, he said.

He said he was grateful to the first lady, Minister of Human Settlements Imelda R. Marcos, for the warm reception she has accorded him and his party. While the mayor spoke in Russian, his interpreter, a Russian diplomat, translated his speech into Filipino.

Arriving by plane in the morning, the mayor greeted the brisk Baguio weather, calling it "Moscow weather." He waved happily at school children lining the road from Loakan Airport to the city. They waved Russian and Filipino flags. He said Baguio was a well-known city in Russia.

The mayor visited the Philippine Military Academy (PMA). A former navy officer, he appreciated the briefing given him by PMA Commandant Gen Carlos Zumel.

He visited the convention center, site of the Karpov-Korchnoi chess championship some years ago. At the silvercraft shop run by Belgian nuns, he bought a necklace and a bracelet for his granddaughter.

He told his escort, Metro Manila Vice Gov. Ismael A. Mathay Jr., to thank the first lady for their thoughtfulness. Mathay will be escorting him down to Manila tomorrow morning, together with Russian Ambassador Yuri Scholmov. Mathay said that before he takes the plane in the morning, the mayor would like to visit the public market and Trinidad Valley, the vegetable center of Luzon.

Interest in University Ties

[Text] Visiting Moscow Mayor Vladimir Promyslov is interested in forging a link between the University of Life and the Moscow State University. The Moscow mayor showed his interest at a briefing conducted by the first lady, Mrs Marcos, for the visitor on the various roles and functions of the Human Settlements Ministry and the University of Life. Mayor Promyslov was impressed, saying it was the first time he ever visited a university whose main concern is the development of man's mind, body and spirit. The Moscow mayor considers the University of Life as the only one of its kind in the world.

About the Moscow University, he said it is basically an academic and scholastic institution. However, the Moscow State University plans to include technological studies like those in the University of Life in the country.

Today the visiting mayor and the first lady are scheduled to formally sign the sister city agreement between Moscow and Manila. The agreement, which will be signed in Malacannang, provides for massive exchanges in the cultural, educational, technical, sport and other fields of mutual interest.

Marcos Comments on USSR Ties

OW151333 Quezon City RPN Television Network in English 1100 GMT 15 Oct 82

[Text] A substantial increase in trade between the Philippines and the Soviet Union is expected within the next few years. This is how the president views future trade between the two countries following the signing of an agreement making Metro Manila and Moscow sister cities. For more on this development, here is Jose Carlos:

The president foresees increased Philippine-Soviet trade relations as a direct result of the signing of the sister-city agreement between Metro Manila and Moscow. The first lady and Metro Manila Governor Imelda Romualdez Marcos and Moscow Mayor Vladimir Promyslov signed the agreement in Malacanang this morning. The agreement paves the way for wider contacts between the two cities in the educational, technological and cultural fields.

In a brief interview after the economy the president told newsmen that one of the short-term objectives in concluding the agreement was the expansion of trade between the two countries.

[Begin Marcos recording] We are thinking in terms of selling [word indistinct] and possibly coconut oil to the Soviet Union. I understand that the mayor has thought also of the possibility of buying direct fromthe Philippines, in view of the fact of their buying these articles now from middlemen in Europe. [end Marcos recording]

The president added that if the Soviets started buying coconut oil, it will bring in $400 million and improve the international market for Philippine coconut oil.

After the signing ceremony, the first lady hosted a lunch for Mayor Promyslov and his party. At 3:45 this afternoon, the visiting Soviet official left for home.

FOUR CONTENDERS REGISTER FOR ELECTION OF LDP HEAD

OW160227 Tokyo KYODO in English 0217 GMT 16 Oct 82

[Text] Tokyo, Oct 16, KYODO -- Four contenders for head of Japan's ruling Liberal-Democratic Party (LDP) Saturday registered for election next month as party leaders failed to pick a successor to outgoing LDP head and Prime Minister Zenko Suzuki Friday night.

Yasuhiro Nakasone, minister in charge of the Administrative Management Agency, regarded as most powerful, was the first to register at the party's headquarters. Nakasone, 63, is supported by three "mainstream" factions within the conservative party led by former Prime Minister Kakuei Tanaka, himself and Suzuki, who stunned the nation Tuesday by announcing he was stepping down.

Three leaders of the party -- Suzuki, Secretary General Susumu Nikaido and former Prime Minister Takeo Fukuda -- met Friday night to try to choose Suzuki's successor through negotiations, but in vain. But they agreed to ban election campaigns until next Friday to try to transfer power from Suzuki to someone without causing intraparty turmoil and divisions.

Nakasone's rivals who registered their candidacy were International Trade and Industry Minister Shintaro Abe; Toshio Komoto, head of the Economic Planning Agency; and Ichiro Nakagawa, head of the Science and Technology Agency. All these three belong to nonmainstream factions inferior in power to the mainstream factions.

The Tanaka and Suzuki factions decided not to send their own candidates to the primary election to be participated in by about 1 million rank and file members of the party. The deadline for candidacy is 1 p.m. Saturday.

If the one-week mediation efforts by Suzuki, Fukuda and Nikaido fail, all party members are asked to cast their ballots November 23. The top three vote-getters then face an election by 421 Diet members of the party November 25.

LDP LEADERS TO FURTHER DISCUSS SUZUKI SUCCESSION

OW161239 Tokyo KYODO in English 1136 GMT 16 Oct 82

[Excerpts] Tokyo, Oct 16, KYODO -- Three leaders of the ruling Liberal-Democratic Party are to resume discussions at 10 a.m. Monday in a continuing effort to select a successor to Prime Minister Zenko Suzuki through "negotiations" rather than an energy-consuming primary election. The decision came Saturday afternoon when the "supreme advisers" of the party got together for the second time to discuss the matter shortly after the four contenders for the post registered their candidacy.

The three leaders of the party -- Suzuki, party Secretary General Susumu Nikaido, and former Prime Minister Takeo Fukuda -- met Friday in a bid to avoid a primary election by picking Suzuki's successor through negotiations. The three leaders failed to select a successor, and the election was officially announced Saturday as scheduled.

The "supreme advisors," including former Prime Ministers Nobusuke Kishi and Takeo Miki, as well as Fukuda, heard a report on the discussions of the three leaders Saturday afternoon. The advisers agreed to ask the three leaders to continue their efforts next week, taking into consideration a strong party recommendation that primary elections would prevent the government from performing such important tasks as compiling a supplementary budget for the current fiscal year.

The three leaders are expected to ask the candidates to cooperate in this respect. According to Nikaido, the choice of Suzuki's successor will be limited to the four candidates if an agreement is reached to avoid a vote. If the efforts fail, however, the primary will be held November 23, with mail ballots to be cast by the 1,045,714 members and other eligible voters of the party. The three highest vote-getters will then have a final vote by the 421 party Diet members at their convention November 25.

CHINESE PEOPLE'S VOLUNTEERS GROUP PAYS VISIT

Tour of Mangyongdae

SK162312 Pyognyang Domestic Service in Korean 2300 GMT 14 Oct 82

[Text] The delegation of the former Chinese People's Volunteers [CPV], headed by Comrade Han Xianchu, member of the CPC Central Committee and deputy commander of the former CPV, visited Mangyongdae on 13 October. Accompanying the delegation were Comrade Paek Hak-nim, member of the Political Bureau of the KWP Central Committee, member of the Military Committee of the KWP Central Committee and vice minister of the Ministry of the People's Armed Forces, and military attache of the PRC embassy to our country Yu Kezhong.

While hearing an explanation about the great leader Comrade Kim Il-song's revolutionary history and his revolutionary home, the guests thoughtfully inspected the historic remains at the Mangyongdae home. After taking a souvenir photograph in front of the home, the guests inspected the revolutionary relics on Mangyongbong hill. The head of the delegation said that he is deeply impressed by the history of the revolutionary activities of Comrade President Kim Il-song, the great leader of the Korean people, and that it is very important to indoctrinate the new generation with the revolutionary history of the comrade president.

The delegation visited the Mangyongdae revolutionary school. Hung at the school were such slogans as: "We Warmly Welcome Delegation of the former CPV!" Long Live the Great Militant Friendship and Unity Forged in Blood Between the Peoples and Armies of Korea and China!" Warmly welcoming the guests, students of the school tied scarves of the juvenile corps on them and presented them bouquets of flowers. After inspecting the lecture rooms and laboratories, the guests watched a firing drill by the students.

The delegation head said that through his inspection, he has come to well understand that the Comrade President Kim Il-song, the great leader of the Korean people, always pays deep interest and gives large consideration to the education and indoctrination of future generations. He said: We are convinced that the school's students will be better prepared as the excellent reserves of the country and successors to the revolution, upholding the lofty intention of the comrade president.

The delegation also inspected the Arch of Triumph on 14 October. The guests took deep interest in the inspecting of relief sculptures and a group of sculptures of the Arch of Triumph, which was erected according to our party's lofty intention and energetic leadership to pass on forever the glorious and brilliant historic legacy of the great leader to the generations in all ages to come.

After the inspection, deputy head of the delegation Comrade Xie Fang said: We deem it an honor to inspect the Arch of Triumph on the significant day when President Kim Il-song made a historic speech marking his historic triumphal return home 37 years ago. The dear leader Comrade Secretary Kim Chong-il personally initiated the construction of this magnifident, wonderful and monumental edifice and led the construction of the Arch of Triumph from design to erection.

We will never forget our inspection of the Arch of Triumph. We were deeply moved when we saw the group of sculptures of anti-Japanese guerrillas warmly welcoming the triumphal return home of President Kim Il-song. We recollect with deep emotion the past days when the great leader of the Korean people, President Kim Il-song actively assisted the Chinese revolution, waging the anti-Japanese armed struggle.

The delegation also visited the Pyongyang subway and watched the music and dance tale "Song of Paradise."

17 Oct Kaesong Rally

SK180747 Pyongyang Domestic Service in Korean 2300 GMT 17 Oct 82

[Text] A rally of Kaesong citizens and the soldiers of a unit of the Korean People's Army [KPA] welcomed the delegation of the former Chinese People's Volunteers [CPV] on 17 October at the Kaesong Municipal Cultural Center. Hung on the platform of the meeting hall were the flags of our country and the PRC. Seen at the meeting hall were the slogans "We Warmly Welcome the Delegation of the Former CPV!" and "Long Live the Great Militant Friendship and Unity Sealed With Blood Between the Peoples and Armies of Korea and China!"

Invited to the rally were the delegation headed by Comrade Han Xianchu, member of the CPC Central Committee and deputy commander of the former CPV, Gu Zhanghong, chief of the Liaison Office of the CPV to the Military Armistice Commission [MAC], and its members. Present at the rally were Paek Hak-im, member of the Political Bureau of the KWP Central Committee, member of the Military Committee of the KWP Central Committee and vice minister of the Ministry of the People's Armed Forces, Col Gen Chu To-il, member of the KWP Central Committee, Kim Yong-chon, chairman of the Kaesong Municipal People's Committee, Gen Han Chu-kyong, senior member of our side to the MAC, other personages concerned and workers and KPA soldiers in Kaesong City.

The rally began with the playing of the national anthems of our country and the PRC. Chairman Kim Yong-chon spoke first at the rally. Ardently welcoming the delegation of the former CPV, he said: Your visit to Kaesong district is another clear proof of the invincible friendship, which is further being consolidated and developed each day, between the peoples and armies of Korea and China and is a great encouragement to Kaesong citizens and KPA soldiers, who are struggling for the complete victory of socialism and the reunification of the fatherland.

He noted: The Communists and peoples of Korea and China have vigorously staged a common struggle against imperialist aggression and for the victory of the socialist cause. He pointed out: When our people were suffering from the war of aggression provoked by the U.S. imperialists, the Chinese people sent their excellent sons and daughters to the Korean front lines, upholding the banner "Resist America, Aid Korea, Safeguard the Home and Defend the Nation." Every day during the grim war, the courageous officers and men of the CPV made an excellent display of the invincible spirit of communist revolution and the lifty spirit of proletarian internationalism.

He further said: The imperishable exploits that the fighters of the CPV created during the Korean war and the achievements they left will permanently abide in our people's memory. He stressed: We treasure our friendship with the Chinese people and with the Chinese People's Liberation Army [PLA]. We deem it our pride that we have the Chinese people as our intimate revolutionary comrades-in-arms and China as our reliable rear.

Noting that the peoples and armies of Korea and China have especially friendly relations, he said: The Korean-Chinese friendship -- which the great leader of our people Comrade Kim Il-song, the great leader of the Chinese people Comrade Mao Zedong and esteemed Comrade Zhou Enlai provided and which the great leader Comrade Kim Il-song is bringing into full blossom together with esteemed Comrade Hua Yaobang and Comrade Deng Xiaoping -- is a genuinely noble and endlessly invaluable and unbreakable friendship. Our relations are ones between comrades-in-arms and consanguineous ones forged with blood.

Last September the great leader of our people Comrade Kim Il-song visited China and met with the leaders of the Chinese party and government, including esteemed Comrade Hua Yaobang and Comrade Deng Xiaoping, and the Chinese people. This was an epochal event developing the invincible friendship and unity between the peoples and parties of Korea and China into a higher stage. The Korean-Chinese friendship will come into fuller blossom generation after generation and will be everlasting like the rivers and mountains of the two countries.

He noted: The Chinese people and PLA have embarked on the historic road of magnificant march to construct their country into a strong socialist country by realizing the programs for socialist modernization, upholding the decisions of the 12th CPC Congress.

He went on to say: To implement the decisions of the CPC congress, the soldiers of the PLA are further strengthening the party's leadership within the army and establishing socialist spiritual civilization. By accelerating the modernization of defense and vigorously staging combat and political training, they are becoming acquainted with modern combat technology and equipment and outstandingly increasing unit combat capabilities.

He said: We rejoice as over our own over all successes the Chinese people and the officers and men of the PLA have resistered in the struggle to construct socialism and to strengthen national defense. And we hope that they will attain greater successes and achieve victory in their future struggle to reunify China by restoring Taiwan to their motherland.

Noting that the destinies of the peoples of Korea and China are linked permanently as one, he said: In the future, too, as in the past, to realize our common aims and ideals for independence, sovereignty, peace, socialism and communism, we will fight shoulder to shoulder together with the fraternal Chinese people and the soldiers of the PLA.

He said: We sincerely hope that by vigorously accelerating new advance, upholding the decisions of the 12th CPC Congress, the Chinese people and the soldiers of the PLA will brilliantly achieve the grand programs for socialist modernization.

After concluding his speech, he gave a congratulatory banner to the head of the delegation. embroidered in the congratulatory banner were the flags of the two countries and letters reading: "Long Live the Great Friendship and Unity Forged With Blood Between the Peoples and Armies of Korea and China!"

Han Xianchu Rally Speech

SK180814 Pyongyang Domestic Service in Korean 2300 GMT 17 Oct 82

[Report on speech by Han Xianchu, member of CPC Central Committee and deputy commander of former Chinese People's Volunteers [CPV], at the 17 October Kaesong rally welcoming the delegation of former CPV]

[Text] First, saying that the delegation is visiting our country with thick and deep friendship extended from the Chinese people and the members of the former CPV to the fraternal Korean people and the KPA, he said: We are spending meaningful days in this warm atmosphere, teeming with happiness and joy for the reunion of old comrades-in-arms.

Each time we meet comrades-in-arms of Korea, we recall the history of the honorable struggle in which the peoples and armies of China and Korea fought against the common enemy, supporting and assisting one another, he said. He added: At every historic stage of the revolutionary struggle of the Chinese people, the Korean comrades-in-arms fought shoulder to shoulder with us and supported the revolutionary cause of our people with their blood and lives. What should be mentioned with particular emphasis is that the great leader of the Korean people Comrade Kim Il-song, by his own revolutionary activities, rendered precious support for the revolutionary cause of China. The Chinese people will never forget this and express deep gratitude for it.

Saying that shortly after the founding of the DPRK and the PRC the U.S. imperialists started the barbarous war of aggression against Korea, he noted: Under the wise leadership of Comrade Kim Il-song and the KWP, the heroic Korean people and People's Army bravely turned out in the struggle of resistance without fear of the strong enemy and by the end of the 3-year Fatherland Liberation War defeated the U.S. aggressors and won a great victory, greatly contributing to defending the security of China and peace in Asia and the world.

Noting that, in accordance with the teaching of the CPC and Chairman Mao Zedong, the CPV, under the banner of "Resist America, Aid Korea, Safeguard the Home, and Defend the Nation," rushed to the Korean front and in the same trench with the Korean people and army jointly beat the aggressors, he said: With the strong aid and support of the people of the fatherland and the Korean people, we successfully accomplished the mission of safeguarding the home and defending the nation and fulfilled the required duty of internationalism.

After saying that during the days of the arduous war, filled with gunsmoke, President Kim Il-song and the Korean party, government and people cared for and helped the CPV like their own sons and daughters, he said: This was an important guarantee for the victory of the volunteers.

Noting that the intimate relations between the peoples of the two countries, relying on one another and sharing joys and sorrows, have been further strengthened and developed as we enter a new period of history, he went on to say: Last spring Comrades Hu Yaobang and Deng Xiaoping visited your heroic country. And last September the great leader of the Korean people, President Kim Il-song, paid an official state visit to our country and received an extraordinarily solid and sincere welcome from our people. The mutual visits by the leaders of the two countries all scored satisfactory [wonmanhan] successes and set forth a new chapter in the friendly and cooperative relations between China and Korea. The people of our country are all pleased with this and determined to further strengthen and develop the great China-Korea friendship and glorify it throughout coming generations and eternally.

He said: The triumphs and achievements of the Korean people constitute a great encouragement for us. When compared with the time some 20 years ago when we were leaving your country, a change similar to the creation of the world has taken place in your country.

He said that all these achievements are results that his audience has attained in implementing President Kim Il-song's revolutionary line and are a rich fruition of the efforts to vigorously carry out the three revolutions -- ideological, technical and cultural.

Saying that the Korean People's Army has achieved great successes in thoroughly implementing the military line set forth by President Kim Il-song, in conducting military and political training with full combat readiness and in waging the struggle to smash the enemy's armed maneuvers, he wished his audience more brilliant successes in the struggle to implement the decisions of the Sixth KWP Congress and to achieve the 10-point prospective goal in socialist economic construction for the 20th century in the 1980's and the fatherland's reunification.

He said that the CPC recently held its 12th plenary session, which occupies an important position in the history of the party, and that this meeting summed up experiences and lessons in the country's socialist revolution and construction and set forth a general task in the party's new historical period. He then said that all the Chinese people are resolved to vigorously struggle to comprehensively unfold a new aspect for socialist modernization construction and to achieve the strategic goals, main points and procedures for economic development in 20 years set forth at the 12th CPC Congress.

He said that although nearly 30 years have elapsed since the cease-fire in Korea, the artificially fabricated division has not ended. He then added: The Korean party and government have made a steady effort to achieve the fatherland's independent and peaceful reunification, have led the Korean people in the struggle to achieve the country's reunification and have put forth correct proposals for reunification.

The Chinese people and all the members of the former CPV resolutely support the grand three principles and five policies on Korea's reunification and the proposal for founding the Democratic Confederal Republic of Koryo set forth by President Kim Il-song and the righteous struggle of the Korean people to achieve the fatherland's reunification.

The U.S. troops must immediately withdraw from South Korea, taking along their weapons and equipment. Korea's reunification is the natural trend of history. No force can block it. We firmly believe that under the leadership of President Kim Il-song and the KWP, the Korean people will surely achieve the sacred cause for the fatherland's reunification through their steady struggle. An independent and unified new Korea will surely emerge in east Asia.

Long life to the revolutionary friendship and militant unity between the people and armies of China and Korea! Long life to President Kim Il-song, the great leader of the Korean people!

KPA DELEGATION FETED AT DPRK EMBASSY IN BEIJING

SK150455 Pyongyang KCNA in English 0343 GMT 15 Oct 82

[Text] Beijing, October 13 (KCNA) -- Chon Chong-yong, charge d'affaires ad interim of the DPRK Embassy in Beijing, hosted a banquet at his embassy on October 13 upon the conclusion of the visit to China by the political workers's delegation of the Korean People's Army headed by KPA Lieutenant General Yun Chi-ho.

Invited to the banquet were Yu Qiuli, member of the Political Bureau of the Central Committee of the Communist Party of China and director of the General Political Department of the Chinese People's Liberation Army, and deputy directors of the CPLA General Political Department. The members of the KPA political workers delegation and the military attache of the DPRK Embassy in Beijing were present there.

The banquet was addressed by head of the delegation Yun Chi-ho and deputy director Liang Biye. In his speech deputy director Liang Biye said: The delegation's visit to China fully demonstrated the close unity and militant friendship between the two peoples and armies. I believe that these friendly relations will be as eternal as the River Amnok.

He continued: China and Korea are close neighbours which are linked by mountains and rivers and are in lips-and-teeth relations, and the two peoples and armies are intimate comrades-in-arms and brothers. The militant friendship and revolutionary unity sealed in blood between us are unbreakable as they have withstood long trials.

In the grim period of the revolutionary war, we went through thick and thin together in the same boat and today we are advancing together, helping each other in the cause of socialist construction. The people and army of China regard the successes of the Korean comrades-in-arms as their own and rejoice over them.

The Korean people and the heroic Korean People's Army under the leadership of President Kim Il-song are strenuously endeavoring to creditably carry out the militant tasks set forth at the Sixth Congress of the Workers Party of Korea and achieve the independent and peaceful reunification of the country, holding aloft the banner of the three revolutions, ideological, technical and cultural. We will as ever resolutely support your cause and advance in firm unity with the fraternal Korean comrades-in-arms to win new victory.

The attendants toasted the indestructible friendship and unity between the peoples and armies of Korea and China, the good health and long life of the great leader Comrade Kim Il-song, the good health and long life of the dear leader Comrade Kim Chong-il, the good health and long life of respected Comrade Hu Yaobang and the good health and long life of respected Comrade Deng Xiaoping.

KIM IL-SONG SEES OFF SAO TOME PRESIDENT

SK160037 Pyongyang KCNA in English 2235 GMT 15 Oct 82

[Text] Pyongyang, October 16 (KCNA) -- His Excellency Manuel Pinto da Costa, chairman of the Liberation Movement of Sao Tome and Principe and president of the Democratic Republic of Sao Tome and Principe, left Pyongyang on October 15 by special plane after successfully concluding his state visit to our country at the invitation of the great leader Comrade Kim Il-song, general secretary of the Central Committee of the Workers Party of Korea and president of the Democratic People's Republic of Korea.

The great leader of our party and our people Comrade Kim Il-song, together with his wife, warmly saw off His Excellency President Manuel Pinto da Costa and his wife at the airport.

Pyongyang airport was pervaded with a farewell atmosphere to see off the friendship envoy of the Sao Tome and Principe people.

Set up among thousands of farewell bidders who turned out carrying the flags of Korea and Sao Tome and Principe, bunches of flowers and balloons in their hands were a portrait of the great leader of our party and our people Comrade Kim Il-song and a portrait of His Excellency Manuel Pinto da Costa, chairman of the Liberation Movement of Sao Tome and Principe and president of the Democratic Republic of Sao Tome and Principe.

The farewell bidders were decorating the airport compound with beautiful rhythmic movement of the fan dance.

Amid the playing of the welcome music and the rising cheers of manse (hurrah) the great leader Comrade Kim Il-song and His Excellency President Manuel Pinto da Costa came out to the airport. The entourage of His Excellency President Manuel Pinto da Costa also came out to the aiport to leave.

Present at the airport were Vice-President Pak Song-chol and his wife, Vice-Premier and Foreign Minister Ho Tam, Vice-Premier Kye Ung-tae and chairmen of commissions and ministers of the Administration Council, leading personnel of working people's organisations, generals of the Korean People's Army, and leading functionaries of science, education, culture and art, public health and the press. Also on hand were diplomatic envoys of various countries in Pyongyang.

Kim Chung-nam, DPRK ambassador extraordinary and plenipotentiary to the Democratic Republic of Sao Tome and Principe, left, accompanying the guests.

A function was held at the airport to see off His Excellency Manuel Pinto da Costa, chairman of the Liberation Movement of Sao Tome and Principe and president of the Democratic Republic of Sao Tome and Principe. The national anthems of our country and the Democratic Republic of Sao Tome and Principe were played. In company with the great leader Comrade Kim Il-song, His Excellency President Manuel Pinto da Costa reviewed a guard of honour of the three services of the Korean People's Army. Children's Union members presented bunches of flowers to the great leader Comrade Kim Il-song and His Excellency President Manuel Pinto da Costa.

The great leader Comrade Kim Il-song shook hands with His Excellency President Manuel Pinto da Costa and hugged him. His Excellency President Manuel Pinto da Costa expressed thanks to the great leader Comrade Kim Il-song for the hospitality accorded him during his stay in our country and went aboard the plane, waving to the cheering crowd. The plane took off at 9:45 in the morning.

Message to Kim Il-song

SK160341 Pyongyang KCNA in English 0333 GMT 16 Oct 82

[Text] Pyongyang, October 16 (KCNA) -- The great leader Comrade Kim Il-song, general secretary of the Central Committee of the Workers Party of Korea and president of the Democratic People's Republic of Korea, received a message of thanks sent by Manuel Pinto da Costa, chairman of the Liberation Movement of Sao Tome and Principe and president of the Democratic Republic of Sao Tome and Principe, upon leaving our country on October 15. The message reads:

Upon leaving your country today after concluding my visit to the Democratic People's Republic of Korea, I extend deep thanks to you, respected Comrade President Kim Il-song, and through you, to the Workers Party, government and people of Korea for the fraternal and kind hospitality accorded me and the members of the delegation accompanying me during our stay in beautiful Pyongyang.

At talks held in an atmosphere of mutual understanding and frankness, we reached a unanimity of views and expressed the hope for the strengthening of the bonds of cooperation and unity between our two countries. I am convinced that the visit this time will contribute to further strengthening the relations existing between our two peoples. All the successes achieved in the building of socialist society in Korea as a result of the correct embodiment of the chuche idea show that you, respected Comrade Kim Il-song, contributing to the cause of Korean reunification, peace and progress, are one of the outstanding leaders of our time.

I wish you, respected Comrade President Kim Il-song, and the dear leader Comrade Kim Chong-il good health and a long life for the progress and well being of the Korean people, for the peaceful reunification of Korea and for the friendship, cooperation and unity between the Peoples of the Democratic Peoples Republic of Korea and Sao Tome and Principe.

With high and fraternal considerations.

NODONG SINMUN DENOUNCES REAGAN'S TAIWAN POLICY

SK170904 Pyongyang Domestic Service in Korean 0711 GMT 17 Oct 82

[NODONG SINMUN 17 October commentary: "A Violent Interference in the Internal Affairs of the PRC"]

[Text] In a recent statement issued at the White House, U.S. President Reagan babbled that the U.S. Government will stick to the Taiwan Relations Act, saying that a peaceful solution to the question of Taiwan on the part of China becomes the condition for stopping U.S. sales of weapons to Taiwan.

This is a violent interference in the internal affairs of China and it shows that the U.S. ruling class persistently sticks to its maneuvers to fabricate two Chinas. How to solve the question of Taiwan and how to achieve national reunification is wholly an internal affair of the Chinese people, and nobody else has the right to meddle in it.

Nevertheless, the U.S. ruling class, while prattling about peaceful reunification of China, has exposed its intention to strengthen political and military assistance to Taiwan. This is an infringement on China's sovereignty and a violation of the principles stated in the PRC-U.S. joint communique.

In the PRC-U.S. joint communique issued on 17 August, both parties agreed on the principles that the sales of U.S. weapons to Taiwan should be steadily reduced and finally terminated at a future time. There should not be any kind of preconditions to these principles. The United States is only dutybound to observe these principles.

Nonetheless, not long after the issuance of the joint communique, the U.S. President added preconditions to these principles. This shows that the U.S. commitment stated in the joint communique is nothing but empty words and that the U.S. Government is employing hypocritical tricks in its policy toward China.

While paying lipservice to the development of relations between the United States and the PRC, saying that it is doing its utmost to this end, the United States is acting otherwise. Babbling about Taiwan's defense capability and parading the Taiwan Relations Act, the U.S. Government is throwing itself into supplying Taiwan with weapons with eagerness and enthusiasm.

Such a two-faced attitude of the U.S. imperialists stems from their goal of keeping Taiwan as a base of aggression by perpetuating the present status of two Chinas. In fact, Taiwan is being turned into an unsinkable aircraft carrier and the U.S. imperialists are straining the situation of this region by continuously supplying Taiwan with weapons. This is a criminal act that lays grave obstacles to peace and the peaceful reunification of China and is a vicious challenge to all the Chinese people who aspire for national reunification.

The Korean people sternly denounce the U.S. maneuvers to fabricate two Chinas and are sending full support and solidarity to the just cause of the Chinese people for reunification. Taiwan is inseparable territory of China. The U.S. imperialist maneuvers that disregard Chinese sovereignty and that are designed to fabricate two Chinas can never be tolerated.

The U.S. imperialists should stop trampling on Chinese sovereignty and stop interfering in the internal affairs of China and should immediately stop their maneuvers obstructing the Chinese people's reunification. Doing so would be in the interests of the Chinese and American peoples who aspire for a promotion of PRC-U.S. relations and would be better for the United States itself.

'SUPPRESSION' OF STUDENTS IN SOUTH CONDEMNED

SK160445 Pyongyang KCNA in English 0429 GMT 16 Oct 82

[Text] Pyongyang, October 16 (KCNA) -- The South Korean puppet education minister on October 12 threatened that "the chronic campus disturbances will be terminated at any cost," crying for "an atmosphere of study" and so on. He also blurted that the reinstatement of the illegally expelled students "leaves no room for consideration."

A signed commentary of NODONG SINMUN Saturday says: Such outcry of the puppets discloses their intention to suppress the students' struggle more harshly in the future.

The puppet ministers blast came at a time when the suppression of the struggle of the students against U.S. imperialism and for independence and against fascism and for democracy became more wanton. The South Korean military fascists murdered in prison Pak Kwan-hyon, a former student of Chonnam University who had participated in the Kwangju popular uprising, while he was waging a long hunger struggle against the unjust persecution by the puppets and, on October 11, passed prison terms on eight students including Song Yun-sok of South Korean Kangwon University who had waged an anti-U.S. anti-fascist struggle.

The outrages of the puppets are a high-handed threat and blackmail to the South Korean anti-U.S. forces for independence and, at the same time, an intolerable challenge to national sovereignty and independence and patriotism and a heinous gangsterism for strangling the righteous struggle of the students.

By brutally suppressing and threatening the students and binding them hand and foot, the Chon Tu-hwan puppet clique scheme to break the spirit against U.S. imperialism and for independence and against fascism and for democracy growing ever higher in South Korea, prop up the U.S. imperialists colonial rule and prolong their remaining days. But this is a foolish dream.

Students in Kwangju staged massive demonstrations for two consecutive days, stubbornly resisting the suppression by the puppet police, in protest against the bestiality of the Chon Tu-hwan military fascist clique in murdering Pak Kwan-hyon in cold blood. With no amount of attempts can traitor Chon Tu-hwan ever extinguish the flames of independence and patriotism raging furiously in the hearts of the South Korean students.

VRPR ON WORKERS' HUNGER STRIKE IN SOUTH KOREA

SK160057 (Clandestine) Voice of the Revolutionary Party for Reunification in Korean to South Korea 0300 GMT 15 Oct 82

[Station commentary]

[Text] In this hour, we will talk about the indomitable struggle of female workers at the Wonpung Textile Company for the right to existence and for democracy. As has been already reported, female workers at the Wonpung Textile Company an indomitable struggle against fascist oppression and for the right to existence and for democracy.

Since 27 September the female workers at the textile company, have staged a hunger strike, calling for a wage hike, the reinstatement of expelled fellow workers, the observance by company authorities of a collective agreement concluded with workers and immediate suspension of suppression of their labor union.

On 13 October some 200 female workers at the company began to stage a sit-in demonstration, calling for the release of detained fellow workers and the normalization of their labor union. The workers who have turned out in the struggle are burning with determination to continue their indomitable struggle until their just demands have been achieved. This is a most just and righteous struggle against the fascist dictatorship and the tyranny of comprador capitalists and for the right to existence and for democracy.

As has been widely known, having formed a self-regulated and democratic labor union by themselves, workers at the Wonpung Textile Company have continued an indomitable struggle to regain their trampled rights to existence and for democracy. In particular, workers -- including Miss Pak Sun-ae, who was unwarrantedly dismissed last month -- have resolutely struggled against the base maneuvers of the company owner and the government authorities to dissolve the democratic labor union. They have also fought against the company authorities for a wage increase, the right to existence and the interests of workers, standing at the head of the righteous struggle.

Looking on this struggle as a thorn in their flesh, the company authorities on 25 September finally perpetrated the atrocity of unwarrantedly dismissing them under the unwarranted pretext that they had agitated other workers to stage a strike and that they had been engaged in leading a strike and violence with the aim of driving the company to bankruptcy.

Unable to look on idly any longer at the vicious arrogance of the company authorities, female workers at the Wonpung Textile Company began a hunger strike on 27 September, staying up all night and, since then have continued an indomitable struggle in defiance of the fascist suppression of the authorities. Nevertheless, far from listening to their just demands, the company owners, mobilizing male workers, perpetrated the vicious atrocities of pulling the female workers out of the sit-in site and beating them.

This is a vicious challenge to the exercise of righteous rights and an intolerable criminal act violating sacred human rights. Such vicious acts by the company owners are a result of the base schemes of the Chon Tu-hwan ring to suppress and obliterate democratic labor unions and the urban industrial evangelical mission. As anti-U.S. and antigovernment sentiment has recently grown among our workers and conscientious religionists, including members of the urban industrial evangelical mission, the Chon Tu-hwan ring has frantically employed all possible schemes to suppress and obliterate them.

It is an open secret that the Chon Tu-hwan ring, in collusion with the Wonpung Textile Company, has long intended to close the company in a bid to dissolve the company's democratic labor union. It was also quite clear that it was under the patronage of the Chon Tu-hwan ring that, when the female workers turned out in the righteous struggle, the company owners mobilized male workers and manipulated them to beat the female workers and held a government-sponsored rally under the pretext of driving out what they called the impure labor union, while letting other workers slander and defame the workers' righteous struggle and shout "away with the impure labor union" at the rally.

Lurking in this is a wicked political design of the Chon Tu-hwan ring to shuffle off onto the workers the responsibility for the current economic crisis and the bankruptcy of enterprises, which have resulted from its treacherous economic policy of dependence on foreign countries, to suppress the recently growing anti-U.S. and antigovernment sentiment among workers and to maintain the shaken fascist rule at any cost.

However, this is a foolish act. Where there is oppression, there is resistance. Where there is resistance, there is struggle. This can be vividly proven by the struggle of workers at the Wonpung Textile Company, who are waging an indomitable struggle for the rights to existence and for democracy.

As in the past, they will, in the future, too, gallantly continue their righteous struggle for the right to existence and for democracy. Workers throughout the country and patriotic masses of all strata will also extend absolute support and encouragement to them.

The Wonpung Textile Company authorities should immediately accept the demands of the workers. At the same time, the Chon Tu-hwan ring should renounce its antipopular policy of seeking only the interests of comprador capitalists and step down from power without delay as unanimously demanded by the masses of people. The fascist dictator who turns away (?will of the people) will not go unpunished.

PRC AIR FORCE MAJOR REPORTEDLY SEEKS ASYLUM

OW162318 Hong Kong AFP in English 2306 GMT 16 Oct 82

[Text] Seoul, Oct. 17 (AFP) -- A Chinese air force major piloting a Chinese-made MIG-19 combat fighter landed at an airport outside Seoul yesterday seeking political asylum, reliable sources said today.

It is not yet known if the defecting plane came from North Korea or from mainland China.

The South Korean Defense Ministry ordered a total blackout of the news immediately for certain security reasons. The name of the alleged defector was not disclosed.

The South Korean Government is said to be unwilling to have any diplomatic trouble with China, with whom Seoul wants rapprochement. However, diplomatic quarters said it is possible that the alleged defector could be accepted by Taiwan.

This is the first time a Chinese MIG plane flew to South Korea in a defection bid. In 1953, shortly after the Korean war ended, a North Korean air force pilot named Roh Kum-suk defected to South Korea with his Russian-made MIG-15 to win a 100,000-dollar reward from the United States. He now lives in the U.S.

Further Report

OW170749 Hong Kong AFP in English 0728 GMT 17 Oct 82

[Excerpt] Seoul, Oct. 17 (AFP) -- The South Korean Government today maintained a complete silence 24 hours after a Chinese air force major, surnamed Wu, piloting a Chinese-made MIG-19 combat fighter, flew into a military air base outside Seoul to seek political asylum.

The Defense Ministry ordered a total blackout of the news immediately after the plane bearing the Communist Chinese air force insignia on its wings landed here without apparently being intercepted.

(?It is) believed that the plane took off from mainland China. China's Shandong peninsula is only 450 kilometers (280 miles) from Seoul across the Yellow Sea.

Officials in Seoul said nothing could be disclosed about the incident while investigations were under way. Diplomatic sources said the defector could possibly be accepted by the Nationalist Government in Taiwan.

South Korea is said to be unwilling to have any trouble with China on the matter, particularly at a time when Seoul is seeking a rapprochement, if not formal ties, with China.

JAPANESE PAPER CITED ON USSR OFFICIAL'S ROK VISIT

OW170444 Tokyo KYODO in English 0421 GMT 17 Oct 82

[Text] Tokyo, Oct 17, KYODO -- A bureau chief of the Soviet Union's Culture Ministry will visit South Korea Sunday as Moscow's first ranking official to do so, Japan's MAINICHI SHIMBUN (newspaper) said Sunday in a Seoul dispatch.

J. Popov, the ministry's Art Preservation Bureau head, will stay in the country until Friday, according to the mass-circulation daily. Quoting informed sources in Seoul, it said he is expected to discuss expansion of Soviet-South Korea relations with Seoul government officials. But the daily did not say whom Popov will meet with or when or who invited him.

South Korea has no diplomatic relations with the Soviet Union, an ally of North Korea, although it has opened its door to socialist countries for about 10 years.

Popov's visit coincides with a trip to Seoul by a delegation of the Soviet official news agency TASS, who took part in a meeting here of the Organization of Asia-Pacific News Agencies (OANA).

While allowing South Koreans to visit the Soviet Union for international conferences and sports events, the Moscow government in the past banned a trip to Seoul by its citizens. But diplomatic sources in Seoul said Moscow has changed the policy and notified Seoul, according to the newspaper. It quoted other diplomatic sources as saying Popov's visit will be helpful in defusing the tense situation on the Korean Peninsula and northeast Asia.

South Korea has invited the Soviet Union, China and all other socialist countries to the 1988 olympics in Seoul, which North Korea says it will boycott. Former Foreign Minister No Sin-yong earlier said the government will launch all-out diplomatic efforts to make the 1988 summer games help improve its relations with communist and nonaligned nations.

FURTHER ON REPORTED PURGING OF MODERATES IN NORTH

[Text] Tokyo (YONHAP) -- A North Korean faction led by Kim Chong-il and O Chin-u has recently placed Vice President Kim Il and other senior moderate politicians under detention, it was reported here Friday.

The TONGIL ILBO daily, quoting sources well informed on North Korean affairs, said Kim Chong-il, the son of North Korean chieftain Kim Il-song, and O Chin-u, people's armed forces minister, and their followers seemed to have put the moderates under detention on the pretense that senior Kim's recent trip to China has been a failure. Junior Kim and his followers are once again attempting to seek a hardline policy toward South Korea, it said.

Junior Kim and his party, who had been removed from the center of power, are now purging the moderates. They believe Kim Il-song's Beijing trip was a failure because China refused to grant economic aid to North Korea, the newspaper alleged.

FURTHER ON RETURNED FISHERMEN'S REMARKS TO PRESS

SK160214 Seoul THE KOREA HERALD in English 16 Oct 82 p 8

[Text] The North Korean economy is lagging about 20 years behind the Republic of Korea's and the communist area is suffering from severe shortages of basic food such as rice, some of the fishermen released recently after detention in North Korea said yesterday. They also quoted North Korean officials as saying that North Korea has built a massive underground network of antinuclear shelters in its capital of Pyongyang in preparation for war on the peninsula. These and other disclosures about North Korea were made in a news conference held by 35 crewmen of a 114-ton fishing boat detained for 78 days after being abducted to North Korea July 13 while operating on the high seas northeast of Ullung Island off the east coast. The North Korean regime, under pressure from the South Korean Government and organizations such as the Red Cross, sent the fishermen of the cuttlefish vessel No 5 Masan-Ho to the South Sept 29.

One of the fishermen, Kang U-cho, 42, told reporters he heard a North Korean official accompanying him throughout the ordeal say that the situation of the North Korean economy, especially in the field of light industry, is similar to that of South Korea in the early 1960's.

The chief engineer of the fishing vessel also quoted the North Korean official, identified only as Choe, as telling him that the reason behind the lagging North Korean economy is that is has been placing overemphasis on the development of heavy industry for the production of weapons. According to Pyongyang watchers, this is the first time any North Korean officia admitted to the worsening economic problems facing the world's most closed society.

Another fisherman, Kim Chong-nok, 43, revealed that he was told by a hotel manager in Pyongyang that people in the communist North will no longer eat such poor meals as corn cereal after the government finishes reclaiming 300,000 ha of land in the west coast. Kim said that although the North Korean did not go into details about the reclamation work, he had an impression that the food situation in North Korea is worse than ever. Kim said he often encountered signboards bearing the words "rice is communism" while traveling in North Korea.

A group of two or three North Korean officials, called "ideology instructors," forced the fishermen to see part of the country in an attempt to "brainwash" them, he said.

Three other fishermen, including Han Kil-hwan, also said the North Korean officials told them that Pyongyang has an underground network of antinuclear shelters for use in time of war. The fishermen said the shelter, located 150 meters underground, is connected with subway systems in Pyongyang. Han quoted a North Korean official as saying that no one in Pyongyang would be hurt even in case of an atomic attack against Pyongyang. Other fishermen said some North Korean officials told them Pyongyang has completed its war preparations.

They quoted the communist officials as telling them that North Korea could have unified South Korea had such incidents as the 1980 disturbances in Kwangju, Cholla Namdo, occurred in other places at that time.

Referring to the reported campaign by North Korean chieftain Kim Il-song to have his son Kim Chong-il as his successor, Pak Chae-pung said an extensive personality cult is under way to make sure that Kim Chong-il is the only person in line for the leadership.

A 40-year-old crewman, Pak Song-nam, said some North Korean agents ordered him to organize an underground resistance ring to overthrow the government once he returned to the South. Pak explained that the North Koreans told him to get his family members or relatives befriended with labor union leaders and urge them to incite mass demonstrations opposing the government.

He said all 35 crewmen of the Masan-Ho were forced to attend "an oratorial contest" during which they were asked to praise Kim Il-song and his achievements.

According to the crewmen, one of their colleagues was unable to attend the press conference because of illness he contracted in North Korea. They said a North Korean doctor had administered an excessive amount of medicine to the ailing crewman against his will.

Meanwhile, North Korea experts in Seoul said North Korea repatriated the crewmen after 78 days' captivity, earlier than ever, because it attempted to show its "humanitarian effort" toward the outside world. North Korea used to hold Korean fishermen as long as 10 months before sending them to the country, they said. "The unprecedented early return of the 35 crewmen was timed with Kim Il-song's visit to China," a North Korean-watcher said. He said North Korea appeared to have hoped to win the support of the fishermen and their family members by sending them before Chusok, the Korean version of Thanksgiving, that fell on Oct. 1.

POST: SRV SENDING ARMS TO THAI-KAMPUCHEAN BORDER

[Text] Vietnam has rotated more than 20,000 fresh troops into Kampuchea while sending more heavy arms to areas near the Thai border, Supreme Command Headquarters said in a report released on Friday. Vietnamese troops have also reinforced strongholds near the border and had stockpiled food and ammunition, the report said.

The Supreme Command headquarters said that between July and September Vietnam had reshuffled its troops, established an intelligence unit and deployed surveillance teams close to the Thai border. Vietnamese media had also launched attacks on Thailand, accusing it of having perpetually created tension in the area, the report said.

Weapons recently sent into Kampuchea included heavy artillery, tanks, anti-aircraft guns, 107-mm and 140-mm rockets and portable shoulder-fired SAM-7 missiles, the report said. It added that Democratic Kampuchean forces had been able to deal a heavy blow to Vietnamese-backed Heng Samrin forces, especially along the northern section of Highway 5.

The Supreme Command Headquarters said it believed that Vietnam was preparing its troops for a major clash with the Khmer resistance forces which would result in heavy fighting along the Thai-Kampuchea border.

KILLING OF KPNLF COMMANDER, SON SANN RETURN REPORTED

BK151334 Hong Kong AFP in English 1038 GMT 15 Oct 82

[Text] Bangkok, Oct 15 (AFP) -- Cambodian nationalist leader Son Sann has cut short his attendance at the United Nations to return here after the murder of a key commander of his anti-Vietnamese forces, sources said today. Foreign observers said Son Sann, prime minister of the Coalition Government of Democratic Kampuchea, rushed back secretly on Tuesday, apparently because of possible factional fallout from the murder.

According to first reports, the killing Monday of Sar Luot, commander of the Nong Samet refugee encampment on the volatile Thai-Cambodian border, may have resulted from infighting among Son Sann's Khmer People's National Liberation Front (KPNLF). Mr Luot, whose age was not immediately available, had been a leading resistance figure at the border since the Khmer Rouge communists seized power in 1975. Refugee workers who knew him said he was unpopular and quoted a rumor he had been killed under orders from other KPNLF figures. Another source said the killing, in an ambush at an unspecified point on the border, might have been a settling of scores or the work of Vietnamese-backed infiltrators.

Son Sann's snap trip back suggested the incident may have strained the KPNLF military structure. He had been expected to remain in New York at least until the UN General Assembly debates the Cambodian issue later this month, and was thought loathe to leave the stage to Prince Norodom Sihanouk and Khmer Rouge titular leader Khieu Samphan, his uneasy partners in the tripartite coalition formalized July 9.

Sources said the KPNLF leader was due to return to New York imminently, but this could not immediately be confirmed. KPNLF officials have ceased returning reporters' telephone calls since their house was searched here Tuesday by police said to be looking for an arms cache. One source said Son Sann's unexpected trip back could also have been related to the house search and its unknown significance.

Motives in Killing Cited

[Text] Aranyaprathet -- A Khmer Serei regiment commander and two others were ambushed and killed by two unidentified guerrillas near the Khmer People's National Liberation

Front's [KPNLF] commanding headquarters opposite Ban Sa-ngae here, a Khmer source said yesterday. One of the other two killed was the wife of the regiment commander. The source said the KPNLF regiment commander of a Nong Samet camp, Sar Luot, his wife, Kim, 30, and two other Khmer resistance leaders were traveling in a pick-up truck on their way back from Ban Sa-ngae to their camp near the Thai-Kampuchean border in Ta Phraya District when the attack occurred.

The ambush took place last Monday about 15 kilometres north of Ta Phraya District, when two unidentified guerrillas, armed with AK-47 assault rifles, fired about 60 shots at the truck, causing the vehicle to skid off the road, killing the three instantly. The only survivor was reported in critical condition and was taken to a hospital in Ban Sa-ngae. The source said he was a battalion commander at the Nong Samet-based Khmer Serei camp.

According to the source, Sar Luot was on his way to meet his leader, Prime Minister Son Sann of the Democratic Kampuchea Coalition Government, for a briefing on military strategy at the KPNLF's commanding headquarters. The source said the KPNLF's supreme commander, General Dien Del, was accused of masterminding the ambush, but he has tried to shift the blame onto the Khmer Rouge led by Mit Yon instead. The source also said that 20 minutes after the ambush, Gen Dien Del claimed 300 Khmer Rouge attacked his living quarters, killing one and wounding three others. However, as a result of criticism, the source said Gen Dien Del submitted his resignation, which was rejected by Son Sann.

The Khmer source gave [word indistinct] possible reasons, including infighting within the KPNLF and a conflict of interest in the area's black market racket, for the ambush on Sar Luot, who was quite powerful, having command of three battalions of about 2,700 men. In 1980, Sar Luot helped lead an attack on the Nong Samet camp, formerly known as Camp 007, wresting it from a rival faction led by In Sakhan. Since then he has monopolised the area's black market operations. The source also suggested that In Sakhan may be behind the ambush.

The source also reported that while fighting still raged beween the Khmer resistance forces and the Vietnamese-backed Heng Samrin troops, fierce clashes have been reported in areas opposite Aranyaprathet and Ta Phraya Districts and on Route 5, which is about seven to 10 kilometres from the Thai border.

KHMER REFUGEES SAID RETURNING TO PRK FROM CAMP

[Text] Thousands of Khmer refugees have poured out of a Thai camp back to Kampuchea since a call to action by Prince Norodom Sihanouk, diplomatic and relief sources said yesterday. The sources said a Vietnamese rocket attack on the refugees' Kampuchean destination failed to slow the determined Khmers, who leave Khao I-Dang camp at a rate of about 250 to 300 a day.

The population of Sihanoukville, the growing village formerly called O Smach opposite Chong Chom of Surin Province, has ballooned to more than 13,000 from its original 2,500 three months ago, the sources said.

Relief workers said the exodus from Khao I-Dang back to Kampuchea is entirely voluntary, and several concerned officials have been unable to convince the Khmers to remain in Khao I-Dang for their own safety.

A rocket attack last month on Sihanoukville wounded several villagers, but failed to deter newcomers, the sources said. They described the attack as "small, obviously a warning" from Vietnam to stop the influx or face the consequences.

Few of the returnees are soldiers looking to take up arms against Vietnam and the Heng Samrin regime, the sources said. Most appeared to be civilians who wished to go home. They said Sihanouk's appearance at Khao I-Dang last July convinced many Kampucheans that they could return home without fearing reprisals from the Khmer Rouge, one of the other two coalition partners with the prince.

The only apparent advantage to life at Sihanoukville compared with Khao I-Dang is a little more freedom of movement. But the refugees are restricted from moving very far by surrounding Vietnamese minefields.

The exodus from Khao I-Dang began in mid-July right after the Sihanouk appearance there. It was halted about four weeks later by the government and relief workers -- following an appeal by Sihanouk himself -- because space at Sihanoukville was limited and returnees were being hemmed in by the minefields. It resumed last month, however, after Kampucheans at Sihanoukville managed to clear more land for new returnees.

The government and voluntary agencies believe that Kampucheans who volunteer to return to their homeland have the right to do so. Diplomatic sources said the workers of the UN High Commissioner for Refugees at Khao I-Dang have officially distanced themselves from the repatriation programme, but informally monitor the returnees to ensure that none are coerced into going. An international aid worker familiar with the programme said yesterday there is no shortage of volunteers to return to Sihanoukville. Selection of who goes is made by Kampucheans within Khao I-Dang without reference to Thais or foreigners, and the Royal Thai Army supplies transportation for those selected each day.

Meanwhile, REUTER quoted Thai military sources as reporting that Vietnamesd troops in western Kampuchea exchanged mortar fire with Khmer Rouge guerrillas and with guerrillas loyal to Kampuchean coalition Premier Son Sann yesterday.

PRASONG SCORES REFUGEE HANDLING TO UNHCR BOARD

BK130356 Bangkok BANGKOK POST in English 13 Oct 82 pp 1, 3

[Text] The secretary-general of the National Security Council yesterday warned an international conference in Geneva that the Thai people would be unable to bear the increasing refugee burden any longer, forcing the government to deal with the problem solely in the nation's interests. Squadron Leader Prasong Sunsiri said there were indications that other countries were trending to forget the refugee problem and to leave the whole burden to be borne by Thailand, causing deep concern to the government.

Speaking at the 33d meeting of the UNHCR [UN High Commission on Refugees] Executive Board, he reported that the Thai Government and people were alarmed by the drop in numbers of Indochinese refugees taken for resettlement by third countries. He criticised the application of immigration regulations by third countries which had originally proclaimed their humanitarian ideals in accepting "the starving and disease-ridden victims of war." Thailand did not impose such regulations on the refugees. "This is unfair to Thailand and hardly in accordance with the principle of joint responsibility previously announced," he said.

Giving an idea of the huge reduction in refugees admitted by third countries, Prasong reported that during the eight months from January to August this year only 24,123 refugees were taken from Thailand for resettlement abroad, compared with 70,395 in the same period last year. The average monthly rate of departures for third countries this year was 3,000, compared with 8,500 last year. He estimated that at this rate the number of refugees taken for resettlement this year would not exceed 40,000. The number last year was 102,561.

"The lesson we learn is that being too merciful could lead us to bear an endless burden and it cannot be forecast for how much longer the Thai people would want to live with the problem," Prasong said. The NSC secretary general, leading the Thai delegation to the conference, proposed three measures:

1. Third countries should increase their intake of Indochinese refugees from Thailand on humanitarian grounds rather than according to immigration procedures.

2. Voluntary repatriation should be allowed to take place with greater efficiency on the part of all concerned.

3. The system of orderly departure from Vietnam should be imposed effectively.

Prasong reaffirmed Thailand's intention to carry on with voluntary repatriations because a large number of refugees refused to live in countries culturally different from their own and wanted to return home. He voiced dissatisfaction with the slow progress made in the programme, which was supposed to be conducted with UNHCR cooperation. Only 1,670 Laotians have been repatriated with UNHCR help, but the main problem for Laotian refugees wanting to go home is the insecurity of life in their country. The chief obstacle to the voluntary repatriation of the Khmer refugees, according to Prasong, is the attitude of the Vietnamese-installed Heng Samrin regime, which would like to turn the issue to its political advantage. Prasong called upon the UNHCR and the governments involved to make voluntary repatriation of the Khmers a success.

He appealed to the World Food Programme and the International Committee of the Red Cross to continue their relief assistance to the 300,000 Khmer refugees on the Thai border rather than divert aid to Kampuchea, where travel and other restrictions prevent monitoring to ensure that the food and other materials really do reach the needy.

He also asked international agencies to help Thai villagers affected by the influx of Indochinese refugees. He reported that 200,000 Thais in seven provinces were affected, with 80,000 having to be moved from their homes. The Thai Government has had to divert money and staff to provide relief while international aid has been inadequate.

Prasong reported that the $3.67 million donated by 12 countries through the UNHCR for a year-long anti-piracy campaign would increase the ability of units combating the pirates. But he said that like crime in New York or London, piracy could not simply be eliminated. An international effort was needed, he said, because the Gulf of Thailand is 300,000 square kilometres in area and Thailand shares the waters with neighbouring countries. Pirates of unknown nationality have attacked not only Vietnamese refugees, but also Thai fishermen.

Complaining about unjust allegations against Thailand over piracy, Prasong said that the Thai Government was determined to fight piracy, but international organisations would have to arrange for a joint effort by all countries if any anti-piracy campaign was to succeed. Prasong siad that to stop pirates victimising Vietnamese boat people, Vietnam would have to cooperate with third countries in arranging the orderly departure of people seeking sanctuary helped.

He reported that Indochinese refugees were continuing to arrive at the Thai border. A total of 175,094 were in Thailand, 90,526 of them from Laos and Vietnam, in various camps; meanwhile, there were 84,568 khmers. There were another 300,000 Khmers along the border, Prasong said. More refugees were expected as a result of continued fighting and famine in Kampuchea, he said.

He confirmed that Thailand's policy of humanitarianism toward refugees must be matched by guarding of its national sovereignty and security. But the policy would be maintained, he emphasised, as long as there was support from other governments and international agencies.

USSR ASKS FOR POSTPONEMENT OF ARUN VISIT

BKL51448 Bangkok Domestic Service in Thai 1300 GMT 15 Oct 82

[Text] The deputy director general of the Foreign Ministry's Information Department, Saowanit Khongsiri, reported that the Foreign Ministry is working out, with other government agencies concerned, the planned visit to the PRC by Prime Minister Gen Prem Tinsulanon. The prime minister has in principle accepted the invitation to visit the PRC. However, the invitation indicated that the visit was to be made before the end of this year. Therefore, the prime minister will have to make the visit this year if he wishes to go to the PRC.

The deputy director general of the Information Department also disclosed that Han Nianlong, counsellor of the Chinese Foreign Ministry, will visit Thailand from 22-30 October to observe Thailand's development projects. He will call on Foreign Minister Air Chief Marshal Sitthi Sawetsila and will hold consultations with the under secretary of the Foreign Ministry.

The Portuguese deputy foreign minister, Paulo Marques, will visit Thailand from 21-24 October as guest of the Foreign Ministry. He will call on Foreign Minister Air Chief Marshal Sitthi Sawetsila and will hold official consultations with Deputy Foreign Minister Arun Phanuphong and Deputy Commerce Minister Praphat Limpraphan.

Asked about Deputy Foreign Minister Arun Phanuphong's visit to the Soviet Union, the deputy director general of the Information Department told newsmen that the Soviet Union had asked Thailand to postpone the visit because the Soviet deputy foreign minister is ill and cannot welcome the Thai deputy foreign minister.

PREM DECISION NOT TO CONTEST ELECTIONS VIEWED

Army Commander Comments

BK130635 Bangkok Domestic Service in Thai 0000 GMT 13 Oct 82

[Text] In connection with the prime minister's declaration that he will not run in the upcoming elections, Army Commander Gen Athit Kamlangek said: [begin recording] There are no reasons why; it is just my feelings. There are now many political parties. Which party should he join if he runs in the elections? If he joins one, the others would feel discontented. The current Constitution stipulates that a candidate must belong to a political party and the party voting system must be used in the elections. Which party should he join, then? Because the prime minister is a good person, every party wants him to join. Now that he has made it public, it should be clear to all.

Many people have expressed many views about the prime minister. My remarks the other day were made before I met with him. I said then that I did not hear him say anything. I was asked how the prime minister felt about the matter and I replied that if I were the prime minister, I would not run in the elections because I could not choose between the various parties. All parties are good and they are members of the coalition government; which party could he chose, then? Every coalition partner has cooperated well with the prime minister. He cannot run under all four parties. I feel that he did the right thing by making public that he will not run. [end recording]

Kriangsak, Khukrit Cited

[Text] General Kriangsak Chamanan said yesterday at Don Muang Airport that he believed that a prime minister should be an elected member of parliament. Gen Kriangsak, leader of the National Democracy Party, said he agreed with M.R. Khukrit Pramot, the Social Action Party leader, on this point. But he did not say Prime Minister Prem Tinsulanon should not be appointed the country's next leader.

Khukrit said on Tuesday that Gen Prem should not be appointed prime minister if he did not stand in the general elections next year. He made the comment after Gen Prem announced that he would not join any political party or stand for election in April.

Speaking at the airport before going on a three-week trip to the United States and Great Britain, Gen Kriangsak said that Gen Prem's decision was his own business. Asked if Gen Prem would be appointed prime minister after the elections, Gen. Kriangsak said it was allowed under the Constitution. He said, however, that the appointment depended on Gen Prem's support in parliament, adding that if there was strong support, the prime minister's chances would be good.

Asked if Gen Prem's decision meant that the army was reluctant to relinquish its role in government, Gen Kriangsak said it depended on whether the country was unsettled or stable. He said that if everything was stable, then the army should step back.

The prime minister's decision would put many political parties at ease, he said, adding that now the parties can concentrate on their election preparations.

When asked if Gen Prem's decision would affect the stability of the government, Gen Kriangsak said he believed it would not. He compared the present government to a ship nearing the end of its voyage, adding that he believed the government would complete its term. "This is the first government which is about to end its term in office. I just hope that this happens and continues to occur in the following governments," he said. A stable goverenment would be able to carry out policies and programmes for the benefit of the people, Gen Kriangsak said.

Asked if rumours that some of his party members were being bought by the Chat Thai Party were true, Gen Kriangsak said that this was a trick used by many parties. People who suggest such things are just playing politics, he said, adding that he disapproved of the idea of using money to entice members away from their parties.

He denied reports that the party was planning to share constituencies in the northeast with the Pracharat Party headed by Chaisiri Ruangkanchanaset.

NATION REVIEW Editorial

BK130420 Bangkok THE NATION REVIEW in English 13 Oct 82 p 4

[Editorial: "Nobody Believes Prem Is Going To Quit Politics"]

[Text] Let us face the facts as they appear today, because tomorrow they may change: 1) Prime Minister Prem Tinsulanon is not joining any political party. 2) He has no political ambitions because he has said so. 3) He did not say that he will not be the next prime minister. 4) If all goes well, keeping our fingers crossed, we will make history in Thailand by giving the parliament its first full constitutional term of four years.

If these "facts" are facts, then we are among the most surprised people in Thailand. As journalists, we have monitored the performance of Gen Prem as the prime minister for almost three years and we have been highly impressed by his honesty and integrity.

His total devotion, if we may use a British phrase, "to king and country", was demonstrated without the shadow of a doubt during the somewhat ridiculous April fool coup attempt. His hands are clean, his patriotism is unquestionable, but what about his political acumen and his understanding of the economic problems of the country?

The problem with persons like Prem, honest and patriotic, is that they are too easily maneuvered because they do not want to sully their personalities with "dirty politics". But politics is dirty either in a democracy or in a dictatorship or in a communist country -- and there is no way of escaping it. Yes, Prem has said that he has no political ambitions, and we totally believe him. But the point we are trying to make is that, since he is not a dirty politician who is cunning, others may have political ambitions for him so that they could grind their axes under the unimpeachable umbrella of "Pa Prem".

Politics is dirty -- ask Reagan, Schmidt, Suzuki, Deng, Marcos, etc. Prem's statement is itself politics, although he might have said that he has no political ambitions. He has just said that he will not become a member of a political party nor will he run in the elections next year -- again keeping our fingers crossed that there will be elections. But what is most important is that he did not say that he refuses to be the next prime minister.

Lots and lots of people want Prem as prime minister -- and by people we do not mean the man in the street, but politicians and power-brokers. With Prem being both prime minister and the father figure of the country, all the power-brokers can have a field day because anybody moving against the self-interest of pressure groups (everybody knows who they are) will be moving against Pa Prem, something that is unthinkable because of his credentials.

We do not like to ask the question, but it must come up sometime or other: Is Prem being manipulated? If he joins a political party and if that party does not win an absolute majority in the House of Representatives, and then he is forced to form a coalition government, he would be in the same position as the two elected prime ministers we have had in a long time -- the Pramot brothers, M.R. Khukrit and M.R. Seni -- and where does that leave the power-brokers?

The trouble with facing facts, as we are trying to do, is that highly controversial and sometimes unexpected situations have to be provided for, but there is one thing we can say boldly and truly about Prem. Power has not corrupted him as it has done far too many heads of government, not only in Thailand, but in various other countries. But corruption can be interpreted in two ways -- personal corruption, of which no man in his right mind will accuse Prem of, and allowing corruption, of which everybody is in doubt.

3D ARMY REGION SELF-DEFENSE PROJECTS GROWING

[Text] Deputy Commander of the 3d Army Region Maj Gen Sanong Rotphothong reported that the 3d Army Region is accelerating the setting up of village self-defense projects in the border areas to resist external aggression, infiltration and subversion. He said that in the beginning the program, which is aimed at strengthening border villages for self-reliance, will be implemented in the border areas close to Burma and in Chiang Rai, Nan and Uttaradit Provinces, close to Laos. About 20 border villages have been selected for development under the program. The program will be expanded to other areas. This has been successfully carried out in the 1st Army Region.

The deputy commander of the 3d Army Region said that selection of the villages is based on their site and location, that is, villages that are exposed to enemy infiltration or lie on incursion routes would be selected. Development projects will be launched to boost morale and unity among the villagers, to improve social conditions and to raise the people's income and living conditions. Projects will also be carried out to develop the village security system so as to enable villagers to effectively resist foreign incursions for at least a period of time.

PRC TROOPS 'PUNISHED' FOR 'ARMED PROVOCATIONS'

BK161542 Hanoi Domestic Service in Vietnamese 1450 GMT 16 Oct 82

[Text] Over the past days, while Vietnamese people at the northern border areas were urgently harvesting their 10th-month crop, Chinese troops many times conducted armed provocations against the Vietnamese people, intruded a number of areas of Vietnamese territory, threatening and disrupting the local people's routine work.

In Lang Son Province, on 9 October Chinese troops fired many rounds of 12.7mm machinegun and dozens of mortar rounds into the area of market posts Nos 48 and 52 and ricefields in Loc Binh District, completely destroying many hectares of ricefield.

In Cao Bang Province, on 8 and 9 October Chinese troops fired many rounds of 12.7mm machinegun and many mortar rounds into the (Thi Hoa) area, Hoa Nam District while Vietnamese peasants were harvesting their rice crops, killing a number of persons and damaging many hectares of ricefield.

In Quang Ninh Province on 8 October dozens of Chinese troops and many groups of Chinese militiamen infiltrated into the (Phong Sinh) area, Hai Ninh District and the area of marker post No 28, Binh Lieu District, illegally felling trees and taking them back to China. On 10 October a platoon of Chinese troops continued to infiltrate into the (Phong Sinh) area, Hai Ninh District, to fell trees, destroy houses and fire on the local people.

Along with these acts, the Beijing propaganda machine over the past few days repeatedly made slanderous allegations, saying that Vietnamese armed forces infiltrated and conducted provocations at the Chinese border area. This was aimed at misleading public opinion and covering up crimes committed by Chinese troops at the Vietnamese border areas.

Enhancing their vigilance and striving to protect the people at the border provinces who were harvesting their 10th-month crop, Vietnamese troops and people in these provinces promptly punished the Chinese troops who infiltrated and conducted armed provocations.

NHAN DAN TERMS 13 OCT PRC CHARGES 'SLANDER'

OW170805 Hanoi VNA in English 0727 GMT 17 Oct 82

[Text] Hanoi, VNA, October 17 -- NHAN DAN today comes out strongly against a recent Chinese allegation about Vietnamese armed provocations on the common border. The paper says that the slander, contained in a note on October 13, was a crude attempt to justify China's failure to respond to Vietnam's proposals to cease armed activities and all other hostile acts on the border on the occasion of the National Days of the two countries. It also aimed at covering up China's recent crimes against Vietnam in the form of thousands of intrusions on land, in the air and on the sea, the paper said.

NHAN DAN points out that Beijing was also seeking to cope with public opinion in China and in the world as a whole which is viewing with sympathy Vietnam's persistent effort to solve disputes, normalize the Sino-Vietnamese relations, and settle all Southeast Asian problems in a way beneficial to peace and stability in the region.

The Beijing ruling circles, by persisting in vilifying Vietnam, show that they are bent on continuing a hostile policy towards the Vietnamese people, the paper says.

HA VAN LAU VIEWS USSR-PRC TALKS, PRC RELATIONS

BK160142 Bangkok THE NATION REVIEW in English 16 Oct 82 p 1

[Text] Moscow has told Hanoi that normalization of the Sino-Soviet relations would not harm the interests of Vietnam, Vietnamese Deputy Foreign Minister Ha Van Lau said yesterday.

Speaking before his departure for Hanoi at Don Muang Airport, Lau said if the relations between China and the Soviets were restored to the "normal level", it would contribute to world peace.

Asked whether he thought the Sino-Soviet ties could be normalized, he said the Vietnamese were closely watching the normalization talks in China. A high-ranking Soviet delegation led by Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Leonid Ilichev is holding exploratory talks with a team of Chinese officials in Beijing.

President of the Vietnamese Council of State Troung Chinh early this month visited Moscow at the invitation of the Soviet Communist Party. At the end of his talks with Soviet President Leonid Brezhnev, they issued a joint communique which said much of the discussion was devoted to the Sino-Soviet and Sino-Vietnamese relations. The statement also said the two leaders reached consensus on all issues and that normalization of the Sino-Soviet relations will not affect "third countries".

Asked about Sino-Vietnamese relations, Lau said Hanoi had made many peace proposals to Beijing with a view to a better relationship between the two communist countries, but the Chinese have never responded. "Our channels of contacts with China have been disrupted for over a year now," said Lau, who flew here on Tuesday from visit to Geneva at the invitation of the United Nations High Commissioner for Refugees (UNHCR).

He said they discussed cooperation between UNHCR and his government over the orderly departure programme for Vietnamese who wished to leave their home country for resettlement in third countries.

Lau also met representatives from some countries who attended the meeting of the UNHCR Executive Committee in Geneva. He said Vietnam was ready to coordinate with UNHCR to facilitate the orderly departure of the Vietnamese people, but said problems could arise in practice. "Anyway, the problems could be resolved with understanding of each other's positions," he added.

RADIO ON SRV STANCE FOR FRIENDSHIP WITH PRC

OW160420 Hanoi International Service in Mandarin 1230 GMT 14 Oct 82

[Radio script: "Peace and Friendship Is the Wish of the People"]

[Text] The Vietnamese party and state delegation led by Truong Chinh, member of the Political Bureau of the VCP Central Committee and Chairman of the State Council of Vietnam, concluded its successful visit to the Soviet Union. In their talks, the Soviet and Vietnamese sides elaborated on their stands toward solving the issues between the Soviet Union and China and between Vietnam and China in the interest of their peoples and for the peace and stability in the region. Chairman Truong Chinh said that Vietnam consistently treasures the longstanding friendship between the Vietnamese people and the Chinese people and is for normalized relations between the SRV and the PRC based on mutual respect for independence, sovereignity and territorial integrity, on non-interference in each other's internal affairs, respect for each other's legitimate interests, equality and mutual benefit and on the peaceful settlement of disputes.

This is not the first statement and suggestion that Vietnam has made for solving the still-existing questions between the two countries. From 1979 to the present, Vietnam has made a dozen proposals. Of late, during the period of the Vietnamese National Day celebrations, Vietnam once again suggested that the Chinese side sit down for talks. In its message of greetings for the Chinese National Day, Vietnam seriously reaffirmed that the Vietnamese Government and people would, as always, make every effort to restore the friendship between the two peoples and the normal relations between the two countries as soon as possible in the interests of the two peoples and for peace in Asia and other parts of the world. Vietnam's stand is open and aboveboard.

Even though the Beijing authorities launched the aggressive war against Vietnam in February 1979 and engage in an all-round destructive war against the Vietnamese people, the Vietnamese people deem it important to restore the Chinese-Vietnamese friendship and to bring about peace and stability in the region and are ready at any time to settle the issues which still exist between the two countries. This was clearly indicated in the joint statement issued last July by the conference of the foreign ministers of the three Indochinese countries in Ho Chi Minh City. The three Indochinese countries once again called on the PRC to sign bilateral or multilateral treaties for peaceful coexistence with Laos, Kampuchea and Vietnam. In particular, a proposal was made by Vietnam for resuming the Vietnam-China talks to solve the various questions between the two countries.

The Chinese people have a consistent peace-loving tradition. It is our belief that the Chinese people, based on this fine tradition, will exert efforts to improve China's relations with its neighboring countries and to bring about peace and stability in the region.

It is regrettable that so far the Chinese authorities have done none of the things they should have done in terms of their position. On the contrary, the Chinese leaders have taken action against the direction of dialogue. In the past, while vilifying Vietnam as engaging in provocations on the Chinese border, the Chinese authorities continued to send troops close to the Vietnamese border. They dispatched troops, airplanes and warships to commit provocations on hundreds of occasions. In the meantime, the Chinese authorities continue to support Democratic Kampuchea, a corpse of the genocidal clique of Pol Pot, Ieng Sary and Khieu Samphan, bolster the remnant troops of the Khmer Rouge, undermine the livelihood of the Kampuchean people and aggravate the turbulent situation in Indochina and Southeast Asia. These acts of the Chinese authorities run counter to the interests of the Chinese people.

People often say that friendship is boundless. The Vietnamese people are always sincere and friendly in dealing with other peoples. As China's neighbor, the Vietnamese people earnestly hope to get along in a friendly way with the Chinese people and to join them in continuing the struggle for the cause of peace in Asia and the world. They hope that the Chinese people, based on their peace-loving tradition, will do their utmost to contribute to the glorious task of restoring the friendship between the two peoples.

VNA REJECTS CHARGE IN THAI LETTER TO UN SECRETARY

BK161516 Hanoi Domestic Service in Vietnamese 1430 GMT 16 Oct 82

[Text] According to the Japanese news agency KYODO, on 15 October [date as heard] Thailand sent a note to the U.N. secretary general saying that Vietnamese troops in Kampuchea continued to conduct artillery shellings and intrusions into Thai territory during September 1982. In particular, on 11 September 1982 Vietnamese troops crossed the border into Thailand's Surin Province.

The VIETNAM NEWS AGENCY is authorized to totally reject this fabrication which is intended to distort Vietnam's good will and oppose the trend toward dialogue now being rekindled in the region, thus benefiting the Beijing expansionists and hegemonists in their designs to continue to create tension between the ASEAN states and the Indochinese countries.

VNA REJECTS THAI CHARGE ON BUILDUP OF FORCES

OW151515 Hanoi VNA in English 1505 GMT 15 Oct 82

[Text] Hanoi, VNA, October 15 -- UNITED PRESS INTERNATIONAL on Oct. 14 quoted Thai military sources as saying that Vietnam had massively increased its armed forces at the Kampuchean border area opposite the Thai village of Nongchan with a view to preparing an offensive in the Thai-Kampuchean border area.

VIETNAM NEWS AGENCY is authorised to flatly reject this malicious fabrication.

VNA REPORTS VO DONG GIANG KYODO INTERVIEW

OW160802 Hanoi VNA in English 0721 GMT 16 Oct 82

[Text] Hanoi VNA, October 16 -- Acting Foreign Minister Vo Dong Giang granted the following interview to KYODO correspondent Rikiji Ito during the latter's recent visit to Vietnam:

Q: Has any progress been made concerning the proposals of the conference of the Indochinese foreign ministers since the partial withdrawal of Vietnamese forces from Kampuchea?

A: There has been some encouraging progress. However, there are many obstacles at the moment, and we should not be overly optimistic.

Public opinion in the world has come to see more and more clearly that Vietnam and the other Indochinese countries sincerely want peace, stability and cooperation in Southeast Asia on the basis of mutual concern for the legitimate interests of all parties. This has been realized by even certain important political circles in the A.S.E.A.N. countries.

The trend towards dialogue and reconciliation between the two groups of countries in Southeast Asia has made another step forward, especially following Foreign Minister Nguyen Co Thach's recent visit to a number of ASEAN countries and the subsequent visit of Deputy Foreign Minister Ha Van Lau.

A number of countries in the West want to contribute actively to the quest for an overall solution beneficial to peace and stability in Southeast Asia outside the framework of the erroneous U.N. resolution on Kampuchea.

The United States, China and certain political circles in the ASEAN countries still harbour vain hopes about a tripartite coalition government of Khmer reactionaries, which they want to use as a trump capable of giving them an advantageous position in a political solution. Knowing that this card has no weight at all, they are trying to give it some political, military and diplomatic strength. For this purpose, they are making efforts detrimental to dialogue and detente in Southeast Asia. They hope that time will be in their favour. But time will go by and will teach them the necessary lesson that they have harboured vain hopes and have miscalculated.

Q: Has there been any improvement in relations between Vietnam and Thailand?

A: Relations between Vietnam and Thailand at the moment reflect rather clearly the situation we have just covered. On the one hand, dialogue and reconciliation between the two countries tend to make headway. On the other hand there is a state of stagnation, as a result of Thailand's vain hopes in its miscalculations. But the time will come when Thailand can see that such a stagnation is detrimental to itself -- primarily to itself -- and the only people to benefit from it are the forces of expansionism and hegemony which are seeking to undermine peace and stability in this region.

Q: How long will Vietnam and China remain opposed to each other? Is China's hostility to Vietnam the main feature of the relations between the two countries?

A: Reactionary elements in the Chinese leadership are bent on continuing a hostile policy towards Vietnam. In fact, they are continuing a war of sabotage on many fields against Vietnam and the other Indochinese countries. There is no [word indistinct] reason yet for the Vietnamese people to drop their guard. Rather, we must be prepared to cope with any situation, even the worst, which may be created by Chinese expansionism and hegemony....

At the same time, we shall seize any opportunity to normalize relations between the two countries, out of our desire to restore the traditional friendship between us and the Chinese people. This will be beneficial to the Vietnamese people and the Chinese people, and to peace in Asia as well. We have made many proposals in this spirit and have won the sympathy of public opinion in the world. But China has made no attempt to respond to us.

Q: A number of people say that Vietnam is receiving great assistance from the Soviet Union. Does that mean that Vietnam is losing its independence regarding the Soviet Union? What do you have to say about this?

A: Vietnam's independent character has been tested and proved by history. This can be seen by anyone interested in Vietnam's long struggle for independence and freedom. Vietnam is still facing many difficulties, but the worst period has been over. There is no reason for it to lose its independence now.

It is a known fact that Vietnam regards the Soviet Union as its strategic ally, an indispensable factor for the safeguard of its independence and security and for its development. But this will not prevent Vietnam from entertaining multiform relations with the West, the United States included. Relations between Vietnam and the Soviet Union do not hinder relations between Vietnam and the United States, and whatever obstacles there are have been created by the strings attached by the United States to normalization, strings which are unacceptable because they run counter to our independence and sovereignty, to the independence and sovereignty of the other Indochinese countries, and are against the interests of peace and stability in this region.

Q: What is the prospect of relations between the United States and Vietnam?

A: The time will come when the United States realizes that it can make no condition to Vietnam. The time will come when the United States realizes that there is a price to pay for its collusion with China against the three Indochinese countries. When such a time comes, relations between Vietnam and the United States will be normalized.

Q: The non-aligned summit has been postponed to next year. What will Vietnam do to contribute to the Non-Aligned Movement?

A: As it has always done, Vietnam will spare no effort to contribute to the victory of the Non-Aligned Movement. For the time being, it will actively contribute to the success of the seventh summit. What is most important is that the movement must preserve and promote its unity on the basis of its common objective: opposition to imperialism, colonialism, neo-colonialism, apartheid, Zionism, and all other forms of expansionism and hegemony.

Q: What steps do you think should be taken to improve relations between Vietnam and Japan?

A: Both sides must try. As far as Vietnam is concerned, we try to broaden relations with all countries of all socio-political systems, on the basis of mutual respect for independence and sovereignty, of equal interests, of equality and mutual benefit. The Japanese Government knows this very well, but it is still weighing the pro's and con's.

Here, it runs into a contradiction between short-term and long-term interests, and there seems to be no satisfactory solution yet. The Japanese Government continues to side with the United States, China and the ASEAN countries in pressuring us. This may benefit it for the time being in its relations with the ASEAN countries. But, in the long run, it will not be in the interest of the Japanese Government in developing Japan's economic influence in the whole of Southeast Asia.

Many Western countries are gradually dissociating themselves from the Southeast Asia policy pursued by the United States, China and ASEAN. This should be food for thought to the Japanese Government.

FURTHER REPORTS ON TRUONG CHINH VISIT TO CUBA

Award Ceremony Speech

OW180653 Hanoi Domestic Service in Vietnamese 1100 GMT 15 Oct 82

[Reply speech by Chairman of SRV Council of State Truong Chinh at 13 October Havana ceremony held by Cuban officials to present him the Jose Marti Order -- read by announcer]

[Text] Esteemed Comrade Fidel Castro, dear comrade leaders of the party and state of Cuba, comrades: First, I would like to sincerely thank the Communist Party of Cuba and the state and people of Cuba for the distinguished award you have granted me today.

I am also thankful for the very beautiful words of Comrade Juan Almeida Bosque regarding the Vietnamese people, the Vietnamese revolution, and our revered and beloved leader, President Ho Chi Minh.

I feel very honored to receive this distinguished award which carries the name of Jose Marti, the great national hero whose life and achievements are closely associated with the Cuban people's history of heroic struggle for independence and freedom over the past century, the name of an outstanding Latin American intellectual and revolutionary.

Jose Marti was the first person in this hemisphere to warn, at the end of the 19th century, of the danger of U.S. imperialist expansionism and aggression. He was the first Cuban to sow the seeds of close friendship between the two peoples of Cuba and Vietnam. Jose Marti lived, fought and gave his life for the independence and freedom of Cuba and of all oppressed peoples in the world.

I feel even more honored for having received this order from the hands of our venerated and beloved Comrade Fidel Castro, the epitomy of a generation of Cuban heroes who have continued and developed the noble undertaking of Jose Marti and have written the most brilliant pages of Cuban history, transforming his dreams into the radiant reality of today: an independent and free Cuba, a land of human dignity and justice, of patriotism and of pure proletarian internationalism.

Dear comrades, the distinguished award that I have received today goes first to the glorious VCP, founded and forged by President Ho Chi Minh, who led our party in bringing about all the victories of the Vietnamese revolution. It also goes to the Vietnamese people who, through their staunch fighting, repeatedly defeated the most truculent imperialist aggressors to regain independence and freedom and who, today, are advancing steadily to socialism.

Dear comrades, to prove themselves deserving of the noble sentiments, trust and love demonstrated by the Cuban party, state and people, the Vietnamese people pledge to make every effort to successfully implement the resolutions of the 5th VCP Congress; enthusiastically boost production; resolutely fight and defeat the multifaceted war of sabotage waged by the Beijing hegemonist-expansionists; successfully build socialism; firmly defend their socialist Vietnamese fatherland; and make worthy contributions to the struggle to preserve peace in Asia and the rest of the world.

Our party, state and people will do their best to unceasingly consolidate the relations, militant solidarity, friendship and fraternal cooperation between Vietnam and Cuba, and strengthen the militant solidarity, relations, and all-round cooperation with the great Soviet Union, Laos, and Kampuchea and with other fraternal socialist countries. We will also strengthen the ties of friendship and cooperation with all nonaligned countries and all the peace- and justice-loving forces in the world in the common struggle for the noble objectives of our times.

I hope that the Cuban people will score greater achievements in the fulfillment of the strategic tasks outlined by the Second Congress of the Communist Party of Cuba: production and defense. I hope that the Cuban people will successfully build socialism and firmly safeguard their Cuban fatherland, a solid outpost of the socialist system in the Western Hemisphere. I hope that the militant solidarity, friendly relations and fraternal cooperation between the two parties, states and peoples of Vietnam and Cuba will be eternally stable and strong.

Long live Marxism-Leninism!
Long live proletarian internationalism!
Thank you, comrades.

Tour of Santiago de Cuba

BK171150 Hanoi Domestic Service in Vietnamese 1430 GMT 16 Oct 82

[Text] Continuing his tour of Cuban districts, on the morning of 15 October Chairman Truong Chinh and his entourage arrived at the historic city of Santiago de Cuba, the cradle of the Cuban revolution. The delegation was accompanied by Juan Almeida Bosque, Political Bureau member of the Communist Party of Cuba [PCC] Central Committee, head of the PCC Central Committee's Control Department and vice president of the Council of State; and Faure Chomon, member of the PCC Central Committee and Cuban ambassador to Vietnam.

Santiago de Cuba, capital of the province of the same name and Cuba's second largest city, is situated at the foot of the Sierra Maestra Mountains -- former combat zone of the revolution -- and on Santiago Bay at the easternmost end of the country, 1,000 km from Havana. Here, on 26 July 1953, a group of revolutionary fighters under the command of Comrade Fidel Castro attacked the Moncada Barracks, starting the Cuban people's armed uprising against the dictatorial Batista regime. For a long time, this city had been the scene of important revolutionary activities conducted by the 26 July movement which concluded with the 1 January 1959 victory. Today, at the northern entrance to the city, the people of Santiago de Cuba proudly display a large billboard bearing the words "Santiago, yesterday rebellious, today hospitable, always heroic" to describe the valuable traditions of their homeland.

The people of Santiago welcomed Chairman Truong Chinh and the Vietnamese guests with all the special hospitality of the easterners. The welcoming ceremony was held at the (Antonio Mario) international airport. Hung in front of the airport terminal were a banner reading "Long live Cuban-Vietnamese friendship" and portraits of President Ho Chi Minh and Jose Marti, national heroes of the two fraternal countries. Next to these was a slogan reading "Heartily welcome esteemed Chairman Truong Chinh." On hand to greet the delegation were Jose Ramon Balaguer, member of the PCC Central Committee and secretary of the provincial party committee; Eddy Fernandez, member of the PCC Central Committee and chairman of the provincial People's Administrative Council; (Santos Codoy), alternate member of the party Central Committee Political Bureau and deputy secretary of the provincial party committee; and many leading cadres of mass organizations and public organs in the province and the city.

A large number of people who had already assembled at the terminal with portraits of President Ho Chi Minh and Comrade Truong Chinh waved flags and flowers to greet the distinguished guests and shouted slogans "United, Vietnam and Cuba will surely win," "Long live Vietnam" and "Long live Chairman Truong Chinh."

Soon after its arrival in the city, the delegation paid tribute at the Jose Marti tomb in the Santa Efigenia cemetery. Located on the city's outskirts, the cemetery is classified a national historical site because it is here that many national heroes, noted personages and revolutionary fighters who have sacrificed their lives for independence and the success of the Cuban revolution are laid to rest. Chairman Truong Chinh and members of the delegation laid a wreath at Marti's tomb and stood in silence to commerate the greatest hero of the last century of Cuban history.

Then, chairman Truong Chinh and his entourage visited the 26 July School City -- formerly Moncada Barracks -- and its museum. Schoolchildren, clad in purple slacks and white shirts, the uniform of vanguard teenagers, formed lines of honor at the school entrance to welcome the delegation. After saying greetings to the visiting delegation, the schoolchildren presented Chairman Truong Chinh and other visitors with red scarves and invited the distinguished guests to enter the museum.

Chairman Truong Chinh stopped for a long while. He lovingly talked with the future masters of the beautiful Cuban fatherland and wished them many outstanding achievements in study and training. The school officials guided the delegation on a tour of the museum where pictures and artifacts of the Cuban people's 26 July 1953 armed uprising are displayed.

Chairman Truong Chinh wrote in the visitor's book: The delegation of the VCP and the SRV state is very elated to visit the 26 July school and its museum. The attack on the Moncada Barracks was a decisive turning point that led to glorious victory. Yesterday a fortress and today a school, Moncada is the symbol of the success of the Cuban revolution.

May the teachers and schoolchildren score many outstanding achievements to be worthy of the noble examples of the Moncada fighters! May the fraternal Cuban people, under the clear-sighted leadership of the PCC led by esteemed Comrade Fidel Castro, achieve even greater successes in building and defending the socialist fatherland and make a positive contribution to the world peoples' revolutionary cause! May the relations of friendship, militant solidarity and fraternal cooperation between Vietnam and Cuba be constantly strengthened and developed!

Before leaving, Chairman Truong Chinh, on behalf of our country's delegation, presented the school with a souvenir.

From the 26 July School City, the motorcade bearing chairman Truong Chinh and his entourage traveled to Siboney farm on the road on which the Moncada fighters marched more than 29 years ago. The farm, located at the foot of the Sierra Maestra mountains, was the staging base from which the small force of 100-odd fighters led by Comrade Fidel Castro launched their attacks against Moncada. At the farm, Chairman Truong Chinh and his party visited a small house where keepsakes of Fidel Castro and his comrades-in-arms are preserved. He wrote in the visitors' book his impressions of the visit. We were deeply moved when visiting this modest but historic house. From this place, Comrade Fidel, the Cuban people's esteemed leader, and his comrades-in-arms departed to begin their valiant struggle which eventually led to the glorious victory of 1 January 1959. From that day, under the correct leadership of the glorious PCC headed by Comrade Fidel Castro, the heroic Cuban people have continued to add illustrious chapters to their history by defending their socialist homeland, building socialism and performing their lofty international duty. It is our sincere wish that the fraternal Cuban people score many new and even greater achievements in carrying out the strategic tasks laid down by the second PCC Congress, in production and in firmly defending the socialist Cuban homeland, the outpost of socialism in the Western Hemisphere.

On the evening of 15 October, the party organization and people's council of Santiago de Cuba Province gave a reception in honor of Chairman Truong Chinh and the other comrades of the Vietnamese delegation.

In an atmosphere permeated with fraternal friendship, Comrade Jose Ramon Balaguer delivered a speech welcoming Chairman Truong Chinh and the Vietnamese delegation to the city of Santiago de Cuba and expressing the local people's admiration and love for and solidarity with the people and revolutionary cause of Vietnam.

In his reply, Chairman Truong Chinh thanked the party organizations, administrations and people of the province and city of Santiago de Cuba, the Cuban revolution's birthplace, for their warm welcome. He said: Every historical relic and every place we visited in Santiago de Cuba has made a strong impression on us concerning the tradition of dauntless struggle of the fraternal Cuban people, their determination to defend their homeland, and their spirit of zealous and creative labor.

We greatly rejoice at and admire the marvelous achivements in all fields scored by the people of Santiago de Cuba over the past 20 years and more, turning their birthplace into a prosperous, beautiful and strong province, in defiance of the frenzied acts of encircling and sabotage by the U.S. imperialists and their henchmen. We are confident that, motivated by the Moncada spirit of revolutionary offensive, the people of Santiago de Cuba, together with the rest of the country, will continue to overcome all difficulties and trials in building and firmly defending socialist Cuba, the shining banner of revolution in Latin America.

Comrade Truong Chinh added: During our visit to Cuba, wherever we have gone we have seen vivid manifestations of the militant solidarity which has bound our two nations together in the struggle against our common enemies, namely, the U.S. imperialists and international reactionaries, for the lofty objectives of our time: peace, national independence, democracy and socialism. On this occasion, May I, on behalf of the party, the state and the people of Vietnam, express our deep gratitude for the support and assistance filled with proletarian internationalism which the Cuban people as a whole and the people of Santiago de Cuba in particular have given to the revolutionary cause of our people.

Chairman Truong Chinh presented a large lacquer vase to the party organization, administration and people of Santiago de Cuba as a souvenir of their memorable meeting.

With this tour of the historic province of Santiago de Cuba, Chairman Truong Chinh has concluded his visits to various districts as well as his busy first week in Cuba, where his delegation has received a welcome marked by revolutionary ardor from the Cuban party and state. Chairman Truong Chinh and his entourage return to Havana early next week to continue the remaining part of the program of his visit to Cuba.

VO NGUYEN GIAP AT HANOI EDUCATION DAY CEREMONY

BK160929 Hanoi Domestic Service in Vietnamese 2300 GMT 15 Oct 82

[Text] According to VNA, on 15 October the Hanoi education sector, in commemorating the 14th anniversary of President Ho Chi Minh's letters to teachers, held a ceremony to commend advanced schools and outstanding teachers for the 1981-82 school year. Vo Nguyen Giap, vice chairman of the Council of Ministers, attended the ceremony and presented the rotation banner of the Council of Ministers and conferred the Labor Order, Second Class to the Hanoi kindergarten and kindergarten teacher high schools. These two schools have scored outstanding achievements in educational work in the capital.

During the previous school year, 328 schools in Hanoi achieved the standard of advanced schools and 910 persons were outstanding teachers. In this school year, the Hanoi education sector continues to accelerate the "two goods" emulation movement and strengthen tasks concerning stuying and teaching in order to improve the daily lives of cadres, workers and teachers.

On this occasion the Hanoi education sector presented certificates and commendation letters of the Council of Ministers, the Ministry of Education, the Hanoi People's Committee and the Hanoi Education Offfice to more than 50 units and individuals who have scored outstanding achievements in the "two goods" emulation movement.

INTERNATIONAL ISSUES CITED IN COMMONWEALTH COMMUNIQUE

BK181013 Kuala Lumpur International Service in English 0600 GMT 18 Oct 82

[Text] The Asia-Pacific Commonwealth heads of government have recommended that greater efforts should be made to seek a comprehensive political solution for the Kampuchean question. This will ensure lasting peace in the region.

In a communique issued at the end of the regional meeting in Suva, Fiji, today, the leaders expressed concern on the persistence of foreign military intervention and interference in Kampuchea. This has aggravated tension and caused instability in Southeast Asia. As such all foreign forces should be completely withdrawn.

On Afghanistan, they expressed grave concern over the situation and implications for regional peace, stability and international security. They reaffirmed the right of the Afghan refugees to return to their homes in safety and honor. International efforts should be intensified to find a negotiated settlement to give the Afghan people the freedom to determine their own future.

The Asia-Pacific regional leaders also expressed the urgent need to recognize the legitimate inalienable rights of the Palestinian people. This included their rights to a homeland and to seek a just settlement of the problem on the basis of the relevant UN resolutions. The communique condemned Israel for its invasion of Lebanon and expressed revulsion at the resultant death and destruction, paticularly in Beirut.

They were deeply concerned with the great consequences that these recent events could have for the prospects of any future settlement. In this connection they urged all governments concerned to redouble their efforts to find an urgent solution to enable the Lebanese and all the people in the area to live in peace.

Seventeen countries attended the meeting, including Malaysia. To Malaysia's team on regional economic and function cooperation, the heads of government recognized that progrmas of practical cooperation designed to assist the process of development were important. They agreed that work of the consultative and working groups be continued with greater emphasis on practical actions. They further agreed that the major objectives of the program of functional cooperation were to assist the small island countries to overcome their special problems.

The leaders stressed the importance of improving the settlement procedures of dispute under GATT. All countries must adhere to the decisions and disciplines involved.

On finance, they stressed that the present trade and payment systems were not conducive to an orderly adjustment process.

On energy, the leaders agreed that the scope of activities of the consultative group on energy be expanded. This would help promote such cooperation in commerical scale energy projects in countries of the Asia-Pacific region.

They also complimented the working group on illicit dadah [narcotics] convened by Malaysia. Its activities had contributed to the awareness of the problems associated with dadah trafficking.

[Text] Leaders of 17 Commonwealth countries in the Asia-Pacific region have endorsed an Australian plan to freeze and eventually reduce world trade protection levels.

The heads of government in a final communique at the end of their conference in Fiji agreed that the proposal should be supported at the ministerial meeting of GATT -- the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade -- in Geneva next month.

The conference communique said the Australian proposal could help significantly in revitalizing the world economy and that developing countries in particular would benefit. The Suva meeting said the two central issues on the international economic agenda were [words indistinct] protectionism and a growing disorder in the international (?financial circles).

New Zealand Prime Minister Muldoon won support for his plan for a review of the operations of the World Bank and the International Monetary Fund which developing countries say have forced them into debt through restrictions placed on loans.

The Commonwealth leaders in their communique called for the Indian Ocean and South Pacific to be turned into nuclear-free zones safe from big-power rivalry. They coupled their renewed pleas for zones of peace in the region with a condemnation of France for its nuclear testing in Mururoa Atoll in French Polynesia. France was also condemned for retaining colonial control over New Caledonia. In addition, the communique urged all countries to stop storing or dumping nuclear waste in the Pacific.

Despite reservations by some, the Commonwealth leaders agreed to meet again in 1984.

ASEAN AGRICULTURE MINISTERS AGREE ON PROGRAM

BK091411 Kuala Lumpur Domestic Service in English 1130 GMT 9 Oct 82

The meeting, which also elected Datuk Manan as the chairman of the ASEAN Agriculture Ministers Committee, has also proposed the establishment of a center on irrigation and system management for ASEAN. A working committee of senior officers from ASEAN will meet in Manila in December to look further into the matter. Datuk Manan considers the move to establish closer contact among ASEAN farmers an important matter, because it is what ASEAN technocrats are ultimately trying to achieve.

USSR SEEKING JAPANESE CREDITS FOR PIPELINE EQUIPMENT

OW180535 Tokyo KYODO in English 0523 GMT 18 Oct 82

[Text] Tokyo, Oct 18, KYODO -- Yuriy L. Brezhnev, Soviet first deputy minister of foreign trade, is expected here Tuesday for talks with the big four steel pipe mills over the terms for a credit on large purchases for a gas pipeline, mill sources said Monday.

The sources said the Soviet Ministry of Foreign Trade has called on the Export-Import Bank of Japan (Eximbank) to extend a loan to the Soviet bank for foreign trade at the interest of 7.8 percent to finance the purchase of one million metric tons of large-diameter pipeline pipes from the four major mills in the coming year. The Soviets sought a yen loan carrying an annual interest of 7.8 percent, on the ground that a West German banking syndicate has agreed to give a loan bearing the same interest to the Soviets for the purchase of 700,000 tons of pipes, according to the sources.

The interest sought is far below the 9.2 percent per annum minimum interest which the Organization for Economic Cooperation and Development (OECD) has set for officially-supported export credits to the Soviet Union from Japan, the sources said. An Eximbank official said it would be impossible for the bank to extend a yen credit to the Soviets at a lower interest than the so-called, "OECD guideline interest" -- Japan's long-term prime lending rate, currently 8.9 percent, plus a 0.3 percent.

A mill executive who wished to remain anonymous said that after all, there would be no choice but to extend a supplier's credit this time, if Japan wants to win a Soviet order. Japanese steel mills, like Western European, U.S. and other mills, are hungry for orders amid serious recession. The Eximbank official said even in the case of the extension of a supplier's credit, the Eximbank would apply the OECD guideline interest. This means that the suppliers and producers would be obliged to bear the interest gap -- a difference between the interest agreed on with the Soviets and the Eximbank's OECD guideline interest -- in some form or other.

Last year, four Japanese suppliers -- Mitsubishi Corp., Marubeni Corp., C. Itoh and Co. and Sumitomo Corp. -- extended a credit to the Soviets to help finance the purchase of line pipes from Nippon Steel Corp., Nippon Kokan K.K., Sumitomo Metal Industries, Ltd. and Kawasaki Steel. In that case, the suppliers borrowed yen funds from the Eximbank at 8.7 percent interest and they gave that much loan to the Soviets at a lower interest.

A spokesman for Nippon Steel Corp. (NSC), which has represented Japan's big four pipe mills in negotiations with the Soviets, said the Japanese mills agreed with the Soviet Iron and Steel Products Export-Import Corporation (v/o Promsyrioimport) in September for the furnishing of 1 million tons of big-diameter line pipes in 1983. Price and loan interest negotiations with the Soviet Union got under way late in September. The spokesman said it is keeping close eyes on what stand Brezhnev, son of the Soviet president, would take in the coming negotiations. He said the mills would reach a settlement with the Soviets by the end of next month as in the case of last year.

The four major mills agreed to export 795,000 tons of pipes to the Soviet corporation for shipment in fiscal 1982 ending next March. A syndicate of the Eximbank and major Japanese commercial banks agreed to extend a dollar 550 million yen-denominated loan, carrying interest at an annual rate of 8 percent, to help finance the deal.

USSR CALLS FOR RESUMING PRIVATE ECONOMIC TALKS

OW181127 Tokyo KYODO in English 1119 GMT 18 Oct 82

[Text] Tokyo, Oct 18, KYODO -- The Soviet Union Monday called for the private-level Russo-Japanese Economic Committee to be convened at once to reactivate trade and industrial cooperation.

Deputy Foreign Trade Minister V.N. Sushkov made the overture during his brief meeting here with Shigeo Nagano, president of the Japan Chamber of Commerce and Industry. Nagano is the Japanese chairman of the bilateral committee, which has remained dormant since the Soviet armed intervention in Afghanistan in 1979. Chamber officials said Nagano was noncommittal on Sushkov's proposal.

SAKURAUCHI HOLDS TALKS WITH LAO FOREIGN MINISTER

OW180401 Tokyo KYODO in English 0334 GMT 18 Oct 82

[Text] Tokyo, Oct 18, KYODO -- Japanese Foreign Minister Yoshio Sakurauchi and his Laotian counterpart Khamphai Boupha Monday differed in outlook for ways to bring about peace in Kampuchea, but agreed to maintain friendly relations despite different social systems in the two countries, according to Foreign Ministry officials.

In a meeting here, Sakurauchi told Khamphai that Japan intends to continue its economic aid to Laos for development of public welfare and the people's livelihood, they said. Japan has been providing Laos with an average yen 600 million annually in aid since 1975.

The foreign minister ad interim of Laos appreciated Japan's assistance as contributing to the country's economic development.

Khamphai, the first Laotian leader to visit Japan since 1975 when the socialist government was established in Vientiane, explained a peace proposal approved by an Indochina foreign ministers' conference calling for an international conference on the Kampuchean issue.

He said that Laos has sent letters to members of the Association of Southeast Asian Nations (ASEAN) in a bid to promote the international conference.

Sakurauchi was quoted as replying that Japan does not accept the Vietnamese invasion of Kampuchea. He called for immediate withdrawal of Vietnamese troops from Kampuchea to allow national self-determination in Kampuchea as a precondition to a comprehensive peace settlement.

AGREEMENT FOR PETROCHEMICALS LOAN SIGNED IN PRC

OW190243 Tokyo KYODO in English 0229 GMT 19 Oct 82

[Text] Beijing, Oct 19, KYODO -- Japan and China have signed a 1982 yen loan agreement for yen 65 billion (dollar 0.24 billion) to be used for petrochemical, iron and steel and railway construction projects. The agreement was signed Monday by Wei Yuming, vice minister of foreign economic relations, and Shinzo Aoki, vice president of the governmental overseas economic cooperation fund of Japan.

The agreement provides that yen 20 billion is to be used in a commodity loan for the Daqing petrochemical project in northern China and the first phase of the Baoshan iron and steel complex north of Shanghai. The remaining yen 45 billion will be used for construction of the Beijing-Qinhuangdao railway, the Yanzhou-Shijiusuo railway and Shijiushu port. It is the fourth such agreement since 1979. The previous three loans totaled yen 166 billion.

REPORTED BANK LOANS TO SOUTH AFRICA PROBED

OW150829 Tokyo KYODO in English 0714 GMT 15 Oct 82

[Text] Tokyo, Oct 15 KYODO -- Japan's Finance Ministry Friday began investigation into the reported extension of loans to South Africa by Japanese banks and securities companies. A ministry official said direct investments in South Africa are banned by a finance ministry order. However, the order has no clearcut provision governing Japanese interests' direct loans to South Africa, the official said.

He said the extension of loans to South Africa is not desirable.

The official said it is impossible for the Japanese Government to prevent overseas subsidiaries of Japanese banks from making loans to South Africa. However, if the head office of a Japanese bank extended a loan to a South African corporation, it would pose a major problem, and thus, a detailed investigation will be conducted, the official said.

LDP 'NO CLOSER' TO ELECTION OF NEW LEADER

OW190220 Tokyo KYODO in English 0205 GMT 19 Oct 82

[Excerpts] Tokyo, Oct 19, KYODO -- Japan appeared no closer to gaining a new leader Tuesday -- one week after Prime Minister Zenko Suzuki's shock announcement to resign. Three leaders of the ruling Liberal-Democratic party (LDP) were meeting Tuesday afternoon again to try to sink their differences over who should succeed the outgoing LDP president and prime minister.

Four ministers in the Suzuki Cabinet Saturday stood as presidential candidates, but a political truce is in force until Friday to give party elders time to pick Suzuki's successor through negotiations. But LDP sources reported the week of futile attempts by the three -- Suzuki, former Prime Minister Takeo Fukuda and Secretary General Susumu Nikaido -- has encouraged feuding factions to step up preparations for a final showdown.

This showdown -- a primary election -- is what "main-stream" factions within the conservative party want to avoid because it could lead to further divisions in the strife-ridden party.

Suzuki told reporters at his official residence Tuesday morning that his successor must be selected through negotiations by Friday. The primary election, if held, means that government works, including compilation of fiscal 1982 supplementary budget, will be delayed considerably.

In betraying Suzuki's hopes, his aide said Tuesday it has become increasingly impossible to pick the LDP president through negotiations. This is because, said the aide who asked to remain anonymous, Fukuda wants to remove former Prime Minister Kakuei Tanaka's influence from the party. Tanaka, on trial for alleged involvement in the 1976 Lockheed payoff scandal, leads the most powerful faction within the party, although he left the party after the scandal erupted.

PRC'S NPC DELEGATION WRAPS UP VISIT, HOSTS BANQUET

Tour of War Museum

SK160403 Pyongyang KCNA in English 0351 GMT 16 Oct 82

[Text] Pyongyang, Octover 16 (KCNA) -- The Chinese and Korean peoples will as ever fight shoulder to shoulder with each other in the same trench, declared Xi Zhongxun, vice-chairman of the Standing Committee of the National People's Congress of China.

The delegation of the National People's Congress of China headed by him inspected the Victorious Fatherland Liberation War Museum in Pyongyang on October 15.

The guests saw with keen interest historic materials and exhibits showing the brilliant victory won by the Korean people and People's Army soldiers under the wise guidance of the great leader Comrade Kim Il-song in the fatherland liberation war against the armed invasion of the U.S. imperialist aggressors and materials showing the brilliant feats performed by the fighters of the Chinese People's Volunteers in the Korean war.

After the inspection Xi Zhongxun said: The last Korean war was a most rigorous and fiercest war ever since the Second World War. The Korean people could perform shining feats in this war under the wise leadership of the great comrade supreme commander. The Workers Party of Korea is a heroic party, the Korean people a heroic people and the Korean People's Army a heroic army.

The Korean people will surely reunify the country and build more successfully a great socialist country in the reunified land. We believe that the proposal for founding the Democratic Confederal Republic of Koryo advanced by the great leader Comrade Kim Il-song will certainly be realised. It is our bounden internationalist duty to our close neighbour to assist the Korean people. The Chinese and Korean peoples will as ever fight shoulder to shoulder with each other in the same trench.

The delegation visited the Grand People's Study House on October 14. After inspecting the study house, Xi Zhongxun said: The Grand People's Study House is a precious wealth of the people. No other country has such a wonderful study house. The delegation was accompanied by Comrade Ho Chong-suk, secretary of the Central Committee of the Workers Party of Korea and vice-chairman of the Standing Committee of the Supreme People's Assembly.

[Speech by Pak Song-chol, member of the Political Bureau of the Central Committee of the KWP and vice-president of the DPRK, at the 15 October banquet arranged by the head of the National People's Congress [NPC] delegation of China upon conclusion of its visit to the DPRK -- read by announcer]

[Text] Respected Comrade Xi Zhongxun, dear noble Chinese guests:

The Chinese NPC delegation that has come to our country for a visit, bringing the militant friendship and close friendliness of the Chinese people, is departing for home tomorrow, leaving a deep and unforgettable impression in the hearts of our people.

First of all, I express my heartfelt gratitude to the delegation for having extended to us the kind invitation to such a wonderful and friendly banquet before returning home and also to Comrade Xi Zhongxun for making an encouraging and wonderful speech for us a moment ago.

You are the first friendly envoy of the Chinese people to come to visit our country after the historic visit to China by our people's great leader Comrade Kim Il-song. We had an emotional meeting, feeling the sentiment of blood relatives who had long been separated, deepening the friendship and sense of obligation as close friends and revolutionary comrades-in-arms. In particular, during your stay in our country, the great leader Comrade Kim Il-song personally received Comrade Xi Zhongxun and the members of the delegation and had a cordial talk with them. This made your visit to our country more significant and brilliant.

During your stay in our country you have felt, I believe, how greatly our people value the Korea-China friendship efflorescing day by day on the basis of the particular intimacy between the great leader Comrade Kim Il-song and respected Comrades Hu Yaobang and Deng Xiaoping.

Our meeting with you, brotherly Chinese comrades, powerfully demonstrates once again the unshakable revolutionary will of our two peoples to hand down through generations to come the Korea-China friendship sealed in the blood struggle and consolidated through the ordeals of the revolution. Indeed, all the days you have spent with us in Korea have been significant days when the sense of fraternal obligation between the two peoples has been deepened and the bonds of friendship between Korea and China linked by the same destiny have been strengthened.

During your stay here, you have sincerely rejoiced over and highly estimated the great upswing brought about by our people on all fronts of the revolution and construction under the wise leadership of the party Central Committee, holding aloft the grand program of socialist construction put forward by the great leader Comrade Kim Il-song. And you have, showing deep interest in the cause of Korean reunification, expressed firm support and solidarity for the government of our republic and our people in the just struggle for the independent reunification of the country. Your sincere appraisal and support are very precious to our people and constitute a great encouragement to their struggle.

Your visit to our country has helped us have a better knowledge of the revolutionary turn effected by the great Chinese people in the struggle for socialist modernization, rallied firmly around the CPC and with a firm determination and confidence, and we were deeply moved by it. The successes made by the fraternal Chinese people in the revolution and construction, braving obstacles in the way of their advance, greatly delight our people, for they are the common successes of our two peoples.

Our people sincerely hope that the great Chinese people will vigorously promote the new march, wholeheartedly upholding the decisions of the 12th CPC National Congress, which marked a new milestone in the history of their struggle, and thereby credibly achieve the grand program of socialist modernization.

The destinies of the Korean and Chinese peoples have converged, and it is the firm determination of the two peoples to develop and strengthen the Korea-China friendship generation after generation. No matter what grim trial may happen in the future, the Korean people will advance shoulder to shoulder with the fraternal Chinese people, firmly defending the traditional Korea-China friendship and sharing sweets and bitters, life and death with them.

Feeling satisfactorily over the successful visit to our country by the delegation of the NPC of China, I hope you will convey friendly greetings from our people to the fraternal Chinese people when you return home.

Finally, availing myself of this opportunity in which we are unable to suppress our regret at parting with close Chinese comrades-in-arms, I propose a toast to the everlasting friendship and unity between the Korean and the fraternal Chinese peoples; to the good health and long life of the respected Comrade Hu Yaobang; to the good health and long life of the great leader Comrade Kim Il-song; to the good health of the respected Comrade Deng Xiaoping; to the good health of the respected Comrade Xi Zhongxun; and to the good health of the comrades and friends who are with us here.

RPR DECRIES PRISON DEATH OF KWANGJU DISSIDENT

SK161202 [Clandestine] Voice of the Revolutionary Party for Reunification in Korean to South Korea 1000 GMT 15 Oct 82

["Text" of 13 October statement by spokesman of the Revolutionary Party for Reunification -- read by announcer]

[Text] On 11 October youth Pak Kwan-hyon, former president of the Chonnam University students' association, tragically died while stubbornly waging a 40-day hunger strike in prison, denying the illegal, wicked trial and punishment by the fascist hangmen.

The death of youth Pak Kwan-hyon is a vicious massacre of a patriotic student caused by inhumane torture and persecution by the treacherous Chon Tu-hwan clique -- the filthy stooges of the Yankee imperialists. This is a result of the punishment of patriots by nation-sellers in the South Korean colonial society. Today passionate students across the nation including Kwangju and patriotic masses from all walks of life are infuriated that the enemy finally took the life of youth Pak Kwan-hyon who had courageously fought for freedom and liberation in the bloody streets of Kwangju.

Our Revolutionary Party for Reunification sternly denounces and condemns the heinous Chon Tu-hwan clique, which is maintaining its filthy life as colonial puppets by bloody repression and antipopular massacres.

Although our beloved youth Pak Kwan-hyon has passed from our midst, his lofty patriotic attitude of unhesitatingly placing his precious life and the heyday of his youth on the national salvation altar for independence and democracy will always be remembered by us.

Youth Pak Kwan-hyon, who courageously fought in the streets of Kwangju amid the echoing roar of gunfire, waged the extreme hunger strike during his entire imprisonment without yielding to wicked torture and repression, threat and menace and without being shaken by various appeasements and tricks. Thus, he fully demonstrated the spirit and courage of young intellectuals of this country, driving the fascist elements to anxiety and terror. Up to the last moment of his life he aspired for the independence and democracy he had been deprived of by the Chon Tu-hwan fascist clique and fought for the brilliant future of a reunified fatherland.

The patriotic acts of youth Pak Kwan-hyon should be highly appraised and his desire for indpendence and democracy in South Korea should be promptly achieved. Our party actively appeals to the patriotic students and masses of various strata to sublimate their sorrow into a fighting spirit and to more fiercely ignite the flames of anti-U.S. struggle for independence to eliminate the U.S. imperialists' colonial rule and the flames of anti-fascist struggle for democracy to overthrow the fascist puppet regime.

As we have lost a patriotic fighter, our party resolutely takes a pledge to satisfy the grudges of the Kwangju resistance fighters by waging nationwide anti-U.S. and antipuppets struggle and to expedite the glorious days when the national desire for independence, democracy and reunification will be achieved.

NODONG SINMUN MARKS KWP CONGRESS ANNIVERSARY

SK120343 Pyongyang Domestic Service in Korean 2241 GMT 8 Oct 82

[NODONG SINMUN 9 October special article: "Historic Document That Has Provided a New Milestone in Strengthening and Developing Our Party"]

[Text] Two years have passed since the historic Sixth KWP Congress was held. In this period our party's combat capability and its leading role have been incomparably strengthened and a great upsurge has been effected in all fields of socialist construction. This constitutes a mighty proof of the correctness, great vitality and invincible driving force of the great leader Comrade Kim Il-song's summing-up report on the work of the KWP Central Committee at the sixth party congress, one of his classic works.

The summing-up report to the sixth party congress was delivered in a most glorious period when the prospects for our party and the revolution were boundlessly bright. In this period, our party's might was strengthened, its organizational and ideological foundation was solidified as firm as rock and the work of remolding the people, society and nature into communist types was vigorously accelerated under the banner of the three revolutions.

Because it was made at a time when the future destiny of the party and the revolution in our country was brilliantly solved and when a firm guarantee for making it possible to carry out the revolutionary cause of chuche to the end was provided, the report of the sixth party congress is of particular significance in strengthening and developing our party and in the revolutionary struggle of our people.

The report of the sixth party congress is an encyclopedic document that comprehensively includes excellent ideologies, theories, strategies, tactics and struggle guidelines that give scientific answers to the theoretical and practical problems arising in the revolution and construction of our times.

Reflecting the essential demands of communist society, the inevitability of the completion of communist society, the profound ideological and theoretical summing-up of the 50-year-long Korean revolution and the demands of the development of the reality, the report proclaims the work of modeling the society after the chuche idea as the general duty of our revolution and concretely elucidates the principles and methods for its completion. Communist society can be successfully constructed only through the struggle for remolding human beings, society and nature. Therefore, only a program that elucidates ways for remolding men, society and nature into communist types can be a genuine program for the construction of communism.

The report extensively elucidates the principles, tasks and methods for educating men and reforming them into communist revolutionaries and for firmly deepening the material and technical foundations of communism.

The revolutionary cause of the working class can be protected and completed through the struggle against imperialism and other counterrevolutionary forces. The report of the sixth party congress newly advanced a most reasonable and fair struggle policy in expediting the independent and peaceful reunification of the country and extensively elucidated the revolutionary stance, strategies and tactics that should be firmly maintained in the struggle to strengthen the international revolutionary forces and to vigorously accelerate the world revolution on the basis of the scientific analysis of the current international situation.

In particular, the report proudly summed up our party, which has been strengthened and developed into a dignified and mighty party with a firm organizational and ideological foundation that enables it to carry out the revolutionary cause of chuche to the end. The report also set forth unique policies for building the party into a revolutionary party of chuche and an ever-victorious, militant party.

Thus, the report of the sixth party congress is an immortal classic document that has extensively elucidated new ideological theoretical methods on the construction of socialism and communism and that has given the perfect answers to the basic problems arising in the practice of the revolution in our times. The report, therefore, is a programmatic guideline that makes it possible for our party to accomplish its mission and duties in leading the people to the future of communism, while totally assuming the responsibility for the Korean revolution and the destiny of the people.

The correctness of the extraordinarily rich and profound ideologies, theories and policies included in the report of the sixth party congress has been brilliantly proven in the revolutionary struggle over the past 2 years, and their invincible vitality is being more highly demonstrated with each passing day.

The past 2 years were, above all, rewarding. The report of the sixth party congress has been firmly proven to be a programmatic guideline that makes it possible to firmly advance and complete our revolution along the path indicated by the chuche idea.

The chuche idea is the guiding idea of our party and is the only leading principle of our revolution. The communist society, which is a society in which working people's independence can be completely realized, can be constructed only under the banner of the chuche idea. This has been clearly proven by the practical experience of our revolution that has been advanced under the banner of the chuche idea.

The basic spirit reflected in the report of the sixth party congress is the great chuche idea. The great leader Comrade Kim Il-song has taught: Modeling the society after the chuche idea is the top priority duty of our revolution. The revolutionary cause of the working class to achieve independence for the working people can be completed only by modeling the society on the chuche idea.

For modeling the society on the chuche idea to have been proclaimed as the top priority duty of our revolution precisely reflects the firm determination and will of our party to complete the cause of communism by thoroughly embodying the chuche idea, while taking the chuche idea as the firm leading principle in revolution and construction.

In the report, the great leader Comrade Kim Il-song not only proclaims the modeling of the whole society on the chuche idea in order to lead our revolution to the path indicated by the chuche idea but also concretely elucidates the struggle principles, tasks and methods to firmly maintain an independent and creative stance in brilliantly implementing this difficult work and in thoroughly implementing the line of the three revolutions of ideology, technology and culture. He also concretely elucidates the struggle principles, tasks and methods to achieve the revolutionization, workingclassization and intellectualization of the whole society and to accelerate making the national economy chuche-oriented, modernized and scientific.

Fostering all members of the society into communistic men with a revolutionary ideological consciousness and high cultural level is one of the basic problems arising in advancing our revolution along the path of chuche. This important problem has been more successfully solved through the vigorous struggle for implementing the policy of revolutionization, workingclassization and intellectualization of the whole society indicated in the report.

The ideological indoctrination work and revolutionary life in organizations among the party members and working people have been strengthened thanks to the wise leadership of our party. As a result, all party members and working people have been able to firmly arm themselves with a chuche-oriented revolutionary outlook on the world and to highly demonstrate the attitude worthy of the masters in the revolution and construction. They have also been able to actively participate in the revolutionary struggle with a lofty revolutionary spirit and strong organizational discipline.

In particular, as the movement to win the red flag of the three revolutions and the movement to follow the examples set by unheralded heroes are vigorously unfolded, a revolutionary life-long habit of struggling, devoting all for the party, the leader, the fatherland and the people, has been able to be thoroughly established among functionaries and working people.

The policy of making the national economy chuche-oriented, modernized and scientific and the 10 major prospective goals of socialist economic construction indicated in the report of the sixth party congress are a socialist economic construction program that embodies the chuche idea. Thoroughly implementing this grand economic construction program is of important significance in achieving the cause of modeling the whole society after the chuche idea by vigorously advancing our revolution along the road of chuche.

Through a vigorous march to fulfill the chuche-type economic construction programs put forward by the report of the party congress, our people have strengthened the self-reliant posture and chuche nature of socialist economy in our country, have enhanced the overall standard of technical equipment in the national economy and have placed the technical process of production, production methods and management activities in all domains on a new scientific foundation. We have created new standards and new records that cannot be seen in our country's history of economic development in all domains of national economy. All these proud victories and successes that have been attained in the struggle for reforming men, society and nature during the last two years show that, to advance our revolution along the road indicated by the chuche idea and accomplish the revolution, we should continuously uphold and carry out the report of the sixth party congress.

The last 2 years of struggle have been a proud period during which the report has proven to be a militant banner that has enabled our party to ceaselessly strengthen and develop itself as a revolutionary party with permanently invincible might.

The great leader Comrade Kim Il-song has taught: Our party is the staff office of the Korean revolution and the organizer and stimulator of all our people's victories. The success of the Korean revolution and the destiny of our people are totally dependent on our party. Only under the leadership of our party can our people reunify the divided fatherland, win the final victory in socialism and accomplish the historic cause of remodeling the entire society on the chuche idea.

Our party is the tested staff office of the Korean revolution and a great guide leading the chuche revolutionary cause. We cannot imagine the victorious advance and accomplishment of our revolutionary cause without strengthening and developing of our party and its wise leadership. Only when we ceaselessly promote the combat capability and guiding role of the party by permanently upholding our party can we ensure the accomplishment of the chuche revolutionary cause to its end. The report of the sixth party congress extensively elucidates the principle, method and tasks to strengthen and develop our party to be a permanent chuche revolutionary party and to constantly raise our party's combat capability and leadership.

The fact that the party's unitary ideological system has been more thoroughly established is one of the most fruitful successes in the struggle to implement the report of the sixth party congress. Firmly establishing the party's unitary ideological system is an important work that should be continued as long as the party exists and should be further strengthened as the revolution advances and develops.

As a result of deepening the work of establishing the unitary ideological system as the primary work of the party under our party's wise leadership, the entire party has been firmly united around the party Central Committee ideologically and with one will based on the chuche idea. The revolutionary traits of unconditionally accepting the policy, decisions and directives of the party and implementing them to the end have been established throughout the party. The revolutionary discipline of all the party organizations moving as one on orders and directives of the party center has been firmly established. The ideological unity and the revolutionary cohesion of the party ranks have been exceedingly strengthened and an orderly work system and revolutionary discipline that firmly guarantee the party's leadership in revolution and construction has been establisned. Thus, our party's might has been incomparably strengthened.

Through the struggle to accomplish the policy on the party building put forth by the sixth party congress, the militant function and role of the party organizations have also been extraordinarily raised, the party life of its members has been further strengthened and the party's work method has been improved in an epoch-making way.

Today our party has become an authoritative and dignified party that thoroughly embodies the leader's ideology and leadership in the entire party and the whole society, firmly defends the revolutionary achievements and traditions made by the leader and consummates the revolutionary cause of chuche. It has also become a militant party, full of ambitious spirit, that vigorously pushes ahead with the revolution and construction, surmounting any storms and hardships. Our party has been strengthened and developed into a powerful party that guarantees the bright future of revolution and the shining future of the fatherland. This is a proud success achieved in the struggle to accomplish the policy on the party building put forth by the sixth party congress.

In reality, the 2-year-long period since the historic report to the sixth party congress was made shows that, when we firmly adhere to the tasks put forth by the report, we can endlessly enhance the combat capabilities and the leading role of our party and can brilliantly consummate the revolutionary cause of chuche pioneered in the forests of Mt Paektu.

Today, our party and people are faced with the honorable revolutionary task of further strengthening and developing our party into an ever-victorious, revolutionary party and of vigorously accelerating the revolutionary cause of chuche by thoroughly accomplishing the report to the sixth party congress. Upholding our party's ideology and leadership is a firm guarantee of thoroughly accomplishing the report to the sixth party congress.

The struggle to fulfill the report to the sixth party congress -- the grand program for socialist and communist construction -- is being organized and led by our party today. Putting forth the work of accomplishing the report to the sixth party congress made by the great leader Comrade Kim Il-song as the most important duty in its work and activities, our party is energetically leading. Thus, upholding the party's leadership is a decisive condition for accomplishing the report to the sixth party congress.

All party members and workers should unconditionally and thoroughly accomplish the party's decisions and directives with a firm conviction that a solid guarantee to consummate our revolutionary cause lies in upholding the party's ideology and leadership.

By boldly waging the struggle to accomplish the report to the sixth party congress under the leadership of our party, all party members and workers should advance the fatherland's independent and peaceful reunification and the complete victory of socialism and achieve the ultimate victory of our revolution.

SEOUL RADIO REPORTS DEFECTION OF PRC PILOT TO ROK

SK190411 Seoul Domestic Service in Korean 0300 GMT 19 Oct 82

[Text] The Defense Ministry announced today that a pilot of the Chinese Communist air force landed at a certain base of our air force at 1434 on 16 October, after flying over the Western Sea in a MIG-19.

In the statement released today, spokesman of the Defense Ministry Pak Chong-sik revealed that the defector is a Chinese Communist air force pilot named Wu, 25 years old, and that he requested refuge in a third country as soon as he landed at the air force base. Spokesman Pak added that the pilot is under the protection of the relevant authorities and will be handled in accordance with the appropriate legal procedures when the investigation is completed.

Communist China began to produce MIG-19's, the type of plane piloted by Wu, in Shenyang district in 1961, and has manufactured more than 1,400 planes of this type, deploying them in actual wars. This airplane is called an F-6 or Shenyang fighter, as it is being produced in Shenyang district. The MIG-19 or F-6 can fly at a maximum speed of 1,450 kilometers per hour, climb 6,900 meters per minute and carry 250 kilograms of bombs. It is equipped with three (30-mm) machineguns and two Sidewinders.

Some nine pilots from hostile countries have defected to our country in seven incidents since 3d Lt (Yi Chong-son) of the North Korean Air Force defected to the South on 28 April 1950 piloting [word indistinct]. Of them, six pilots, involved in five incidents were from North Korea, and three pilots, involved in two incidents, were from Communist China.

ROK INVITES N. KOREA, PRC TO JOIN IN STUDY OF RELICS

SK180415 Seoul YONHAP in English 0413 GMT 18 Oct 82

[Text] Seoul, Oct. 18 (YONHAP) -- South Korea's Culture-Information Minister Yi Chin-hui said Monday the Korean Government is opening the China's Sung and Yuan Dynasty relics recovered from a sunken Chinese trade boat in waters off Shinan County to scholars of the world, including those from North Korea and mainland China. Yi said academic and cultural fields are the areas, transcending ideology and political system, that hold the most promise of exchange between countries.

Yi was speaking at the third Asian regional assembly of the International Council of Museums (ICOM) held in Seoul. Yi expressed the hope that the regional assembly would promote exchanges and cooperation among museums in the Asian countries.

Twenty-nine representatives from 16 countries are participating in the triennial regional meeting which will continue through Saturday.

ARMY SAID BEING PREPARED TO REPEL NIGHT INVASION

SK160256 Seoul YONHAP in English 0155 GMT 16 Oct 82

[Text] Seoul, Oct. 16 (YONHAP) -- Defense Minister Yun Song-min said that the South Korean Armed Forces are being revamped as a precaution against a possible night invasion from North Korea.

Testifying before the National Assembly Defense Committee, Yun said the armed forces are redesigning strategy, military equipment and training to upgrade preparedness for night attack.

In response to questions from lawmakers, he said that China and the Soviet Union were not likely to support a North Korean invasion to communize the Korean Peninsula at this time. "If the U.S. military strength in the western Pacific region should weaken, we cannot rule out the possibility that North Korea might take military action against the South on the direction of the Soviet Union or by its own volition," Yun said.

To prepare for a protracted war, the government is seeking to conclude a memorandum of agreement (MOA) in accord with the United States, he said. He did not elaborate on the accord. The government, he added, plans to address the issue at the 15th Korea-U.S. annual security conference slated in Washington next year.

INDONESIAN PRESIDENT SUHARTO PAYS STATE VISIT

Arrival 16 Oct

SK160937 Seoul YONHAP in English 0920 GMT 16 Oct 82

[Text] Seoul, Oct 16 (YONHAP) -- Indonesian President Suharto was warmly received by South Korean President Chon Tu-hwan at Seoul's Kimpo International Airport Saturday afternoon as he arrived on a four-day state visit. The Indonesian leader was also greeted by some 300 well-wishers at the airport, including Korean Prime Minister Kim Sang-hyop. In the evening, Suharto will pay a courtesy call on Chon at Chongwadae, the presidential mansion in Seoul.

The Indonesian president, the first ASEAN head of state to visit Korea since Chon's ASEAN trip last year, will hold summit talks with Chon Monday to discuss the strengthening of bilateral relations.

On Sunday, Suharto will visit the National Cemetery and factories of the Korea Heavy Industries Co. (KHIC) in Changwon Industrial Estate in South Kyongsang Province as well as attend a reception to be hosted by Indonesian Ambassador to Korea Raden Eddie Suprapto at the Indonesian Embassy in Seoul. Suharto will receive a courtesy call from Prime Minister Kim Sang-hyop Monday morning and join leaders of four private economic organizations at a luncheon. Chon will host a state dinner for the Indonesian leader at Chongwadae also on Monday.

Suharto is accompanied by his wife and an 18-member official entourage, including Wijoyo Nitisastro, minister of state, coordinator for economic, financial and industrial affairs , Foreign Affairs Minister Mokhtar Kusumatmaja and Minister of State/State Secretary Lt. Gen. Sudharmono. Suharto will leave Seoul Tuesday for Tokyo.

Visit to Changwon Factories

SK180202 Seoul YONHAP in English 0129 GMT 18 Oct 82

[Excerpts] Seoul, Oct 18 (YONHAP) -- Indonesian President and Mrs. Suharto visited factories of the Korea Heavy Ind. and Construction Co. (KHIC) in Changwon, South Kyongsang Province, Sunday.

The Indonesian first couple were received by KHIC President Pak Chung-ki and presented with a 20-minute slide show specially recorded in the Indonesian language at the KHIC's conference room. Afterward, Suharto saw KHIC's six factories spread out over 5,280,000 sq. meters of land, including one where power plant equipment such as turbines are produced. Shuharto showed special interest in the 10,000-ton level up-to-date press and asked Pak for prices of heavy equipment including excavators. Suharto was accompanied by Korean foreign minister Yi Pom-sok.

Earlier in the day, the Suhartos visited the National Cemetary in Seoul and laid a wreath before the monument of the fallen soldier. The Indonesian president couple were accompanied by Foreign Affairs Minister Mokhtar Kusumaatmaja, Indonesian Ambassador to Korea Raden Eddie Suprapto, Korean Foreign Minister Yi Pom-sok and Defense Minister Yun Song-min.

Chon-Suharto Summit Talks

[Excerpts] Seoul, Oct 18 (YONHAP) -- Indonesian President Suharto and South Korean President Chon Tu-hwan agreed in Seoul Monday to expand long-term bilateral cooperation in natural resources and technical fields as well as promote mutual trade.

Suharto and Chon also exchanged views on international developments in northeast and Southeast Asia, including the Korean Peninsula, and shared the view that cooperation among developing countries be expanded during their two hour-twenty minute summit conference at Chongwadae, the Korean presidential mansion.

Chon's spokesman Hwang Sun-pil said the two leaders exchanged views on Chon's proposal for a summit meeting among the Pacific rim nations. Concrete points will be announced through a joint communique to be issued Tuesday prior to Suharto's departure here.

After the chief executive meeting, high ranking officials from the two countries joined their presidents. At the expanded summit, Suharto said he had reaffirmed that the spectrum of possible bilateral cooperation between Korea and Indonesia was very broad, and that the summit meeting with Chon had been "very fruitful".

Among the participants from Indonesia at the expanded summit meeting were Wijojo Nitisastro, minister of state/coordinator for economic, financial and industrial affairs; Mokhtar Kusumaatmaja, minister of foreign affairs; Sudharmono S.H., minister of state/state secretary; Amb. Raden Eddie Suprapto; Secretary of the Cabinet Murdiono; and Brig Gen A. Satari, director for Asia and Pacific Affairs at the Indonesian Foreign Affairs Department.

Deputy Prime Minister-Economic Planning Minister Kim Chun-song, Foreign Minister Yi Pom-sok, Korean Ambassador to Indonesia Han Wu-sok and Chon's Secretary General Ham Pyong-chun were among the Korean participants.

President and Mrs Suharto attended a luncheon hosted by leaders of the country's four major economic organizations -- the Korea Chamber of Commerce and Industry, the Federation of Korean Industries (FKI), the Korean Traders Association (KTA) and the Korea Federation of Small Businesses (KFSB).

TEXTILE WORKERS ARRESTED FOR DEMONSTRATING

SK160207 Seoul THE KOREA HERALD in English 16 Oct 82 p 8

[Text] Two women employees of the Won Pung Industrial Co. were arrested yesterday on charges of violating the law on assembly and demonstration as a protracted labor dispute at the textile-producing company continued to prevent the firm from operating normally for the 15th day. According to police, the two incited 250 employees of the company to stage a demonstration in front of the firm around 6 a.m. Wednesday. Of the 194 demonstrators who were taken in by police that day, 13 were referred to summary court and the rest were released.

Some members of the Urban Industrial Mission (UIM) at the Won Pung Industrial Co. have been calling for strikes among fellow workers since Sept 27 while demanding a quarterly pay increase of 66 percent plus an annual bonus of 400 percent.

A spokesman for the company said yesterday that only 350 of the total 983 workers employed by the company reported to work yesterday because some members of the evangelical mission incited their fellow workers to walk off from their workplace for the increase of monthly wages and restoration of some fellow workers fired in the wake of recent beating of a foreman by a UIM member. The spokesman said he feared that the company may go into bankruptcy unless proper measures are made to halt the dispute.

DUGERSUREN MEETS WITH CSSR'S HUSAK, CHNOUPEK

OW152052 Ulaanbaatar MONTSAME in English 1723 GMT 15 Oct 82

[Text] Ulaanbaatar, October 15 (MONTSAME) -- Mangalyn Dugersuren, foreign minister of the Mongolian People's Republic, arrived yesterday in Prague on an official and friendly visit to the Czechoslovak Socialist Republic at the invitation of the foreign minister of the CSSR.

At the Prague airport H. Dugersuren was met by B. Chnoupek, foreign minister of the CSSR.

On the same day Gustav Husak, general secretary of the Central Committee of the Communist Party of Czechoslovakia, received the Mongolian foreign minister. During the meeting, held in a cordial atmosphere Gustav Husak and Mangalyn Dugersuren highly assessed the successful development of the Mongolian-Czechoslovak relations in all spheres.

(?On) the urgent international problems the two sides ascertained the community of positions of the M.P.R. and the CSSR. They expressed full support to the new peaceful initiatives of the Soviet Union aimed at curbing the arms race and consolidating disarmament.

Talks between M. Dugersuren, foreign minister of the M.P.R., and B. Chnoupek, foreign minister of the CSSR, were held. They discussed the questions relating to the present situation in the world and to the bilateral Mongolian-Czechoslovak co-operation.

The talks confirmed joint efforts of the M.P.R. and C.S.S.R aimed at the further development of lasting and recriprocally advantageous relations. In this field the two sides attach praticular importance to the strengthening of co-operation with the Soviet Union and the all-embracing co-operation among the socialist countries.

Ladislav Gerle, deputy chairman of the C.S.S.R. Government, received M. Dugersuren. The participants in the meeting discussed the urgent questions relating to the Mongolian-Czechoslovak co-operation and the prospects of its further development and (?expansion).

An exchange of opinions on important international problems took place. The representatives of the two countries pointed out the significance of an active struggle of the peoples for preserving and strengthening peace and detente and highly valued the new proposals of the Soviet Union aimed at the liquidation of hotbeds of tension the world over.

According to the CZECHOSLOVAK NEWS AGENCY, Bohuslav Chnoupek, foreign minister of the C.S.S.R., arranged a supper in honour of Mangalyn Dugersuren, foreign minister of the M.P.R.

Addressing the dinner party B. Chnoupek pointed out the significance of the active foreign policy of the Mongolian People's Republic and supported its proposal to convene a convention on mutual non-aggression and (word indistinct] of forces [words indistinct] of the states of Asia and the Pacific.

In his reply M. Dugersuren highly assessed the assistance of Socialist Czechoslovakia to the Mongolian people in the strengthening of the material and technical base of socialism in the Mongolian People's Republic. The supper was held in a friendly and cordial atmosphere.

BUDAPEST TV INTERVIEWS CHEA SOTH ON ECONOMY

LD181928 Budapest Domestic Television Service in Hungarian 1800 GMT 17 Oct 82

[From "The Week" program: Report by Laslo Benda on talk with Kampuchea's Chea Soth; Chea Soth's comments in Cambodian with superimposed translation]

[Excerpt] I asked Chea Soth, member of the Kampuchean People's Revolutionary Party Political Bureau and Secretariat, vice chairman and minister of planning, whether it is possible in his view to carry out effective economic planning, bearing in mind Kampuchea's current standard of development.

[Begin recording] [Chea Soth] Look, in accordance with our possibilities at the time, we could only work out rough and provisional plans for the financial year 1979-80, that is to say, the first year of the Kampuchean People's Republic. However, over the past 2 years we have succeeded in preparing our new plan in outline, the first 5-year plan. Naturally, we are attempting to put this into practice by dividing it into 1-year phases. The central task of our plans is to concentrate our strength on the restoration of the economy. Here in Kampuchea we are building first and foremost and in a sensible way on the basis of developing agriculture, and it is our intention to supply the population with food as much as possible. This can only improve gradually, of course, step by step.

[Question] How do you view the possibility of Kampuchea being able to become self-sufficient in food?

[Answer] We are now making great efforts to help all our compatriots who have survived the genocide carried out by the Pol Pot regime to have a better life and also to supply them with adequate food. According to our calculations Kampuchea's population is now over 6 million and is growing fast. It is obvious that in a great number of fields we are still suffering from shortages. Our results are far from being completely satisfactory as yet. For this reason we will continue to have to ask for the aid of the fraternal socialist countries and international humanitarian organizations.

We are now concentrating our attention on sowing all the cultivable land. I must say that here in Kampuchea there is still much arable land lying fallow; we do not have enough draft animals and our seed supply is insufficient. All this contributes to the fact that our compatriots cannot as yet be satisfied with the food rations, since each inhabitant of Kampuchea receives 15 kilos of rice a month. [end recording]

HUN SEN DISCUSSES PRC THREAT, OTHER ISSUES

BK190743 Phnom Penh SPK in French 1454 GMT 18 Oct 82

[Text] Phnom Penh, 18 Oct (SPK) -- "China is the source of the threat to peace and stability and also the source of tension in Southeast Asia," Hun Sen, member of the KPRP Central Committee Political Bureau and minister of foreign affairs, affirmed today.

During a lecture for cadres from various ministries at the Central Political School in Phnom Penh, Minister Hun Sen unmasked the perfidious maneuvers of the Chinese expansionists in Southeast Asia. He said: The presence of Vietnamese troops in Kampuchea does not threaten Thailand. In fact, it is China which demands that Thailand give shelter to the Pol Pot gang and supply it with arms and ammunition.

Regarding the PRK's position vis-a-vis the hostility of Thailand, Minister Hun Sen stressed: The people and government of the PRK always want to contribute to the establishment of peace in the region in particular and the establishment of good-neighbor relations with their neighbors in general.

Patience has its limits. If Thailand persists in undertaking provocative actions against Kampuchea, Kampuchea will exercise its right of self-defense to defend regional peace.

Minister Hun Sen dealt with the successes in all fields achieved by the Kampuchean people during the past more than 3 years and affirmed that all attempts aimed at "reversing the situation in Kampuchea" are bound to fail. The presence of Vietnamese troops in Kampuchea responds to the aspiration of the Kampuchean people, who had called on them to help them overturn the genocidal Pol Pot regime, and the partial withdrawal already made of these troops from Kampuchea is a sign of the good will of the PRK. Kampuchea will demand that all of these troops be withdrawn from Kampuchea when China agrees to sign a nonaggression treaty with the three Indochinese countries.

Minister Hun Sen stressed the injustice concerning the representation of Kampuchea at the United Nations and denounced U.S. imperialism, in collusion with Chinese expansionism, for distorting the realities in Kampuchea before the eyes of public opinion. Hun Sen voiced his categorical rejection of any resolution of Kampuchea voted by the United Nations without the participation of the PRK -- the sole authentic and legal representative of the Kampuchean people — and considered such a resolution as null and void. It is an interference in the internal affairs of Kampuchea. The situation in Kampuchea is irreversible, he said.

THAI BORDER ACTIVITIES 8-14 OCT REPORTED

BK190712 Phnom Penh SPK in French 0425 GMT 19 Oct 82

[Text] Phnom Penh, 19 Oct (SPK) -- According to military sources, between 8 and 14 October Thai L-19 aircraft four times pentrated 10 km deep into Kampuchean airspace over Samraong in Siem Reap Province and over the border junction area in Preah Vihear Province.

Thai boats and armed vessels, including a warship, entered Kampuchean territorial waters 286 times between 2 and 10 nautical miles from Koh Hong and Koh Tang Islands.

Fifty-five instances of shelling from Thailand against Kampuchean territory — from 100-mm and 82-mm mortars — were reported. Siem Reap and Battambang Provinces were hit 33 times, and Koh Kong Province was hit 13 times. Eight instances of shelling were directed against the border areas in Pursat Province, and one was directed against the border areas in Preah Vihear.

VODK: SRV USES TOXIC GAS IN KOMPONG SPEU 2 OCT

BK160945 (Clandestine) Voice of Democratic Kampuchea in Cambodian to Kampuchea 2330 GMT 15 Oct 82

[Text] On 2 October the Vietnamese enemy sent an airplane to spray toxic chemicals over various villages and communes in Phnum Srck District of Kompong Speu Province, killing many inhabitants.

In the past 4 years of its war of aggression and genocide against Kampuchea, the Le Duan Vietnamese enemy has used toxic chemicals as a major strategic weapon for massacring our Kampuchean people and exterminating the race.

Since they have suffered a total impasse in the military field and failed to crush our Kampuchean nation and race through military means, the Vietnamese aggressors have intensified the use of toxic chemicals as a weapon to kill our people in a more cruel and barbarous manner than ever before without heeding the strong condemnation by the whole world and all mankind.

Like those in other areas throughout the country, our people in Kompong Speu Province nurture great indignation at the Vietnamese aggressors and race exterminators for this extremely barbarous crime. Our people pledge to unite as one under the leadership of our Democratic Kampuchean Government and struggle more vigorously against the Vietnamese aggressors until all of them are driven out of our Kampuchean territory, thus putting an end to all sorts of criminal acts, including the crime of using toxic chemicals to massacre our people and exterminate our race, of the Vietnamese aggressors and race exterminators.

FAO ANNIVERSARY, WORLD FOOD DAY MARKED

BK171419 Vientiane Domestic Service in Lao 1000 GMT 16 Oct 82

[Excerpts] On the morning of 16 October, the Ministry of Agriculture, Irrigation and Agricultural Cooperatives held a ceremony to mark the 37th founding anniversary of the FAO and the second anniversary of the World Food Day. Attending were Inkong Mahavong, minister of agriculture, irrigation and agricultural cooperatives and chairman of the Committee for the World Food Day; Mr (Falcon), representative of the UNDP to Laos; Mr (Dunlop), FAO representative; ministers and deputy ministers; diplomats of the various fraternal socialist countries and neighboring countries; and many senior cadres.

On this occasion, Minister Inkong Mahavong addressed the ceremony. He said: [Begin recording] We gather here today to celebrate World Food Day. As we know well, shortages of food in the world are now a contagious disease seriously affecting the daily existence of the various developing countries and are a matter of concern for the leaders of each country. It is thus necessary to seek every possible way to resolve and eliminate this problem. To enable each country to more effectively solve the problem, the FAO adopted at its 20th session a resolution making 16 October as World Food Day and proposed that each FAO member country celebrate the first World Food Day in 1981. For this reason, today the LPDR Government, together with various nations throughout the world, is organizing this ceremony to mark World Food Day for the second time.

Respected and beloved personages and comrades, since the establishment of the LPDR on 2 December 1975, despite many difficulties caused by an economic depression, the bad vestiges of the old regime, sabotage schemes of the imperialists and the international reactionary forces and by constant natural disasters, we have surmounted all difficulties and achieved satisfactory successes in food production thanks to the LPRP's correct line and the efforts of the people of various tribes and thanks to the positive support and assistance of the various fraternal socialist countries, friendly progressive countries in the world, international organizations, the UNDP and the FAO.

To fulfill the line and carry out industrial development based on agriculture and forestry, the government has each year allocated 30 percent of its investment for building material and technical bases to achieve self-sufficiency in food supplies and steadily increase the sources of goods for export and accumulation intended to cope with any emergency requirement. This is in line with the resolution adopted at the FAO regional conference for Asia and the Pacific on 15 and 16 [month not specified].

Even though the restoration and development of forestry and agricultural production have just begun, we have succeeded in building many material and technical bases for agriculture. For example, we have built irrigation projects and engaged in intensive farming. The campaign to apply manure and clear grass from ricefields and build embankments has continued enthusiastically. The area of irrigated ricefields has increased almost twice, while the number of water pumps for agricultural purposes has increased fivefold. On the average, the area of ricefields has increased by 6 percent per year. Rice output increased from 700,000 tons in 1976 to 1.154 million ton in 1981. The number of cattle increased from 900,000 to 1.3 million during the same periods. There are now 31 agricultural and forestry settlements throughout the country. Agricultural experimental stations and research centers have been established and improved. The movement of setting up agricultural cooperatives has developed extensively. The project to build agricultural cooperatives in rice-growing areas has been basically completed in four northern provinces.

What is admirable is that we have trained ranks of scientific and technical and management cadres. We are taking full advantage of these cadres in the production movements in rural areas. All these important factors have created favorable conditions for the peasants of various tribes to gradually free themselves from poverty and shortages of food since 1980. This historic event involves not only the improvement of the living conditions of the Lao people of various tribes, but also constitutes an important contribution to the anti-poverty campaigns being launched by various nations throughout the world.

On this occasion, on behalf of the LPDR Government and in my own name, I would like to praise and hail the cadres, party members, combatants, state employees and people of all tribes for positively contributing to the rapid development of our agricultural production. I also express wholehearted gratitude to the various fraternal socialist countries, friendly countries, international organizations, the FAO and the UNDP for giving assistance to the LPDR in the fields of agriculture, forestry and irrigation. [applause] [end recording]

The ceremony marking World Food Day ended successfully.

SITTHI ON CGDK, EEC-ASEAN MINISTERIAL MEETING

[By The Chongkhadikit]

[Excerpt] ASEAN foreign ministers will bring up the sensitive problems of protectionism, import quotas and tariffs when they meet with European Economic Community foreign ministers in Bangkok on February 10-11, Foreign Minister Sitthi Sawetsila revealed yesterday. The EEC will also look into the needs of Thailand and the other ASEAN countries, and the discussions will cover global issues as well. "We also have to understand the EEC countries have recession and growth problems," he remarked. Air Chief Marshal Sitthi also said:

-- The naming of Prince Norodom Sihanouk as president of the Democratic Kampuchea Coalition Government has made it possible for DK to get as many as 90 votes in the United Nations General Assembly this year, compared with 77 last year. At least 80 to 85 votes will be obtained on October 25-26.

-- Thailand will take up the matter of resettlement of Indochina refugees with the U.S. attorney-general when he visits here October 27-28. The exchange of prisoners and cooperation in the campaign against narcotics will also be discussed.

-- Dr Asa Sarasin, taking over as undersecretary of state for foreign affairs, is studying administrative systems in the United States and the United Kingdom to increase efficiency and effectiveness of the ministry. He will head a new team of top diplomatic talent to help the foreign minister plan and implement policies.

-- When Han Nianlong, adviser to the Chinese foreign minister, arrives on October 22 there will be important discussions on the general situation in Asia and Southeast Asia and Sino-Thai cooperation for peace and stability in the region.

The ASEAN-EEC conference was finally agreed to during ACM Sitthi's talks with EEC counterparts at the United Nations General Assembly in New York and various European capitals from which he has just returned. To prepare for the first major meeting of its kind between the two regional groups, a series of preparatory consultations will be held among various sectors, public and private, economic and political, at different levels, including director-general, both in Europe and the Association of Southeast Asian Nations. Previously, the ASEAN foreign ministers had met with the president or vice president of the European Community for the annual post-conference dialogue.

The agenda of the full-scale dialogue will include protectionism by the developed countries, quotas, tariffs, economic and political cooperation and other topics which will be raised as a result of the pre-conference sequence of discussions. Efforts in Europe will be coordinated through the Thai Embassy in Brussels, the EEC capital. Former Ambassador to the United Nations Pracha Khunakasem, now assigned to Geneva, will return late this month to head a Bureau of ASEAN Affairs raised by ACM Sitthi to higher status and greater importance. He will prepare with the ASEAN Standing Committee, chaired by the foreign minister himself, for the ASEAN-EEC foreign ministers meeting and the annual ASEAN ministerial meeting, followed by dialogue with the United States, the EEC, Japan, Canada, Australia and New Zealand.

On Democratic Kampuchea, the foreign minister reported that Prince Sihanouk had been able to win the votes of countries which had abstained previously and even to swing the votes of some countries which had previously voted against DK. The president of Guinea, which was pro-Heng Samrin last year, welcomed Prince Sihanouk and the result is that Guinea will either abstain or vote in favour of DK. Romania has pledged its vote for DK.

SPOKESMAN SAYS SRV REPORT ON U.S. AID 'INCORRECT'

BK151350 Bangkok Voice of Free Asia in Thai 1000 GMT 15 Oct 82

[Excerpts] The deputy director general of the Information Department, Saowanit Khongsiri, in his capacity as deputy spokesman of the Foreign Ministry, held a press conference at the Foreign Ministry this morning. Among topics announced was the forthcoming visit to Thailand by Princess Alexandra of Great Britain and her consort.

Vietnam's report concerning the statement made by the Thai foreign minister upon his return from the United States and European countries was incorrect. [see page K 1] Vietnam said the foreign minister announced an increase of $12.3 million in credit from the United States and quoted the foreign minister as saying that the money would be used for joint military exercises between Thailand and the United States. The deputy spokesman pointed out that the Thai foreign minister did tell reporters about the increased credit of $12.3 million to Thailand, but made no statement concerning the employment of the money or about the joint military exercises of the two countries. The deputy spokesman said the report was groundless and it was obviously an exaggeration by Vietnam.

POST: SRV FORCES KILL 3 THAI VILLAGERS IN LAOS

[Text] Nong Khai -- Three Thai villagers were shot dead by Vietnamese soldiers when they went hunting for deer in Laos on Friday, it has been announced. A fourth member of the expedition escaped unhurt across the Mekong River. The dead men were identified as Mr Lang Rat-kot, 47, the owner of a chemist's shop; Mr Ma Sanai, 38, a tapioca farmer; and Mr Mai Pakheow, 45, also a tapioca farmer. All were from Ban Nong in Tambon Ban Muang of Sangkhom District. The survivor was Mr Daeng Thaisi, 37, a rice farmer from the same village.

The deputy governor of Nong Khai, Mr Uthai Munthawong, said that the body of Mr Lang had been found floating in the Mekong River about a kilometre south of Bang Nong yesterday morning. He had reported the incident to the Thai ambassador in Vientiane, he said.

Mr Daeng said the four men had crossed the Mekong River by boat to Ban Pak Klo Khao Lam in Laos on Friday at about 8 a.m. At about 6 p.m. they headed back toward the pier at Ban Pak Klo Khao Lam where their boat was moored. At the river bank, they were waylaid by 12 Vietnamese soldiers who opened fire with automatic rifles, Mr Daeng said.

NATION: HOUSE OF KAMPUCHEAN RESISTANCE SEARCHED

[Excerpts] A two-storey house in Bangkoknoi which serves as a meeting centre for members of the Kampuchean resistance forces was searched yesterday by a team of policemen who suspected it of being an arms storing place. The house, No. 227/11 in Soi Amphawa, was later found to belong to Director of Operations of the Army Maj Gen Suchinda Kraprayun, according to informed police sources.

Police Director General Pol Gen Narong Mahanon described the search, during which nothing illegal was found, as a result of a "misunderstanding." But the sources said that police suspected the house of being used to store war weapons. They said the policemen who went into the house found a group of six Kampucheans who were later identified as members of the Kampuchean resistance forces. They told the policemen that they rented the house from Maj Gen Suchinda to coordinate their work with other nationalist groups.

Anti-Vietnamese propaganda documents and books in French were also found inside the house. The sources said that the police later reported the incident to Army Commander in Chief Gen Athit Kamlangek, who was quoted as telling Pol Gen Narong that the house had been rented to the nationalist group for two years and it was a policy of the government to support the resistance forces.

NATION DISCUSSES ARMY RESHUFFLE OF COLONELS

BK090917 Bangkok THE NATION REVIEW in English 9 Oct 82 p 13

[Article: "Military Reshuffle Order: A Path Towards 'Unity'...?"]

[Excerpts] No sooner had Gen Athit Kamlangek taken the reins of the army when he signed a reshuffle order obviously to consolidate his power base. And if Class 5 and Class 8 could be called his supporters, then they were rewarded with some enviable promotions.

The reshuffle order, which went into force on October 2, also served to further purge former members of the ousted "Young Turk" military grouping whose leadership has been uprooted following its attempts to seize power in the April 1-3 abortive coup, last year.

The "purge" was particularly conspicuous at the Lopburi-based artillery centre and the Lopburi Military District with four senior officers moved to inactive posts. The purge there could be linked to the investigations into the reported misuse of authority by certain soldiers and the reported assassination attempt on the life of Prime Minister Prem Tinsulanon during his visit to the province in July. But then an informed source admitted that it was also designed to eradicate the influence of the Young Turk grouping left in the Lopburi-based garrisons. "For one thing, it was a blanket purge," the source added.

The anti-aircraft artillery division, its two regiments and the First Artillery Regiment of the First Division were also targets of the sweeping purge. At least four military officers there were adversely affected because of their ties -- real or imaginary, past or present -- with the Young Turk grouping mainly comprising members from Class 7 of the Chulachomklao Royal Military Academy.

But it is more likely that most of the unlucky officers affected in the shake-up were probably victims of "power play" in the prestigious military establishment. They were outranked, transferred to less important posts, and in certain cases even demoted just because they happened to be in the way of members of Class 5 and Class 8.

Judging from the latest reshuffle in which certain changes were only stepping stones for some military officers to rise further, it is predictable that more reshuffles along the same line would follow. In a way, the reshuffle testified to the fact that the army is moving towards the direction that former military strongmen -- Air Marshal [title as published] Sarit Thanarat, Air Marshal Thanom Kittikhachon, and Air Marshal Praphat Charusathian, to name a few -- have been through: a path toward "unity," to put it mildly. As a senior military officer put it, "the army is now no doubt united. It has to be so as soldiers must abide by orders and discipline. But then satisfaction is entirely a different matter."

Naturally, those who have fallen or are going to fall prey to the power play in the army must keep their bitter sentiments inside simply because they are soldiers. Some of them might accept their destiny with resignation, but others won't.

Ironically, because of discipline and strict lines of command which compel dissident soldiers to hide their opposition, the situation might appear calm in the short run, but what about in the long run, when the dissension reaches a boiling point?

'MASS' DEFECTIONS CAUSE DISSOLUTION OF NEW PARTY

[Text] The Laotian-backed Phak Mai (New Party) was dissolved last month because mass defections left it with only three members, well-informed sources told the BANGKOK POST last night.

According to the sources, the three members are former Ubon Ratchathani MP's Bunyen Wothong, Wichai Saewamat and Wichai Minkaeo, former Central Committee member of the defunct Union for Rights and Freedom of Teachers. Bunyen, who was Phak Mai chairman, formerly belonged to the defunct Democratic Front, while Wichai Saewamat was a member of the now defunct Socialist Party of Thailand.

The Phak Mai was set up three years ago by a group of defectors from the Communist Party of Thailand. The New Party was supported by Laos, but found it difficult to recruit members because its headquarters was located in Vientiane. The sources said many Thai people had doubts whether the party was fighting to improve conditions in Thailand or in Laos. The party's headquarters was reportedly called the 75th office and it was based five kilometres from That Louang Province [as published] in Laos. About 100 members worked in the headquarters, but most of them have now defected.

The sources said that the party had totally failed in its propaganda war, and "local people are not sure of the party's standpoint." Furthermore, the Vietnamese reduction in arms and food supplies has exacerbated the party's situation, the sources said. The party recently gave up its policy of armed struggle despite the fact that it had initially vowed to win a "war of liberation" through armed struggle and political means by concentrating on urban, lowland and jungle operations.

The sources said that many students and politicians who joined the CPT after the student uprising on October 6, 1976,joined the Phak Mai, but defected soon afterwards. Among the major defectors were Thongrak Phiangket, secretary-general of the party; Thoetphum Chaidi, a former labour leader; and student leader Bunsong Chalethon.

According to the sources, the Phak Mai was formed in the middle of 1979 amid the conflict between China and Vietnam. Many students activists, leftist politicians and communist sympathisers who live in Udom Chai Province in northern Laos were expelled from Laos and joined the CPT. Later, many communist insurgents surrendered to the Thai Government because of ideology conflicts within the CPT. Some crossed the Mekong River to Laos and set up the Thai Revolutioanry People's Movement, which later became the Phak Mai.

Bunyen Wothong, chairman of the Phak Mai and former deputy chairman of the committee for Coordinating Patriotic and Democratic Forces (CCPDF), was just a puppet chairman because he was simultaneously backed by two key Laotian communist members -- Thao Khamban and Thao Khamman -- and a former member of the CPT, Ong Khoan, who is Vietnamese, the sources said.

The sources said that the Phak Mai originally expected to recruit about 1,000 members, but fell well short of this figure. The Phak Mai was set up with the initial aim of eliminating the CPT and creating a military and political training centre in Savannakhet. The party was reported to have sent members to infiltrate the CPT in Loei, Nakhon Phanom and Ubon Ratchathani. There were also reports of clashes between the CPT and the Phak Mai in 1980.

POWERFUL BOMB EXPLODES IN SURAT THANI PROVINCE

[Excerpts] Surat Thani -- A powerful home-made bomb, hidden under a Toyota sedan, exploded at the parking lot of a hotel in this southern province yesterday morning, injuring three people and damaging about 10 other vehicles parked nearby. The impact of the bomb, believed to be composed of at least 10 pounds of dynamite, also shattered several windows of the Siam Thani Hotel.

Deputy Interior Minister Banyat Banthatthan, who was on an inspection tour of Surat Thani over the weekend, also rushed to the scene and said police speculate that personal conflicts were behind the explosion. The deputy minister said security in the province had been stepped up with the cooperation of combined civilian-police-military forces since the explosion which completely damaged the provincial hall early this year. A meeting of senior provincial officials was held in the province last Friday during which they agreed to set up more checkpoints on roads entering the province, Banyat said.

NHAN DAN CRITICIZES U.S.-JAPAN PACIFIC EXERCISES

OW180851 Hanoi VNA in English 0804 GMT 18 Oct 82

[Text] Hanoi, VNA, October 18 -- "The joint electronic warfare exercise between the United States and Japan over the Pacific west of Kyushu, next to the Soviet border, is a brazen provocation and a menace to peace and stability in northeast Asia", notes NHAN DAN in an commentary today.

"This event", the paper says, "takes place almost three weeks after Tokyo agreed with the Pentagon on the deployment of at least 40 U.S. F-16 fighter bombers at the U.S. Misawa air base in northern Japan, not far from Soviet territory".

It goes on: "Northeast Asia and Western Europe are two major points where the United States concentrates its largest military forces, and two strategic bridgeheads close to the Soviet Union and the other countries in the socialist community. This reflects the Pentagon's strategic concept on the deployment of its military forces at various outposts to strike at the Soviet Union simultaneously at different battlefields...

"While eagerly carrying out the U.S. strategic plan, Tokyo also wants to further its selfish plan of building up its military force and using it as a lever for economic expansion...

"Meanwhile, the Reagan administration is also trying to turn South Korea into an 'anti-communist fortress', and continuing to supply weapons to Taiwan...

"The bilateral and multilateral military alliances among the United States, Japan, South Korea and Taiwan, and the U.S. plot to form the Washington-Tokyo-Beijing axis are seriously threatening peace and security in northeast Asia and in Asia as a whole.

"However, these alliances have not worked smoothly, because they contain many contradictions and face strong opposition".

"In face of the dangerous collusion of the U.S. imperialists with other reactionary forces, the people in northeast Asia and the rest of Asia are maintaining high vigilance and struggling to defend peace, against the danger of war," NHAN DAN says in conclusion.

U.S. MILITARY ASSISTANCE TO THAILAND SCORED

BK140244 Hanoi International Service in English 1000 GMT 13 Oct 82

[Text] The Reagan administration will spend another $12.3 million in military aid to Thailand. This brings to nearly $80 million the total U.S. military aid to Thailand in 1982. The decision on U.S. military aid was announced by Thai Foreign Minister Sitthi Sawetsila on Monday after his return from New York. The Thai foreign minister also said the United States has agreed to train Thai military personnel and to carry out the joint U.S.-Thai military exercises.

It's believed that Washington's increased arms supplies to Thailand to modernize its army will only aggravate tension in Southeast Asia.

USSR OFFICIAL DENIES SRV WORKERS AT PIPELINE SITE

OW151559 Hanoi VNA in English 1528 GMT 15 Oct 82

[Text] Hanoi, VNA, October 15 -- "No Vietnamese worker is working at the construction site of the natural gas pipeline in the Soviet Union leading to Western Europe as claimed by Western media", said V.G. Lomonosov in an interview with the Soviet news agency A.P.N.

Lomonosov, chairman of the State Committee of the U.S.S.R. for Labour and Social Questions, recalled that the agreement on labour cooperation between the Socialist Republic of Vietnam and the Soviet Union was signed on February 2, 1981. This is a new development of the two countries' cooperation over the past 30 years aimed at training cadres and workers for Vietnam's national economy. In the initial years, Soviet assistance consisted chiefly in the training of cadres of higher education.

Today, this also includes the training of skilled workers for different branches. V.G. Lomonosov continued: Vietnam, with Soviet technical and economic assistance, has so far built more than 200 factories. Nearly 100 others are under construction. In a word, with assistance from the Soviet Union and other countries in the Council for Mutual Economic Assistance, the socialist industrialization in Vietnam is forging ahead victoriously. Of course, at this stage, the large-scale training of a highly qualified personnel is indispensable.

Such a system of vocational training is also being set up in Vietnam, but it is still weak both materially and technically. That's why the Vietnamese Government has asked the Soviet Union and other socialist countries to help train young Vietnamese right at the factories of these countries. As a result, agreements on labour cooperation have been signed between Vietnam and the Soviet Union, Czechoslovakia, Bulgaria, and the German Democratic Republic providing for the acceptance of Vietnamese trainees to various establishments of these countries.

The Vietnamese trainees in the Soviet Union enjoy all the rights and interests stipulated in Soviet laws, including the right to equal payment and social insurance, Lomonosov stressed, adding:

"Contrary to allegations by Western media, the Vietnamese workers in the Soviet Union have been all assigned to regions where the climate is similar to that in Vietnam, chiefly in the southern part of the U.S.S.R., such as Krasnodar, Astrakhan, Volgograd Donetsk, and Dzhumbul. None of them is working at the construction sites of the Siberia-Western Europe gas pipes".

COMMUNIQUE ISSUED WITH UNHCR ON GENEVA TALKS

OW130833 Hanoi VNA in English 0702 GMT 13 Oct 82

[Text] Hanoi, VNA, October 13 -- At the invitation of the Office of the U.N. High Commissioner for Refugees, a delegation of the Ministry for Foreign Affairs of the Socialist Republic of Vietnam made a visit from October 6 to 10, 1982, to Geneva to exchange views on matters of common interest, particularly the implementation of the memorandum of agreement concluded on May 30, 1979, between the U.N.H.C.R. and the Government of the S.R.V. on the program for legal departures from Vietnam.

A H.C.R.-Vietnam joint communique published on this occasion says: "The Vietnamese delegation led by Vice-Minister for Foreign Affairs Ha Van Lau paid a visit to the high commissioner, Mr. Paul Hartling, and held talks with a delegation of the H.C.R. led by the deputy high commissioner, Mr. William R. Smyser...

"The two parties appreciated the results obtained over the past 12 months, from October 1981 to the end of September 1982, in the implementation of the said program and noted with joy that the regularly organised legal departures have attained an average of 1,000 persons each month. The two parties welcomed the good cooperation between the countries concerned...

"The Vietnamese party reaffirmed the humanitarian policy of its government of allowing legal departures and called on the H.C.R. and the interested countries to give a favourable follow-up to the list of persons already given exit visas by the Vietnamese Government in order to help surmount the difficulties met by the Vietnamese party.

"The two parties also agreed that as far as it is possible, it is necessary to step up the resettlement of Kampucheans from Vietnam in conformity with their wish and that the H.C.R., Vietnam and other countries should continue to give them aid and assistance until a lasting solution is found".

CONFERENCE ON VOCATIONAL TRAINING CONCLUDES

OW090209 Hanoi VNA in English 1753 GMT 8 Oct 82

[Text] Hanoi, VNA, October 8 -- The conference on cooperation in vocational training among socialist countries closed in Ho Chi Minh City yesterday after three days' sitting. Twenty-nine reports and speeches were presented at the conference by delegates of the Soviet Union, Laos, Kampuchea, Bulgaria, Hungary, the German Democratic Republic, Cuba, Mongolia, Poland, Czechoslovakia and Vietnam. Theycentered on the urgent tasks to improve vocational training in the period of socialist and communist building, to improve the quality of the vocational schools and to improve the training of teachers for these schools. The conference also heard reports on the results of bilateral and multilateral cooperation in vocational training.

The delegations were guests at a reception offered by the party and people's committees of Ho Chi Minh City.

Delegates Meet To Huu

OW112111 Hanoi VNA in English 1515 GMT 11 Oct 82

[Text] Hanoi, VNA, Oct 11 -- To Huu, Political Bureau member of the Communist Party of Vietnam Central Committee and vice chairman of the Council of Ministers, received here this morning the delegates to the conference on cooperation in vocational training among socialist countries.

Vice Chairman To Huu conveyed warm greetings from Chairman of the Council of Ministers Pham Van Dong to the foreign delegates. He praised the success of the conference which, he said, was a vivid expression of the solidarity and friendship and a new development in the cooperation in vocational training between the socialist countries on the principles of proletarian internationalism.

To Huu thanked the parties, the governments and the peoples of the Soviet Union and other fraternal socialist countries for having helped Vietnam train tens of thousands of workers and thousands of teachers of vocational schools and build and expand the network of vocational schools. He said he believed that with this great, effective assistance the Vietnamese vocational training service would make further progress, thus making an active contribution to the implementation of the resolutions of the C.P.V.'s Fifth Congress.

Speaking at the reception, A.N. Osipov, vice president of the U.S.S.R. Committee for Vocational Training and head of the Soviet delegation, and other head delegates reiterated their countries' readiness to continue helping Vietnam in socialist construction.

The reception took place in an atmosphere of cordiality and friendship.

HO CHI MINH CITY PARTY MEETING DISCUSSES TASKS

BK081703 Hanoi Domestic Service in Vietnamese 0400 GMT 8 Oct 82

[Text] The Ho Chi Minh City party organization executive committee met in September to study the resolution of the Fifth VCP Congress and to discuss measures to carry out the VCP Central Committee Political Bureau's resolution on tasks of the city.

Members of the city party committee carefully reviewed tasks concerning the struggle between the two paths -- socialism and capitalism -- during the initial stage of the transitional period of the city which have a significant bearing on the economic, political, cultural, scientific, technical and defense domains, as has been affirmed by the VCP Central Committee Political Bureau.

The city party organization executive committee welcomed ideas of the VCP Central Committee Political Bureau, which pointed out the city's shortcomings in many aspects, especially the lack of development in its equipment capacity and its role as an industrial center for the provinces in the Mekong River Delta; its negligence concerning proletarian dictatorship on the distribution and circulation front -- an urgent problem of the city; and the fact that the city has not profoundly and consistently carried out political education for party members in order to help enhance their fighting impetus and their revolutionary vigilant spirit to contribute to building a strong party organization.

After the meeting, Nguyen Van Linh, member of the VCP Central Committee and secretary of the city party committee, reported directly to the city people's council on the content of the VCP Central Committee Political Bureau guidance and tasks of the city party organization.

VO NGUYEN GIAP SPEAKS AT HANOI YOUTH MEETING

OW180327 Hanoi Domestic Service in Vietnamese 1100 GMT 17 Oct 82

[Text] A Voice of Vietnam correspondent's report says that the Hanoi municipal chapter of the Ho Chi Minh Communist Youth Union held a meeting this morning, at the capital's cultural center for teenagers, with youths who have made many contributions in the creative labor movement of the capital's youths.

Comrade Vo Nguyen Giap, member of the party Central Committee and vice chairman of the Council of Ministers, attended and addressed the meeting. At the meeting many youths, working in the economic, cultural and social fields, expressed their views, citing a number of their achievements in the creative labor movement, in their intensive scientific-technical work, and in practice of thrift.

Addressing the youths, Comrade Vo Nguyen Giap suggested a number of issues that the capital's youths and youth union chapter should devotedly carry out. He particularly stressed that the youths of the capital should resolve the issues of producing food and export and consumer goods in the coming period. He said that, in order to satisfactorily resolve these issues, the youths of the capital must truly take the lead in productive labor, must work creatively and confidently, and must clearly realize their responsiblilities in all types of work.

SURVEILLANCE BOOSTED IN INDIAN OCEAN, S. PACIFIC

BK110941 Melbroune Overseas Service in English 0830 GMT 11 Oct 82

[Text] Foreign Minister Street says Australia has boosted its surveillance of the Indian Ocean and the South Pacific following an increase in Soviet activities in the region. In an interview published in an American magazine, Street said Australia had greatly increased its surveillance flights by P-3 Orion aircraft in the Indian Ocean.

He said it had also deployed naval vessels in the northwest Indian Ocean. Street said that about 18 months ago the Soviet Union had begun offering south Pacific island nations research facilities, fisheries, resources research and hydrographic and scientific surveys.

The minister said Australia, New Zealand and the United States had offered a scientific and survey program of their own to South Pacific states, but he did not expect this to be the end of Soviet interest in the area.

Street said Australia, as the largest country in the region, must assume a fair share of responsibility for the defense of the South Pacific.

FRASER ADDRESSES NATION ON TRADE, AID

BK171250 Melbroune Overseas Service in English 0830 GMT 17 Oct 82

[Excerpt] The prime minister has renewed his call for reduced world trade protectionism. In a national broadcast, Fraser said there was an urgent need for all countries to act together to reduce obstacles to trade. He said developing countries would be major beneficiaries if this occurred.

Fraser said Australians sometimes became preoccupied with what they saw as significant domestic problems and it was easy to overlook the fact that there were hundreds of millions of very poor people in the world.

He said that this year Australia would spend almost $740 million on aid to developing countries; that's slightly less in American dollars. Australia would also provide about 450,000 tons of food to needy countries. But Fraser said there was still a need for a much greater commitment to tackle the trade problems faced by developing countries by all countries acting together. He said greater access to world markets was by far the best way of helping developing countries become less dependent on offical aid.

MAHATHIR HAILS COMMONWEALTH MEETING RESULTS

BK181423 Kuala Lumpur Domestic Service in English 1330 GMT 18 Oct 82

[Excerpt] Datuk Sri Dr Mahathir says he regards India's recognition of Democratic Kampuchea as Malaysia's major achievement at the Commonwealth heads of government regional meeting - Chogrm -- which ended in Fiji today.

He said as far as he is concerned Malaysia has got what it wants on the issue of Kampuchea. He was commenting on the communique issued, in which all the 17 leaders of the Asia-Pacific recognize the formation of a Democratic Kampuchea.

The prime minister made it clear the fact that India acknowledged the developments in Kampuchea, including the formation of Democratic Kampuchea, was a major testimony that it recognized the formation of the government. He conceded that Malaysia's efforts to shore up support from the Indian Government had early met with some opposition, but he said the debate was not acrimonious, just sensible. The important thing is that India had accepted the fact that the government does exist. The prime minister was speaking to Malaysian reporters.

LEE KUAN YEW ON FIJI COMMONWEALTH COMMUNIQUE

BK181500 Singapore Domestic Service in English 1300 GMT 18 Oct 82

[Excerpt] Commonwealth heads of government in the Asia and Pacific region have expressed great concern at the persistence of foreign military intervention and interference in Kampuchea, which has increased tension and instability in Southeast Asia. They stressed that if the situation remained unresolved, it would only invite greater involvement by major powers in the affairs of the region. They said it was imperative for a comprehensive political solution to be found to the Kampuchean question based on a total withdrawal of all foreign forces from the country and the restoration of its independence, sovereignty and neutrality so as to enable the people to determine their future free from outside interference.

The heads of government said this in a communique issued after their meeting in Fiji. Among other things, the communique also called for the Indian Ocean and South Pacific to be turned into nuclear-free zones, safe from big-power rivalry. The Commonwealth leaders noted with alarm the increasing military buildup of the great powers in the areas and called for a conference aimed at reducing tension.

In a statement on the communique, Mr Lee Kuan Yew said that in noting the formation of the Coalition Government of Democratic Kampuchea, the delegates also had to note that Vietnam had announced a partial withdrawal of its forces from Kampuchea. They were never asked to note that there was a partial withdrawal which had not taken place.

The prime minister said that was the horse trading necessary to achieve unanimity. Delegates had to balance the fact of a Coalition Government of Democratic Kampuchea now seated in the United Nations with the fiction of a partial withdrawal of Vietnamese troops.

The prime minster added that the mention of Vietnam in the communique meant that the delegates understood that Vietnamese forces were in illegal occupation of Kampuchea and that they ought to be withdrawn. That, he said, was progress and a step nearer the truth.

On what it would mean for the New Delhi nonaligned summit next March, Mr Lee said it binds all the members who are present in Fiji to the implication of the statement that the Coalition Government of Democratic Kampuchea is acknowledged and that the Vietnamese ought to keep on consulting with the governments of the region to reach withdrawal.

In closing the Commonwealth meeting, Fiji's prime minister, Ratu Sir Kamisese Mara, said that Mr Lee in analyzing what at times appeared to be complicated matters, used clear and simple words.

Those from the south Pacific apprecaited his intervention during the discussion. Ratu Mara also said most of the Pacific countries envied Singapore's achievements.

Mr Lee has left Suva for Nandi after attending the meeting. The prime minister is on his way to Brisbane for talks with the Queensland premier, Mr Bjelke-Petersen.

CONCERN OVER USSR EXPANSION IN ASIA DISCUSSED

HK110430 Hong Kong SOUTH CHINA MORNING POST in English 11 Oct 82 p 11

[By staff correspondent: "Soviets Give Manila Cause for Concern"]

[Text] The Philippine Government is increasingly concerned about expanding Soviet influence in Southeast Asia and Soviet assistance for communists within the Philippines.

The growing Philippine unease was reported by a spokesman for Philippine President Ferdinand Marcos, Mr Adrian Cristobal, when he passed through Hong Kong last week after accompanying the president on his recent official visit to the United States. The visit, Mr Cristobal said, was a success.

One of President Marcos' chief concerns on the visit had been the U.S. strategy in Southeast Asia, and he had convinced President Ronald Reagan to recognize America's present security considerations in the region. This was one of the main factors in the discussions over Clark and Subic, the two American military bases in the Philippines, Mr Cristobal said. In 1979 Washington agreed to give the Philippines compensation of U.S. $500 million (about HK$3.2 billion) in return for the continued use of the bases. The Philippines is contemplating a figure of U.S. $1.5 billion (about HK$9.6 billion) as a starting point for the period 1984-89, according to ASIAWEEK Magazine.

Mr Cristobal noted the expansion of facilities at Camranh Bay, a former American base in South Vietnam now used by the Soviet fleet. He also spoke of increasing Soviet activities in the region and stressed that a strong American presence in the region was necessary to counter Soviet influence.

Speaking of domestic unrest, Mr Cristobal said the Moslem separatist problem was now largely contained and that the New People's Army (NPA), the armed wing of the Communist Party in the country, was also far less effective. This, the presidential spokesman maintained, was in large measure the result of the imposition of martial law, without which the separatists could have succeeded.

The Philippines also acknowledged that China had withdrawn assistance for the NPA, Mr Cristobal said, but he noted that the Soviet Union might now be assisting them. The Philippine authorities, he said, had lately seized Soviet-made arms from the NPA. And the international weekly magazine, TIME, disclosed in a recent article that the Soviet Union was behind the training of NPA members. The Manila government does not have any firm evidence to verify this statement, but President Marcos has already ordered an investigation into the possibility, Mr Cristobal said.

Speaking on domestic issues, Mr Cristobal dismissed the opposition as a group of familiar old faces who have opposed the present government since martial law was declared in 1972. However, the presidential spokesman said, the opposition now had a new element in it as certain members of the Catholic Church had recently joined it. Mr Cristobal recalled the pope's visit last year when the pontif spoke of "the dignity of man" and also enjoined the clerics not to engage in political affairs.

Some priests, however, had taken up the first issue but had ignored the pope's directive not to dabble in politics.

On the human rights issue, Mr Cristobal also disputed the accuracy of the Amnesty International report which accused the Marcos government of violations. He repeated President Marcos' denial that there had been any violations of human rights, though there had been some cases of abuses by members of the military forces.

On the country's financial situation, Mr Cristobal insisted that the Philippine economy was sound and that the country welcomed foreign investment. He pointed out that conditions for investment in the Philippines were far better than in other countries. The labor force is predominantly English-speaking and highly literate and there is an abundance of management skill.

[Text] President Marcos declared yesterday that he is ready to cut his term of office if the Batasang Pambansa so desires and provided the opposition groups participate in the proposed synchronized elections in 1984. In an interview with newsmen following his keynote address at the [word indistinct] celebration in Los Banos, Laguna, the president welcomed any move for the development of the country. On the opposition call for the president to cut his term, the chief executive said he would like to leave that completely to the Batasang Pambansa. He added, however, that this is something which never came up in the caucuses of the ruling Kilusang Bagong Lipunan, and therefore he has no reference point whatsoever. The president wants to know what the opposition offer is in return, and whether they are going to participate in the elections. He suggested that the matter be studied thoroughly.

ASSEMBLYMEN PROPOSE CUTTING TERMS OF OFFICE

HK181530 Manila BULLETIN TODAY in English 18 Oct 82 pp 1, 17

[By C. Valmoria, Jr.]

[Excerpt] A consensus developed yesterday among a bipartisan group of assemblymen to cut their term of office by one year and hold the regular election for Batasan members and for president in 1983 instead of 1984 to effect synchronization of elections every three years. This means that instead of reducing or extending the terms of local officials, the local elections will go on as scheduled in 1986.

The proposal followed the announcement of President Marcos that he was willing to cut his term, if the Batasang Pambansa so desires, and provided the opposition groups participate in the proposed synchronized elections in 1984.

Since the president was elected only last year for a six-year term which began June 30, 1981, and will end June 30, 1987, in accordance with the Constitution, cutting his term may require a constitutional amendment, the assemblymen said. Otherwise, if the Constitution is not amended and the president resigns to run for another election, he may only assume the unexpired portion of the six-year term for which he was elected in 1981, they said.

If the Constitution is to be amended for this purpose, the constitutional provision to hold the regular elections for Batasan members on the second Monday of May 1984, might as well be amended also so that the elections will be held in May 1983, they added.

Meanwhile, the urgent political reforms sought to be instituted by the Batasan to improve the country's political system will depend largely on the views of the public during the hearings to be conducted in 12 major cities starting Saturday in Baguio City, according to Political Affairs Minister Leonardo B. Perez, chairman of the Committee on Revision of Laws, Codes, and Constitutional Amendments, which will conduct the hearings. Perez said that after Baguio City, the committee will conduct hearings in Davao City, Cebu City and Metro Manila during weekends.

MARCOS DISCUSSES CONTINUED SUBVERSIVE ATTEMPTS

HK180037 Manila Far East Broadcasting Company in English 2330 GMT 17 Oct 82

[Text] President Marcos said yesterday there is a possible connection that apprehended dissident leaders might still be directing the operations of subversive groups. When asked about reports that Jaime Bernal, a [words indistinct] of subversive leader Horacio "Boy" Morales, was killed last Wednesday in Bulacan by a New People's Army liquidation squad, he said Bernal had manifested his desire to testify for the government against Morales. Asked what the killing of Bernal indicated, the president said it would have to be left to the assessment of military authorities, specially the intelligence units. But the connection is always there, that the people who have been apprehended are still running things in the subversive groups. He noted that the killing of Bernal would not weaken the government case against Morales, identified as leader of the underground National Democratic Front.

GENERAL RAMOS COMMENTS ON MILITARY'S LOYALTY

HK180549 Manila Domestic Service in English 0500 GMT 18 Oct 82

[Text] PC-INP [Philippine Constabulary-Integrated National Police] Chief Lt Gen Fidel Ramos has assured that there will be no military takeover of the government. General Ramos made the assurance in Cebu City over the weekend in a dialogue with mediamen and local community leaders. The dialogue was held at the INP training center. (June Francisco) has that story:

[Begin recording]: The PC chief told local leaders that the military is loyal to the Constitution and has always obeyed duly promulgated laws. He said there has been no tradition of military rule or coup d'etat in the Philippines, unlike in other countries. [end recording]

NUR MISUARI REPORTED NO LONGER MNLF CHAIRMAN

HK151430 Manila BULLETIN TODAY in English 15 Oct 82 pp 1, 15

[By Sid M. Roman]

[Text] The third session of the Moro National Liberation Front (MNLF) in Tawi-Tawi has ousted Nur Misuari as chairman of the MNLF Central Committee.

The congress, in resolution No. A-2, purged Misuari because of his "betrayal of the cause of the Bangsa Moro people." The body said Misauri "caused untold sufferings and sacrifices to millions of the Bangsa people and spilled the blood of the mujahideen in favor of his personal glory, selfish motive, and evil designs."

The resolution, signed by 39 constituent members of the congress, and attested by Kiram Haj Kamaluddin, constituent member and Moro congress secretary general, designated former Vice-Commander Dimas Pundato new chairman of the MNLF Central Committee. Pundato was a close ally of the ousted MNLF leader. The congress condemned Misuari for failing to consult leaders on major issues such as his decision to junk the Tripoli agreement, and opt for total secession. Misuari was also assailed for maladministration, corruption, one-man rule, and other malpractices, which destroyed the morale of the fighting forces and alienated MNLF leaders and commanders in the field, the resolution said.

With his ouster from the Central Committee, Misuari was stripped of all his powers, functions, and privileges. He was advised to cease exercising any function as chairman of the MNLF Central Committee.

Datu Firdausi I.Y. Abbas, chairman of the Muslim Assembly of the Philippines (MAP), in an overseas interview from Jiddah, Saudi Arabia, said Misuari was also ousted for shifting from the political objective of autonomy to secession. Abbas said the congress was an autonomy, and not secession, pursuant to Resolution 18 of the Organization of the Islamic Conference and based on the Tripoli agreement of Dec. 23, 1976.

Abbas urged President Marcos to renew talks with the new MNLF leadership and resolve "once and for all the decade-long southern Philippine conflict which has claimed so many lives and destroyed so much property already."

DEFENSE MINISTER VISITS SATELLITE COMPLEX

[Text] Defense Minister Juan Ponce Enrile yesterday assured residents around the Philippine communications satellite complex, Philcomsat, in Barangay (Pinurai) in Baras, Rizal, that they will not be ejected. Enrile helicoptered to the area yesterday morning and held a dialogue with the residents and local officials to explain the security zone established by the government within a 3 kilometer radius around Philcomsat. Assemblyman (Crisco San Juan), Rizal Governor (Isuto Rodriguez), and southern Tagalog Philippine Constabulary Regional Commander Brig Gen (Amdek Ramos) were among those present in the dialogue.

President Marcos has ordered the establishment of the security zone to ensure the uninterrupted operation of the only earth station in the Philippines for world satellite communications. The president noted that in view of the location of the complex, it would be very easy for saboteurs to destroy the station and paralyze the system.

Enrile assured the residents that the implementation of the order will not affect any of their rights to ownership or occupation of the land falling within the security zone.

ENRILE COMMENTS ON HANDLING RELIGIOUS RADICALS

HK170032 Manila Far East Broadcasting Company in English 2330 GMT 16 Oct 82

[Text] Defense Minister Juan Ponce Enrile said yesterday the military has no intention to kill radical religious leaders linked to the communist movement, but to capture them alive if possible. He emphasized that the military is not going after priests if they are really serving our people, but if they are helping the communists, that is a different story. He made the remarks on the public affairs TV program "Dialogue."

DPRK PROTESTS AT MAC SECURITY OFFICERS MEETING

SK192250 Pyongyang KCNA in English 2217 GMT 19 Oct 82

[Text] Kaesong, October 19 (KCNA) -- A security officers' meeting of the Military Armistice Commission was held Tuesday at Panmunjom. At the meeting our side lodged a strong protest with the enemy side and called it to task for the malicious provocations and violations the U.S. imperialist aggressors had lately committed against our side in the Joint Security Area, rendering the situation strained.

According to the statement of our security officer, at around 09:20 on October 17, when tourists of our side entered the conference room of the MAC, four soldiers of the U.S. imperialist aggression forces threatened them by knocking windows and glaring at them and obstructed the guide's explanation.

At around 09:15 on September 27 a soldier of the U.S. imperialist aggression forces, in the yard in front of the observation post situated southeast of the conference room, committed such a rash provocation as whipping out his pistol and pointing it at a guardsman of our side who was on his routine duty on the opposite post.

And the U.S. imperialist aggressors continue bringing into the Joint Security Area more armed personnel than the number agreed upon between the two sides. Such provocations and violations of the enemy numbered 41 cases in the period from September 17 to October 18.

Saying that tensions are increasing in the Joint Security Area today due to the deliberate provocations of the U.S. imperialist aggressors, the security officer of our side strongly demanded the enemy side to take responsible measures for ending its provocations and violations against our side.

ANNIVERSARY OF 1979 SOUTH KOREAN RIOTS MARKED

SK200058 Pyongyang KCNA in English 1624 GMT 19 Oct 82

[Text] Pyongyang, October 19 (KCNA) -- The Central Committee of the Democratic Front for the Reunification of the Fatherland, the Committee for the Peaceful Reunification of the Fatherland, the Central Committee of the League of Socialist Working Youth of Korea and the Korean Students Committee on October 17 made public in joint name an appeal to the South Korean people and students on the occasion of the third anniversary of the October, 1979, resistance of South Korean people for democracy.

Noting that the October resistance was touched off by the anti-"government" demonstration of students of the Pusan University on October 16, 1979, and spread like a prairie fire to Masan, Seoul, Kwangju and all other parts of South Korea, the appeal says that this was an explosion of the pent-up resentment and indignation of the South Korean people against the vicious colonial fascist rule of the U.S. imperialists and their stooges and an eruption of their strong desire and wish for a new politics and new life, independent and democratic.

Though three years have passed since the resistance fighters fought crying "Down with the Yusin system!" and "Give us freedom! "a military fascist "regime" more truculent than the "Yusin" dictatorship has been set up in South Korea under the patronage of the outside forces, the appeal says, and continues:

South Korea has been turned into a huge sanguinary prison whose bars cover the whole society and its whole land reduced to a dark hell without life.

In South Korea where the bayonet is, to to speak, a politics and violent outburst is, so to speak, a law, all the righteous actions against the tyrannical rule are regarded as heretical ones and become a target of harsh penalty.

Kim Tae-chung and other democratic figures who called for democracy and peaceful reunification are suffering in jail; workers, peasants and other sections of guiltless people are arrested and imprisoned merely because they demand the right to existence; hot-blooded young people and students whose hearts are burning with justice and patriotism are crippled by tortures and end their life on the gallows at the hands of the fascist hangmen.

Noting that the national reunification so ardently desired by the participants in the resistance still remains an aspiration and the country's division is being further frozen day by day, the appeal says that this is attributable to the U.S. imperialists who enforce a colonial rule, occupying South Korea nearly for 40 years.

It continues: The U.S. imperialists are the very one forcing subjugation not independence, fascism not democracy, and division not reunification, upon the South Korean people. They are a violator of sovereignty, a strangler of democracy and a cancer to reunification. As long as their aggression troops keep occupying South Korea and their colonial rule is maintained, the South Korean people can not hope for national independence or democratisation of society nor can they expect the peaceful reunification of the country.

All the fellow countrymen in South Korea who have national conscience and patriotism should turn out as one to the sacred anti-U.S., national-salvation struggle to break the accursed colonial chains of the U.S. imperialists and achieve the complete independence and sovereignty of the nation, says the appeal. It calls upon them to participate in a nationwide struggle to decisively smash the "two Koreas" plot of the splittists at home and abroad and found the Democratic Confederal Republic of Koryo proposed by the great leader Comrade Kim Il-song.

RALLY HELD IN MEMORY OF KWANGJU DISSIDENT

SK191612 Pyongyang KCNA in English 1517 GMT 19 Oct 82

[Text] Pyongyang, October 19 (KCNA) -- Students in Pyongyang held a meeting on October 18 in memory of Pak Kwan-hyon, a patriotic student of Kwangju, South Korea, who was murdered by the South Korean military fascist clique. As leader of the student movement of Chonnam University, Pak Kwan-hyon valiantly fought in the van of the fighting ranks at the time of the Kwangju popular uprising in May 1980 and after he was arrested by the enemy, he resolutely fought to the last moment of his life in prison, refusing to abandon his principle.

Memorial addresses were made at the meeting.

In his address Yi Song-kuk, vice-chairman of the Korean students committee, said: Pak Kwan-hyon was murdered at the young age of thirty. But his life was a proud one of genuine patriotic youth and his exploits will shine long in the annals of the anti-imperialist, anti-fascist struggle for national salvation of the South Korean people and students.

The U.S. imperialist aggressors and the Chon Tu-hwan fascist gang murdered Pak Kwan-hyon in cold blood at a time when the anti-U.S. actions of the students and people were rapidly gaining in momentum in South Korea, thereby once again fully revealing their true colours as murderers and human butchers, he said.

Pointing out that in an attempt to keep in the dark their brutal murder of Pak Kwan-hyon, the U.S. imperialist aggressors and the Chon Tu-hwan fascist gang enforced a strict news blackout and resorted to a despicable trick to make it appear as if the student died from a heart trouble, he declared: This is nothing but a desperate attempt of the doomed.

A memorial poem titled "Flames of Kwangju Will Be Eternal" was recited at the meeting. The poem sang of the righteous struggle of Pak Kwan-hyon who fought the enemy at the cost of his life, not yielding to any torture and appeasement.

VRPR SCORES CHON REGIME ON DEATH OF KWANGJU UPRISER

SK190244 (Clandestine) Voice of the Revolutionary Party for Reunification in Korean to South Korea 1100 GMT 16 Oct 82

[Dialogue in feature program "Focus on Topics"]

[Text] [First speaker] People at home and abroad are paying keen attention to the struggle that the people of various social segments have stepped up against the Yankee aggressors and the Chon Tu-hwan group with the single desire of taking revenge for the death of Pak Kwan-hyon, former student of Chonnam University. Voices have been raised to denounce the Chon Tu-hwan ring's barbarous crimes in the wake of his death in prison. In this hour we will discuss this issue with Mr Kim, commentator of this broadcasting station.

When the people at home and abroad were grinding their teeth in surging rancor and resentment against the Chon Tu-hwan ring, hearing the new report that Pak Kwan-hyon died in prison after staging a 40-day hunger strike, and when voices were being raised to denounce its barbarous, murderous acts, college students in Kwangju, including students of Chonnam University, waged an anti-U.S. and antigovernment struggle on 14 and 15 October. Would you review this situation?

[Second speaker] As is already know, college students, including students of Chonnam University, Pak Kwan-hyon's alma mater, waged a mass anti-U.S. and antigovernment struggle for 2 days. Chanting slogans denouncing criminal acts committed by the Yankee aggressors and the Chon Tu-hwan group -- a group of their stooges -- and singing, some 600 students of two universities in Kwangju courageously struggled on campuses on the morning of 15 October against police forces frantically running amok to suppress them. Prior to this, on the afternoon of 14 October, many students of Chonnam University -- Pak Kwan-hyon's alma mater -- staged a demonstration on the campus with the single desire of taking revenge for the death of Pak. At dusk they rushed to the street near the provincial government building and waged a fierce struggle, shouting "Yankees must withdraw," "Let us overthrow Chon Tu-hwan!" and Let us take revenge for Pak Kwan-hyon!"

On 15 October the South Korean catholic committee for justice and peace issued a statement denouncing the Chon Tu-hwan ring's barbarous acts. Referring to the death of Pak Kwan-hyon, this statement said that we understand that this death is an incident representing a dismal symbol of the question of human rights facing the present generation. The statement then called for ending all illegal acts in Kwangju prison and for punishing officials concerned.

On 13 October an association of the families of conscientious prisoners in Kwangju issued a statement and disclosed the Chon Tu-hwan ring's inhuman and barbarous acts.

[First speaker] I understand that the anti-U.S. and antigovernment struggle which students and religious figures have stepped up in the wake of the death of Pak Kwan-hyon is the eruption of their pent-up rancor against the Chon Tu-hwan ring -- which has bestially suppressed Pak Kwan-hyon who struggled to achieve independence and democracy -- and is a manifestation of the unanimous will of patriotic people of all walks of life to take revenge for the price of blood he shed.

[First speaker] As a matter of fact, the Kwangju popular uprising in which Pak Kwan-hyon participated was a patritoic struggle. It is intolerable to suppress those who participated in this heroic struggle and to arrest and punish many patriotic students.

[Second speaker] That's right. The Kwangju uprising was a righteous and patriotic struggle to oppose the Chon Tu-hwan ring's barbarous fascist tyranny masterminded by the United States and to demand independence, democracy and reunification. Instigated and positively supported by the United States and mobilizing a vast number of troops, the Chon Tu-hwan ring committed a harrowing, barbarous act of killing over 10,000 people by conducting an unprecedentedly murderous internecine operation. It committed an intolerably criminal act of arresting and punishing many patriotic students and citizens. I believe that this abominable, barbarous act committed by the U.S. aggressors and the Chon Tu-hwan ring -- a group of their stooges -- cannot be tolerated generation after generation.

[First speaker] This is why many patriots, including Pak Kwan-hyon, continued an unyielding struggle both in court and in prison.

[Second speaker] That's right. Pak Kwan-hyon was one of many patrotic students. Together with his colleagues, Pak Kwan-hyon continuously and courageously struggled in prison, without wavering in his creed. On 8 July this year, Pak began a partial hunger strike, demanding that the cause of death of political prisoners in the Kwanghu prison be explained and that the treatment of prisoners be improved. On 10 July the Chon ring poured water mixed with hot pepper powder into the nostrils of three prisoners, including Pak Kwan-hyon, and assualted them as a group. Not giving in to this violence, Pak Hwan-hyon began a complete hunger strike on 2 September. After continuing the hunger strike for 40 days, he died on 12 October. I believe that the death of Pak Khwan-hyon represents the resistance of our people, who do not tolerate U.S. colonial rule and Chon Tu-hwan's fascist dictatorship, and represents their patriotic will not to give in to any tyranny.

[First speaker] That's right. The death of Pak Kwan-hyon has once again exposed in detail the fascist nature of the Chon Tu-hwan ring. There has never been an instance of death by hunger strike in prison. Pak Kwan-hyon's death means he was brutally murdered in prison by the Chon Tu-hwan ring.

[Second speaker] Right. We can say that the U.S. rascals and the Chon Tu-hwan ring killed Pak Kwan-hyon. This is why the patriotic people of all walks of life are now denouncing the Chon Tu-hwan ring's barbarous, murderous acts. Referring to the Chon Tu-hwan ring's murderous acts, the association of the families of conscientious prisoners in Kwangju, in its statement issued on 13 October, disclosed that the prison authorities had poured water mixed with hot pepper powder into the nostrils of three prisoners, including Pak Kwan-hyon, and assaulted them as a group and that, when Pak began his complete hunger strike, they confined him to a solitary cell and bestially tortured him. Nevertheless, to mislead public opinion at home and abroad, the Chon Tu-hwan ring has committed the base act of announcing that Pak died because of myocardial infraction.

[First speaker] In the wake of the death of Pak Kwan-hyon, college students in Kwangju, including students of Chonnam University, the association of the families of conscientious prisoners in Kwangju and the South Korean Catholic Committee for Justice and Peace staged anti-U.S. and antigovernment struggle and issued statements denouncing the Chon Tu-hwan ring. This represents the will of the people to take revenge for the death of Pak Kwan-hyon and the blood shed in Kwangju.

[Second speaker] That's right. This represents the will of the people not to forgive the U.S. aggressors and the Chon Tu-hwan ring. Particular, this shows that the Kwangju struggle has not ended but that it is underway. I believe that this struggle reflects the firm will of our people to banish the Yankee aggressors and to bury the Chon Tu-hwan ring.

[First speaker] It appears that, with the death of Pak Kwan-hyon as momentum, the anti-U.S. and antigovernments struggle will develop.

[Second speaker] That's right. It is anticipated that, with the death of Pak Kwan-hyon, the struggle to denounce the Chon Tu-hwan ring's barbarous, murderous acts will develop. As I briefly explained previously, voices have been raised throughout the country to protest and denounce the Chon Tu-hwan group's murderous acts that have been instigated by the U.S. imperialists. Students and patriotic people throughout the country, including Kwangju and Seoul, are now teeming with a high spirit to more resolutely wage their anti-U.S. and anti-Chon Tu-hwan struggle not to allow Pak Kwan-hyon's death to be in vain and to take revenge for his death hundreds and thousands of times.

I firmly believe that patriotic students and people throughout the country will rise in the mass anti-U.S. and antigovernment struggle, that the Yankee aggressors will surely be banished from this land through the pannational, nation-saving struggle of our people and that the Chon Tu-hwan ring will be overthrown.

[First speaker] Right. Chon Tu-hwan should correctly view the trend of the time, should act discreetly, should release all detainees, including those who have been arrested on charges of participating in the Kwangju popular uprising, and should immediately step down from power in accordance with the unanimous will and demand of the people at home and abroad.

CPRF INFORMATION FLAYS STUDENT TRIALS IN SOUTH

SK190942 Pyongyang Domestic Service in Korean 2300 GMT 18 Oct 82

[Information No 236 issued on 17 October by the Secretariat of the Committee for the Peaceful Reunification of the Fatherland -- read by annoucer]

[Text] Today the Chon Tu-hwan clique's fascist oppression of students is growing more violent every day in South Korea. According to a report, the South Korean puppet clique, holding a trial at the Chunchon District Court on 11 October, again perpetrated an atrocity by sentencing wicked punishments on eight students whom it arrested on charges of involvement in the anti-U.S. struggle by Kangwon University students in April.

The puppets, in particular, committed a crime by sentencing (Son Yong-sok) to 2 years and 6 months of imprisonment and 2 years and 6 months of suspension of rights on the pretext that the original decision on his prison term was too light for his actual crime of planning and leading the students' anti-U.S. struggle.

Eight students, including (Son Yong-sok), who were the target of the cruel punishment, are the patriotic youths who burned the cursed U.S. flag while disseminating leaflets from the 3d floor of the Kangwon University students' hall in April, reading "Yankee go home!" "We deny the present system!" and "We hail the arson at the U.S. cultural center in Pusan!" The fact that they burned the Stars and Stripes, resolutely rising in the struggle against oppression, and disseminated several hundred anti-U.S. leaflets is an eruption of accumulated resentment and indignation against the U.S. imperialist aggressors, who are implementing a vicious colonial rule over South Korea, occupying it for 37 years, and is an exercise of their lawful right to independence and to restore to the nation the dignity and sovereignty that the aggressors have taken from them.

This notwithstanding, the Chon Tu-hwan ring has regarded as a crime and has harshly suppressed the righeous struggle of the patriotic students who rose up in a resolute resistance against the U.S. imperialists' colonial domination and subordination. This is a vicious challenge to the South Korean people, youths and students aspiring against the United States and for independence and is an intolerable act of strangling the independent forces of the nation.

The recent suppressive barbarity committed by the Chon Tu-hwan ring is nothing but the last-ditch, desperate efforts of those who are dismayed with the anti-U.S. and pro-independence spirit that is running in rushing torrents through all of South Korea. They are scheming to threaten all South Korean youths, students and people and to block their new anti-U.S. advance by harshly suppressing the anti-U.S. struggle of the Kangwon University students. However, this is a vain, wild fantasy.

The U.S. imperialists and the traitor Chon Tu-hwan should know that guns and bayonets and a rule through imprisonment cannot break the will of the popular masses, who are energetically marching forward along the anti-U.S. and pro-independence road, regarding independence as their life.

The Chon-Tu-hwan ring should stop its national, treacherous acts of currying favor with the U.S. imperialist masters and of trying to maintain its dirty life under their patronage by suppressing with guns and bayonets and imprisoning the patriotic youths, students and people who have risen up in the anti-U.S. struggle. The ring should immediately revoke the illegal punishments inflicted on the patriotic youths and students and should unconditionally and immediately release them.

FURTHER MATERIALS ON CPV DELEGATION'S VISIT

Visit to Cemetery

SK190852 Pyongyang KCNA in English 0815 GMT 19 Oct 82

[Text] Pyongyang, October 19 (KCNA) -- The delegation of the former Chinese People's Volunteers on October 17 laid wreaths in the cemeteries of fallen fighters of the Korean People's Army and the Chinese People's Volunteers in Kaesong.

Present on the occasion were the members of the delegation headed by Comrade Han Xianchu, member of the Central Committee of the Communist Party of China and deputy commander of the former Chinese People's Volunteers. Also present were Gu Zhanhong, chief of the CPV Liaison Office at the Military Armistice Commission, and its staffers. Comrade Paek Hak-nim, member of the Political Bureau, and member of the Military Committee of the Central Committee the Workers Party of Korea and vice-minister of People's Armed Forces; Colonal General of the Korean People's Army Chu To-il, member of the WPK Central Committee and member of its Military Committee; Kim Yong-chon, chairman of the Kaesong Municipal People's Committee; Major General Han Chu-kyong, senior member of our side to the Military Armistice Commission, and other personages concerned were present there.

The ribbons hanging from the wreaths were inscribed with the worods "May the fallen fighters of the Korean People's Army be immortal!" and "May the fallen fighters of the Chinese People's Volunteers be immortal!"

The attendants observed a moment's silence in memory of the fallen fighters.

Visit to KPA Unit

SK200548 Pyongyang KCNA in English 0345 GMT 20 Oct 82

[Text] Pyongyang, October 20 (KCNA) -- We are ready to fight shoulder to shoulder with you as in the past, so in the future, too, if there were any enemy's action in Korea, declared Xie Fang, chief of the staff of the former Chinese People's Volunteers, when he visited a unit of the Korean People's Army on October 17.

At the KPA unit to which Comrade Yang Tong-hun belongs, he said: Our party Central Committee extends resolute support to your struggle for the reunification of the country. Seeing you steadfastly carrying through the motto "Each a match for a hundred" set forth by the great leader Comrade Kim Il-song, we became further convinced that the Korean People's Army is invincible. Vice-president of the Academy of General Logistics of the Chinese Peoples Liberation Army, he is the deputy head of the visiting delegation of the former CPV.

Han Xianchu, member of the C.C., the Communist Party of China and deputy commander of the former CPV, who is leading the delegation, said, while inspecting Panmunjom on October 18: If the enemy come in attack again, the Chinese people, People's Liberation Army and the former Chinese People's Volunteers will always fight hand in hand with you till the U.S. imperialists and the South Korean puppet clique are destroyed.

The delegation visited Kaesong on October 16. It was accompanied by Comrade Paek Hak-nim, member of the Political Bureau, and member of the Military Committee of the C.C., the Workers Party of Korea and vice-minister of People's Armed Forces.

It was met by Colonel General of the KPA Chu To-il, member of the C.C., WPK; Kim Yong-chon, chairman of the Kaesong Municipal People's Committee; Major General Han Chu-kyong, senior member of our side to the Military Armistice Commission; and Gu Zhanghong, chief of the CPV Liaison Office at the MAC.

The delegation was entertained to a party on the evening of October 17 by the Kaesong Municipal People's Committee and the KPA unit.

The delegation has so far visited different army units including the KPA Army Unit 809.

The soldiers of the units warmly welcomed the close revolutionary comrades-in-arms with whom the Korean People's Army fought shoulder to shoulder in the same trench and won victory in the Korean war against the U.S. imperialist aggressors.

[Text] Pyongyang, October 19 (KCNA) -- A delegation of the Bulgarian Communist Party headed by Comrade Ognyan Doynov, member of the Political Bureau and secretary of the BCP Central Committee, arrived here Monday by air for a visit to our country. It was met at the airport by Comrade Kim Hwan, member of the Political Bureau and secretary of the Central Committee of the Workers Party of Korea, and Kil Chae-kyong and Kim Chin-ok, vice-directors of department of the WPK Central Committee, and Yi Song-nok, vice-minister of foreign trade. Officials of the Bulgarian Embassy here were also present at the airport.

KWP Banquet

SK191059 Pyongyang KCNA in English 1024 GMT 19 Oct 82

[Text] Pyongyang, October 19 (KCNA) -- The Central Committee of the Workers Party of Korea arranged a banquet Monday evening at the People's Palace of Culture in honour of the delegation of the Bulgarian Communist Party.

Invited to the banquet were the members of the delegation headed by Comrade Ognyan Doynov, member of the Political Bureau and secretary of the BCP Central Committee, and officials of the Bulgarian Embassy here.

Attending the banquet were Comrade Kim Hwan, member of the Political Bureau and secretary of the Central Committee of the WPK, and Kil Chae-kyong and Kim Chin-ok, vice-directors of department of the WPK Central Committee, Yi Song-nok, vice-minister of foreign trade, and other personages concerned.

Comrade Kim Hwan spoke first at the banquet. He said the Workers Party of Korea and the Bulgarian Communist Party established bonds of friendship in the course of a struggle against imperialism and for the cause of socialism and communism and have constantly strengthened and developed them in keeping with the common interests and desires of the two parties and two peoples.

Noting that today the fraternal Bulgarian people under the leadership of the Bulgarian Communist Party headed by their outstanding leader Comrade Todor Zhivkov have registered big successes in their energetic efforts to build a developed socialist society, upholding the programme set forth by the 12th congress of the party, he said: Our people rejoice over them as over their own successes and sincerely wish the fraternal Bulgarian people new achievements in their struggle ahead. The Bulgarian people, he said, are also struggling to thwart and frustrate the new war provocation manoeuvres of the imperialists led by the U.S. imperialists and for a durable peace and security in Europe including the Balkans and the rest of the world.

We believe that the friendly and cooperative relations between our two parties and two peoples which are developing favorably with each passing day, will continue to grow stronger and develop on the principle of proletarian internationalism in the common struggle against imperialism and for the victory of the cause of socialism and communism, he stated.

Speaking next, Comrade Ognyan Doynov said: Our friendly relations are based on the great friendship between Comrade Todor Zhivkov, general secretary of our party Central Committee, and Comrade Kim Il-song, general secretary of the Central Committee of the Workers Party of Korea.

We are pleased, he continued, with the enormous successes achieved by the Workers Party and people of Korea in the revolution and construction under the wise guidance of Comrade Kim Il-song, general secretary of the Central Committee of the Workers Party of Korea. The Korean People's struggle for national reunification is our common struggle he said, and added: We wish you success in this struggle.

He wholeheartedly wished the Korean people new success under the wise leadership of Comrade Kim Il-song, general secretary of the Central Committee of the Workers Party of Korea, and the Central Committee of the Party.

The attendants of the banquet drank toasts to the fraternal friendship and solidarity between the Workers Party of Korea and the Bulgarian Communist Party and between the Korean and Bulgarian peoples, to the good health and long life of the great leader of our people Comrade Kim Il-song, to the good health and long life of the dear leader Comrade Kim Chong-il and to the good health and long life of Comrade Todor Zhivkov, the outstanding leader of the Bulgarian people.

FOREIGN MINISTRY TO SEEK 'CROSS-RECOGNITION'

SK200709 Seoul YONHAP in English 0654 GMT 20 Oct 82

[Text] Seoul, Oct. 20 (YONHAP) -- The Foreign Ministry will seek to create a favorable international environment conducive to Seoul's admittance to the United Nations with the aim of reducing tension and peacefully reunifying the Korean Peninsula.

According to a ministry report submitted Wednesday to the National Assembly, the ministry will also pursue diplomatic cross recognition of both South and North Korea by the United States, Japan, the Soviet Union and China with the same purpose.

The report said the ministry will consider resuming negotiations with Tokyo on bilateral economic cooperation while maintaining a wait-and-see attitude on development in later relations.

In an effort to materialize the proposed summit meeting of Pacific Basin countries, the ministry will encourage the country's exchanges with other countries in the region through non-governmental channels, such as private conferences between Seoul and ASEAN and political party exchanges.

The ministry plans to hold a Korean-European Economic Community (EEC) consultation meeting to strengthen cooperation with EEC member countries and help set up a permanent EEC representative in Seoul.

Domestically, an education program worked out by the ministry will enable provincial offices to deal with passport-related affairs beginning next April.

The ministry will also actively support domestic construction firms extending their businesses to Africa and other Asian countries beyond the Middle East, the report added.

COUNTERPLANS AGAINST ATTACK BY NORTH WORKED OUT

SK200428 Seoul THE KOREA TIMES in English 20 Oct 82 p 1

[Text] Army Chief of Staff Gen. Hwang Yong-si revealed yesterday that the army worked out perfect counterplans for ground battles, pointing out that victory or defeat would be determined within the first three days after the outbreak of hostilities.

Testifying before the Defense Committee of the National Assembly, he viewed that the enemy would try to achieve its scheme of communizing the South by neutralizing combat capability in the early stage of the war after penetrating the present front with the combined strength of regular forces and guerrillas.

In the steering committee, Kim Song-ki, chairman of the Social Reform Commission, said that his commission, which was a definite organ of the government, would cease to function automatically when an autonomous climate for the social purification movement took root in society. Kim said that it was desirable, however, for the local commissions to continue to exist even after the dissolution of the central commission to promote the drive continuously on the private level. "To this end, the commission plans to forward a law bill concerning fostering the organizations for the social purification campaign to the incumbent regular House sitting," he said.

Eleven standing committees of the total 13 opened meetings to continue to hear briefings from the ministries concerned on their business yesterday. Of them, the Health-Social Committee hit a snag for the second day since the opposition parties refused to hear briefings from the Health-Social Ministry. The opposition lawmakers said that they would not attend the panel session until the ministry presented a law bill concerning the merger of the two separate medical insurance systems.

PAPER VIEWS REMARKS OF RETURNED FISHERMAN ON NORTH

[Editorial: "Vivid Testimony of Repatriated Fishermen"]

[Text] Our fishing boat Masan-Ho 5, which was abducted by a North Korean naval patrol boat on 13 July in international waters on the East Sea, was returned from North Korea along with its 35 crewmen 78 days after being detained there. The crewmen of the returned fishing boat held a press conference on 15 October and exposed the real situation in North Korea, reporting without omission what they had witnessed.

What draws our attention is the fact that North Korea's tactics in brainwashing the abducted South Korean fishermen and its methods in issuing them operational directives for espionage activities in South Korea in the future are still cunning, systematical and more concrete.

It has been exposed through the fishermen that the North Korean brainwashers focused not only on idolizing Kim Il-song, but also deifying Kim Chong-il. At the press conference, they exposed that North Korean brainwashers did not hesitate to tell such a lie that, when he was 5 years old, Kim Chong-il cut a cucumber into three pieces with one stroke of a sword and that he "has a peerless character as a leader" and "a genius for communist revolution." This vividly shows how desperately North Korean communists are trying to establish a succession system for Kim Chong-il.

The returned fishermen also exposed the fact that the ideological indoctrination education of the abducted South Korean fishermen was elaborately conducted under the sponsorship of the so-called Committee for the Peaceful Reunification of the Fatherland at the 38th Hotel in Sariwon and the International Hotel in Wonsan. From this fact we can see once again the heinous plot of the North Korean puppets.

According to the returned fishermen, North Korean communists instructed them to contrive to win over their relatives, to organize a camouflaged friendship meeting with these relatives, to introduce such meetings into labor unions and to inspire the masses to trigger a popular uprising. They also instructed the fishermen to organize a mountaineering club and,through this club, to conduct underground espionage operations. This shows that the North Korean communists' tactics to throw our society into confusion at a so-called decisive time have not been renounced.

The returned fishermen also exposed that they had participated in an anti-South Korean and anti-U.S. oratorical contest. They said that at the oratorical contest, each of them was forced to read a manuscript written by the communists for about 5 to 6 minutes. From this fact, we can see that their political propaganda activities utilizing abducted South Korean fishermen have become more cunning.

The strengthening of the anti-South Korean and anti-U.S. struggle by the holding of such fabricated press conferences and oratorical contests in accordance with the scenario written by the communists is clear evidence of how desperately the North Korean puppets have tried to deceive the people in North Korea. This is not only another desperate effort of the communists to obliterate the complaints and discontent among the people in North Korea, but also an indication that the complicated situation in North Korea today is very serious.

According to the fishermen, even functionaries of North Korea frankly admitted the difficult economic situation confronting North Korea today. They also admitted that the North Korean economy is 20 years behind South Korea's.

It is also exposed that while conducting brainwashing activities on the South Korean fishermen, the North Korean puppets fed them only rice mixed with barley and beans or rice gruel even for breakfast. This indicates that North Korea's food situation has become more serious.

Nevertheless, the returned South Korean fishermen pointed out, the North Korean communists proudly told them that all people in North Korea, from young students to old people, are first-class marksmen and that the city of Pyongyang has become an underground military fortress. This also indicates that the communists in North Korea have already completed preparations for a war. This is also closely related to the fact that the North Korean puppets have completed replacing military leaders with hard-line younger officers supporting Kim Chong-il.

One of the returned fishermen was reported to have met his son and brother while he was in North Korea. Far from exchanging the feelings of blood kin with them, however, he was said to have to listen to his brother's propaganda on North Korea. This vividly exposes the vicious nature of political propaganda of the North Korean puppets under the mask of humanitarianism.

The North Korean puppets have so far abducted a total of 453 fishing boats and 3,554 fishermen of South Korea. Of these, the puppets still illegally detain in North Korea 31 fishing boats and some 460 fishermen. They have failed to inform us of the destinies of these fishermen.

The North Korean puppets should immediately stop the acts of abducting innocent compatriots and release all the South Korean fishermen who are now being forcibly detained in North Korea.

Along with this, we should further solidify our security posture to cope with the North Korean puppets' schemes for communizing South Korea and more thoroughly strengthen our coastal defense so that we can protect our fishing boats from being abducted to North Korea.

PRO-PYONGYANG GROUP SCORES USSR MISSIONS TO ROK

OW190755 Tokyo KYODO in English 0729 GMT 19 Oct 82

[Text] Tokyo, Oct 19, KYODO -- Chongnyon, a pro-Pyongyang organization of Korean residents in Japan, has chastized the Soviet Union for sending delegates to South Korea.

Chongnyon, the General Association of Korean Residents in Japan, hurled the accusation in its paper CHOSON SINBO to be issued Wednesday.

The Korean-language newspaper, circulated among pro-Pyongyang residents in Japan, said the Korean residents could not contain their astonishment with the news that a Soviet TASS news agency delegation met with South Korean President Chon Tu-hwan. The TASS mission visited Seoul last week to attend a meeting of the Organization of Asia-Pacific News Agencies (OANA). A senior Soviet Culture Ministry official also entered Sunday, apparently aimed at discussing expansion of Soviet-South Korea relations.

"It is surely strange that a socialist state and a friend of North Korea sent official delegates to South Korea, a colony of U.S. imperialists, which argues for anti-communist, anti-Soviet and noncommunist reunification of the divided country," the paper said. Officially, there has so far been no direct response from Pyongyang to the successive visits by Soviet delegates to the South.

The CHOSON SINBO said these visits dashed water on Korean residents in Japan who have harbored a favorable sentiment about the Soviet Union which they felt would keep faith with friendly countries.

"The Korean residents cannot help but doubt that the Soviets maintain the dignity now that they go to South Korea which condemns the Soviet Union and other socialist states and provides the United States with military bases to be used for attacks on it," the newspaper said.

Chongnyon says that there are now about 750,000 Korean residents in Japan, of whom 370,000-380,000 are Chongnyon members.

PRESENCE OF SOVIET OFFICIAL AT MEETING NOTED

THE KOREA TIMES report is similar to the item headlined "ROK Invites N. Korea, PRC To Join in Study of Relics," published in the 19 October DAILY REPORT, page E 1, but adds the following additional information in the last paragraph:

"Professor J. Popov, chief of the Art Preservation Bureau of the Soviet Union's Culture Ministry, joins them as Moscow's first ranking official to visit the country."

BURMESE FOREIGN MINISTER U CHIT HLAING VISITS

Meets Yi Pom-sok

SK111344 Seoul YONHAP wn English 1207 GMD 11 Oct 82

[Text] Seoul, Oct. 11 (YONHAP) -- South Korean Foreign Minister Yi Pom-sok and his Burmese counterpart U Chit Hlaing met for talks here Monday evening on a wide range of issues, particularly political and economic, to promote cooperative ties between Seoul and Rangoon.

Sources at the meeting said that the two ministers discussed promoting two-way trade and technological exchanges for the development of natural resources, including Korean private businesses' participation in Burmese economic projects.

Minister Yi reportedly briefed U Chit Hlaing, who visited North Korea's Pyongyang last year, on the Seoul-initiated peace formula, making special note of President Chon Tu-Hwan's repeated proposals for the democratic unification of divided Korea.

The two top diplomats also made an analytical review of the current Asian-Paficic situation, particularly regarding the Korean peninsula, the sources said.

U Chit Hlaing arrived in Seoul Saturday, accompanied by five officials, for a five-day visit at the invitation of the South Korean foreign minister. On Tuesday, the Burmese foreign minister will meet with Prime Minister Kim Sang-hyop, Commerce-Industry Minister Kim Tong-hui and Defense Minister Yun Song-min to exchange views on matters of mutual concern.

During his stay here, the Burmese will visit exemplary villages of the Saemaul (New Community) movement, a program which the late President Pak Chong-Hui initiated about 10 years ago to lift the face of the country's rural area.

The Burmese party includes U Tin Tun, director general of the Foreign Affairs Ministry's Political Department, and Lt. Gen. Tun Yee, vice chief of staff of the Burmese Defense Services Army.

Meets With Chon

[Text] Seoul, Oct. 12 (YONHAP) -- U Chit Hlaing, the visiting Burmese minister of foreign affairs, paid a courtesy call Tuesday on Korean President Chon Tu-hwan at Chongwadae, the presidential mansion in Seoul.

Also present at the Chongwadae meeting were Korean Foreign Minister Yi Pom-sok, Burmese Ambassador to Korea U Kyi Maung and Korean Ambassador to Burma Yi Kae-chol.

U Chit Hlaing, who arrived in Seoul Saturday, also visited Prime Minister Kim Sang-hyop at Kim's office in the capitol. He is scheduled to leave Seoul Wednesday.

SPK REJECTS THAI CHARGE ON SRV ATTACK PLANS

[Text] Phnom Penh, 19 Oct (SPK) -- Quoting Thai military sources, UPI said on 14 October that Vietnam has increased the number of its troops along the Kampuchean-Thai border opposite Nong Chan in preparation for an attack in this region.

SPK is authorized to completely reject this slanderous report invented by Thailand with the intention of worsening tension along the border separating Kampuchea from Thailand.

'DOCUMENTS' SAID TO REVEAL PRC, THAI AID TO DK

BK191324 Phnom Penh SPK in French 0434 GMT 19 Oct 82

[Text] Phnom Penh, 19 Oct (SPK) -- Today U.K. Chap, acting head of the Foreign Ministry's Press Department revealed documents at a Phnom Penh press conference which brought into full display the vile maneuvers of the Beijing leading circles against the rebirth of the Kampuchean people by their intermediaries and henchmen Pol Pot, Ieng Sary and Sihanouk.

These documents were captured by the Kampuchean Revolutionary Armed Forces during the destruction of the important Pol Pot base in the region of Ta Sanh, Battambang Province. They contain, among other things, instructions [words indistinct] Khieu Samphan.

They explain why the Chinese leaders ordered the Pol Pot gang to "renounce communism" to form a "coalition government with Sihanouk." They also expose the Thai authorities' complicity with China and the Pol Pot gang in sheltering, financing and supplying the Pol Pot bandits.

A photocopy of the notes of a conversation on 13 January 1979 shows that Deng Xiaoping, the Beijing strongman, told Ieng Sary to change his policy, to "downplay the Communist Party, and, on the contrary, to highlight patriotism, nationalism and democracy." He added later: "When facing realities it is best that you should deepen their meanings."

Deng Xiaoping recommended that Ieng Sary organize a united front with Sihanouk because he would be able to bring into play the Beijing expansionist policy and his face is less hideous than those of Pol Pot, Ieng Sary and Khieu Samphan. But Deng Xiaoping added: "It is necessary to maintain vigilance in facing Sihanouk, whose role is of prime importance, but whose character is odd."

Deng Xiaoping advised, among other things, to "leave Sihanouk the post of head of state, to entrust to Pol Pot the function of prime minister, defense minister and supreme command of the armed forces."

Concerning Thailand, Ieng Sary received two days later -- 15 January 1979 -- the following advice from Hua Guofeng, the then chairman of the Chinese Communist Party: "Thailand, unlike China, does not dare openly support and help Kampuchea, but it does so secretly. Respect this secrecy. Therefore, transfers via Thailand must be carried out secretely for quite a long time in order to let Thailand play the role that it has chosen...."

Hua Guofeng reproached the Pol Pot gang for its lack of diligence in establishing an embassy in Thailand, "contrary to his desires." He also reassured Ieng Sary on Chinese policy related to the Communist Party of Thailand: "Concerning the Communist Party of Thiland, Comrade Deng Xiaoping held talks with you; surely we support it... If Kampuchea is not firmly seated in its position, the Thai party will also be unstable."

On more concrete problems, such as financing the Pol Pot gang and the establishment of a radio transmitter, Deng Xiaoping said to Ieng Sary:

"The problem of funds -- how will we send them to you? In Bangkok? By courtesy of Kriangsak? Or through the interposition of a Thai bank? We keep at your disposal $5 million which you can use at any time and in any way that pleases you. We can deposit it in a Thai bank, the Chinese Embassy or the Kampuchean Embassy in Thailand." Ieng Sary gave his approval by proposing "to deposit it at the Chinese Embassy in Bangkok."

Deng Xiaoping blamed the radio broadcasts of the Pol Pot gang "for not receiving as favorable world opinion as those of the Thai and Malaysian parties," "because they spread news which was far removed from reality." Geng Biao, who attended these talks, suggested the establishment of a transmitting station at the border by stressing that "if it is set up in Thai territory, it is more convenient, and in case Kriangsak does not accept this proposal, you should talk about it with the Chinese Embassy."

The documents also present a report of a Khmer Rouge under the pseudonym San -- an Ieng Sary agent in charge of keeping track of Sihanouk's diplomatic activities after the event of 7 January 1979.

There are also two messages, the first from Chen Muhua, vice premier of the People's Republic of China, dated 20 January 1979, which was sent to Ieng Sary, and the other the reply of Ieng Sary on U.S. $5 million in Chinese aid to the "Government of Democratic Kampuchea" and bills for the delivery of telecommunications equipment, medicines, surgical instruments and materials for broadcasting.

ACTIONS AGAINST POL POT ENEMY, 'BANDITS' REPORTED

BK151228 Phnom Penh Domestic Service in Cambodian 1200 GMT 14 Oct 82

[Weekly roundup of KPRAF activities]

[Excerpts] On 1 October a group of the Pol Pot soldiers sneaked into an area 15 km west of Yeang Dangkum in an attempt to plant mines along communications lines. With the cooperation of the Vietnamese volunteer forces, our armed forces there immediately surrounded and killed seven of them on the spot. We also seized four AK's and five mines.

On 3 October our regional forces surrounded a group of bandits who crossed the border into Puok District, Siem Reap Province, to loot the people's rice and cattle. We killed seven of them, including their commander, and seized a K-59 pistol and four AK's. The next day, our armed forces surrounded the survivors, who fled to Chong Kal in the same province. We killed three of them and seized an AK.

On 3 October, in Soeng commune, Sisophon District, Battambang Province, our local forces arrested an enemy element who was trying to entice the people to serve the enemy's maneuvers. We seized an AK and two handgrenades. A day later, our local militiamen surrounded and took prisoner two Pol Pot elements who were preparing to loot our people's rice in Tuol Sbeou communue, Sisophon District, Battambang Province. We seized two AK's and four handgrenades.

On 4 October our local militia forces intercepted a group of bandits attempting to loot our people's rice in Soeur commune, Moung Russei District, Battambang Province. We killed three enemy elements before they could even commit a crime and seized two AK's.

On 1 and 2 October the people in Stoung District of Kompong Thom Province and Thpong District of Kompong Speu Province discovered two enemy arms caches. They led our armed forces to unearth a DKZ-75, 8 DKZ-75 rounds, 25 B-40 rockets, 5 storage crates for 12.7-mm rounds, 47 mines and 4 C-25 radio sets.

CHEA SIM RECEIVES INDIAN CHARGE D'AFFAIRES

BK180720 Phnom Penh SPK in French 0430 GMT 16 Oct 82

[Text] Phnom Penh, 16 Oct (SPK) -- Chea Sim, member of the KPRP Central Committee Political Bureau and chairman of the National Assembly, received J.C. Shama, charge d'affaires extraordinary and plenipotentiary of India to Kampuchea, in an audience in Phnom Phenh on 15 October.

Chea Sim dwelt on the successes achieved by the Kampuchean people for more than 3 years in rebuilding the country in general and stabilizing their day-to-day existence in particular, and said that Kampuchea has realized its agricultural production plan for the year despite a drought. Chea Sim affirmed that the so-called "tripartite Coalition Government of Democratic Kampuchea" conceived by the Chinese expansionists in collusion with the U.S. imperialists and reactionary circles of the ASEAN, particularly Thailand, is aimed at sabotaging the Kampuchean revolution and that it is worsening tension in Southeast Asia. On the merciful policy toward the Kampucheans who were misled by enemy propaganda, Chea Sim stressed that following their defection, these people enjoy their rights as citizens, including the rights to be elected and to vote, if they respect the Constitution of the PRK.

J.C. Shama called the founding of the so-called "Coalition Government of Democratic Kampuchea" "a new maneuver" aimed at misleading public opinion. The UN support for Pol Pot runs counter to the aspirations of the Kampuchean people, J.C. Shama said. J.C. Shama expressed India's position of broadening the relations of friendship and cooperation between India and Kampuchea in order to turn Southeast Asia into a zone of peace, stability and cooperation.

KAMPUCHEA EDITORIAL HAILS EMULATION MOVEMENT

[KAMPUCHEA editorial: "Strive Enthusiastically To Advance the Patriotic Emulation Movement for the Defense and Reconstruction of the Fatherland" -- date not given]

[Excerpts] Under the clear-sighted and just leadership of the KPRP, in accordance with the progressive tendency of this age, the revolutionary movement of our people has made daily progress and achieved brilliant victories in every field despite the enemy's perfidious maneuvers to hamper our progress. This is the result of our people's determination and courage to fight and heighten the spirit of revolutionary vigilance and their readiness to work -- in their role as master of the country and destiny -- for our glorious common goal which is to build an independent, peaceful, free and prosperous People's Republic of Kampuchea.

It is true that trying to heal and repair the evil legacy of the previous regime is a very complex and difficult task, but it is also the sacred duty of our generation. This is why everyone must make every effort to pool their strength and abilities to advance the revolutionary movement toward achieving greater successes. In this sense, the party, armed forces and people must enthusiastically participate in the patriotic emulation movement for the defense and reconstruction of our fatherland to ensure that the state has a firm foundation for independence, democratic rights and a happy and prosperous life for our people.

All localities, units, cadres, personnel, combatants, workers and people should always raise their patriotism and love for the people, and contribute enthusiastically to the current great task of firmly defending the platform of national independence and rebuilding the fatherland step by step toward socialism.

Everyone must heighten the spirit of revolutionary vigilance in order to destroy all the maneuvers and acts of sabotage by the reactionary Khmers; preserve security and order in villages and communes; better the people's living standards by increasing production both in quantity and quality; strive to fulfill successfully duties toward the state; and at the same time be determined to protect and save the state's and people's property. They must also, at all times, strengthen the bonds of internal and international solidarity, in particular with Vietnam, Laos, the Soviet Union and other friendly socialist countries.

Each sector must actively strive and persevere in the emulation movement, for it is an important factor enabling us to successfully defeat all perfidious maneuvers of the enemies of the revolution and contribute efficiently to the struggle to redress the economy, braving all the grave consequences -- left behind by the Pol Pot-Ieng Sary-Khieu Samphan genocidal gang and the old society -- in order to build a splendid new society.

Thanks to the determination of the party, armed forces and people in the patriotic emulation movement for the defense and reconstruction of the fatherland, we will certainly achieve greater victories, incessantly increase the revolutionary gains and advance our beloved fatherland toward becoming a developed society in a short period of time.

SIHANOUK FETES PRC UN ENVOY, MEETS ICK MEMBERS

BK200713 (Clandestine) Voice of Democratic Kampuchea in Cambodian to Kampuchea 2330 GMT 19 Oct 82

[Text] On 12 October, in New York, Samdech Norodom Sihanouk, president of Democratic Kampuchea and head of the Democratic Kampuchean delegation attending the 37th UN General Assembly, and Neak Mneang Monique Sihanouk, hosted a reception in honor of His Excellency Ling Qing, permanent representative of the PRC at the United Nations and acting head of the Chinese delegation. Other members of the Chinese delegation were invited to attend the reception. His Excellency Khieu Samphan, vice president of Democratic Kampuchea in charge of foreign affairs, and other members of the Democratic Kampuchean delegation also attended the reception.

At the reception, held in a cordial and friendly atmosphere, Samdech Norodom Sihanouk and His Excellency Ling Quing proposed a toast wishing for and warmly congratulating the relations of friendship and solidarity between Democratic Kampuchea and the People's Republic of China.

On 14 October, in New York, the samdech president of Democratic Kampuchea received His Excellency Massamba Sarre, permanent representative of Senegal and chairman of the Special Commission of the International Conference on Kampuchea; Her Excellency Miss Edmonde Dever, permanent representative of Belgium and vice chairman of the Special Commission; and His Excellency Zainal Abidin, Malaysia in the Special Commission. The Samdech had talks with the distinguished guests and hosted a nice lunch in their honor. His Excellency Khieu Samphan, vice president of Democratic Kampuchea in charge of foreign affairs; Ambassador Thiounn Prasith; and Peang Meth Gaffar, member of the Democratic Kampuchean delegation, also attended the talks and reception, which were held in a cordial atmosphere.

ACTING FOREIGN MINISTER VIEWS PRC, ASEAN TIES

[Text] Tokyo, Oct 19, KYODO -- Laos' acting Foreign Minister Khamphai Boupha Tuesday said here that he does not believe there will be a shift in China's harsh policy toward Indochina despite possible improvement in Sino-Soviet relations.

Khamphai told a press conference at Japan's National Press Club that China has been rejecting proposals put forward by Laos and Vietnam to conclude nonaggression treaties with those countries. He denounced China for hegemonism and expansionism, saying that the Beijing leadership has been building its military forces on the Laotian frontier and trying to cause confusion in the peaceful life of the Laotian people and in their efforts for economic and social development. Therefore, he added, he expects no change in China's policy toward Indochina.

The Laotian official detailed a proposal Vientiane made in September in letters to member countries of the Association of Southeast Asian Nations (ASEAN) to hold an international conference aimed at peaceful settlement of the Kampuchean issue. Khamphai said the conference would be devoted to establishing peace and stability in Southeast Asia through dialogue between Indochina and ASEAN. The meeting would be attended by the three Indochinese countries, five ASEAN member states, and Burma as well as by Britain, China, France, India, the Soviet Union and the United States, he said.

The venue of the conference would be agreed upon among the participants, and he did not rule out the possibility of Japan's participation.

The ASEAN nations, however, are opposed to holding such an international conference on the basis of the Laotian proposal because of the Laotian precondition that the Vietnam-backed Heng Samrin government in Phnom Penh take part.

Khamphai has been in Japan since Sunday as guest of the Foreign Ministry on his way home from New York where he attended the General Assembly of the United Nations. Khamphai is the first high ranking Laotian Government official to visit Japan in seven years since the socialist government was established in Vientiane in 1975. He is scheduled to leave Japan Friday.

LPRP ISSUES RESOLUTION ON 60TH USSR ANNIVERSARY

[16 October resolution issued by LPRP Central Committee Political Bureau on celebration of 60th founding anniversary of USSR]

[Text] The date 30 December 1982 marks the 60th anniversary of the founding of the USSR. The founding and development of the USSR are a victory of the Great October Revolution and a great success of the international policy of Lenin and of the Soviet party and state. This day marks a historic event of profound international significance. It is a great festive day for the Soviet people, the people in the various fraternal socialist countries and for the progressive laboring people throughout the world.

During the past 60 years, under the leadership of the CPSU, the glorious and honorable party of the great Lenin, the various nations in the large family of the Soviet Union have united and mutually assisted and surmounted various difficulties in the heroic struggle to firmly defend the first socialist state in the world, defeating internal and external enemies and successfully building socialism. They are now building the material and technical bases of communism.

The glorious achievements won by the Soviet people in building the economy, developing culture, ceaselessly improving their living conditions, developing science and technique, strengthening national defense potentials and in carrying out their lofty international obligations vividly testify to the superiority and invincible strength of socialism. The achievements serve as a clear mirror of the implementation of a policy of equality among nations and on the struggle for independence, peace and the people's well-being. At the same time, they show that the Soviet Union is a rock-hard fortress of peace and serves as a reliable prop for the various nations in the world in their struggle for peace, national independence, democracy and social progress.

Thanks to their heroism and great sacrifices during the great war to defend their fatherland, the Soviet people saved mankind from the disasters of fascism, opened up a new era for world revolution and created conditions for the success of socialism in many countries. At present, the world socialist system, which has extensively developed on all continents with the support of the Soviet Union, has become the great development of society.

At present, the imperialists, the Beijing expansionists and hegemonists and other imperialists, the Beijing expansionists and hegemonists and other reactionaries are striving to oppose the various socialist countries and various nations' revolutionary movements. They are striving to sabotage peace and international security, create tension in several areas of the world and step up the arms race and are threatening to wage a nuclear war. Nevertheless, they are getting bogged down deeper and deeper in political, economic and social crises. Internally, they have encountered more and more serious difficulties and conflicts. Meanwhile, the three revolutionary currents have vigorously grown and developed, continued to take the offensive and won one victory after another.

Faced with the bellicose intentions and warmongering acts of the Reagan administration and the international reactionaries, the Soviet Union has implemented its unswerving policy aimed at safeguarding and consolidating world peace and reducing tension. It has put forth many important peace proposals on disarmament to check the danger of a new war. The various peace proposals advanced by the Soviet Union, particularly its announcement that it will not be the first to use nuclear weapons, have received widespread praise and approval from the Lao people, the peoples of various socialist countries and from progressive public opinion throughout the world.

The Soviet Union has given great and effective assistance and support to the Lao people's revolutionary cause in the past and continues to do so. The friendly relations and multilateral fraternal cooperation between the two countries and peoples of Laos and the Soviet Union have daily developed and blossomed. The resolutions adopted at the Third LPRP Congress stress that Laos must strive to strengthen its solidarity and all-round cooperation with the Soviet Union and other countries in the socialist community. This is a permanent, unchangeable and principled policy of our party and state.

Therefore, on this glorious occasion, the LPRP Central Committee Political Bureau has decided to organize joyous celebrations to mark the 60th anniversary of the founding of the USSR in various forms. This is to enable our people of all tribes to deeply understand the historic significance of the founding of the USSR, the great successes of the Soviet people in their socialist and communist construction, the growth and developement of each republic in the USSR, the various precious lessons learned by them and the role and great dedication made by the Soviet Union to the cause of peace and world revolution. At the same time, this will make our people clearly understand that the great support and assistance given by the Soviet Union to our people's revolutionary cause in a spirit of socialist internationalism is a very important factor.

All of this will heighten our people's firm confidence in the new regime and the nation's glorious future, consolidate more firmly the unity among the people of various tribes, and strengthen the friendship, solidarity and all-round cooperation with the Soviet Union, other fraternal socialist countries and the various progressive forces in the world. On this basis, we must mobilize the people to be confident in and deeply understand the domestic and foreign policies of our party and state and strive to emulate to fulfill the resolutions adopted at the Third LPRP Congress.

In the immediate future, we must triumphantly implement the state plan for 1982 in order to score achievements to welcome the 7th anniversary of the founding of the LPDR on 2 December 1982 and to greet and salute the 60th anniversary of the founding of the USSR.

Party and administrative committees at all levels, ministries, state committees and mass organizations must map out detailed and concrete plans to effectively carry out this resolution. The central propaganda and training organization must effectively supply various documents serving this mobilization campaign.

Vientiane, 16 October 1982

ATHIT COMMENTS ON TROOP ROTATION IN KAMPUCHEA

BK200752 Bangkok Domestic Service in Thai 0000 GMT 19 Oct 82

[Text] Speaking to newsmen, Army Commander in Chief Gen Athit Kamlangek said the current Kampuchean border situation is not a cuase for concern, noting that troop movements in Kampuchea were merely the rotation of troops by the Vietnamese-Heng Samrin side. However, it is noteworthy that the number of replacement troops might be increased to suppress the forces of the three Kampuchean factions. It is not possible to anticipate the situation if the Heng Samrin side should step up the suppression campaign, which would force the Kampucheans to retreat to Thai territory. If this happens, they would have to be pushed back.

The army commander said his information is that the Heng Samrin side's sole heavy weapon is the 107-mm rocket, which is less accurate than artillery pieces. Thai units, however, are not taking chances and have continued to be alert against any situation.

COMMONWEALTH COMMUNIQUE ON KAMPUCHEA WELCOMED

[Editorial: "Our Partners in ASEAN Win a Key Victory"]

[Text] Under normal circumstances a regional Commonwealth meeting or even a full-dress Commonwealth meeting, like the UN General Assembly talkathon, would only be of passing interest to us. But an important fact arose there about which Singapore Prime Minister Lee Kuan Yew was quick on the uptake...as usual. The regional conference of the heads of government of 17 Asian and Pacific Commonwealth nations was nearly deadlocked over the Kampuchean and Afghanistan issues. It is one of the principles of Commonwealth meetings, as of the non-aligned group, not to vote to secure a majority ruling but to achieve a consensus.

Two members of ASEAN -- Malaysia and Singapore -- were prime movers in trying to get the Coalition Government of Kampuchea, headed by President Norodom Sihanouk, recognized as the UN does. Fourteen other members of the conference naturally went along with our ASEAN partners, but India felt herself isolated 16-to-1 because she is the only Commonwealth country which recognizes the puppet Heng Samrin regime. It may be concluded that India, facing such impossible odds, gave in, but that is not being quite true because India can be most recalcitrant when she wants to be.

Ultimately a consensus was worked out in the final communique by which that conference "welcomed the formation of the Coalition Government of Democratic Kampuchea." It was not at all a climb down for India nor was it a big victory for our ASEAN partners. It was the way the wind was blowing and the answer was there. Lee took it in his stride and said that India had "to go through the motions" of backing Vietnam. And in deference to India, the largest country in the whole of the Commonwealth, the final communique also welcomed the announcement by Vietnam "of a partial withdrawal of its forces from Kampuchea."

Again, Lee was the interpreter of the communique par excellence: "Delegates had to equate and balance the fact of a coalition government for Kampuchea now seated in the United Nations with the fiction of a partial withdrawal of Vietnamese troops." While we do not want to second guess Lee, there seem to be two factors in Lee's understanding of the situation. The first is the consensus achieved in Fiji by the 17 Commonwealth members would enable Prince Sihanouk to address the non-aligned summit scheduled in New Delhi early next year and, second, the definite but mild shift in Indian foreign policy.

Much speculation has been made about Indian Prime Minister Indira Gandhi denouncing the presence of Soviet troops in Afghanistan from a platform IN MOSCOW [published in italics] recently. But Lee, as the leader of the richest small nation of the world, has a nose for scenting the mildest shift in the way a zephyr is blowing when it comes to big countries. By the way, although the conference was billed as one of heads of government, it was not attended by Mrs Gandhi, but by Foreign Minister Narasimha Rao.

It is not our intention to read into the outcome of the conference more than what was actually said in this communique, but like Lee, Mrs Gandhi also sees far ahead -- and, by this, we mean the non-aligned summit. She has to stage-manage the conference in New Delhi but, given her heritage, she will not be as prejudiced as Fidel Castro of Cuba, who only partially succeeded in ramming through pro-communist resolutions in the last non-aligned summit in Havana. Unfortunately, he was outmanoeuvred by then President Josip Broz Tito of Yugoslavia, strongly backed by our ASEAN partners, Indonesia, Malaysia and Singapore.

We, in Thailand, have much to be happy about the outcome of this 17-nation conference. We are expecting a thumping majority to vote for the Khmer coalition government in the UN General Assembly and we are keeping our fingers crossed that Prince Sihanouk will be able to pull off a coup at the non-aligned summit.

PAPER COMMENTS ON FRENCH VIETNAMESE RELATIONS

[Editorial: "And Now Comes the 'Communist Millionaire'"]

[Text] It was French philosopher Henri Bergson, better known for his "elan vital" concept, who pointed out that there was only a thin line between laughter and tears and, in many a movie, master-comedian Charlie Chaplin has proved this to be true when he caught audiences wondering whether a situation was comic or tragic. And when we come across the phrase "communist millionaire" we are in a similar situation. We do not know whether words have changed meaning, or whether an oxymoron is intended, but since we are old-fashioned we would think that "communism" would be equivalent to a "workers' paradise" while "millionaire" would mean a "capitalist." If we fall back on communist jargon, we would call millionaires "bloodsuckers."

What we have been told is that French millionaire Jean-Baptiste Doumeng -- a man with close connections with Moscow, from which he certainly did not acquire his million or millions -- has signed a deal, on behalf of his Interagra, with Vietnam instituting a barter deal amounting to U.S. $208 million. We are not quite sure what he is going to barter for what, but there is also a report that he is going to buy Thai rice to be sent to Vietnam. We sincerely hope that this boosts the price of rice in the world market which, whether Doumeng likes it or not, is dominated by capitalist United States.

We have heard of bumper crops of grain in the U.S. but we are not quite happy with our own projected figures of rice, but he is certainly welcome to whatever we can spare, if the price is right and is paid in the right currency. What other barter is involved and what he expects to get from Vietnam, so far as we are concerned, have been kept secret. Possibly, being a communist, he would, after the barter deal is through, cease to be a millionaire and join the working classes.

We would not have bothered to comment on what RENMIN RIBAO of Beijing calls "unrealistic fantasy" except that the newspaper says that France is being enticed to back Vietnam in the remote hope that Vietnam can be wooed away from the Soviet Union. France has always had ambitions of retaining close relations with her former colonies and to some extent at least she has been successful in Africa. But she seems to have lost her credence in Indochina since the time when Vietnam decided that she should become a major power in Southeast Asia and her ambitions could be realized only with the help of the Soviet Union. Further, there is not much that France can do for Indochina, since her own economic problems have loomed larger since the Socialist Government of Francois Mitterrand took over. But anyhow China seems to be wrong in thinking that France is somehow involved in Interagra's or Doumeng's episode which, at the moment, appears to be a private deal with extremely little hope of materializing.

If Doumeng is a French Communist, the person who would know him best is the leader of the French Communist Party, Georges Marchais, who will be in Beijing this week. Marchais should be able to give a clear explanation to Chinese leaders about whatever deal is going through or whatever propaganda stunt is to be staged. From our point of view, we are quite satisfied to dismiss Doumeng as the "red baron."

Delegation Tours Havana

OW200053 Hanoi VNA in English 1629 GMT 19 Oct 82

[Text] Hanoi, VNA, October 19 -- The Vietnamese party and state delegation led by President Truong Chinh yesterday afternoon visited the Children's Central Palace Ernesto Che Guevara and the Granma Memorial in Havana.

At the children's centre he chatted with the little boys and girls and gave them gifts.

He wrote in the visitor's book at the Granma Memorial: "...The Granma is a fine symbol of the ardent patriotism of the fraternal Cuban people, their determination to fight for independence and freedom, and their revolutionary spirit.

"The more we admire the heroic struggle of the Cuban nation, the more we believe the Cuban people, under the clear-sighted leadership of the Communist Party of Cuba led by Comrade Fidel Castro, will continue to add glorious chapters to the history of the building and defence of their socialist country, making worthy contributions to the cause of world revolution".

Earlier in the day, Chu Huy Man, Political Bureau member of the C.P.V. Central Committee, and other members of the delegation visited a dairy farm in Picadura Valley and attended a ceremony to hand over new houses to sixty families in the village of Vietnam's victory. On their way back to Havana, the guest visited the June'74 primary school.

Nguyen Thi Dinh, member of the C.P.V. Central Committee and president of the Vietnam Women's Union, and other members of the delegation visited the Cuban Women's Union Central Committee on October 16.

PAPER SAYS PRC 'BENT ON MAINTAINING TENSION'

BK191413 Hanoi Domestic Service in Vietnamese 2330 GMT 18 Oct 82

[QUAN DOI NHAN DAN commentary: "Behind Beijing's Fabrications and Slanders" -- date not given]

[Text] World public opinion, long interested in the situation along the Sino-Vietnamese border and the relations between the two countries, has noticed an abnormal but not strange situation wherein China's propaganda mouthpieces of every type -- from radio Beijing to XINHUA and RENMIN RIBAO -- have continually released slanders and fabrications to poison the atmosphere between the two countries. On five occasions since early October 1982, they have released false reports about Vietnamese Armed Forces provocatively opening fire, causing bloodshed and even intruding into Chinese territory to pillage paddy and rice. Recently, on 13 October, the Chinese Foreign Ministry sent a note to the Vietnamese Embassy in Beijing, fabricating so-called armed provocations by Vietnam in the border area on the occasion of the National Days of the two countries.

World public opinion can easily see that the release of all such fabrications and slanders, including the aforementioned note, is a calculated moved by the Zhongnanhai authorities. It is no coincidence that they have conducted a series of propaganda activities in the Goebbels style. The truth is that they are stealing while crying "stop thief." While Beijing's psychological warfare machinery was releasing these slanders, Chinese border defense forces provocatively opened fire with small arms and artillery to sabotage the normal life of the Vietnamese people in the border area; Chinese commandos infiltrated Vietnamese territory to gather information and disrupt public order and security; and Chinese warplanes and vessels violated Vietnam's airspace and territorial seas, thus constantly straining the atmosphere between the two countries.

Also during this period, Beijing colluded with Washington to inflame the situation along the Thai-Kampuchean border, thereby further spoiling relations between the Indochinese and ASEAN countries. They stepped up supplies of arms and food to the Pol Pot army remnants and other reactionary Kampuchean groups now taking refuge in Thailand, encouraging the notorious genocidal bandits to intensify their activities against the revival of the Kampuchean people.

Under the pretext of a threat to Thailand from the Vietnamese side, the United States has supplied the Thai Army with additional weapons and means of war and urged the ultrarightist authorities of that country to develop their frontline role against Vietnam and the revolution in the three Indochinese countries.

The aforementioned acts by Beijing and its accomplices are not only part of a long-term scheme that has been and is being put into motion to further their expansionist and imperialist designs, but are also aimed at coping with a number of pressing problems now facing them. Currently, world public opinion and even the Chinese people themselves are demanding that Beijing respond to the Vietnamese side's reasonable and rational proposal that both sides cease armed and other hostile activities and refrain from opening fire in the border area on the occasion of National Days of the two countries.

The goal of Beijing's slanders is to sidetrack public opinion which is welcoming the good will of the Vietnamese side and its desire for peace on the Sino-Vietnamese border. On the other hand, observers of current events note that by continually repeating ill-intentioned fabrications, the Chinese authorities want to make the world believe quickly that Vietnam is causing a tense situation because of its bellicosity and aggressiveness and, on this basis, pressure world public opinion, through the current 37th UN General Assembly Session, into recognizing and maintaining the illegal seat of the genocidal Pol Pot clique under the new guise of Coalition Government of Democratic Kampuchea at this large international forum.

Obviously, with such odious slanders and fabrications, the Beijing authorities are still pursuing a hostile policy against Vietnam and the other Indochinese countries as they have done for many years now. They have no intention of contributing to seeking peace and stability along the common border and creating a favorable atmosphere conducive to improving relations between Vietnam and China. They have always turned their backs on the good will displayed by the SRV which desires to settle disputes in a just, reasonable and rational manner, in the interests of both the Chinese and Vietnamese peoples and in response to the aspirations of the peoples in Southeast Asia and the rest of the world.

The truth clearly shows that Beijing itself is the one bent on maintaining tension along the Sino-Vietnamese border so that it can fish in troubled waters. In its relations with Vietnam, its closest neighbor, Beijing displays no flexibility or moderation whatsoever as it has advertised about the foreign policy adopted at the 12th CPC Congress held early last September. Instead, it says one thing and does another.

AAPSO INDOCHINA STANCE AT USSR MEETING NOTED

OW172118 Hanoi VNA in English 1454 GMT 17 Oct 82

[Text] Hanoi, VNA, October 17 -- The Presidium of the Afro-Asian Peoples Solidarity Organization has reiterated support for the initiatives of Vietnam, Laos and Kampuchea in normalizing relations with China and establishing good neighbourhood with the A.S.E.A.N. countries.

At its 11th meeting in Tashkent, U.S.S.R., the A.A.P.S.O. Presidium demanded that the United Nations and the Non-Aligned Movement expel Pol Pot representatives and admit the People's Republic of Kampuchea, the sole authentic and legal representative of the Kampuchean people.

The A.A.P.S.O.'s Presidium condemned the United States and China for obstructing the normalization of the Kampuchean situation.

It demanded that Washington and Beijing stop scheming against Vietnam, Laos and Kampuchea and that Bangkok cease all hostility towards the three Indochinese countries and stop backing Lao and Khmer reactionaries.

HCM CITY AFRO-ASIAN WRITERS MEETING WELCOMED

Pham Van Dong Message

BK200700 Hanoi Domestic Service in Vietnamese 2300 GMT 19 Oct 82

["Text" of 20 October message from Pham Van Dong, chairman of the Council of Ministers, to the opening of the Afro-Asian Writers Association Executive Committee conference in Ho Chi Minh City -- read by announcer]

[Text] Dear friends: On behalf of the Vietnamese people and the SRV Government and on my own behalf, I would like to extend my warm greetings to all of you, the representatives of progressive literature in Asia and Africa -- the homeland of mankind's many famous ancient civilizations and the region where the fierce struggle for national independence and sovereignty and a new life is taking place.

On this earth, nothing is more precious than the values of genuine humanism which have emerged from the cultures and civilizations of various nations. Among nations, nothing is more beautiful than the relations of friendship and fraternity. In literature, no voice can touch the heart of man more profoundly than the voice of justice and conscience and the voices which have been raised for the sake of man's dignity and happiness. It is your pens which have fought and are fighting for these noble ideals.

At present, the U.S. imperialists and other bellicose forces are frantically participating in the arms race, and the danger of a nuclear war is threatening the achievements of civilization and even the existence of mankind. They have committed genocidal crimes against the Palestinian people, violated the sovereignty of the countries of Asia and Africa and sowed division among these countries with extremely sinister schemes and tricks.

Together with the peoples of the Soviet Union and other socialist countries and with progressive mankind, the peoples of the countries in Asia and Africa are determined to check and frustrate all these schemes. On the face of the current world tension, your sense and acts of responsibility are of special importance.

It is a great honor for our Vietnamese people to welcome the envoys of genuine literature -- the fighters who have fought stalwartly for peace, national independence and social progress -- to the homeland of our President Ho Chi Minh and to the city which bears his name.

All progressive writers in Asia and Africa stood by our side during the years of resistance which were full of hardship. Today, they again support us in our struggle for national reconstruction and defense. Our Vietnamese people will always remain grateful to you all. May I wish you fine success in your conference and meeting.

NHAN DAN Editorial

OW200921 Hanoi VNA in English 0729 GMT 20 Oct 82

[Text] Hanoi, VNA, Oct. 20 -- "It is in the flame of the common struggle that Afro-Asian literature has grown more and more conscious of its epochal responsibility and creative and combat capacities," says a NHAN DAN editorial welcoming the conference of the Permanent Bureau of the Afro-Asian Writers Association which opens in Ho Chi Minh City today. The paper says:

"Not long ago, the venue of the conference was still the headquarters of the U.S. imperialists' eastern Pentagon. It was also there that on April 30, 1975, the victorious flag of the common struggle of the world's people in solidarity with Vietnam against a modern war of extermination was hoisted. At this meeting, writers in Africa and Asia will focus their discussions on the most urgent problem: Afro-Asian literature and the cause of peace."

The paper goes on: "The peoples of Asia and Africa are determined not to remain indifferent at the extremely serious situation at present when U.S. imperialists in collusion with other bellicose forces are frantically intensifying the arms race, preparing a nuclear war and threatening to destroy the entire human civilization and exterminating every life on this planet.

"The burden of increasing war budgets and the disastrous aftermath of the economic crisis of the capitalist world has been placed on the developing countries. In their scheme to bring mankind to the brink of a holocaust, the U.S. imperialists, under the plea of defending their 'vital interests', have stopped at nothing in violating the soveriegnty of numerous nations in Asia and Africa, dividing them and pitting one against another, collaborating with local reactionary forces in an effort to destabilize these countries through sinister plans of sabotage. The U.S.-Israeli collaboration in intensifying the policy of extermination against the Palestinian people is a warning to all."

"But the combined strength of the peace forces throughout the world today is stronger than all weapons of the war maniacs," NHAN DAN notes.

"Guided by conscience and moved by their creative talent, the Afro-Asian writers are advancing towards the common objective and will surely make great, decisive contributions to forming new combatants in the struggle against imperialism for independence and freedom, and a new concept of the right to live and to shape up their own future," the paper concludes.

LABOR MOBILIZATION FIGURES FOR JANUARY-SEPTEMBER

[Text] According to a report by the Labor Mobilization Department [cucj dieeuf doongj lao doongj] of the Ministry of Labor, in the first 9 months of 1982, nearly 95,000 people including almost 50,000 laborers have been mobilized throughout the country to build new economic zones and to reinforce various sectors.

These figures show that we have fulfilled 57 percent of the annual plan concerning the number of people and 73 percent concerning the number of laborers. Of the 50,000 laborers mobilized, more than 19,000 were sent to state-run establishments, fulfilling 53 percent of the annual plan; 19,230 were assigned to collective establishments, fulfilling 63 percent of the annual plan; and 11,200 were sent to (?other sectors).

The provinces sending out the most people were Nghia Binh, Ha Nam Ninh and Binh Tri Thien, which fulfilled 102, 103 and more than 109 percent of their annual labor mobilization plans respectively.

The provinces receiving the most people were Minh Hai, Lam Dong, Dac Lac and Dong Nai, which fulfilled 110, 85, 71 and 66 percent of their annual labor receiving plans respectively.

Generally speaking, the settlers in various new economic zones have quickly stabilized their living conditions and have promptly begun production work.

PRESS VIEWS RELATIONS WITH JAPAN, SUHARTO VISIT

BK191005 Jakarta OANA in English 0847 GMT 19 Oct 82

[Text] Jakarta, Oct 19 (ANTARA-OANA) -- Many doubt whether President Suharto's visit to Japan Oct. 19-22, shortly after Japanese Prime Minister Zenko Suzuki has announced his intention to resign from his post as premier and chairman of the ruling Liberal-Democratic Party, is still effective. The answer is a definite "yes".

Whoever holds the post of Japanese prime minister is not important. As long as the Liberal-Democratic Party is in power, there will be no radical change in Japan's policy towards Indonesia. Only the style can be different, the daily KOMPAS says in an editorial Tuesday.

The talks between President Suharto and Prime Minister Zenko Suzuki, according to the daily ANGKATAN BERSENJATA in an editorial today, will not lose their weight. It is not Suzuki personally who governs Japan but his party, and the ruling LDP is still in power, the ANGKATAN BERSENJATA editorial says.

The Japanese Ambassador to Indonesia Toshio Yamazaki, has told the daily MERDEKA that despite the current recession, Japan is going to step up its import of Indonesian liquified natural gas from 7 to 14 million tons.

Indonesia's exports to Japan in 1981, according to KOMPAS, totalled U.S. $13.3 billion. Some 82 percent were derived from crude and natural gas. Japan's investment in Indonesia amounted to U.S. $4.4 billion, the biggest among foreign investors. There have been demands that Indonesia maintain a more balanced economic relations with countries other than Japan. But at least during the current recession, Japan will remain Indonesia's powerful economic partner, KOMPAS says.

ANGKATAN BERSENJATA tends to view the current visit of President Suharto as cementing the friendly relations between the two countries. It should be realised, ANGKATAN BERSENJATA says, that without Indonesia or ASEAN Japan will be facing a lot of difficulties. On the other hand, ASEAN, including Indonesia, can learn a great deal from Japan.

KOMPAS stressed the time has come for Japan to consider launching more effective efforts to transfer technology to Indonesians. Japan has done very little so far to provide education and training to Indonesians. More than natural resources, the development of human resources and skill constitutes a factor a nation can genuinely be proud of, the KOMPAS editorial says.

Like the four other ASEAN countries, Indonesia wants to develop cooperation with Japan. But like other ASEAN countries, Indonesia, too, does not want to be too dependent on Japan. KOMPAS says that Japan and the ASEAN countries are in need of one another. But interdependence is relative.

Japan does not only need the raw material produced in ASEAN countries. It also needs ASEAN's seas to ship home the crude it has purchased from the Persian Gulf countries.

There is another factor, one which is related to history. While in Washington D.C., President Suharto asked President Reagan to help to see to it that Japan's military build-up should not alarm Southeast Asia.

KOMPAS describes the relations between Japan and Indonesia as solid, steady, mutual but not yet warm and confidential. "Deep in our hearts there is a feeling of uncertainty" KOMPAS says.

DISTORTED VIEW OF MARCOS' TRIP WARNED AGAINST

HK200159 Davao City PEOPLE'S FORUM in English 5-6 Oct 82 pp 2, 3

["Window Shopping" column by Aurelio A. Pena: "Are We Getting an Honest Picture of the Marcos State Visit?"]

[Text] Any reader with enough common sense can easily detect that the supposed 'hero's welcome' given President Marcos and the first lady during their arrival from their U.S. state visit, was not really a spontaneous show of emotion from Metro Manila residents.

It seemed very obvious, just by reading the pro-Marcos national papers that the 'welcoming crowd' was a put-up job by government offices, participated in by government employees, ordered by their bosses to appear during the motorcade from the airport, wearing welcome t-shirts and waving flags -- all spent for by the individual government offices.

Admittedly, somehow there was an invitation also extended by TV newscasters from some TV stations, to viewers, for them to go out into the streets to welcome the returning head of state after that 'tremendously successful' visit to the United States. But it wasn't such a big deal to most Manilans, obviously, because what we saw from the papers were obviously government employees. And if you read and watch even closely, school children put up a special welcome dance at the airport (a practice copied by Imelda from Red China) while the army, in very fancy dress, gave the returning duo, a 21-gun salute (a practice copied obviously from Washington D.C. during Reagan's welcome rites).

If you really come right down to it, it's just one big show of loyalty to Marcos and the first lady, no more, no less by people in the government service.

But to say that a multitude of people surged forward to 'congratulate' the president for a job well-cone, knowing fully well who these 'people' are, is very inaccurate and reeks of propaganda one gets usually during election time. It would have been different if the welcoming crowd lining Roxas Avenue in Manila were not wearing those fancy T-shirts and waving flags.

There must be a committee financed by Malacanang which organizes all those 'welcoming crowds' in Washington, New York, San Francisco, Los Angeles and Honolulu. The Iglesia ni Kristo church organization which has close ties with Marcos received such a request from the state visit organizers to put up 'welcoming groups' to counteract the threats of protests and demonstrations from opposition groups in the U.S.

If Malacanang uses these 'welcoming' crowds, which they themselves manipulated, as one measure of the state visit success, we're getting a false picture of people's actual sentiments of the state visit.

Our supposed father of Philippine Journalism Doroy Valencia still cannot understand the Western media, and he has been rapping about it since the state visit was over at New York and Washington. His frustration showed in many of his columns in the DAILY EXPRESS. Perhaps he had this idea that since President Marcos showed his 'guts' to the editors of WASHINGTON POST, NEW YORK TIMES, NEWSWEEK, WALL STREET JOURNAL, etc., the Western media will eventually soften up and write 'correct' stories next time about the Philippine conditions. On the contrary, the stories are even getting harsher, typified by that Honolulu newspaper which headlined a demonstration of only 20 people against 6,000 'welcomers.'

How can we ever get the sympathy of the Western press when it is all too obvious that the state itself is being manipulated and staged managed to make it look successful?

The now-famous TV interviews where Marcos 'passed with flying colors' and the National Press Club interviews with the cream of American press where he got 'applauded' -- all helped in giving FM his 'side of the coin' especially accusations of political torture (which he kept denying, despite presistent reports) and of political dynasty (which he stressed that Imelda will step down with him, despite her being appointed as member of the Executive Committee).

The whole trouble with this state visit is that the Philippine mediamen who covered this historic event went there basically to act as the cheering squad of Malacanang, under the direction of the information minister -- but that is expected, being in the conditions we are now. Not that we're underestimating this visit -- the effects of this could be enormous -- but we're not getting an honest picture of the state visit. It's too one-sided, and at this point in time, it's hard to convince and impress people, of what Marcos actually accomplished during his U.S. state visit.

REAPPORTIONMENT OF BATASAN SEATS DISCUSSED

HK200431 Manila Domestic Service in English 0400 GMT 20 Oct 82

[Excerpts] Political Affairs Minister Leonardo Perez today ruled out the possibility of submitting to a public hearing his bill increasing the regular Batasan representative seats. Perez filed the bill yesterday, saying the reapportionment measure would benefit all 13 regions, including Metro Manila. Under the Perez proposals, the number of Batasan seats would be raised from 165 to 207. The political affairs minister said there is no need to submit the bill to a public hearing, since the matter only concerns a mathematical computation.

Meantime Assemblyman Jeremias Montemayor today expressed support for the Perez proposal, saying there is a need to update the representation of the people in the Batasan. Montemayor said that the reapportionment of seats is necessary because this is a way by which the Batasan can listen to the voice and attend to the problems of the people. He said: In my own case, I represent more than 300,000 people in my district. Of course, we represent the whole region, but we divide the regions into our respective districts for purposes of in-depth contacts with the people. But at the same time we must keep up with the changes in the different parts of the region, and we have to correlate the problems of one district with that of the others, the problems of one district with the whole province, and the problems of the whole province with the other provinces of the region. We will really need a few more assemblymen to help us in this job.

Still in the Batasan, the committee on revision of laws is now preparing for public hearings to be conducted on the proposal to synchronize elections in the country. The first of a series of hearings will be conducted on October 23 in Baguio City. The committee is headed by Minister Perez. Meantime the cabinet is awaiting with interest the results of the public hearings to be conducted on the subject. Prime Minister Cesar Virata said that there is a need to clear up the matter of government structure in relation to the proposal to synchronize polls. Virata said the Kilusang Bagong Lipunan caucus may be called to formulate the party stand on the issue.

ITO HOLDS PRESS CONFERENCE ON DEFENSE ISSUE

OW150817 Tokyo KYODO in English 0759 GMT 15 Oct 82

[Text] Tokyo, Oct 15, KYODO -- Defense Agency Director General Soichiro Ito Friday called for a change in Japanese attitudes toward defense and rejected any suggestion of a revival of Japanese militarism.

In what could be his last major press conference as defense chief, Ito said Japan could do more for its own self-defense, even within the limits of its war-renouncing Constitution, and emphasized that this should be made clear to the Japanese people. But at the same time, he said, "there is absolutely no basis" for some Asian leaders to express apprehension about Japan's defense buildup.

Philippine President Ferdinand E. Marcos and Indonesian President Suharto have expressed concern about increased military burden Japan is being asked by the United States to assume, particularly in the defense of sealanes stretching 1,000 nautical miles from Japan's coast. China also said there are still some elements in Japan who are trying to seek a revival of militarism.

"We are absolutely not aiming for militarization," said Ito at the Japan National Press Club. Ito is expected to be replaced in the formation of a new Cabinet after a successor is chosen to retiring Liberal-Democratic Party President and Prime Minister Zenko Suzuki.

Ito said the Japan-U.S. mutual security treaty was the mainstay of Japanese defense and every effort must be made to maintain and strengthen its effectiveness. However, he said, because of the treaty, many Japanese had "lost their sense of awareness" of their need to defend their country.

"Up till now, our defense efforts have had the appearance of 'responding' to U.S. demands," Ito said. "But this is no longer good enough, either from the point of view of Japan-U.S. relations or the healthy defense of Japan."

Defense is a basic and indispensable function of any government and should be given its correct place in national policy in Japan, the defense chief said. "This is what I mean when I say it is time for a change of attitude," Ito said.

He scoffed at suggestions of a revival of Japanese militarism, saying nations like West Germany and France had much larger forces than Japan "and nobody calls them big military powers."

"The Japanese national railways has a staff of 400,000," Ito said, "while to defend our country we have a Self-Defense Force of 250,000 men. And even then we can't maintain them properly."

Ito said in his talks with Defense Secretary Caspar Weinberger and other U.S. officials last month he was "at a loss" to make them understand Japan's position regarding its defense efforts.

He said the United States appreciated Japan's efforts and expressed understanding of the budgetary and constitutional constraints on strengthening Japan's defenses. "But still the Americans insisted we could do more."

The United States also complained that Japan's refusal to supply defense-related technology to the United States -- its partner in a mutual security treaty -- was "peculiar," Ito said.

To amend the principles involved could require Diet proceedings and be a complex process, Ito said. But the great value to Japan of the Japan-U.S. security treaty should also be taken into account. "This is a problem the new Cabinet will seriously need to think about," he said.

SOUTH KOREAN MOBILIZATION DRILL DENOUNCED

SK210506 Pyongyang KCNA in English 0333 GMT 21 Oct 82

[Text] Pyongyang, October 21 (KCNA) -- The puppet military service agency on October 18 staged another war exercise called "Exhibition Practice of Assembly of Called-Up Armed Forces" in Seoul, according to a report.

Blaring that it was for a more effective mobilization of armed forces "in case of emergency," the puppet clique kicked up a fuss, carrying truckloads of young and middle-aged people and other inhabitants to puppet army units.

On the U.S. imperialists' instructions, the Chon Tu-hwan military fascist clique have drafted a great many young and middle-aged people and other inhabitants into the "Homeland Defence Reserve Forces" and others, besides the regular puppet armed forces, and constantly drive them into war exercises.

EXECUTION OF PRISONERS IN SOUTH KOREA PROTESTED

[Text] Pyongyang, October 21 (KCNA) -- According to a KNS report, the Chon Tu-hwan military fascist clique's criminal atrocities in murdering in cold blood six political prisoners including Kim Tae-yol and Sin Hyang-sik on October 8 was brought to light by organizations for rescuing political prisoners at a press conference in Tokyo on October 18.

That day such organizations in Japan as "The Society of Families and Compatriots Overseas for Rescuing Japan-Resident Korean Political Prisoners in South Korea," "The National Council of Societies for Rescuing Political Prisoners," and "The Tokyo Liaison Council for Rescuing Those Persecuted in the Case of the South Korean National Liberation Front" called jointly a press conference in Tokyo and made public statements simultaneously denouncing the South Korean puppet clique for murdering political prisoners.

Exposing that the South Korean fascist clique executed in secret the death sentences on the six political prisoners including Kim Tae-yol (involved in "the case of the South Korean National Liberation Front") and Sin Hyang-sik (involved in "the case of Chin Tu-hyon," a Japan-resident Korean), the statements brand this as a callenge to the Korean nation and the world people who desire the democratization of South Korean society and national reunification.

They also strongly denounce the U.S. and Japanese authorities for encouraging the Chon Tu-hwan clique of traitors and patronizing their fascist tyranny.

The statement made public by "The National Council of Societies for Rescuing Political Prisoners" says: Suppression in prison has been intensified and terrorism and murder become frequent in jails after the appearance of the Chon Tu-hwan "regime," and tortures and maltreatment of political prisoners for their conversion and intrigues to keep those who refuse to be converted in prison indefinitely are getting more vicious.

We once again protest against the Chon Tu-hwan clique's outrage this time and strongly demand the unconditional and immediate release of all political prisoners.

19 OCT RALLY ON 1979 RIOTS ANNIVERSARY DETAILED

SK200936 Pyongyang Domestic Service in Korean 2300 GMT 19 Oct 82

[Text] The Pyongyang city report meeting to mark the third anniversary of the October resistance for democracy by the South Korean students and people was held on the afternoon of 19 October in the Moranbong theater.

Respectfully placed in the front of the meeting hall was a portrait of the great leader of our party and our people, Comrade Kim Il-song. The slogans "Long live the great leader Comrade Kim Il-song!" and "Long live the glorious KWP" were hung in the meeting hall.

Present at the meeting were the director of the Secretariat of the Central Committee of the Democratic Front for the Reunification of the Fatherland, Yo Yon-ku; the deputy chairman of the Committee for the Peaceful Reunification of the Fatherland, Hong Ki-mun; the chairman of the Central Committee of the Democratic Front for the Reunification of the Fatherland, Chong Tu-hwan; and the vice chairman of the Pyongyang City People's Committee, Wang Kyong-hak; together with responsible functionaries from workers' organizations, deans of various colleges of the city, workers from various strata and students.

The meeting began with the playing of the national anthem. Director of the Secretariat Yo Yon-ku delivered a commemorative speech at the meeting. The reporter said: Today all the workers are creating new miracles in all domains of socialist construction unholding the historic policy speech of the great leader Comrade Kim Il-song and the decisions of the Hamhung plenum of the KWP Central Committee and the anti-U.S. spirit for independence is growing and the struggle for democracy and the nation's independent and peaceful reunification is being vigorously waged in South Korea. Under this majestic circumstance, we are significantly greeting the third anniversary of the patriotic October resistance struggle for democracy by the South Korean students and people.

She noted: The October resistance struggle for democracy, which swept many places in South Korea including Pusan and Masan, was an eruption of the resentment and indignation of the masses that had long been accumulating under the fascist colonial rule of the U.S. imperialists and their stooges. It was a mass anti-imperialist and antifascist national salvation resistance for new, democratic and independent politics and life.

She continued: The great leader Comrade Kim Il-song has taught that the policy of war and the policy for fascism, which are causing the people's intolerable sufferings and disasters, are arousing greater complaints among the South Korean people against the U.S. imperialists and their stooges. They are vigorously inspiring desires for the rights to existence, democracy and for the nation's reunification.

The October resistance struggle for democracy by the South Korean students and people was an indispensable result of the cursed fascist colonial rule by the U.S. imperialists and their stooges. Implementing a most atrocious colonial rule over South Korea, U.S. imperialists have mercilessly trampled underfoot the national sovereignty and have cruelly suppressed democratic forces. They have forced the South Korean people into slavish submission, depriving them of political rights. The U.S. imperialists, in particular, have maneuvered in every way to permanently divide our country in two by taking the fabrication of two Koreas as their basic policy towards Korea from the beginning of the 1970's. They have actively instigated the South Korean puppets to confrontation, division and fascism, rather than collaboration and unity, reunification and democracy.

The South Korean puppet clique, bringing about the notorious Yusin system at the instigation of the U.S. imperialists, completely abandoned even the so-called justice in politics and the system of separation of the three powers of government that had been maintained merely for form's sake under the signboard of the notorious Yusin. It arrested and massacred at random the patriots and innocent people aspiring for democracy, independence and the nation's peaceful reunification, by invoking various fascist evil laws including the emergency order. It bestially repressed democratic figures and people through various mean ways.

The subordination of the South Korean economy to foreign, monopolistic capital is at its worst due to the colonial, subordinate policy and the policy of war by the U.S. imperialists and their stooges. National industry is completely ruined and the rural economy is devastated.

The situation generated by the vicious colonial rule of the U.S. imperialists and the anti-popular Yusin system of the U.S. imperialists' stooges invoked intolerable outrage from the South Korean people and made them wage a struggle of resistance, and, once it was touched off by the antigovernment demonstration of Pusan University students on 16 October 1979, it developed into a mass riot and national salvation struggle for democracy. The masses who joined the resistance struggle bravely fought against the heavily armed puppet army and police engaging them in a fierce stone-throwing battle, breaking through bayonets, tear-gas, and smokescreens.

The brave mass resistance struggle of the South Korean people and students, which spread quickly through various parts of South Korea, drove the U.S. imperialists and their stooges to an uncontrollable chaos. In an effort to bring this desperate situation under control the U.S. imperialists quickly dispatched some chief servants, such as the U.S. secretary of defense and the chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, to South Korea to direct the operation for suppressing the riot. The situation, however, was not controllable.

Finally, on 26 October, Pak Chong-hui, the head of the Yusin dictatorship who had devoted his 18-year reign to treacheries and sell-outs, met his tragic end during the fire of resistance. The destruction of the notorious Yusin dictator was a natural end for an intolerable traitor who, as a perpetrator of the U.S. imperialists' colonial rule, had committed indelible crimes before the nation.

Saying that the October struggle of resistance for democracy, which demonstrated the patriotic spirit of the South Korean people and students, is greatly significant, the reporter continued: The October struggle of resistance for democracy dealt a profound blow to the U.S. imperialists who have enforced a vicious colonial rule in South Korea after occupying it illegally and destroyed the chieftain of the notorious Yusin dictatorship, giving a stern warning to the remnants of the dictatorship.

The October struggle of resistance for democracy also raised the South Korean people's national and class awakening to a further high level, created a turning point in the anti-imperialist, antifascist struggle for democracy and greatly encouraged the liberation struggle of the world's oppressed people waged against alien imperialist aggressors and domestic reactionaries.

Saying that the South Korean people and students have strongly demonstrated their patriotic spirits and persistent spirit of battle through the October struggle of resistance for democracy and brilliantly decorated the history of the South Korean people's anti-imperialist struggle for national salvation waged against the alien aggressors and flunkeyist traitors the reporter expressed deep respect for the South Korean people and students who bravely fought for independence, democracy and reunification in the days of the bloody struggle of resistance.

Noting that the October resistance struggle for democracy, though it drove the U.S. imperialists and their stooges to suffer from terror and fear and destroyed the chieftain of the Yusin dictatorship, was not successful in achieving a decisive victory, the reporter continued to say that this failure wrote a serious lesson in the annals of the South Korean people's anti-U.S., antifascist struggle for national salvation. She noted that the lesson should, first of all, link the South Korean people's antifascist resistance struggle for democracy to the anti-U.S. struggle, that it should be continued thoroughly till the U.S. imperialists and their colonial rule are cleaned away and that the lesson has shown that this struggle can achieve a decisive victory only when South Korean working people and masses of all strata, including the workers and peasants, firmly rally around a single battle slogan and organize the struggle.

The reporter said that 3 years have already passed since the October resistance struggle for democracy, that still none of the aspirations of the fighters in the struggle for independence, democracy and reunification has been achieved and that the South Korean people are suffering miseries and pains harsher than before.

She said that the U.S. imperialists, embarrassed by the rapidly strengthening struggle of the South Korean people for democracy and reunification in the wake of the destruction of the Yusin dictator, employed the military hooligan Chon Tu-hwan, whom they had long trained, as the new perpetrator of their colonial rule and, under their unchanged ambition to keep South Korea as their permanent colony, drove him to seize power within the military, instigating him to create an unprecedented fascist whirlwind in South Korea. As a result, she said, dark clouds of fascist division were cast over South Korea, which for a while had seen the dawn of democracy and reunification, and a flagrant fascist dictatorial system began to survive in South Korea.

Saying that the U.S. imperialists' criminal maneuvers and their vicious nature have been clearly exposed in the holocaust committed against those who joined in the heroic popular Kwangju uprising, the reporter pointed out the U.S. imperialists' commission of intolerable crimes of backing up the Chon Tu-hwan clique's massacre and controlling it from behind the scenes.

Saying that the U.S. imperialists still use the policy of making South Korea a military base as the foundation of their policy for colonializing and subordinating South Korea, the reporter stressed that South Korea has now been turned into a giant military camp and nuclear base of the U.S. imperialists and a dangerous situation capable of igniting the flames of a war of aggression has been created in our country.

Saying that the U.S. imperialists, anxious to keep South Korea as their colony and military base indefinitely and to split our country perpetually, are persistently pursuing the criminal two Koreas policy, she said such criminal maneuvers by the U.S. imperialists are being encouraged by the flunkeyist acts of pro-U.S. stooges such as the traitorous Chon Tu-hwan clique.

The reporter noted that the South Korean puppets, while devoted to betrayals and sell-outs following outside forces, are more frensiedly suppressing the people with bayonets given by the outside forces and that they are heinously against an independent and peaceful reunification of the country -- a national aspiration -- enslaving themselves to the U.S. imperialists' splittist policy. She said: Ostensibly, the Chon Tu-hwan clique is paying lipservice to dialogue and peaceful reunification, but it is secretly increasing military forces and military equipment under the instigation of the U.S. imperialists and leading the situation to the brink of war by newly establishing a munitions industry and military bases.

Noting that the criminal acts committed by the U.S. imperialists and their stooges are becoming subject to greater indignation and protest among the South Korean people, the reporter continued: Despite the unprecedented strengthening of fascist military suppression since the Kwangju popular uprising, the South Korean students and people, turning the brunt of their struggle toward the U.S. imperialists, are raising high the torch for anti-U.S. struggle for national salvation. After having set fire to the U.S. culture center in Kwangju in December 1980, they set fire to the American Cultural Center in Pusan last March and bravely joined in the anti-U.S. struggle by disseminating countless leaflets reading "Yankee, go home," "We denounce the neocolonialism of the United States."

This great anti-U.S. advance continued as Kangnung college students staged anti-U.S., antigovernment demonstrations last April and, following these demonstrations, thousands of university students in Seoul, Kwangju and other areas staged mass anti-U.S., antipuppet struggles. Issuing statements, the South Korean religious organizations, families of the imprisoned and compatriot organizations overseas, too, denounced the U.S. imperialists who have plunged South Korea into today's chaotic situation. In particular, since the beginning of the September semester, the demonstration struggle of university students calling for the correction of distorted history in the Japanese reactionaries' textbooks has steadily turned into an anti-U.S., antipuppet struggle. Now its flames are spreading throughout South Korea.

The reporter said that she, in the name of all the people in the northern half of the republic, is sending warm, compatriotic greetings and militant support and encouragement to the South Korean students and patriotic people who are tenaciously struggling to put an end to the U.S. imperialist colonial rule and to achieve an independent and peaceful reunification of the country.

Saying that, in order to realize the noble aspirations of the brave fighters of the October resistance struggle for democracy who hoped for the establishment of new, independent and democratic politics and order in South Korea, the U.S. imperialist troops of aggression should first of all be ousted from South Korea and their colonial rule should be terminated, the reporter continued: The great leader Comrade Kim Il-song has taught that the South Korean people should tenaciously struggle to oppose the occupation of South Korea by the U.S. imperialist troops of aggression, to oust them from South Korea and clean away their colonial rule.

All those who value national sovereignty and truly hope for national reunification should join the pan-national resistance struggle for national salvation as one man to oust the U.S. imperialists from South Korea. Under the banners of anti-U.S. struggle for independence and antifascist struggle for democratization that have already been raised high, the South Korean people should form an anti-U.S. struggle for national salvation and reunification front and should tenaciously struggle to put an end to the fascist colonial and military rule by the U.S. imperialists and their stooges.

The U.S. imperialists should look squarely at the trend of the times, stop their policy of occupying South Korea and maneuvers to interfere in the domestic affairs of South Korea and should remove all the aggressive military forces, including the occupying troops and nuclear weapons, from South Korea at an early date.

The South Korean people should continue the vigorous struggle to crush the puppet Chon Tu-hwan ring's policy of depending on outside forces and its flunkeyist and traitorous acts, to abolish all the fascist evil laws and suppressive institutions and to have all the democratic personages such as Kim Tae-chung and patriotic people who have been illegally arrested and imprisoned released.

The reporter said: In order to achieve the independent and peaceful reunification of the country, we should put into practice the proposal for the founding of the Democratic Confederal Republic of Koryo [DCRK] put forth by the great leader Comrade Kim Il-song, the sun of the nation, at the Sixth KWP Congress. She noted that those who truly value the future of the nation and hope for national reunification should firmly unite under the banner of the national reunification and vigorously join the pan-national struggle to found the DCRK.

She said: All our functionaries and working people, with endless loyalty to the great leader and the glorious party center, should create new revolutionary upsurges in all sectors and units of socialist construction, hasten national reunification and accelerate the cause of remodeling society after the chuche idea by closely linking the struggle to create the speed of the eighties as put forth by the party to the movement to win the red flag of the three revolutions and the movement to emulate the models of the unheralded heroes and then vigorously stage the combined movement.

NODONG SINMUN MARKS ANNIVERSARY OF PAK DEATH

SK191038 Pyongyang KCNA in English 0959 GMT 19 Oct 82

[Text] Pyongyang, October 19 (KCNA) -- NODONG SINMUN on October 17 carried a signed article titled "Struggle of South Korean People for Independence, Democracy and Reunification Will Grow Fiercer" on the occasion of the third anniversary of the patriotic October resistance for democracy of South Korean students and people. The signed article says:

The October resistance for democracy, which destroyed the chieftain of the "Yusin" dictatorship, served a stern warning to its remnants and shook the U.S. imperialists colonial rule, firmly convinced the South Korean people that if they fought staunchly in firm unity, they could defeat any bulwark of dictatorship. This also fired their greater ardor for democracy.

Traitor Chon Tu-hwan who seized power through intrigues after the "October incident" maliciously challenged the desire and demand of the South Korean people for the democratisation of society and national reunification.

The U.S. imperialists are the very ones who encourage the Chon Tu-hwan group to military fascist rule and treachery.

The developments over the past three years since the October resistance for democracy show that as long as South Korea remains a colony of the U.S. imperialists and they rule the roost in South Korea, holding the real power, neither the establishment of national sovereignty nor social democracy nor national reunification can be expected.

Referring to the rapidly growing anti-fascist struggle of the South Korean people, coupled with the anti-U.S. struggle, the article declares: No fascist suppression can dampen the righteous desire of the South Korean people.

SPA DELEGATION VISITING IRAN MEETS WITH OFFICIALS

Meeting With President

SK200524 Pyongyang KCNA in English 0332 GMT 20 Oct 82

[Text] Pyongyang, October 20 (KCNA) -- Iranian President Seyyed 'Ali Khamene'i on October 17 met the delegation of the Supreme People's Assembly of the Democratic People's Republic of Korea headed by Hwang Chang-yop, chairman of the Standing Committee of the Supreme People's Assembly, on a visit to his country, according to a report. The head of the delegation conveyed a personal letter and warm greetings of the great leader Comrade Kim Il-song to the president.

The president expressed deep thanks for this and asked the head of the delegation to convey his warm greetings to the great leader. He said he would like to wholeheartedly wish good health and a long life to respected His Excellency President Kim Il-song.

The conversation took place in a friendly atmosphere. Present on the occasion were Iranian Minister for Foreign Affairs 'Ali Akbar Velayati, chief of the Presidential Office M. Salim, and other dignitaries concerned, and Cha Pyong-ok, Korean ambassador to Iran.

Meeting With Prime Minister

SK202255 Pyongyang KCNA in English 2206 GMT 20 Oct 82

[Text] Pyongyang, October 21 (KCNA) -- Iranian Prime Minister Seyyed Hoseyn Musavi-Khamene'i on October 18 met the delegation of the Supreme People's Assembly of the Democratic People's Republic of Korea headed by Hwang Chang-yop, chairman of its Standing Committee, according to a report. SPA Banquet for Delegation

[Text] Pyongyang, October 19 (KCNA) -- The Standing Committee of the Supreme People's Assembly arranged a banquet Monday evening at the People's Palace of Culture for the delegation of the Sejm of the Polish People's Republic. Present on invitation were the members of the delegation headed by Wit Drapich, chairman of the complaints subcommittee of the Sejm and vice-chairman of the National Committee of the National Unity Front of Poland, and Leon Tomaszewski, Polish ambassador to Korea, and his embassy officials.

The banquet was attended by Ho Chong-suk, vice-chairman of the SPA Standing Committee, Yom Tae-chun, member of the SPA Standing Committee and Presidium member of the Central Committee of the Democratic Front for the Reunification of the Fatherland, Ku Il-son, deputy to the SPA, and other personages concerned.

Presidium member Yom Tae-chun spoke first at the banquet. Noting that at present the Polish people under the leadership of the Polish United Workers Party headed by esteemed Comrade Wojciech Jaruzelski are energetically struggling against the subversive acts of the reactionaries within and without and for the stability of their country on the basis of the decisions of the 9th party congress, he said:

Our people resolutely denounce the U.S.-led imperialists' anti-Poland moves and express firm solidarity with the fraternal Polish people in their just cause of repulsing the subversive activities and sabotage of the imperialists and the counter-revolutionary forces at home and defending the country's sovereignty and socialist position.

Expressing the conviction that the Polish people will successfully solve their problems by themselves and dynamically advance along the road of socialism, he wished them new successes in their struggle.

Vice-Chairman Wit Drapich spoke next. Saying that the great leader of the Korean people Comrade Kim Il-song defeated the Japanese imperialists by waging a very arduous struggle, crossing the ranges of Mt Paektu, and founded the Workers Party of Korea and has built anew Korea, once backward. He noted that this has been a road of a hard-fought struggle bearing the marks of blood and sweat. Noting that the Korean people defended their fatherland with credit in the war against the U.S. imperialists and their puppet clique, he said: The Democratic People's Republic of Korea which maintains friendly relations with the Polish People's Republic is a symbol of freedom and liberation.

Under the wise guidance of the Workers Party of Korea headed by the great leader Comrade Kim Il-song, the talented Korean people have converted their once backward country into a modern and developed socialist country, he said, and went on: We highly estimate these successes and rejoice at them as our own.

He referred to the development of friendly relations between the parties and peoples of the two countries and expressed the conviction that Korea will surely be reunified.

We will learn from the successes of the Korean people and their experiences in socialist construction, the chuche idea in particular, he stressed and said: Long live the great leader Comrade Kim Il-song, general secretary of the Central Committee of the Workers Party of Korea and president of the Democratic People's Republic of Korea! Long live Comrade Wojciech Jaruzelski, first secretary of the Central Committee of the Polish United Workers Party and chairman of the Council of Ministers of the Polish People's Republic!

The banquet proceeded in a friendly atmosphere.

NODONG SINMUN URGES PEOPLE'S UNITY, COHESION

SK191216 Pyongyang Domestic Service in Korean 2231 GMT 17 Oct 82

[NODONG SINMUN 17 October editorial: "Let Us Vigorously Display Our People's United Power in the Struggle To Create the Speed of the Eighties"]

[Text] The power and authority of our party -- the great headquarters that is leading our people to effect continuous upsurges in socialist construction -- is increasing with each passing day. The historic Hamhung plenum of the party Central Committee established another new milestone in the history of our country's socialist construction in which great revolutionary upswings have been embroidered.

Today, the working class and workers of various places, including Komdok, are raising the flames of the creation of the speed of the eighties, valiantly advancing by upholding the spirit of the Hamhung plenum.

The reality vigorously confirms the justness and vitality of the party's policitcal slogan urging the creation of the speed of the eighties. The slogan, "Let us create the speed of the eighties in the spirit of the great Chollima upswing!", set forth by our party is a good slogan under which our people should now advance. Contained in this slogan are our party's firm decision to brilliantly achieve the economic programs of the 1980's by mobilizing the entire people, as we did when we effected great Chollima upswings in the postwar period, and our people's unanimous desire for successfully implementing the party's plans.

Today, we are assigned the weighty task of brilliantly achieving the grand economic programs laid down by the 6th party congress by more tenaciously staging the struggle to create the speed of the eighties.

The respected and beloved leader Comrade Kim Il-song has taught: The struggle tasks assigned to us in the 1980's are very difficult and grand. To successfully implement the new tasks for socialist economic construction set forth by our party, the entire party and all the people should turn out to stage a ferocious struggle and to effect continuous renovations and upsurges in all sectors of the people's economy.

The basic key to victory in creating the speed of the eighties, upholding the party's militant appeal, is unreservedly demonstrating the power of the unity and cohesion of all the people firmly united around the party and the leader. Only when we mobilize to the maximum the power and wisdom of the wide range of the masses can we create a high speed in economic construction. The boundless power and wisdom of the masses are greatly displayed only when all the people are unanimously united around the party. When they are highly alert toward brilliantly achieving the party's plans by firmly uniting around the party and the leader, the masses accelerate production and construction by greatly displaying their boundless devotion and invincible fighting spirit.

How rapidly socialist construction progresses depends on the level of unity in the people's mobilization for implementing the economic tasks assigned by the party.

The struggle for socialist and communist construction in which millions of working masses participate demands a high organizational discipline. Only when the struggle to remake nature is staged on a large scale, when links in production are made more complex and when they more unanimously move under the party's leadership can all the people rapidly accelerate economic construction. For this reason, without the people's consolidated unity and cohesion around the party, we cannot expect a high speed in economic construction.

The history of our country's socialist construction in which great Chollima upswings have been continuously enacted is a course confirming that the power of the unity of revolutionary ranks is the fundamental source of great revolutionary upswings. The great Chollima upswings were affected in the 1950's and the 1960's in our country, but not because of a sound economic foundation or a favorable objective condition. That period in the history of our country's socialist construction were days of indescribable ordeals. Under those circumstances began the great Chollima upswing, which inspired worldwide admiration. It was a manifestation of our people's stout will to get through difficulties, holding aloft the leadership of the party and the leader.

In the history of our country's socialist construction, the circumstances the struggle faced in the 1970's were not easy. During a decade of worldwide calamities caused by cold front and economic crises, our people's economy rapidly developed and thus, a period of national prosperity unfolded in the fatherland. The prosperity was made by all the people who, cherishing a warm desire for upholding the leadership of our party center, unanimously jointed the battle for great socialist construction.

The might of the unity of our revolutionary ranks, which has been firmly consolidated in the course of going through the grim period of the revolution, has been continuously displayed on the historic, new road toward advance in the 1980's.

The practical experiences in socialist construction in our country clearly prove that the decisive factor for bringing about a great revolutionary upsurge is to achieve unity between the party and the people and to highly display the might of this unity.

The magnificent program before us for economic construction in the 1980's calls for displaying more fully than ever before the might of our revolutionary ranks' unity. The 1980's is a very important period in the history of socialist construction in our country. At the sixth party congress our party set forth a magnificent program for changing our country in this period into one of the world's leading economic kingdoms [wangguk]. The plan of our party for economic construction in the 1980's is to build a more comfortable people's paradise in the fatherland by fully displaying in the sector of economic construction the political and ideological might of our people, which has been consolidated during the past period.

To implement this plan, our party has set forth the grand four tasks of remodeling nature. Following this, it unfolded at the Hamhung plenary meeting of the party Central Committee a bold plan for achieving the goal of 1.5 million tons of nonferrous metals. This is an epochal measure for making a new, great breakthrough in socialist economic construction in the 1980's through a scientific analysis of a central link in the development of our national economy in the present era. When the entire party, entire country and all the people rise in grasping this link and in launching a great offensive, we will glorify the 1980's as an era of an unprecedentedly great upsurge and raise the position of our fatherland to a high place.

Today, the brighter prospect for a great upsurge in the 1980's is ahead of us. Now is the time when the great combat for economic construction in the 1980's should vigorously forge ahead through the unity of the entire party around the party center and through the firm unity of all the people.

The most solid and vital unity of the revolutionary ranks -- a great strength of readily implementing any magnificent program for economic construction -- has been achieved in our country today. Our unity is a powerful one with which the entire country simultaneously rises at the call of the party and the leader to destroy a great mountains or go through raging storms. It is an unwavering principle of struggle that our people surely implement the plan of the party with a united effort. Thanks to such unity, our party has boldly set vast goals as demanded by the revolution; accepting these goals as their vital demand, our people have implemented them without the slightest wavering.

Without this great unity, we cannot imagine the erection of great monumental objects one after another in the era of the KWP and the setting of a brilliant example in creating a new construction speed. Thanks to the great unity of our revolutionary ranks, we can readily achieve the magnificent task of economic construction and create the speed of the eighties everywhere in the country.

All functionaries and workers should once again vigorously display the heroic spirit of Chollima Korea by resolutely and confidently struggling to create the speed of the eighties with the pride of achieving great unity.

The great leader Comrade Kim Il-song has taught: All our guiding functionaries and workers should bring about an epochal change in the struggle to build socialism and communism by brilliantly achieving the 10-point prospective goal for socialist economic construction with united efforts and with loyalty to the party and the revolution.

The most important thing in accelerating economic construction by displaying the might of great unity is for all functionaries and workers to firmly believe in the intent of the party and to assume a firm stand for fulfilling this intent without fail.

The ideological and volitional unity of all the people and their united effort in vigorously forging ahead with socialist construction proceeds from a single creed. When all party members and workers believe only in the intent of the party and the leader and when they think and act as one, they can successfully accomplish any difficult and vast task given by the party and can increase socialist construction's speed of advance.

It is the noble trait of chuche-type communist revolutionaries to always warmly accept and thoroughly fulfill the intent and demand of the party. This reflects the solid nature of unity. Functionaries and workers should always and closely understand what the great leader Comrade Kim Il-song desires and should strenously struggle to fulfill his desire.

Today, our party center urges all functionaries and workers to struggle with the spirit they displayed when they brought about the great upsurge of Chollima and to vigorously launch their combat for economic construction. For our functionaries and workers to bring about a productive upsurge with a bold, aggressive spirit, which the party has given to them, constitutes an attitude of breathing and moving in accordance with the intent of our party center. Functionaries and workers in all sectors of the people's economy should cherish deep in their hearts this noble intent of the party and should be determined to fulfill this intent without fail.

Another important thing in creating the speed of the eighties with the might of unity is for functionaries and workers in all sectors and units to unanimously rise and to devote through mutual assistance and guidance everything needed to perform the economic tasks set forth by the party.

To bring about a great leap in economic construction, our party has set the successive targets of major offensive and struggle tasks so that each new development can be met. These struggle tasks are pressing requirements for bringing about an upsurge in all sectors of our people's economy. Timely accomplishment of these tasks constitutes a way to bring about a great leap. Therefore, no matter at what outposts they may work, functionaries and workers in all sectors should join efforts to achieve the struggle goals and tasks that the party sets and gives at each stage.

Today, our party calls for rapidly increasing production in the coal, transportation, steel, nonferrous metals, machine and chemical industrial sectors by concentrating on developing these sectors and for accelerating the struggle to implement this year's plan ahead of schedule.

Successfully accomplishing the economic task set forth by our party, such as the production of coal, is a key to bringing about a new upsurge today in economic construction. Although their sectors and outposts differ, functionaries and workers in all sectors should positively contribute to accomplishing the party's present central task by mobilizing all potentials. Thus, they should once again vigorously demonstrate the might of the great unity between our party and people and their organizational nature and discipline in the struggle to build the economy as demanded by the party.

In the struggle to create the speed of the eighties, it is important for all functionaries and workers, including party functionaries, three revolutionary team members, economic guiding functionaries, scientists and technicians, to display the laudable custom of mutual assistance and guidance. All functionaries' hearts should burn with the single desire of implementing without fail the plan of the party for bringing about a upsurge in socialist construction and all should perform a heroic feat by uniting their efforts. Thus, they can perform greater miracles and enact innovations on all battlefields designed for achieving goals in the steel, coal and chemical industrial sectors and in remodeling nature.

One of the important questions in creating the speed of the eighties by resorting to the political and ideological might of our revolutionary ranks is to strengthen economic guidance and technical innovations. How successfully the people display their energy and wisdom while uniting around the party greatly depends on the efforts of functionaries to organize and command them. Today, the zeal and resolve of our workers to firmly unite around the party and the leader and to accelerate economic construction are very high. The problem is for functionaries to correctly organize and utilize the zeal of the people of broad strata in performing the economic task given by the party. Guiding functionaries in all sectors and units should more closely organize economic guidance work to meet the requirements for creating the speed of the eighties and for the changed situation. By making management activities more scientific and rational and by aggressively and effectively carrying out the work of organizing the economy in addition to their command of the combat, functionaries should more rapidly produce and build in greater quantities with available assets. The political and ideological might of the revolutionary ranks will turn into a great material might when this might is firmly supported by science and technology. Bringing about a revolutionary change in developing science and technology constitutes major potential in creating the speed of the eighties and a guarantee for successfully accomplishing all economic tasks. We should bear deep in our hearts the respected and beloved leader Comrade Kim il-Song's teaching on accelerating the technical revolution and should raise science and technology to a new, higher stage through the mobilization of the entire party and all the people. Party organizations should increase the role of the 15 April technical innovation shock brigade and should pay great party-level attention to enacting a mass technical innovation.

To help all the people bring about a new, great upsurge through united efforts, guiding functionaries should struggle, closely mingling with the people, Functionaries are the leading members of the revolution who link the party and the people and who organize and mobilize them in implementing party policies. The combination of guidance and the people is an important guarantee for enacting an upsurge in socialist construction. The experiences of those units that have been successful in creating the speed of the eighties show that, when the people are guided, the intent of the party more thoroughly permeates them, increasing their revolutionary zeal.

All party organizations and functionaries should more closely mingle with the people in accordance with the requirements of the work method of the anti-Japanese guerrilla units and should enact a new innovation, sharing the same intent with them.

Functionaries of all party and government economic guidance agencies, including provincial, city and county party organizations, the committees of ministries of the administration council, and provincial economic guidance committees, should go to lower levels to meet the requirements for creating a new speed, should solve knotty problems for the people, sharing meals with them, and should positively assist and guide them.

When functionaries thoroughly eliminate even the slightest legacy of bureacratism and subjectivism and when they closely mingle with the people, our unity will be consolidated more firmly, and we will attain greater successes in creating the speed of the eighties.

One of the most important questions in bringing about an upsurge by strengthening the political and ideological strength of our revolutionary ranks is to further develop work with men. Work with men is an effective method of helping people always breathe just like the party does and zealously rise at the call of the party. When we develop work with men, the trust of the people in the party will endlessly increase, and the united might of the party and the people will be more fully displayed in implementing the party's economic policy. Therefore, all party organizations should place priority on work with functionaries, party members and the people in the struggle to create the speed of the eighties and should bring about an epochal change in work with men.

The important thing in political work -- work with men -- is to aggressively carry out the propaganda and agitation work of thoroughly fulfilling the intent of the party and the leader to launch a new combat for economic construction.

All party organizations should help the people closely understand the great significance of the work of creating the speed of the eighties under the leadership of our party, the outstanding leadership of our party center in leading this struggle to victory and the might of our revolutionary ranks firmly united around the party and the leader. Thus, party organizations should encourage everyone to resolutely and confidently rise with a lofty political and ideological awareness and with a lively fighting spirit in the struggle to bring about a new, great upsurge.

Vigorously carrying out the mass movement led by our party is an important way to strengthen work with men. When party members and workers positively try to learn from the noble spirit of the unheralded heroes and from the revolutionary fighting spirit of self-reliance, the political and ideological might of our revolutionary ranks will be more firmly consolidated, bringing about a great upsurge in the 1980's.

By firmly grasping and throughly implementing the policy of our party for carrying out a mass movement, all party organizations should help continuously expand the ranks of the unheralded heroes and bring about a great innovation in the struggle to create the speed of the eighties.

The firm unity of our people around the party and the leader has an inexhaustible might and an invincible vitality. It is the great honor and pride of our people to achieve such a great unity and to embellish the entire course of socialist construction with a continuous, great upsurge. By endlessly valuing and firmly consolidating the firm unity of all the people around the party and the leader with a single mind and intent, we will glorify the 1980's as the greatest era of upsurge in the history of our fatherland.

Let us all demonstrate more fully the honor of the people who carry out the revolution in chuche Korea under the leadership of the great party and the leader by bringing about a great leap in socialist construction under the slogan of creating the speed of the eighties.

ADDITIONAL REPORTS ON VISIT OF INDONESIA'S SUHARTO

Suharto, Chon Address Dinner

SK181136 Seoul YONHAP in English 0918 GMT 18 Oct 82

[Text] Seoul, Oct 18 (OANA-YONHAP) -- Visiting Indonesian President Suharto said Monday Korea and Indonesia must continue to try to expand areas of cooperation, particularly in economic and social fields. In an address at a dinner hosted by Korean President Chon Tu-hwan at Chongwadae, the presidential mansion, Suharto said that his visit to Korea and talks with Chon would reinforce the close friendship between the two countries. Suharto, the first leader of the Association of Southeast Asian Nations (ASEAN) to visit Korea since Chon's ASEAN trip last year, continued by saying that he was very pleased to have the chance to know Korea's development experience more closely as a result of this visit.

Chon, meanwhile, said the ever-growing ties between the two nations will serve as a sturdy mainstay not only for the peace and prosperity of East Asia, but for that of the entire Pacific Basin. Stressing the utmost importance of promoting a spirit of friendship and cooperation among nations pursuing common ideals, Chon thanked Suharto for the efforts of Indonesia and other member countries of ASEAN in securing lasting peace and prosperity in Southeast Asia. "I believe that the spirit of cooperation demonstrated by ASEAN will reverberate throughout the world, contributing greatly to the future of mankind," he said.

Chon also called Suharto's visit to Korea a "colossal milestone" marking the maturation of the Korean-Indonesian partnership in political, economic and other areas. He expressed hope that the Indonesian leader could confirm the particularly friendly feelings and trust with which Koreans regard the people of Indonesia.

Joint Communique Issued

SK190828 Seoul YONHAP in English 0746 GMT 19 Oct 82

[Text] Seoul, Oct 19 (YONHAP) -- Following is the gist of the joint communique issued by Indonesian President Suharto and South Korean President Chon Tu-hwan Tuesday. The two heads of state had a constructive exchange of views as well as substantive discussions on various matters of common interest, including the idea of Pacific summitry. The talks contributed greatly to deepening mutual understanding and fostering cooperative ties between the two countries.

-- The two presidents reaffirmed the view that peace and security in northeast and Southeast Asia are closely related to each other and essential for the maintenance of peace and stability in the Asia-Pacific region as well as the world as a whole. The two leaders are committed to the promotion of cooperative efforts to these ends among the nations in the area.

-- President Chon expounded to President Suharto the idea of the summit meeting among Pacific-rim countries on the basis of the five principles which were pronounced in President Chon's press conference on July 31, 1982, at Chinhae, Korea, and stated further that, in light of the rapid socio-economic growth and increasing interdependence among the countries in the region, it was necessary and useful for them to hold the summit meeting for the purpose of common progress and prosperity. President Suharto praised Chon's idea of Pacific summit and expressed that such a good idea deserved his further consideration.

-- The two presidents discussed the latest developments in Southeast Asia and expressed their deep concern over the Kampuchean situation and they hoped that a speedy and peaceful settlement of the question would be reached in accordance with the aspirations of the Kampuchean people.

-- President Chon and Suharto denounced the continued occupation of the Arab territories by Israel and condemned its latest aggression against Lebanon. They called on Israel to withdraw from the Arab lands it occupied, including Jerusalem.

-- In connection with the Palestinian question the two leaders agreed that lasting peace in the Middle East could be created only if the basic national right to self-determination of the Palestinian people is restored, including the establishment of a free and sovereign state in the region.

-- With regard to the situation in Afghanistan, the two leaders agreed on the need to reach an early political solution in accordance with the revelant United Nations resolutions.

-- The two presidents expressed their concern over the continued Iran-Iraq conflicts and urged them to find a just and peaceful solution by political means based on the principles of the United Nations Charter.

-- President Chon, reviewing the situation on and around the Korean Peninsula, explained fully the efforts and intentions of the Republic of Korea to reduce tension and consolidate a durable peace on the peninsula, including his latest proposal for democratic reunification through national reconciliation. President Suharto, highly appreciating the efforts of South Korea to achieve the reunification of Korea by peaceful means, reiterated the view of the Indonesian Government that this question should be solved by peaceful means through dialogue and supported the direct talks between the two parts of Korea.

-- President Chon reiterated his view that the entry of both South and North Korea into the United Nations, as an interim measure pending the peaceful reunification of Korea, would contribute to easing tensions on the Korean Peninsula and help create an international atmosphere conducive to national reconciliation and peaceful reunification.

-- President Suharto, sharing President Chon's view, expressed his support for the early realization of the entry of both South and North Korea into the United Nations in accordance with the purposes of the United Nations Charter.

-- President Chon, recognizing the positive and important role played by ASEAN, stated that the Government of the Republic of Korea attached significance to further strengthening its relations with ASEAN. The two presidents agreed that the promotion of mutually beneficial cooperation between the Republic of Korea and ASEAN member countries would be important to the peace and prosperity in the Pacific region.

-- The two leaders noted with satisfaction the fact that bilateral relations between the two countries had been remarkably strengthened, particularly since the official visit of President Chon to Indonesia in June, 1981.

-- President Chon highly praised the Indonesian Government's achievements in the field of economic and social development, and expressed the Korean Government's willingness to participate in Indonesian development projects such as construction, transportation and energy resource exploration.

-- The two leaders agreed to encourage the promotion of private sector joint ventures in various fields and to expand scientific and technological cooperation, including exchanges of information and joint research activities.

-- President Chon expressed the intention of the Korean Government to extend cooperation in the establishment of a vocational training center in Indonesia as a gesture of promoting cooperation and President Suharto tendered his sincere appreciation to President Chon for his friendly gesture.

-- The two presidents agreed to take necessary measures for the early conclusion of pending agreements such as an air transport agreement, an agreement for the avoidance of double taxation and an investment guarantee agreement with a view to facilitating institutionally fruitful economic cooperation.

-- The two presidents were gratified that the return visit by President Suharto was extremely valuable to the further promotion of friendship between them and strengthening of friendly ties between the two countries. They expressed their desire to increase exchanges of visits between the two countries at all levels.

[Editorial: "Upgraded Seoul-Jakarta Ties"]

[Text] President Suharto's four-day visit to Seoul, which ended yesterday, is monumental in further strengthening the cooperative relations between Korea and Indonesia which have been notably cemented since President Chon Tu-hwan's trip to Jakarta last year. At their Seoul talks, the two presidents dealt with a wide range of topics, both bilateral and multi-lateral, to seek not only a closer Korean-Indonesian partnership, but also a peaceful and prosperous Asia.

As the two leaders noted during their talks, the peace and security in northeast Asia is linked inseparably to that in Southeast Asia. Besides, the complementarity of economies in the region all the more underlines the need for close cooperation among Asian countries. Korea and Indonesia have been developing complementary cooperation between them apace through trade and sharing of each other's experiences in nation building.

The cordial partnership between Seoul and Jakarta was given a strong impetus for further growth when President Chon expressed the government intention to establish a vocational training center in Indonesia as a gesture of promoting cooperation between the developing countries in the Pacific region. The Seoul government has made clear on many occasions its willingness to share Korea's development expertise and experience with any late starter. The vocational training center promised for Indonesia is but one of a number of measures that have been taken toward that end.

It is heartening that the two leaders agreed, as noted in a joint statement issued upon President Suharto's departure from Seoul, to encourage the promotion of private sector ventures in various fields, while also expanding scientific and technological cooperation. President Suharto is well aware of the Korean efforts to achieve the reunification of the divided peninsula by peaceful means. His reiteration of the Indonesian position that the Korean question should be solved by peaceful means through dialogue will be conducive to rallying international opinions behind the rationale of the Seoul-proposed direct talks between South and North Korea.

President Suharto's visit here was also symbolic of the growing affinity between Korea and ASEAN, of which Indonesia is a member. As evinced by President Chon's tour of the five ASEAN countries last year as well as by President Suharto's Seoul visit, the promotion of mutually beneficial cooperation between Korea and ASEAN is vital to peace and prosperity in the Pacific region. The two presidents' meeting was a good occasion for President Chon to elaborate on his proposal for a summit for Pacific-rim countries. As President Chon propounded at a press conference a year ago, the rapid socio-economic growth and increasing interdependence among the countries in the region underscored the usefulness and even the necessity of the proposed summit meeting for common progress and prosperity. While the Chon-Suharto summit contributes to increasing South-South cooperation (between developing nations), the proposed summitry will be able to promote cooperation between the developed and developing (North-South) nations as well as between the developing countries. It is hoped that President Suharto's appreciation of the summit idea will be shared by leaders of other countries in the region as well.

JAPANESE PRIME MINISTER'S RESIGNATION VIEWED

SK151154 Seoul CHOSON ILBO in Korean on 14 Oct 82 p 2

[Editorial: "The Suzuki Era and After"]

[Excerpts] With Mr Suzuki's notice of resignation, the Liberal-Democratic Party of Japan is expected to have a change of power soon.

It has become known that Mr Suzuki's decision to resign from the post of prime minister is due to the unique factional strife within the Liberal-Democratic Party of Japan. Therefore, as in the past, the change of political power in Japan this time basically differs from that in other Western countries, namely, the United States, West Germany and France. A change of political power in these countries has great political implications.

Mr Suzuki's notice of resignation is attributed to recent economic difficulties in Japan and the failure of the Suzuki Cabinet to solve them. Prime Minister Suzuki has tried to cope with these economic difficulties through a series of retrenchment policies, including reforms in administration. But he has been unable to exercise his influence in solving the knotty problems arising in the economy because his Cabinet itself is composed of various political factions in the party. The Suzuki Cabinet can be said to be a transitional one, linking the era of one political faction to the era of another political faction.

Japan is a foreign country. Therefore, we are not entitled to argue the pros and cons of political change in its government party. However, considering what is called "close interrelations between South Korea and Japan, separated by a narrow strip of water," we are compelled to pay attention to and evaluate the political moves and political culture in the ruling circles of Japan.

In the past, so-called pro-South Korean political figures in Japanese ruling circles talked about the so-called South Korea-Japan collusion, and this gave rise to hot criticism in Japan. Therefore, we think that the modernization and reform of the political attitude of the Liberal-Democratic Party of Japan are urgently required to establish new South Korea-Japan relations in the future. Proceeding from this requirement, we want to see the Japanese conservative party reformed and innovated and become more fresh and, based on this, new cooperative relations between the two countries established, no matter who may take charge of the next Japanese government. We want the political leaders of Japan to demonstrate democracy and morality in the course of elections of the party president and the prime minister.

SOUTH SAID ABLE TO DEFEND AGAINST BLITZ FROM NORTH

SK201053 Seoul YONHAP in English 1022 GMT 20 Oct 82

[Text] Seoul, Oct 20 (YONHAP) -- Gen Kim Sang-tae, South Korea's air force chief of staff, said Wednesday that the air force is fully prepared to defend Seoul from a possible North Korean blitz. The air force is also ready to batter the military command and other key military targets in North Korea the moment South Korea was under attack, Kim said.

In his testimony before the National Assembly Defense Committee, Kim reminded that Seoul is located within a three-minute surprise attack by the enemy. The communists, he said, are expected to attempt to encircle and isolate the metropolitan area at the initial stage of war through a preemptive blitz tactics.

Noting that the air defense posture for Seoul is complete, Kim said that the air force is making every possible effort to secure the command of the air through stepped-up Korea-U.S. joint intelligence cooperation to detect the enemy's move early on.

INVITATION TO NORTH, PRC TO STUDY RELICS PRAISED

[Editorial: "Flow of Archaeological Data"]

[Text] Representatives from Korea and 16 countries are meeting at the third Asian regional assembly of the International Council of Museums (ICOM) this week. It is an ideal occasion for our historians and archaeologists to exchange information and views on exploring, preserving and studying their common cultural and artistic heritage of the past.

Attending the triennial meeting here are specialists from nations including Australia, India, Indonesia, Japan, Pakistan, the Philippines, Sri Lanka and Thailand, with observers from Brazil, Denmark, Italy, and the Republic of China. Regrettably, we note the absence of delegates from such neighbors as mainland China, North Korea and Outer Mongolia, all of whom form integral parts of the Oriental civilization.

Science, arts, sports and culture know no national boundaries. However, this fundamental principle does not yet seem to hold good as far as some communist bloc governments are concerned. This absurdity seriously impedes joint international endeavors in the fields of science, education and culture. Political and ideological differences should not be allowed to interfere with such activities.

In the name of its spokesman, Minister of Culture and Information Yi Chin-hui, the Seoul government told the opening session of the ICOM meeting that it welcomes all interested scholars from around the world, including Pyongyang and Beijing, to join in a study of the relics from the Sung and Yuan Dynasties of China found in an old Chinese trade ship lying on the seabed off the southwestern coast of Korea.

Cultural assets are the common property of mankind, as he said, and cultural heritage is by nature neutral to ideologies or political systems. Thus, we have good reasons for proposing the initiation of exchange and collaboration in this most feasible field of academic and artistic pursuits related to historic legacies. It may well be pointed out again, with a deep sense of frustration and wistfulness, that the division of the Korean Peninsula into two zones greatly hampers disciplines linked with museums -- history, archaeology, art history, anthropology and folklore. Our academic community is denied access to the sites and materials in such artificially insulated areas as North Korea, China and Siberia.

The reiteration by Seoul of its readiness to make its historical and cultural relics and materials available to all interested foreigners is an open-minded invitation to those who are keeping their doors closed to us to respond in kind. Specialists from communist-ruled areas may come over and examine what we have here, and then may reciprocate to admit our students to do likewise.

North Korea and Manchuria carry an ample stock of valuable archaeological relics and sites on the ancient and medieval history of northeast Asia. Unnaturally enough, we often have to rely upon secondhand information on our own historical relics from old Korea transmitted to us by Japanese and other foreign scholars who have access to them. It is urgent to remedy this absurd situation and only responsiveness and good faith on the part of North Korea and other relevant communist countries may make it possible. The current conference of museum officials could give a prod on that score.

JUSTICE MINISTER DENIES RUMOR ON PRISONER'S DEATH

SK210139 Seoul THE KOREA HERALD in English 21 Oct 82 p 8

[Text] Minister of Justice Pae Myong-in, clarifying the cause of death of a prisoner in Kwangju, warned yesterday that the sources of malignant rumors would be thoroughly traced and punished. In testimony before the National Assembly Legislation-Justice Committee, Pae strongly denied rumors that Pak Kwan-hyon, 30, who died Oct 12 while serving a prison term in connection with the Kwangju civil disturbance of 1980, had been tortured. Pak, who had been serving a term in a Kwangju prison, refused to eat one or two meals a day sporadically until he fasted for four consecutive days beginning Oct 4, the minister revealed. "The prisoner resumed eating Oct 8 at the request of the Protestant ministers and suddenly fell ill Oct 10. Fasting had nothing to do with his death," he said. The minister emphasized that Pak had never been assaulted or tortured while in prison. The two Protestant ministers confirmed Oct. 8 that Pak was in good health, he said. The authorities concerned feared that Pak's death would trigger a lot of groundless rumors, and arranged for medical doctors at Chonnam and Choson Universities to make an autopsy of Pak, he said. The cause of death has not yet been finally determined, but those doctors who conducted an autopsy on Pak said that he had died of a congestive heart failure, he said. The minister said that a total of 54 inmates refused meals for a few days, calling for a clarification of Pak's death, but resumed eating Tuesday.

HENG SAMRIN RECEIVES INDIAN ENVOY, RAPS CGDK

BK210719 Phnom Penh SPK in French 0400 GMT 21 Oct 82

[Text] Phnom Penh, 21 Oct (SPK) -- Heng Samrin, general secretary of the KPRP Central Committee and chairman of the Council of State, received J.C. Shama, charge d'affaires extraordinary and plenipotentiary of the Republic of India, in Phnom Penh on Wednesday, 20 October.

Chairman Heng Samrin expressed his thanks to the Indian Government and people for their support for the just struggle of the Kampuchean people, and high appreciation of the growing relations of friendship, solidarity and multifacdted cooperation which bind the Kampuchean and Indian peoples.

Chairman Heng Samrin briefed J.S. Shama on the successes that the Kampuchean people have achieved during the past more than 3 years. He denounced the "Coalition Government of Democratic Kampuchea" as an instrument manipulated by Beijing expansionism, U.S. imperialism and international reaction, including the ASEAN, in order to conceal the criminal acts of the Pol Pot gang and return the genocidal clique to Kampuchea. But the situation in Kampuchea in irreversible and the Kampuchean revolution always advances steadily, he said.

J.S. Shama said that the Indian Government and people are elated at the great achivements made by the Kampuchean people. He affirmed India's firm position to give material and moral support and aid to the Kampuchean revolution, contributing to peace and stability in Southeast Asia and the world. J.S. Shama conveyed the greetings of Indian President Zail Singh to Chairman Heng Samrin.

Men Chhan, acting secretary general of the Council of State, was present at the meeting.

'WARMONGERING POLICY' OF PRC, CGDK CONDEMNED

BK211028 Phnom Penh Domestic Service in Cambodian 1300 GMT 20 Oct 82

[Station commentary: "Unequivocal Evidence of Beijing's Warmongering Policy"]

[Text] Recently, the Press Department of the PRK Foreign Ministry made public a white book fully exposing the perfidious designs of the Beijing expansionist-hegemonists in their opposition to the Kampuchean people. This white book contains irrefutable proof testifying to the fact that the Beijing ruling circles harbor ambitions to implement an insane policy of wantonly interferring in the internal affairs of the PRK. The world has long been convinced that the permanent state of tension in Southeast Asia is a consequence of China's odious big-nation expansionist-hegemonist policy of continually interfering in the internal affairs of countries in the region.

In the past, the Beijing authorites ordered the Pol Pot-ieng Sary-Khieu Samphan Gang -- their most obedient henchmen -- to pursue a genocidal policy of massacring innocent Kampuchean citizens and turning Kampuchea into a springboard for aggression against neighboring countries in a move to invade and occupy all of Southeast Asia.

In their strategy to expand against and annex neighboring countries, particularly Kampuchea, the Beijing ruling circles have perpetrated shameless hostile activities, mustering traitorous reactionary Khmer groups taking refuge aboard and setting up the so-called Coalition Government of Democratic Kampuchea in an attempt to sabotage the rebirth of the Kampuchean land and people. Moreover, the Chinese authorities have also painstakingly coaxed other international reactionary forces, particularly Thailand, into providing shelter and food for the Pol Pot remnants and other traitorous reactionary Khmers with the aim of resurrecting the genocidal regime. These perfidious designs, according to the white book, were revealed in Deng Xiaoping's instructions to Ieng Sary in Beijing on 13 January 1979.

Following the collapse of the genocidal regime, the Beijing authorities admitted that they could no longer use Pol Pot and the Kampuchean Communist Party. They had to employ money to lure Sihanouk onto the stage for a second time, for China believes that Sihanouk is a popular puppet who can serve its interests. Through frequent use, Beijing is very well aware of the weaknesses of Sihanouk, who is a power maniac, thus making it easy for China to use him to go around misleading world public opinion and begging for foreign aid. Therefore, Sihanouk's post as president of the Coalition Government of Democratic Kampuchea is nothing but a bridge for Pol Pot to cross in his quest to return to Kampuchea and resume slaughtering the Kampuchean people.

The white book also gave additional information on Deng Xiaoping's instructions to Ieng Sary to use Sihanouk and Thai territory as springboard against the Kampuchean revolution.

While hatching the union of the various factions of reactionary Khmers, the Chinese authorities have dragged Thailand into serving their odious policy. In allowing the Pol Pot remnants and other traitorous reactionary Khmers to take refuge in the country and permitting China to use its territory, Thailand has completely betrayed the interests of the Thai people.

To further expose the perfidious maneuvers of the Beijing expansionists against the Kampuchean people, the white book cited further ironclad evidence dealing with the report made by a Khmer Rouge under the pseudonym of San, who kept track of Sihanouk's capricious and inconsistent activities following the collapse of the Pol Pot-Ieng Sary-Khieu Samphan regime in January 1979. First, Sihanouk denounced Pol Pot's crimes against his own children, before international opinion, he pretended to be extremely indignant. However, after Beijing and the other reactionary forces encouraged him, Sihanouk instead rallied to murderous Pol Pot, taking refuge under the Coalition Government of Democratic Kampuchea label in his opposition to the Kampuchean people and Vietnamese troops -- his own saviors!

The so-called Coalition Government of Democratic Kampuchea is in reality a new facade of Pol Pot in disguise set up by Beijing, U.S. imperialism and the reactionary ASEAN to oppose the resurrection of the Kampuchean people and the revolution of the three Indochinese countries. This tripartite government has no territory and no population. It is made up of criminals whose hands are stained with the blood of the people. Therefore, it can in no way be the representative if the Kampuchean people at the United Nations.

For more than 3 years, the Kampuchean revolution has advanced steadily along the road to victory. No reactionary force can reverse the situation in Kampuchea. The entire Kampuchean people know very well who is friend and who is foe. Therefore, all the perfidious designs of the Beijing expansionist-hegemonists who have been grossly interfering in the internal affairs of the PRK will certainly be condemned and opposed by peace- and justice-loving progressive public opinion in the world.

AFP: KPNLF GENERAL QUITS; MILITARY COMMITTEE SET UP

SK211108 Hong Kong AFP in English 1049 GMT 21 Oct 82

[By Jim Wolf]

[Text] Bangkok, Oct. 21 (AFP) -- Dien Del, credited with turning a rag-tag bunch of competing Cambodian warlords into an able anti-Vietnamese force, has quit as chief of staff of the Khmer People's National Liberation Front (KPNLF), front officials said today. The officials said General Dien Del stepped down after the murder 10 days ago of a senior KPNLF commander outside his command headquarters on the tense Thai-Cambodian border.

KPNLF leader Son Sann, who cut short his attendance at the United Nations to cope with the potential crisis, had accepted the resignation reluctantly, the sources said. They said a committee had been set up to probe the circumstances of the October 11 ambush in which a KPNLF camp commander known as Sar Luot, his wife and an aide were mowed down by unknown attackers.

Gen. Dien Del, who remains associated with the KPNLF, had resigned to assume overall responsibility for the attack, though he himself was not under official suspicion of involvement. The resignation was deemed necessary to mollify outraged followers of the dead commander, the sources said.

The front appointed a four-man interim military committee to replace Gen. Dien Del after concerted efforts, led by Son Sann, to overcome "this potential threat to our unity," the sources said. The members of the new interim military committee are Gen. Sak Sutsakhan, Gen. Thach Reng, Hing Kunthorn, who had been a KPNLF military liaison officer, and Chea Chut, a one-time warlord said by diplomats to have distinguished himself in combat recently.

Like 50-year-old Dien Del, the two generals were among the few senior officers to win praise for their performance in Cambodia's pre-1975 republican army that lost to the Khmer Rouge. Dien Del is widely credited with organizing the KPNLF into a no-nonsense military force after starting from scratch three years ago.

The KPNLF recently went on the offensive for the first time against Vietnamese units close to the Thai border in an operation that observers said added a new dimension to the Cambodian conflict. The front, which now says it can field up to 12,000 men, plans to attack behind Vietnamese lines during the dry season beginning this month, the KPNLF sources said.

VODK SAYS SRV BEING ISOLATED IN UN ASSEMBLY

BK210931 (Clandestine) Voice of Democratic Kampuchea in Cambodian to Kampuchea 2330 GMT 20 Oct 82

[Station commentary: "The Vietnamese Enemy Aggressors and Their Soviet Masters Receive Another Blow at the 37th UN General Assembly"]

[Text] On the afternoon of 15 October, at the end of the general debate at the 37th plenary session of the UN General Assembly in New York, the Vietnamese enemies were dealt another shameful blow when the U.S. delegate attacked the aggressive and expansionist Soviet strategy in Afghanistan and the world and exposed the Hanoi Vietnamese aggression in Kampuchea and their aggression to control Lao territory.

Vietnam was shamefully disgraced by the daily condemnation and denunciation during the general debate. Its representative tried to answer and defend Hanoi's position but was again successfully countered by the representative of our Democratic Kampuchea.

Keat Chhon, member of our Democratic Kampuchean delegation, addressed the assembly and denounced Vietnam's aggression in Kampuchea. He said one cannot hide a dead elephant under a winnowing basket. At this stage he was interrupted by the panicky Vietnamese representative who stood up to lodge a protest, in an attempt to stop our delegate from speaking. But our Democratic Kampuchea is a full member of the United Nations, and what right does the Vietnamese enemy have to stop our delegate from speaking? So the chairman of the assembly dismissed the improper and impudent behavior of the Vietnamese representative and invited our delegate to finish his address. Isolated and disgraced, the Vietnamese representative stood up and behaved disrepectfully toward the assembly before shamefully walking out. All the delegates in the hall laughed.

In essence, Keat Chhon said: A Khmer proverb says that a dead elephant cannot be hidden by a winnowing basket. All Hanoi's words cannot hide the realities of their aggression in Kampuchea. During the general debate, over half of the foreign ministers present here have denounced and condemned this act of aggression and exposed the crimes of the Hanoi Vietnamese and demanded that they withdraw all their troops from Kampuchea.

Bogged down in Kampuchea and isolated in the international arena, Vietnam cannot cheat the world, and on 25 October the Vietnamese aggressors will again be deafened by the voice of justice in this assembly on account of their aggression. It should be recalled that 25 October is the day when the UN General Assembly will discuss the credentials of Democratic Kampuchea.

The current 37th UN General Assembly, from beginning to end, has mounted attacks on the Hanoi Vietnamese aggressors, making them completely lost and totally isolated. This is why Nguyen Co Thach only dared show his face around the assembly hall for a few days before disappearing, not even hearing the addresses. But the Hanoi Vietnamese aggressors will be even more disgraced and isolated when the UN General Assembly debates the question of Democratic Kampuchea's credentials, the situation in Kampuchea and the use of toxic chemicals and biological weapons in Kampuchea, Laos and Afghanistan. The world will hand out appropriate punishment to the Le Duan Vietnamese murderers and exterminators of the Kampuchean race and disgrace and isolate them even more. The world will tell the Vietnamese and Soviet aggressors clearly that it will not allow them to pursue their policy of aggression against others at will in violation of the principles of international law and the UN Charter. It will demand that all foreign troops immediately be withdrawn from Kampuchea, Afghanistan, Lebanon and other countries which are the victims of foreign aggression and domination.

All of this clearly shows that peace- and justice-loving countries the world over are more aware of the danger of the Soviet-Vietnamese expansionist strategy in Southeast Asia and the Asia-Pacific region as well as in the world. These countries realize that they must unite and resolutely oppose acts of aggression and take measures to pressure and demand the aggressors to withdraw all their troops from other countries, particularly Vietnamese troops from Kampuchea and Soviet troops from Afghanistan, in order to safeguard the principles of international law and the UN Charter -- the sacred principles by which all countries must abide -- to ensure lasting regional and world peace and stability.

VODK: 200 VILLAGERS MASSACRED BY SRV TROOPS

[Excerpts] On 2 October the brutal Vietnamese aggressors went on the rampage in the Anlong Phnhiev area and ran into 200 villagers from Phong commune, in Kong Pi[illegible], Kompong Speu Province, and Trapeang Thom Khang Cheung in Tram Kak District, Takeo Province, who were driving ox carts to cut wood in the forest. At the sight of our villagers, the brutal Vietnamese enemies opened fire on them, killing 20 of our villagers on the spot. The remaining villagers were taken by the Vietnamese to their garrison and executed. The Vietnamese also destroyed all the ox carts and killed a number of cattle for food, while taking the rest to their garrison.

This is a most barbarous crime committed by the Vietnamese enemy aggressors against our innocent Kampuchean people. The Vietnamese aggressors follow a criminal policy of exterminating the Kampuchean race so that they can totally annex our Kampuchean territory and make it their own. This is why the Vietnamese enemy aggressors have killed over two and 1/2 million of our Kampuchean people over the past 4 years, including the young, the old, men and women, and by all methods. And they are still doing this.
Faced with the great, united fighting force of the Kampuchean nation and people, the Vietnamese enemy aggressors and race exterminators will centainly not be able to carry out their criminal policy. On the contrary, they will surely be defeated and eliminated from the Kampuchean territory by our Kampuchean people, in cooperation with our National Army and guerrillas of Democratic Kampuchea.

SUPREME COMMAND REPORTS ON BORDER SITUATION

[Excerpts] There have been rotations of the Vietnamese troops inside Kampuchea involving more than 20,000 soldiers during the past month, while Hanoi also sent in new armaments into the country to beef up its occupying forces, the Supreme Command reported yesterday. It said the new weaponry recently brought into Kampuchea by the Vietnamese forces include anti-aircraft guns, tanks and 107-mm and 140-mm rockets and SAM-7 rockets. These new weapons, it said, were concentrated in areas around western Kampuchea opposite the Thai border, where large amounts of food supplies and ammunition were also being stored.

The Supreme Command also said that between July and September there had been relocations of several Vietnamese installations inside Kampuchea. A secret intelligence gathering unit was also formed, while special patrol squads were sent into areas near the Thai border. More frequent violations of Thai territory during the period were also reported, it said.

Reporting on the fighting situation in Kampuchea, the Supreme Command said forces of Democratic Kampuchea had been able to inflict extensive damage on the Vietnamese-backed forces, especially in areas north of Highway No 5. On October 10 the Vietnamese-Heng Samrin forces moved an infantry unit with seven tanks from Sisophon District into areas around Ban Nimit of Poipet, it said.

The Supreme Command said that the mass mobilizations of the Vietnamese forces are an indication that they are probably preparing a major military operation along the border in the near future.

Further Report

BK211003 Bangkok Domestic Service in Thai 0530 GMT 21 Oct 82

[Text] According to the Supreme Command Information Office, it has received reports that on 12 October an additional 500 Vietnamese soldiers were assigned to the Vietnamese units at Ban Nimit and the Soriya camp in Poipet, which is opposite Prachin Buri's Aranyaprathet District. On 14 October 700 more Vietnamese soldiers were assigned to Banteay Siem, Thmar Puok District and to Sisophon District in Battambang. On 17 October Vietnamese soldiers clashed with the opposition in an area in Kampuchea opposite Ban Khlong Manao, Khlong Yai District, Trat Province, resulting in two mortar rounds falling into Thai territory, killing a Ranger volunteer and wounding four others.

CAPTURED SRV SOLDIERS ADMIT SABOTAGE MISSION

[Text] Two Vietnamese men arrested by Thai security forces at a refugee camp late last month have confessed that they are Vietnamese soldiers who were assigned to spy on Thai troops and carry out sabotage in this Prachin Buri border district, military sources said yesterday. The two Vietnamese identified themselves as Privates Kuong See Fah [name as published], 18, and Van Din Long, 20. Both were attached to the 7th Platoon of the 3rd Company of a border guards regiment, 75th Division. They reportedly told Thai military interrogators that they came from Ho Chi Minh City (formerly Saigon) and were sent to Nimit in western Kampuchea on July 9. They said they were trained in map reading, handling radios and in chemical warfare.

The two southerners said the 75th Division was commanded by Colonel Hai Se [name as published] and comprises about 5,000 troops.

Meanwhile, field military sources said Vietnamese troops fired on a Thai reconnaissance plane near the Thai-Kampuchean border here yesterday afternoon, but missed the single-engine craft. The plane returned unharmed to its base in Watthana Nakhon District.

NATION REVIEW ON REAGAN-SUHARTO DEFENSE TALKS

[Editorial: "New Indonesian Thinking Is on the Right Lines"]

[Excerpt] The talks between Indonesian President Suharto and U.S. President Reagan in Washington last week revealed a slight change in the line of thinking of our ASEAN partner. During these talks it was revealed that Reagan assured Suharto that he would give sympathetic consideration to requests for aircraft and naval vessels to protect approaches to Indonesia. Indonesia, the world's largest archipelago, is a conglomeration of over 13,000 islands, while the Philippines is one of over 7,000 islands. Naturally, their concept of defence and security problems is different from that of other members of ASEAN.

However, Indonesia has a more important role to play in world commercial shipping and movement of naval vessels because she controls the Lombak, Sunda and (along with Malaysia and Singapore) the Malacca Straits. These three narrow sealanes play the precious part of linking the vast Pacific and Indian Oceans. Neither to Indonesia nor to the Philippines can there be any question of external aggression by any country which does not have a powerful bluewater fleet. No country can block the three key straits and disrupt world shipping unless it has a first-class navy. Not coincidentally, Philippines President Ferdinand Marcos said on the day that Suharto arrived in the United States that the American bases -- Clark Air Force Base and Subic Bay Naval Base -- will remain in his country for the foreseeable future.

Neither China, India nor Japan have the kind of navy at present which can threaten these two archipelagos. Japan's potential is extremely high if one thinks in terms of the next few decades, but there are too many variables and imponderables before one could, at this time, even visualize a repetition of the 1942 scenario. This is not a roundabout way of mentioning the Soviet threat to this region, since both Suharto and Reagan have mentioned it openly. Maj Gen Kenneth Burns, the U.S. commander at Clark Air Base in the Philippines, says that with the Russians now pretty well entrenched in Vietnam, there is a consensus in the ASEAN nations that the U.S. presence in the southwest Pacific provides stability.

MALAYSIAN BORDER COOPERATION TO BE STEPPED UP

[Text] Songkhla -- Thailand and Malaysia have agreed to increase the level of their local cooperation in the border areas, a senior army official said yesterday.

Commander of the Fifth Army Division Maj Gen Panya Singsakda said the cooperation will cover every possible field which is of common interest of the two countries. Maj Gen Panya said the issue was discussed during a meeting he had with a Malaysian delegation led by Col Altas Lafti, a senior army official of Malaysia. Maj Gen Panya is commander of the Thai side of the Thai-Malaysian combined forces, while Col Lafti is a senior official of the Malaysian side.

"In the future we will have more joint military exercises in the border areas," Maj Gen Panya told THE NATION.

The two sides also agreed to organize more sports competitions between Thailand and Malaysia to foster closer relations. Maj Gen Panya said the topics of economic cooperation and security were also discussed. He said the next regional border committee's meeting will be held in Penang to discuss joint cooperation between the two countries on regional level. It is tentatively scheduled for November 23-24.

Sources said that Commander of the Fourth Army Region Lt Gen Han Linanon will be invited to visit Malaysia before the meeting early next month. The last meeting of the regional border committee was held here in May.

DEPUTY COMMERCE MINISTER ON DPRK TRADE PROSPECTS

BK230950 Bangkok Voice of Free Asia in English 1100 GMT 12 Oct 82

[Text] The Thai deputy commerce minister disclosed, after an official visit to North Korea, that North Korea had asked Thailand to station a Thai commercial counsellor in Pyongyang and to set an annual bilateral trade target. He said Thai businessmen who went on the trip are now negotiating the sale of 50,000 tons of 100 percent parboiled rice and 20,000 tons of raw sugar with North Korea's state trading company. He also said that Thai rubber exports can be doubled to 3,000 tons a month if shipments are steady. Another proposition under consideration is the exchange of 5,000 tons of North Korean caustic soda for 300 tons of Thai palm oil.

According to the Thai deputy commerce minister, the Thai commercial counsellor to China is also in charge of trade with North Korea, and bilateral trade targets will be fixed when trade is more consistent.

During a stoppover in China the deputy commerce minister also urged the Chinese trading company to buy more Thai products, especially tobacco leaves and raw sugar.

PREM PREPARED TO ACT ON INSURANCE PERMIT SCANDAL

[Excerpts] Premier Gen Prem Tinsulanon stated yesterday that he is prepared to take "drastic action" against Deputy Commerce Minister Thawi Kraikup if he was found to have complicity in a scandal over his approval for new insurance firms to be set up, government spokesmen Trairong Suwannakhiri said. He quoted the premier as telling his cabinet, which spent more than one hour debating on the controversy, that he will not allow any cabinet members to violate his principle of honesty. "The premier said if there is evidence of corruption, he will take drastic and appropriate action," Trairong told a press conference after the weekly cabinet meeting. Trairong said the premier asked his cabinet members to air their views over the issue during the meeting, but no decision was made.

The controversial minister, who is on a trip to the United States, is being investigated by a committee ordered set up by Premier Prem following weeks of criticisms and speculations in the mass media. Thawi last month approved the establishment of seven new insurance companies which led to speculations of possible irregularities.

Agriculture Minister Chuan Liphai quoted Prem as telling the cabinet meeting that he did not want to see any scandal in his government. "The premier told us that the government is accepted by the public because of its honesty and stressed that he will not stay idle if there is evidence of corruption." The government spokesman quoted Commerce Minister Punmi Punnasi as defending Thawi's decision by saying that it corresponded with the policy of the Commerce Ministry.

Thawi, who is also implicated in another scandal over his approval for the establishments of several new gas trading firms, was accused of bribing MP's to kill a government-sponsored bill to amend the Constitution in June.

TRUONG CHINH-LED DELEGATION CONCLUDES CUBA VISIT

Visit With Solidarity Group

OW202026 Hanoi VNA in English 1526 GMT 20 Oct 82

[Text] Hanoi, VNA, October 20 -- President Truong Chinh and his party during their visit to Cuba called on the Cuban Committee of Solidarity with Vietnam (C.C.S.V.). They were warmly welcomed by Mario Rodriguez and Guillen Zelaya, vice-presidents of the Cuban Institute of Friendship With the Peoples; Pedro Palacio Ramos, first vice-president of the C.C.S.V. and others.

On this occasion, President Truong Chinh spoke highly of the committee's contributions to strengthening the friendship and militant solidarity between the two peoples.

Mario Rodriguez renewed the committee's pledge to continue stepping up the movement for solidarity with Vietnam in its socialist construction and national defence.

Castro at Havana Departure

OW201816 Hanoi VNA in English 1529 GMT 20 Oct 82

[Text] Hanoi, VNA, October 20 -- The Vietnamese party and state delegation led by President Truong Chinh left Havana on Tuesday afternoon, concluding its official visit to Cuba.

President Fidel Castro and other Cuban leaders accompanied the Vietnamese delegation from the guest house to Jose Marti International Airport, which was bedecked with the colours of the two countries and streamers wishing the delegation good journey home. An army band played the national anthems of the two countries, and then the two presidents reviewed a guard of honour.

Also present at the farewell ceremony on the Cuban side were Juan Almeida Bosque, Ramiro Valdes and Guillermo Garcia, Political Bureau members of the Communist Party of Cuba Central Committee and vice-presidents of the Council of State; and Osvaldo Dorticos, Political Bureau member of the C.P.C. Central Committee and vice-president of the Council of Ministers. Members of the diplomatic corps and a large number of representatives of Cuban mass organizations were present at the airport.

President Truong Chinh and President Fidel Castro then went up and waved to the crowd of well-wishers amidst their shoutings, Vietnam! Solidarity will win! President Fidel Castro warmly embraced President Truong Chinh and the other members of the Vietnamese delegation before they boarded their special plane for the journey home.

Message of Thanks to Castro

OW201843 Hanoi VNA in English 1533 GMT 20 Oct 82

[Text] Hanoi, VNA, October 20 -- President Truong Chinh has thanked President Fidel Castro for the Cuban people's hospitality towards the Vietnamese delegation during its visit to Cuba.

In a message to the Cuban president before leaving the airspace of Cuba on October 19, President Truong Chinh described the warm feelings of the party and state leaders and the entire people of Cuba for the Vietnamese people as an expression of "noble and pure proletarian internationalism".

"What we have witnessed during our stay on this heroic island," the message said, "has strengthened our confidence that the fraternal Cuban people, under the leadership of the Communist Party of Cuba headed by you, will obtain still greater achievements in socialist construction and national defence, thereby bringing into full play the international role of the first socialist country in the Western Hemisphere".

"The fine results of our delegation's visit to Cuba, particularly the signing of the treaty on friendship and cooperation between our two countries, will further tighten the militant solidarity, friendship and fraternal cooperation between Vietnam and Cuba, thus helping strengthen the socialist community and the cause of peace in the world," the message added.

Stopover in Moscow

U.S., PRC CHEMICAL WEAPONS 'SLANDER' SCORED

BK200958 Hanoi International Service in Thai 1130 GMT 16 Oct 82

[Unattributed commentary: "The Slanderers Are Exposed"]

[Text] The psychological warfare launched by the United States and China is becoming more blatant. The two accused the Soviet Union and Vietnam of using chemical weapons in Afghanistan, Laos and Kampuchea. The Western press reported that the CIA dispatched its commandos for work under this scheme. Yet all this is like an act which boomerangs.

The BBC on 6 October, quoting a source in Bangkok, reported that analysis of samples supplied by refugees, carried out by Australian Government scientists, revealed no trace of toxic chemicals whatsoever. The international meeting of scientists in Geneva on 15 March has already rejected as slander the U.S. charge of the Soviet Union and Vietnam using toxic chemicals in Afghanistan, Laos and Kampuchea. The UN medical experts who interrogated Afghan refugees receiving treatment in Pakistan early this year and another team of experts who visited Thailand late last year reported that there was insufficient evidence to prove that toxic chemicals were used in Afghanistan and Kampuchea.

These facts have proved that the U.S. allegations were groundless, so why have Washington and Beijing continued to publicize the matter? Their purpose is to use the propaganda to cover up the crimes they have committed and are committing against the people in the three Indochinese countries. It is a fact known to all that the United States used poisonous gas and chemicals massively during the war it waged against the three Indochinese countries.

In southern Vietnam, the United States reportedly used more than 100,000 tons of toxic chemicals on 38,000 square km, or over 40 percent of the cultivated areas and over 40 percent of the forests in southern Vietnam. This damaged crops which could feed a million people. About 2 million people came into contact with and were injured by the poison, and of this number 3,500 were killed. Vietnamese and world scientists believe that U.S. toxic chemicals will produce deadly effects on many more generations to come. According to U.S. Professor (Whistling), it will take a century of reforestation efforts to replace the coastal mangroves in southern Vietnam devastated by U.S. toxic chemicals.

During the war of aggression against Vietnam in early 1979, Chinese troops injected reservoirs with poisonous gas to contaminate Vietnamese people's drinking water. This cruel method is being used by those people in their war in Indochina. Early in the year, the United States, through Thailand, used chemical warfare in the resistance against Kampuchea. Meanwhile, Chinese troops are trying to spread epidemics to people and animals living in the northern border areas of Vietnam.

The slander against the Soviet Union and Vietnam conducted by the United States and China is also part of their anti-Soviet and anti-Vietnam campaign and is aimed at distracting the attention of public opinion from their increased interference in the internal affairs of Afghanistan and Kampuchea.

Washington itself is trying to divert the attention of public opinion from the call to investigate and indemnify U.S. war veterans who were victims of the U.S. Agent Orange used in the Vietnam war. The U.S. TIME reported that about 50,000 U.S. war veterans who were in South Vietnam suffer from cancer caused by Agent Orange. The Western press also reported that about 10,000 children of U.S. Vietnam war veterans were born handicapped.

The U.S. slander against the Soviet Union and Vietnam is also aimed at providing a smokescreen for the U.S. production, stockpiling and deployment of chemical weapons on an extensive scale. U.S. Senator Pryor confirmed that the current quantity of U.S. chemical weapons is capable of destroying the world's population 50 times. That is the truth. Yet Beijing and Washington still think of creating false evidence in order to slander others. They will never be able to conceal their cruel faces by such smokescreen.

PHAM HUNG ADDRESSES SECURITY COURSE GRADUATION

BK210730 Hanoi NHAN DAN in Vietnamese 27 Sep 82 pp 1, 4

[Text] Following a series of training drives in 1981 for cadres and combatants of the Public Security Force, the Ministry of Interior recently decided to organize some refresher courses for all high-ranking command cadres in the People's Public Security Force, and the first course turned out nearly 100 command cadres for various departments, general departments, institutes and schools, including many command cadres of various provinces and cities. Comrade Pham Hung, member of the VCP Central Committee Political Bureau, vice chairman of the Council of Ministers and minister of interior, attended the graduation ceremony.

As required by the Ministry of Interior, high-ranking command cadres of the Public Security Force studied and fully understood the resolution of the Fifth VCP Congress, totally agreed with the policies and lines set forth by the party and, on this basis, suggested many measures and plans aimed at struggling to thwart the multifaceted war of sabotage, which is now being waged by the Chinese expansionists and hegemonists in collusion with the U.S. imperialists, in order to maintain political security and public order and safety, build a clean, steadfast, regular and modernized Public Security Force and contribute positively to carrying out the resolution of the Fifth VCP Congress.

Those attending the training course also studied various basic professional matters and strove to further improve their knowledge of professional theory and the science of leadership in order to make the People's Public Security Force a really strong armed element capable of conducting decisive attacks. They fully grasped leadership and managerial principles and possess the capability to make correct decisions and to satisfactorily organize the implementation of all resolutions that have been adopted. They fully grasped all managerial and organizational methods and studied the application of the socio-psychological sciences to the public security task. They further studied experiences on the advisory and organizational tasks and on preventive measures against crimes.

The training course helped the participating command cadres of the People's Public Security Force acquire more knowledge about unit leadership.

Addressing the course, Comrade Pham Hung commended the participating cadres for their scholastic achievements. He clearly analyzed the many great victories achieved by our party, state and people over the past 30 years and during the two recent border wars -- one along the southwestern border and the other along the northern border -- against the Chinese expansionist and hegemonist aggressors. He also clearly analyzed the situation and the enemy's extremely perfidious, multifaceted sabotage schemes; discussed the existing difficulties and the fierce, complex and protracted nature of the class struggle which is part of the socialist revolution in our country; and cited new victories in the defense of the fatherland's security.

Comrade Pham Hung urged the leading comrades of the People's Public Security Force to unceasingly strive to make their subordinate cadres and combatants fully aware of the above-mentioned great victories of our party, state and people; to keep them fully informed of the situation and the enemy's perfidious sabotage schemes and tricks; to instill a deep hatred of the Chinese expansionists and hegemonists who are now acting hand in glove with the U.S. imperialists; and to promote their determination to attack and frustrate all the enemy's abotage schemes, improve their sense of responsibility and discipline and overcome all difficulties in order to fulfill their assigned missions. The People's Public Security Force must build itself into a strong armed element capable of making decisive attacks and must contribute to creating a combined strength for the system of proletarian dictatorship in order to foil all the enemy's sabotage schemes under any circumstance and to move forward to achieve more successes in the new situation.

Comrade Pham Hung urged the graduating command cadres of the People's Public Security Force to satisfactorily guide their units in reviewing the implementation of Directive No 92 of the VCP Central Committee Secretariat on "building a clean and steadfast People's Public Security Force, and on stepping up the mass movement for the defense of the fatherland" with the purpose of making this movement a routine task. They must scrupulously review the implementation of the resolution of the 37th national conference of the Public Security Force; formulate plans to positively carry out the resolution of the party Central Committee Political Bureau on the need to struggle against the enemy's multifaceted war of sabotage; strive to improve their behavior in leadership and combat and to work in an urgent, thorough and effective manner; be determined to get rid of the practice of laziness and administrative redtape; strengthen the close relations between various units within the People's Public Security Force; scrupulously comply with all stipulations governing the duties and rights of public security officers at various levels; satisfactorily ensure the relations of cooperation between lower and higher echelons; strictly observe operational rules and discipline; and so forth. It is necessary to establish good relations with the people and other sectors, especially with the People's Army, in order to gain strength to maintain political security and public order and safety. To achieve the above aims, each command cadre must have a general knowledge of the situation and must know how to correctly assess and evaluate it and how to reach a conclusion in a scientific and accurate manner. He must fully realize his duties and responsibilities and must constantly steel himself in all respects in order to exercise his command and leadership skills more effectively.

Comrade Pham Hung also gave many other important opinions to the People's Public Security Force so that it can contribute satisfactorily to implementing the resolution of the Fifth VCP Congress in accordance with the duties and functions of the People's Public Security Force.

PAPER CITES ANTI-FULRO MEASURES IN PROVINCES

BK210750 Hanoi QUAN DOI NHAN DAN in Vietnamese 24 Sep 82 pp 1, 4

[VNA report]

[Text] Dac Lac, Lam Dong and Gia Lai-Cong Tum Provinces have reportedly adopted many effective measures to annihilate and disintegrate the FULRO reactionary organization.

Since the complete liberation of the south, with the aim of advancing their "postwar plan," the U.S. Central Intelligence Agency (CIA) and the Beijing reactionaries have helped the FULRO reactionary organization carry out its activities in these three provinces -- fomenting armed rebellions to oppose and undermine the revolutionary administration. The armed forces and people of Dac Lac, Lam Dong and Gia Lai-Cong Tum Provinces have, however, heightened vigilance, annihilating and disintegrating a large part of this organization's force and capturing many of its leaders.

The party committees and people's committees of the Central Highlands provinces have launched a broad and deep movement among the people, especially the people of the Edeh, K'ho and Gia Lai nationalities, to settle the FULRO issue.

Many work teams have been dispatched to various villages and hamlets to help the local administration carry out educational and propaganda work among the people on the FULRO organization's reactionary nature. This is necessary in order to make them clearly understand that all the activities of this organization -- such as ambushing, raiding, plundering and killing -- are opposed to the interests of the people and their daily life, and have been carried out in compliance with the schemes and objectives of the U.S. imperialists and the Chinese reactionaries aimed at opposing and undermining the Vietnamese revolution and driving our people into poverty and backwardness so that it can easily deceive or persuade them to serve as its henchmen.

These work teams and the administration in various localities have also called on the people and instructed them to apply the "three-nots" motto -- not to believe or listen to what FULRO says; not to work for or supply FULRO remnants; and not to allow FULRO bandits to enter the villages to take their sons and brothers into the jungle to join this reactionary organization.

In addition, the party committee echelons and administration in various localities have explained clearly the policy of leniency to those FULRO followers who have defected to the revolutionary side, rewarded those who have successfully persuaded their husbands, sons and brothers to abandon the FULRO organization and return home to make an honest living and arranged jobs for those FULRO followers who have sincerely repented.

Thanks to the campaign, the people, especially those of the Edeh, K'ho and Gia Lai nationalities, have been able to see clearly the crimes and reactionary nature of the FULRO organization and understand better the policy of leniency and humanity of the party and the state. As for those who were deceived or coerced into joining FULRO the localities concerned have distributed leaflets pointing out their mistakes and the leniency of the party and the state so that they can feel at ease to surrender or report themselves to the authorities. Many localities have even distributed pictures and open letters of some former "high echelons" of the FULRO organization who, after having been convinced of their mistakes, have returned to their families and villages to make an honest living and have been cared for and assisted by the local administration.

Some localities have also arranged for these persons to travel to certain villages and hamlets to tell their relatives about the crimes and reactionary nature of the FULRO organization, as well as about their actual life and the good treatment they have received from the revolutionary administration. As a result, many families have been able to persuade their loved ones to come out of the jungle.

Along with carrying out propaganda and educational work to make the people heighten their vigilance and to call on those who have blindly joined the FULRO organization to come home, the party committees and the administration at all levels of the provinces in the Central Highlands have paid attention to training and fostering the contingent of ethnic cadres. This is aimed at enabling them to manage work in their own localities effectively, thus helping to settle the FULRO issue satisfactorily.

At present, in addition to the adoption of political measures, these provinces have launched many drives to track down and wipe out remnant FULRO diehards while continuing to expand the people's security networks in all villages.

AGRICULTURE MINISTER VIEWS GRAIN PRODUCTION

BK160500 Hanoi Domestic Service in Vietnamese 1430 GMT 15 Oct 82

[Article by Minister of Agriculture Nguyen Ngoc Triu -- read by announcer]

[Summary] Despite many difficulties caused by inclement weather, insects and shortages of agricultural facilities, we still produced more than 15 million tons of grain during 1981, the highest production volume ever recorded. The cultivation of subsidiary food crops such as peanuts and soybeans was also developing well, along with animal raising.

Spurred on by the success in 1981 and welcoming the World Food Day, our people have entered 1982 with a new labor impetus. "Necessary preparations have been completed in all localities to cope with the production requirements in an active and timely manner. The winter-spring crop season has ended with the total production volume increased by 200,000 tons over that of last year. Other subsidiary food crops such as soybeans and sugarcane continue to increase. The summer-fall harvest is in full swing, and it is certain that the planned production volume will be achieved. The 10th-month crops show good promise with all the planned areas planted during the best time of the season. According to the estimates of many localities, if the weather does not change drastically from now until harvest, we will score the best 10th-month crop harvest, and the 1982 target of 16 million tons of grain will become a reality."

The results of agricultural production over the past few years have somewhat improved the livelihood of our people even in those areas with many recurrent difficulties in production. These successes have demonstrated that our party-state guideline of concentrating on developing agricultural production is correct. They also reflect the creativity and diligence of our laboring people and manifest many other specific factors such as the incentive policies instituted by our state, the new management systems, the application of scientific and technical innovations and the important assistance and cooperation of socialist countries, other friendly countries and international organizations under the agricultural program, especially the FAO of the United Nations.

"On the occasion of World Food Day, we thank all the fraternal and friendly countries and the international organizations for their effective and timely support, especially during the times when our agriculture was hit by natural disasters -- drought, insects, typhoon and flood. In 1983 and throughout the 1980's, grain and food products will still remain an urgent problem in our country's economic and social program."

Therefore, our party and state have considered the food program as an integrated and targeted economic-technical program to ensure all the material conditions for agricultural production and to resolve problems in processing, circulation, distribution and production organization. Our four guidelines for resolving the food problem are: "Accelerate production; wisely use food and improve diet; minimize the increase in population and the rational increase in the nonagricultural production area; and increase exports in order to import some grain while always keeping in mind production as the main guideline."

"Learning from our experiences in past years, we will gradually resolve the grain problem for our people. On the occasion of World Food Day, we will act even more energetically, together with the international community, to contribute to easing the tense situation in food and to stave off the famine and malnutrition that are threatening hundreds of millions of people, especially in the developing countries."

U.S. THREAT TO QUIT UN BODIES CRITICIZED

BK210745 Jakarta OANA in English 2714 GMT 21 Oct 82

["Pool item"]

[Excerpt] Jakarta, Oct. 21 (ANTARA/OANA) -- The threat of the United States to quit the United Nations Organisation shows only "big power greed" and will not solve the problem which is a threat to the United States' own principles and the principle of world peace.

This was stated by Member of Parliament/People's Consultative Assembly Amin Iskandar of the Partai Persatuan Pembangunan (Development Unity Party) Group in an interview with ANTARA Wednesday at Parliament building at Senayan here when he gave his view on the recent AFP news from Washington stating that the United States have threatened to quit the United Nations and to withdraw from the UN General Assembly if this world body accepted the Arab countries' sponsored resolution to oust Israel from that world organization.

Amin Iskandar, who is a member of Commission I (in charge of foreign affairs) of Parliament, further stated that it would be far better if the U.S. threat and actions were directed against Israel, which at present was the source of the world troubles, for instance through U.S. discontinuation of financial, military and political aid to that country.

Only through such steps could the Middle East crisis be solved, which would further serve as a firm stepping stone for the solution of the Afghanistan and Kampuchea problems, he said.

"It is regrettable indeed that the United States opposes world opinion for the sole purpose of defending Israel. But on the other hand one should beware that the threat is not nearly a "bluff" from the American side. It means that if Israel is ousted from the United Nations, the United States will follow suit. If this happens, the role of the world body to solve problems peacefully and durably will come to an end, because the United Nations had been established mainly for the purpose of preventing world conflagrations," Amin Iskandar said.

Deputy Chairman of Commission I (for foreign affairs) of Parliament Marjudi Darusman of the Functional Group was of the view that U.S. threat had been made many times before and that is was meant to obtain a broader internal political basis for the country's international role.

"The American attitude is aimed at creating a critical opinion of U.S. involvement in international problems. I am, however, of the view that America will not go to the extreme as to really leave the world body," Darusman said. "Even if Israel is ousted from the United Nations, the United States will never leave the world organization, because that country has bigger interests to remain in the world body," he added. "The American threat and actions are in reality only for the the purpose of strengthening the country's internal position and for the outside world they appear to be a grumble," Darusman said.

RESULTS OF COMMONWEALTH MEETING DISCUSSED

Mahathir on Kampuchean Aid

BK210923 Kuala Lumpur International Service in English 0800 GMT 21 Oct 82

[Text] Datuk Sri Dr Mahathir Mohamed says the just concluded Commonwealth heads of government regional meeting, CHOGRM, in Fiji is a useful forum for Malaysia to extend ties with the south Pacific countries. The prime minister adds that CHOGRM itself is useful because it enables the smaller member countries to voice their problems openly. He describes the third CHOGRM as a summit as it was attended by 14 of the 17 heads of government and heads of state who are members. The prime minister was reviewing the recent meeting in Suva, Fiji, from which he returned last night after a stopover visit to Papua New Guinea.

He says the retreat, after 2 days of talks alongside officials, allowed him to move privately with, among others, Singapore Premier Mr Lee Kuan Yew. On the trade mission which accompanied him, the prime minister believes that the members have found many opportunities open to them. He says the members plan to open an office in Fiji as a base to determine the projects they wish to get involved with and to establish ways of cooperation with the islanders.

On Kampuchea, the prime minister says the coalition government headed by Prince Norodom Sihanouk can expect assistance from some Commonwealth countries. He pointed out that the communique issued by the Commonwealth heads of government regional meeting at Fiji last week had taken note of the formation of the coalition government. India, which had recognized the Heng Samrin regime, had also taken note of the formation of the coalition. In addition to that, Australia also pledged support for Democratic Kampuchea.

Official Comments on ICK

BK191029 Kuala Lumpur International Service in English 0600 GMT 19 Oct 82

[Text] A [words indistinct] Malaysian official says that any further move to resolve the Kampuchean conflict should be in line with the declaration of the International Conference on Kampuchea, ICK. This has been the position of Malaysia and its ASEAN partners. He was commenting on a report from Tokyo quoting the Laotion foreign minister, Khamphai Boupha, as saying that his country was making contacts with the ASEAN countries to hold an international conference on the Kampuchean issue.

Malaysia had explained its position to Vietnam and hoped Hanoi would respond positively not only in its own interest but for the good of Southeast Asia. The ICK declaration calls for immediate withdrawal of Vietnamese troops from Kampuchea to allow the people self-determination and lead to a comprehensive peace settlement in Kampuchea.

Endorsement of CGDK Hailed

BK191511 Kuala Lumpur International Service in English 0800 GMT 19 Oct 82

[Unattributed commentary]

[Text] The 17 Asian and Pacific leaders of Commonwealth nations, who met in Fiji, have overwhelmingly endorsed the ASEAN view of the Kampuchean issue.

A communique that was released yesterday states that it was imperative for a comprehensive political solution to be found to the Kampuchean question. This view in effect rejects the Vietnamese military occupation of Kampuchea as well as all attempts by Hanoi to get the international community to recognize the puppet Heng Samrin regime.

Vietnam should realize that its military conquest of its neighbor and the consequent heightening of tension in Southeast Asia has only served to isolate Hanoi from the rest of the world.

The Suva summit called for a total withdrawal of all foreign forces from Kampuchea and the restoration of the independence, sovereignty and neutrality of Kampuchea, so as to enable the people to determine their future free of outside interference.

The heads of government also noted the formation of the Coalition Government of Democratic Kampuchea [CGDK] and the announcement of the Government of Vietnam of a partial withdrawal of its forces from Kampuchea and its consultations with other countries in the region.

For Malaysia and the ASEAN nations, this is a major victory despite the attempt by India to push the interests of Vietnam at the summit. The statement endorsed the various UN resolutions on Kampuchea and a declaration that was made at the international conference on Kampuchea.

The Indian delegation had made attempts to perpetuate a fiction that the Democratic Kampuchean Government is still being led by Pol Pot and that it was still involved in a policy of genocide, which made it notorious and unacceptable to the international community.

Malaysia was happy that there was mention made of the CGDK that is now leading the resistance against the Vietnamese military occupation. The cause of this coalition led by Prince Norodom Sihanouk has been strengthened further, especially in the voting to accept the credentials of the Democratic Kampuchean Government at the UN General Assembly in the next few weeks. Once against the lessons that aggression will never succeed or can never be camouflaged have been driven home.

The Indian delegation succeeded in inserting the Vietnamese announcement of a partial withdrawal of forces from Kampuchea in the final communique. Malaysian Prime Minister Datuk Sri Dr Mahathir stated however that while Malaysia accepted the announcement of a partial troop withdrawal it did not accept the view that there was an actual withdrawal. Malaysia is even questioning whether they in fact did withdraw.

Other nations may prefer to be blinded by the propaganda of the Vietnamese or by the strength of previous ties, but what is even clearer is that the pro-Soviet line in these nations has succeeded in isolating these nations from their real friends with whom they stand to benefit from the close economic, social and political ties. It is to be hoped that gerontrocracy presiding in Hanoi has been made aware once again of the futility and the high cost of fulfilling the dreams of creating an Indochina federation.

ACCOUNTING OF MARCOS U.S. TRIP EXPENSES URGED

HK210221 Davao City SAN PEDRO EXPRESS in English 9-15 Oct pp 2, 4

[Excerpt] Invoking a constitutional right of every Filipino to "information on matter of public concern," a national political party demanded recently for the immediate publication of the "true and complete" accounting of the expenses incurred during the state visit of President Ferdinand E. Marcos to the United States of America. [passage published in boldface]

In a party statement issued October 1, the Pilipino Democratic Party (Pilipino) alluded to an October 1st article of ASIAWEEK, a regional magazine published in Hongkong, which said that the visit may have cost between $5 million and $20 million.

Pilipino, established in February this year and registered as a political party with the commission on elections in March, is calling for the accounting because it claims "the government has not assisted the people in satisfying many basic and urgent needs due to alleged lack of funds."

The same statement also cited the present foreign and domestic debts of P200 billion and the conflicting versions about the September 14-30, 1982 state visit and the responsibility of the government relative to money of the people, as grounds for accounting the expenses paid for out of government funds including state-owned enterprises.

The Davao City-based political group it will be recalled has also accepted the challenge of President Marcos to a debate on whether there is democracy in the Philippines. Pilipino maintains that there is none while the 65-year old president claims during his U.S. visit that the country is very much democratic, citing among others the recent holding of a free presidential and barangay elections.

MARCOS RIDICULES UNIDO ON ELECTION CONDITIONS

HK201330 Manila TIMES JOURNAL in English 20 Oct 82 pp 1, 9

[Excerpt] President Marcos said yesterday the question of whether or not to synchronize elections will be decided by the people through the public hearings to be conducted by the Batasang Pambansa starting today. The president dismissed as "pipe dreams" the conditions set by the United Democratic Opposition [UNIDO] for its participation in elections.

Mr Marcos was interviewed by newsmen shortly after he and the first lady, Mrs Imelda R. Marcos, arrived in Tacloban City aboard the presidential ship Ang Pangulo. The first couple will attend the commemorative rites in Palo, Leyte, today, making the 38th anniversary of the landing of U.S. liberation forces in that province.

The UNIDO, in answer to the president's statement aired its conditions for participating in the planned polls. "These are all fantasy and frivolous and all pipe dreams," the president said of the UNIDO terms. "I do not know what they are really talking about." The terms included a demand for an amendment to the Constitution to provide for the election of a vice president.

The president's statement was echoed by Prime Minister Cesar E.A. Virata. In a press briefing, he said the cabinet will await the outcome of the Batasan public hearings before making its stand on the matter.

In the same interview the president said the economic development program in region 8 has undercut the advance of the Communist New People's Army in the region.

MARCOS STRESSES DEVELOPMENT TO COMBAT SUBVERSION

HK210431 Manila Domestic Service in English 0400 GMT 21 Oct 82

[Text] President Marcos has stated that the government will continue to emphasize social and economic development in coping with subversion. The chief executive made this statement at a meeting last night with officials of Leyte and Samar held at the people's center in Tacloban City. During that meeting the president was informed by the local officials that dissidence in the area had been put under control with the rapid development of the region. They said that the opening of more roads and highways, the electrification of barrios and the spread of the livelihood program have all contributed to the efforts in containing dissidence.

The president also assured the officials that he will release an unspecificed amount for the repair and rehabilitation of some 650 school buildings damaged by recent typhoons. He likewise said that the government will continue the policy of strengthening the administration in the provinces and giving them more autonomy. In many cases, he said, problems are better solved at provincial level.

At the same time the president reiterated that the country had adopted a strong work ethic as the basis of development. He gave the assurance that the government will not find itself in a financial bind, which many welfare states had fallen into. He cited the predicament of some welfare states that spend more than half of their annual budget on welfare.

On the livelihood program, the chief executive cautioned against over-concentration of efforts on a few products, which, he said, may result in excess production. He urged that market studies accompany all KKK (Kilusang Kabuhayan at Kaunlaran) projects to ensure their viability.

Speaking to the same group, the first lady and Human Settlements Minister Madam Imelda Marcos urged constant contacts between local officials and their constituents in the barangays. She suggested that local officials keep their records of finances open to public scrutiny, to to maintain public conference in the integrity of government programs.

FURTHER REPORTS ON SUCCESSION TO PRIME MINISTER

Leaders Fail To Pick Successor

OW221509 Tokyo KYODO in English 1500 GMT 22 Oct 82

[Text] Tokyo, Oct 22, KYODO -- Liberal-Democratic Party (LDP) leaders Friday night failed to pick a successor to party President and Prime Minister Zenko Suzuki but agreed to have further talks Saturday. The leaders failed to sink differences in their last-ditch efforts to settle the bitter power struggle over who should succeed Suzuki, party sources said.

They agreed to extend the deadline for the week-long campaign ban by four presidential candidates -- Yasuhiro Nakasone, 64, Toshio Komoto, 71, Ichiro Nakagawa, 58, and Shintaro Abe, 58. The deadline was originally due for midnight Friday. It was not known how long the deadline has been extended.

Suzuki, former Prime Minister Takeo Fukuda and party Secretary General Susumu Nikaido reached the agreement after their futile attempts to choose a successor through negotiations.

Elections To Be Held

OW230026 Tokyo KYODO in English 0006 GMT 23 Oct 82

[Excerpts] Tokyo, Oct 23, KYODO -- Leaders of the ruling Liberal-Democratic Party failed to reach a compromise in their marathon talks Saturday and forced four men to fight it out to win the top party post and succeed outgoing Prime Minister Zenko Suzuki.

The eleventh-hour session that began Friday evening and lasted until 5 a.m. Saturday broke up after the party leaders ran out of means to pick a successor to Suzuki through talks rather than time consuming and costly primary and run-off elections.

The party leaders -- Suzuki, former Prime Minister Takeo Fukuda, Secretary General Susumu Nakaido and other executives -- had been in daily sessions since Suzuki announced October 12 he would not seek re-election to party president, a post which carried with it premiership, in the face of mounting criticism against his leadership.

The party leaders gave up further efforts early Saturday morning when Yasuhiro Nakasone, Cabinet minister and director general of the Administrative Management Agency, rejected a last minute compromise proposal to resolve a bitter intraparty power struggle which flared following Suzuki's surprise announcement. It called for naming Nakasone prime minister and former Premier Fukuda party president.

In return, the three other candidates -- Shintaro Abe, minister of international trade and industry; Toshio Komoto, state minister and director general of the Economic Planning Agency; and Ichiro Nakagawa, state minister and director general of science and technology, would withdraw their candidacy. Under the compromise, Komoto would be named deputy premier and finance minister.

Nakasone, a 64-year-old veteran politician who has served as a Cabinet minister a number of times, said he could not accept the proposal because it ran counter to the parliamentary Cabinet system, similar to that of Britain, which Japan has maintained. He told newsmen that president of the party in power should simultaneously be prime minister.

Nakasone's rejection thus opened the way for the four candidates to go through party primary and run-off elections. They have refrained from waging open campaigning in the past week under a week-long freeze imposed by the party while party elders searched ways to avoid elections.

The four candidates began campaigning Saturday, with emphasis on winning support of rank and file party members and associates who have not yet made up their minds for whom to vote.

Ballots of some 1,045,000 grassroots party members and supporters will be mailed to party headquarters, where they are scheduled to be opened and tabulated on November 23. The top three candidates will go forward to a run-off election on November 25, when LDP members of the Diet attend a party convention to elect the new party president.

Komoto is favored to collect more votes in the primary election because he is said to have gathered support from more grassroots party members and associates than the three other candidates. However, Nakasaone has the backing of two powerful factions within the party -- the groups led by Suzuki and former Prime Minister Kakuei Tanaka. These groups, including that of Nakasone, have 244 of the 421 LDP members of the Diet, enough to elect Nakasone as party president -- and premier -- if he is in the top three in the primary contest.

Prime Minister Suzuki returned home shortly before 6 a.m. Saturday, following the all-night session at party headquarters, and told newsmen that he had tried his best in a futile attempt at finding his successor through talks. He said he was sorry, but added that he hoped the four candidates will wage a fair election campaign. The prime minister said the LDP should make an effort to establish a party unity, and he would give his share of efforts to achieve it.

Candidates' News Conference

OW231151 Tokyo KYODO in English 1130 GMT 23 Oct 82

[Excerpts] Tokyo, Oct 23, KYODO -- Japan's ruling Liberal-Democratic Party (LDP) Saturday plunged into divisive and expensive campaigns to select a successor to outgoing LDP President and Prime Minister Zenko Suzuki. The primary election was called after party elders failed to pick Suzuki's successor during talks lasting from Friday evening to early Saturday morning.

Four contenders -- all ministers in the Suzuki Cabinet -- immediately put their followers on alert for a showdown toward the end of next month. They are Yasuhiro Nakasone, head of the Administrative Management Agency; Toshio Komoto, head of the Economic Planning Agency; Ichiro Nakagawa, head of the Science and Technology Agency; and Shintaro Abe, minister of international trade and industry.

The four presidential candidates held a joint press conference Saturday at the LDP headquarters here and explained their motives.

Nakasone, 64, said he is determined to carry out Suzuki's pet scheme for administrative and fiscal reforms to create a small government. He is supported by three intraparty factions led by former Prime Minister Kakuei Tanaka, Suzuki and himself, who together control more than half the 421 party Diet (parliament) members.

Komoto, 71, Nakagawa, 57, and Abe, 58, were unanimous in calling for improving ethics and morale within the scandal-ridden conservative party. This was oblique criticism of former Prime Minister Tanaka, who wields immense influence within despite having officially left it after the Lockheed payoff scandal erupted several years ago.

Abe said: Everybody knows who is controlling the Liberal-Democratic Party. State affairs cannot be run unless the situation in which the LDP is controlled by a nonmember is corrected, Nakagawa told reporters.

MSA REPORTS USSR SEIZES JAPANESE FISHING BOAT

OW250625 Tokyo KYODO in English 1607 GMT 25 Oct 82

[Text] Sendai, Oct 25, KYODO -- A Japanese fishing boat with six fishermen aboard was seized by a Soviet patrol boat while operating in the Sea of Japan Sunday, Maritime Safety Agency officials said Monday.

They said the 99-ton No 15 Mirei Maru of Hachinohe, Aomori Prefecture, was stopped by the Soviet ship about 261 kilometers west of Setana in western Hokkaido and escorted to Soviet territory.

The Japanese ship was reportedly operating within Soviet territorial waters. It left Hachinohe port October 21 and was scheduled to return at the end of December.

MINISTER CRITICIZES U.S. OVER AGRICULTURE TALKS

OW220431 Tokyo KYODO in English 0400 GMT 22 Oct 82

[Text] Tokyo, Oct 22, KYODO -- Japanese Agriculture, Forestry and Fisheries Minister Kichiro Tazawa criticized Friday the American reluctance to understand the Japanese agricultural situation which he said could not allow the complete liberalization of beef and orange imports.

Commenting on the rupture of agricultural talks in Honolulu the same day, the minister said the U.S. is looking at the matter from a purely trade point of view when it is in fact basically an agricultural issue.

The Americans proposed cutting the Honolulu talks short after only two days of negotiations because of the Japanese refusal to liberalize imports of American high-qaulity beef and oranges from 1984. The talks had been scheduled to last another day.

Tazawa termed the lack of understanding of the Japanese agricultural situation by the U.S. as "strange."

ITO LECTURES ON CURRENT DEFENSE PROBLEMS

OW211003 Tokyo KYODO in English 0934 GMT 21 Oct 82

[Text] Sendai, Oct 21, KYODO -- Defense Chief Soichiro Ito Thursday termed the support of pacifist forces for the nation's war-renouncing Constitution and three non-nuclear principles as "muggy." The director general of the Defense Agency used the term in a lecture on current defense problems at a hotel meeting here.

Ito said it is fine to speak highly of the "peace" Constitution and the non-nuclear principles at home, but appealing for such causes in world affairs misses the point. "Such an appeal never works," he said.

He then asserted Japan should strive to meet the demand of the U.S. and other countries for increased defense outlays as a member of the Free World, while maintaining its own defense stance.

Referring to the Japanese embargo on arms exports, which hinders the promotion of defense technology exchange with the U.S., Ito said: "There is an argument that Japan, unilaterally supplied with (such technology), is not a worthy U.S. ally." The defense chief said he would press the new Cabinet to develop such exchange.

Refuting the criticism from China and other Asian countries that Japan is again becoming a military power, Ito said Japan is far from being so.

"This is proven by the fact that the Self-Defense Forces don't have sufficient drilling ranges, and have a hard time recruiting reinforcements," he said.

PAKISTAN'S ZIAUL HAQ MAKES OFFICIAL VISIT

23 Oct Arrival Ceremony

SK240540 Pyongyang KCNA in English 0516 GMT 24 Oct 82

[Text] Pyongyang, October 28 (KCNA) -- His Excellency General Mohammad Ziaul Haq, president of the Islamic Republic of Pakistan, arrived in Pyongyang on October 23 by special plane on an official state visit to our country at the invitation of the great leader Comrade Kim Il-song, president of the Democratic People's Republic of Korea.

The great leader Comrade Kim Il-song and his wife cordially met His Excellency President Mohammad Ziaul Haq and his wife at Pyongyang airport. The airport was in a festive atmosphere to greet the friendship envoy of the Pakistani people. The airport compound was crowded by thousands of welcomers with the national flags of Korea and Pakistan, bunches of flowers and balloons in their hands. Set up amidst the welcomers were a portrait of the great leader Comrade Kim Il-song and a portrait of His Excellency General Mohammad Ziaul Haq, president of the Islamic Republic of Pakistan. Slogan-boards reading "Long live the great leader Comrade Kim Il-song!" and "Long live His Excellency President Mohammad Ziaul Haq!" were seen there.

The great leader Comrade Kim Il-song came out to the airport.

The plane carrying the envoy of the Pakistani people touched down at the airport at 12:15. The crowds welcomed the friendship envoy of the Pakistani people, raising the cheers of manse (hurrah).

The great leader Comrade Kim Il-song shook hands with His Excellency President Mohammad Ziaul Haq and hugged him. Children's Union members presented bunches of flowers to the great leader Comrade Kim Il-song and His Excellency President Mohammad Ziaul Haq.

Arriving here together with His Excellency President Mohammad Ziaul Haq were Khwaja Mohammad Safdar, chairman of the Federal Council; Sahabzada Yaqub Ali Khan, minister for foreign affairs; Ghulam Ishaq Khan, finance minister, and his wife; Mahmud A. Haroon, interior minister, and his wife; Begum Viqarun Nisa Noon, adviser to the president on tourism; Lieutenant General K.M. Arif, chief of staff to the president, and his wife; and others.

Text of Kim Il-song Speech

SK240521 Pyongyang KCNA in English 0454 GMT 24 Oct 82

[Text] Pyongyang, October 23 (KCNA) -- The great leader Comrade Kim Il-song, president of the Democratic People's Republic of Korea, made a speech at the grand banquet he arranged at the Kumsusan Assembly Hall on the evening of October 23 in honour of His Excellency General Mohammad Ziaul Haq, president of the Islamic Republic of Pakistan, on an official state visit to our country. His speech reads in full:

Your Excellency esteemed President Mohammad Ziaul Haq, distinguished guests from Pakistan, comrades and friends:

Today Your Excellency General Mohammad Ziaul Haq, president of the Islamic Republic of Pakistan, has arrived in Pyongyang carrying with you the warm friendly feelings of the Pakistani people towards the Korean people.

I am greatly pleased to meet again, Your Excellency President, an intimate friend of mine, and find you amongst us. I warmly welcome you and dear guests from Pakistan on behalf of the Government of the Democratic People's Republic of Korea, the Korean people and on my own.

We already had a significant meeting with you for the first time in Belgrade in May 1980. Our friendship formed at that time has deepened as the days went by and the friendly relations between our two peoples have developed steadily.

Your Excellency President crossed over the high Himalaya mountain ranges to visit our country. This is the manifestation of your exceptionally close friendship towards us. It is of great significance in adding lustre to the annals of friendship between Korea and Pakistan and strengthening solidarity among the Asian people.

Today the Asian people are living in a new era of history shaping their own destiny independently and creatively, freed from the long years of colonial subjugation. Both Korea and Pakistan are newly emerging Asian countries and member nations of the Non-Aligned Movement.

The Pakistani people with a long history and cultural traditions are striving to eliminate backwardness and poverty, the vestiges of colonial rule, strengthen national unity and build a new Islamized society of justice and quality under the leadership of Your Excellency esteemed President Mohammad Ziaul Haq.

The Islamic Republic of Pakistan withdrew from the military blocs to which it had belonged, and became a member nation of the Non-Aligned Movement. This is a just step which meets the Pakistani people's demand for and reflects the trend of the present times towards chajusong (independence).

We are convinced that the Pakistani Government and people will achieve a great success in their struggle to develop national economy and national culture, safeguard the sovereignty of the country and build a new prosperous Pakistan on the road they have chosen.

Today, new-merging and non-aligned countries are faced with various problems that must be solved by united efforts. They should solidly unite, positively support and closely cooperate with one another in their struggle for independence against imperialism.

The peoples of Korea and Pakistan, out of their common desire for sovereignty, independence and a new life, have established bonds of friendship and promoted interchanges and cooperation in many fields. Your Excellency President's current visit to our country will be an opportunity for us to discuss widely problems of promoting mutual cooperation on a bilateral or international level, and this will no doubt help towards accelerating the common cause of the Third World countries.

The government of our republic is particularly interested in developing the good neighbouring relations with the Asian countries which are near to us geographically.

Our people will, in the future, too, staunchly struggle in firm unity with the Pakistani people and the rest of the Asian peoples to build an independent new Asia and an independent new world free from imperialism and colonialsm, national domination and subjugation.

Your Excellency President, your current visit to our country greatly inspires our people in their struggle to build socialism and reunify their divided country independently and peacefully.

Wishing you a pleasant stay throughout your visit amidst the warm welcome of our people, I would like to propose a toast: To the fraternal friendship and solidarity between the Korean people and the Pakistani people, to the prosperity and development of the Islamic Republic of Pakistan, to the solidarity among the world people who advocate chajusong, to the health of Your Excellency esteemed President Mohammad Ziaul Haq and Madame, to the health of the guests from Pakistan, and to the health of comrades and friends present here.

Ziaul Haq Speech

SK241125 Pyongyang KCNA in English 1056 GMT 24 Oct 82

[Text] Pyongyang, October 23 (KCNA) -- Mohammad Ziaul Haq, president of the Islamic Republic of Pakistan, made a speech at the grand banquet arranged by the great leader Comrade Kim Il-song, president of the Democratic People's Republic of Korea, at the Kumsusan Assembly Hall on the evening of October 23. In his speech he said:

President and great leader of Democratic People's Republic of Korea, His Excellency Kim Il-song, distinguished ladies and gentlemen:

I have long cherished the desire to visit Democratic People's Republic of Korea and to meet the great leader of this country, President Kim Il-song. Two years ago I set out from Pakistan to fulfill this desire but suddenly, on account of unavoidable reasons, the visit had to be postponed. It is a pleasure and an honour that today my long standing desire has been realised and I and members of my delegation have the honour to meet His Excellency Kim Il-song.

Before coming here we had heard much about the affection, sincerity and goodwill obtaining in Democratic People's Republic of Korea for Pakistan and its people. The warmth, enthusiasm and emotions with which I, my wife and other members of my delegation were received today has not only confirmed the validity of the reports but also left deep imprints of friendship and affection on our hearts -- the imprint which will never be erased.

This grand banquet and the speech just given are also manifestation of the same sentiment and friendship about which I spoke a moment ago. For the kind words that Excellency Kim Il-song spoke about Pakistan and about me personally, I wish to convey my gratitude and I assure him that the people of Pakistan also cherish sincere regard for the leadership of the Democratic People's Republic of Korea and deep love and affection for its people.

Respected Mr President, both of our countries are situated in sensitive strategic locations, which command great importance in international politics. While this strategic situation confers upon us considerable responsibility for the sake of regional and international peace, it has also confronted us with some problems. We are gratified and we derive satisfaction that Democratic People's Republic of Korea and Pakistan are not only taking effective steps to safeguard their independence, sovereignty and security but are also rendering service for the consolidation and promotion of peace and security in their regions.

Our two countries, which are part of the Third World, are developing countries. We adhere to the principles of peaceful coexistence and on the basis of these principles we have developed bilateral relations. Our relations are founded on mutual confidence and mutual benefit, and we value them greatly. I am convinced that the talks we shall have during my visit will contribute to the further improvement of these relations.

Excellency, Mr President, every person and every country has a vision of the future. This vision mirrors its aspirations and ambitions. Mr President, we in Pakistan have a vision of peace and security for others and we wish prosperity and happiness for our own people as well as for the people of other countries. We wish an end to the atmosphere of tension and confrontation in the world. We wish defeat to anti-peace forces and we wish that all countries of the world, large and small, should work for mutual cooperation and prosperity in an environment of mutual confidence and peace.

We not only entertain this vision but we also try to change it into reality. In these efforts we have the cooperation of Democratic People's Republic of Korea and other peace-loving countries. However, despite all the efforts of all such countries world peace faces serious danger. Its main cause is that some countries are pursuing attempts to dominate other countries and to forcibly bring them under their control. In my view the sooner this trend is halted the brighter will be the future of world peace.

In this context I wish to draw attention especially towards the Middle East, Afghanistan and Kampuchea where small and relatively weak states have fallen victim to this trend and to the regrettable policies inherent in this trend. We call for the withdrawal of foreign forces from these countries and for elimination of the colonial system, in whatever form, from every part of the world, for liquidation of racism, for discouragement of arms race and for the establishment of a just and peaceful order throughout the world.

Excellency, we deeply respect the views you have expressed on the world situation and we believe that the impact of your views is not limited to our two countries and that it will produce far reaching results because these are views of an important leader and statesman of the present era.

Respected Mr President, the progress achieved by Democratic People's Republic of Korea under your inspiring leadership through the golden principle of "chuche" is greatly admired by the people of Pakistan who wish complete success to this friendly country under your leadership in all fields of reconstruction and in agriculture and industry. The people of Pakistan are well aware of the circumstances and difficulties confronting you since the Second World War. They admire the efforts you are making to bring the situation under control and for the reconstruction of Korea, and wish success to your efforts for the peaceful reunification of your country and that you may achieve this destination in accordance with recognized principles, without foreign interference. We extend to you our prayers and good wishes.

Excellency, the next few days are very significant for us as during these days I and my colleagues will get an opportunity to see glimpses of the progress of Democratic People's Republic of Korea and to benefit, during formal and informal talks, from your statesman-like views.

I would like to end my speech by extending a warm invitation to the president and great leader of Democratic People's Republic of Korea, His Excellency Kim Il-song, to visit Pakistan at his convenience. I assure His Excellency that it would be a matter of great joy and honour for the people and government of Pakistan and for myself to receive him on our soil.

May I ask you, ladies and gentlemen, to join me in toasting:

For the long life, health and happiness of the president, the great leader of Democratic People's Republic of Korea, His Excellency Kim Il-song; for the long life, health and happiness of the dear leader His Excellency Kim Chong-il; for the progress and prosperity of the people of Democratic People's Republic of Korea; for ever increasing friendship between Pakistan and Democratic People's Republic of Korea; and for the promotion of world peace and security.

Armed Forces Ministry Banquet

SK251242 Pyongyang Domestic Service in Korean 2200 GMT 24 Oct 82

[Text] The Ministry of People's Armed Forces arranged a banquet on the evening of 24 October at the People's Palace of Culture on the occasion of the 32d anniversary of the Chinese People's Volunteers entry into the Korean war.

Present at the banquet were Comrade O Chin-u, minister of people's armed forces, Comrade Paek Hak-nim, vice minister, Vice Premier Chong Chun-ki and personages concerned including Kim Kwan-sop, O Chae-won, Pak Chung-kuk, Yun Chi-ho, Yu Yong-kol, Kim Chae-suk, (Choe Mun-tok), Yi Song-nok, (Chon Il-chun), Han Chu-kyong and Wang Kyong-hak, and generals and officers of the Korean People's Army.

Invited there were the delegation of former CPV headed by Comrade Han Xianchu, member of the CPC Central Committee and deputy commander of the former CPV; the CPC goodwill delegation headed by Dai Suli, member of the CPC Central Committee, secretary of the Henan provincial party committee and governor of the province; and Li Daigent, vice minister of water conservancy and power of the PRC, who is heading the delegation of the Chinese side to the meeting of the Korea-China Amnok River Hydropower Company, and other Chinese guests staying in our country.

Zong Kewen, Chinese ambassador to our country, and his embassy's officials, and Gu Zhanhong, chief of the CPV Liaison Office at the Military Armistice Commission, and staffers of the office were also invited there.

KPA Lt Gen Pak Chung-kuk spoke at the banquet. He said: It is a great pleasure to attend a meeting overflowing with emotions of brotherly friendship together with the Chinese comrades-in-arms on the occasion of the 32nd anniversary of the participation of the CPV on the Korean front. In the difficult period of the past fatherland liberation war, when our people were waging a life-and-death struggle for defending the freedom and independence of the country from the U.S. imperialists' aggression, the fraternal Chinese people dispatched the volunteers organized with their fine sons and daughters to the Korean front to help our people at the cost of their blood.

He continued: The genuine internationalist spirit and lofty moral traits displayed by the fighters of the CPV who dashed to the Korean front made a deep impression on our people and officers and men of the People's Army. During the period of the arduous war, the KPA and CPV courageously fought agaihst the common enemies, sharing their fate with each other in the same trenches. Thus, they won the historic victory by crushing the enemies.

Noting that the immortal exploits and brilliant achievements of the fighters of the CPV in Korea will be permanently remembered by our people, he paid highest tribute to the comrades-in-arms of the CPV who performed undying feats in the fatherland liberation war and to the fallen fighters of the CPV who dedicated their lives and youth and expressed deep thanks to the Communist Party and Government of China and to the fraternal Chinese people for the material and moral support and aid given us in the period of the war and in the postwar rehabilitation and construction.

He pointed put that, under the leadership of the CPC, the fraternal Chinese people have achieved the stability and unity of the whole country in recent years, overcoming difficulies lying on the road of advance, and have entered a new historic stage for the realization of socialist modernization.

He stressed: Our people are sincerely rejoiced as over their own over all the successes registered by the fraternal Chinese people and wish them great successes in the struggle to build China into a highly civilized and highly democratic socialist state by fulfilling the tasks for socialist modernization set forth at the 12th national congress of the party and to reunify the whole country by having Taiwan returned to the embrace of the motherland.

Saying that the historic visit of the great leader Comrade Kim Il-song to China some time ago was a historic event which brilliantly adorned the annals of Korea-China friendship by strengthening and developing to a new, higher stage the militant friendship and unity between the two parties, two governments and two peoples, he noted that our people treasure the great successes registered by the respected leader during his visit to China and are firmly resolved to glorify Korea-China friendship over the generations by consolidating and developing his successes.

Ambassador Zong Kewen spoke next. He said: The heroic Korean people under the wise guidance of their respected leader Comrade Kim Il-song and the KWP waged a stubborn, heroic struggle against a formidable enemy, defying sacrifice, and defeated the U.S. imperialist aggressors who were boasting of being the strongest in the world, thereby winning a shining victory in the 3-year fatherland liberation war. The victory of the Korean people not only defended the independence and sovereignty of Korea and her revolutionary gains but also made a big contribution to safeguarding peace in Asia and the world, and showed the world people a brilliant example of winning victory in the struggle against a formidable enemy.

He continued: During the grim period of the Korean war, the CPV, at the instruction of the CPC and Chairman Mao Zedong, rushed to the Korean front, holding aloft the banner of resisting America and aiding Korea, safeguarding the home and defending the fatheroand and repulsed the aggressors, fighting shoulder to shoulder with the Korean people.

We rejoice as over our own over all the successes achieved by the Korean people. These successes are rich fruit reaped by adhering to the line of independence, self-sufficiency and self-reliance in defense and carrying out the three revolutions -- ideological, technical and cultural -- under the wise guidance of your great leader Comrade Kim Il-song and the KWP.

He noted: We sincerely wish you continued, new victories in the struggle for implementing the decisions of the Sixth KWP Congress, attaining the 10 prospective targets and creating the speed of the 80's.

Stressing that achieving the reunification of the fatherland is the national desire of the Korean people, he said: We resolutely support the three principles and five-point policy of national reunification and the proposal for founding the Democratic Confederal Republic of Koryo which were advanced by President Kim Il-song.

He stressed that the United States must discontinue its interference in the internal affairs of Korea and renounce its splittist policy aimed at creating two Koreas and withdraw at once all its aggressive forces and military equipment from South Korea. The reunification of Korea is an inevitable trend of history and no force can bar it.

Noting that the two countries of China and Korea are close, fraternal neighbors with lips-and-teeth relations, with their mountains and streams connected, he said: The two peoples of China and Korea forged with blood a deep and close militant friendship through a long joint struggle. Today, China-Korea friendship is shining anew. The great leader of the Korean people President Kim Il-song carried out very successfully his official visit to China some time ago, thus bringing the close relations between our two countries to a new stage of development.

He stressed: No matter what storm may arise in the world in the future, the Chinese people, who greatly value China-Korea friendship, will, as in the past, stand firm on the side of the fraternal Korean people and fight and win together in unity with you.

The attendants of the banquet toasted the everlasting friendship and unity between the Korean and Chinese peoples and armies, the good health and long life of the great leader Comrade Kim Il-song, the good health and long life of the dear leader Comrade Kim Chong-il, the good health and long life of respected Comrade Hu Yaobang and the good health and long life of respected Comrade Deng Xiaoping.

NODONG SINMUN Editorial

[NODONG SINMUN 25 October editorial: "Korea-China Friendship Forged in Blood Will Be Eternal and Immortal"]

[Text] The 25th of October is recorded as a significant day in the lofty history of Korea-China friendship and fraternity. Thirty-two years ago, on this day, in the grave period when the Korean people were waging a hard fight against the U.S. imperialists to determine the fatherland's destiny, the fraternal Chinese people sent to the Korean front volunteers organized with their outstanding sons and daughters under the banner of "resist America, aid Korea, safeguard the home and defend the nation" and assisted our people with blood.

In the fierce battles, demonstrating the indomitable revolutionary spirit of communism and the spirit of self-sacrifice, officers and men of the Chinese People's Volunteers gallantly fought and performed heroic exploits.

In the days of war, the peoples and armies of the two countries of Korea and China loved and assisted each other like kin, sharing their fate with each other, and defeated the U.S. imperialist aggressors, thereby winning the great historic victory in the war.

On the occasion of the significant anniversary when the CPV rushed to the Korean front, recalling with deep emotion the days when they fought and defeated the aggressors shoulder to shoulder with members of the volunteers, the Korean people and officers and men of the KPA extend warm militant greetings and comradely wishes to the fraternal Chinese people and combatants of the People's Liberation Army.

The particpation of the CPV on the Korean front was an outstanding example of lofty proletarian internationalism displayed between class brothers linked together by blood ties in the struggle to achieve common goals and ideals.

It was also a demonstration of the noble revolutionary duty of revolutionary comrades-in-arms who assist each other in the face of difficulties, forming the relations of (?lips and teeth) and the relations between the frontline and the rear area.

Members of the CPV defended every inch of our land with blood, regarding Korea as their own native places and fatherland. Numerous soldiers of the CPV, including heroes (Hwang Kye-chang), (Song Cho-hun) and (La Song-kyu), sacrificed the precious heyday of their youth and lives in the land of Korea.

The brilliant exploits performed by and the achievements attained by soldiers of the CPV in the Korean war will remain in the memory of our people eternally.

With the victory of our people's fatherland liberation war against the U.S. imperialists' armed invasion through the joint struggle of the KPA and the CPV, another brilliant chapter was recorded in the history of the militant friendship and fraternity between the two peoples of Korea and China.

The great leader Comrade Kim Il-song has taught: Korea-China friendship is an invincible one which cannot be destroyed by any force. Korea-China friendship will be brought into fuller bloom generation after generation and will be eternal and immortal together with the lands of the two countries.

Korea-China friendship, which was provided by Comrade Kim Il-song, the great leader of the Korean people, Comrade Mao Zedong, the great leader of the Chinese people, and esteemed Comrade Zhou Enlai, has flowered more fully and has been strengthened and developed to new higher stage through the special intimate relations between the great leader and esteemed Comrades Hu Yaobang and Deng Xiaoping.

The respected and beloved leader Comrade Kim Il-song made an official state visit to the People's Republic of China last September at the invitation of the Central Committee of the Chinese Communist Party and the State Council of the People's Republic of China. This was a historic event which vigorously demonstrated the invincible friendship and unity between the two countries, parties and peoples of Korea and China.

It is the firm will of the peoples of the two countries of Korea and China to consolidate and develop this friendship and unity. Korea-China friendship will be eternal and immortal. Today, the parties and peoples of the two countries of Korea and China have vigorously pushed ahead with the revolutionary struggle and construction, supporting and cooperating with each other.

The Chinese people are accelerating socialist modernization, full of hope and firm faith, upholding the militant tasks advanced at the 12th CCP Congress. The 12th Congress of the CCP, which was engraved as a congress of revolutionary unity and a congress of a brilliant victory of the revolutionary line, advanced a task to build China into a highly civilized and highly democratic socialist state by expediting socialist modernization, thereby unfolding brilliant prospects ahead of the Chinese people and spiring them to make a new Long March.

Under the wise leadership of the Chinese Communist Party, the Chinese people have registered unprecedented successes on all fronts of socialist modernization.

Great success has been attained in building the People's Liberation Army into a modernized and regularized powerful army and in the struggle to enhance its self-defense capability, too.

The Chinese people have struggled to reunify the whole country by returning Taiwan, their sacred territory. Great changes taking place in China today prove that the CCP program for socialist modernization is a correct policy which is being carried out by the Chinese people's own efforts and which accords with the inevitable demands of the development of the revolution and the interests of the Chinese people.

Our people sincerely rejoice over and enthusiastically offer congratulations for all successes attained by the Chinese people in the successful implementation of socialist modernization and in the strengthening of the country's might.

Today, in accordance with the line and policy advanced by the great leader Comrade Kim Il-song at the Sixth KWP Congress, our people are effecting a new great revolutionary upsurge in the majestic struggle to create the speed of the 1980's under the wise leadership of the glorious party center, holding aloft the banner of the three revolutions of ideology, technology and culture. They are also waging a just struggle to make the U.S. imperialists withdraw from South Korea and to reunify the fatherland independently. The Chinese Communist Party and people have actively supported this struggle of our people.

Because of the imperialists' intensified schemes for aggression and war, the tragic situation -- in which the sovereignty of countries and nations is being trampled underfoot -- is unfolding in every place of the world, and the danger of a new world war is increasing daily.

Strengthening the militant friendship and unity between the peoples of the two countries of Korea and China is a powerful factor ensuring the strengthening of the revolutionary forces of the world, smashing the imperialists' policy of aggression and war and guaranteeing peace in Asia and the world.

The destinies of the peoples of the two countries of Korea and China are linked with unbreakable blood ties.

Today, marking the 32d anniversary of the entry of the CPV onto the Korean front, our people renew their firm determination to strengthen and develop Korea-China friendship eternally, generation after generation.

As in the past when they mutually supported and cooperated whenever they faced difficulties, the peoples of the two countries of Korea and China will, in the future, too, share their fates and fight together to the end, shoulder to shoulder, to achieve common goals and ideals and will win victory.

KWP Fetes CPC Group

SK230351 Pyongyang KCNA in English 0338 GMT 23 Oct 82

[Text] Pyongyang, October 23 (KCNA) -- The Central Committee of the Workers Party of Korea arranged a banquet Friday evening at the Chongnyu Restaurant in honor of the goodwill delegation of the Communist Party of China.

Invited to the banquet were the members of the delegation headed by Dai Suli, member of the CPC Central Committee, secretary of the Henan provincial committee of the party and governor of Henan Province, and Zong Kewen, Chinese ambassador to Korea.

Present at the banquet were Cho Yong-kuk, vice-director of a department of the WPK Central Committee, and personages concerned.

Speaking first at the banquet, Vice-Director Cho Yong-kuk said: We will be better acquainted through the goodwill delegation of the Communist Party of China visiting our country with the proud successes achieved by the fraternal Chinese people under the wise leaderhsip of the CPC in their efforts to implement the tasks for socialist modernisation set forth at the 12th national congress of the party, we think. We are sure, he said, that your visit to our country will be conducive to further strengthening the traditional friendly relations between the parties and peoples of our two countries.

Head of the delegation Dai Suli spoke next. Noting that the indestructible great friendship and militant solidarity between the Chinese and Korean parties with a long history and deep roots are consolidated and developed continuously by the joint efforts of the two parties, he said: The visit of Comrades Hu Yaobang and Deng Xiaoping, the leaders of the Central Committee of our party, to your country this year and the visit of the great leader of the Korean people Comrade Kim Il-song to our country some time ago demonstrated to the whole world the great vitality of this great friendship and solidarity. We will firmly support in the future, too, the revolutionary struggle of the Korean people and their cause of construction and all the efforts for the independent and peaceful reunification of the country, he declared, and stressed: We will fight shoulder to shoulder with the Korean people for ever.

The attendants of the banquet raised glasses to the militant friendship and unity between the parties and peoples of the two countries, to the good health and long life of the great leader of our people Comrade Kim Il-song, to the good health and long life of the dear leader Comrade Kim Chong-il, to the good heatlh and long life of respected Comrade Hu Yaobang and to the good health and long life of respected Comrade Deng Xiaoping.

RECENT DEATH OF KPA UNIT COMMANDER REPORTED

SK232338 Pyongyang Domestic Service in Korean 2300 GMT 22 Oct 82

[Obituary notice issued by the Ministry of the People's Armed Forces on 22 October on the death of Kim Chung-yol, commander of a KPA unit]

[Text] To our regret, Comrade Kim Chung-yol, a responsible commander of a KPA unit, died at 1535 on 22 October 1982 at the age of 64 after a long illness. During the dismal Japanese imperialist rule when our people suffered the tragedy of national ruin, Comrade Kim Chung-yol, participating and bearing arms in the glorious anti-Japanese struggle organized and led by the great leader Comrade Kim Il-song, courageously struggled against the Japanese imperialists. During our people's great fatherland liberation war against the U.S. imperialists' armed aggression, the comrade, while serving as the commander of a combined unit and upholding the respected and beloved leader Comrade Kim Il-song's profound military idea and his chuche-oriented strategic and tactical policy, contributed to guaranteeing victory in this war by organizing and leading soldiers in annihilating the enemy.

Under the leadership of the great leader, the comrade devotedly struggled to implement the party's military line and to strengthen the military capability of his unit. The comrade firmly established the party's sole ideological system, was endlessly faithful to the great leader and the party till his last moment and devotedly struggled to achieve the fatherland's independent reunification and the final victory of the revolution as well as to strengthen and develop the KPA. Although Comrade Kim Chung-yol has died, his meritorious deeds for our party, the revolution, the fatherland and the people and his indomitable fighting spirit will live forever in the memory of our people and of KPA soldiers.

[Signed] The DPRK Ministry of the People's Armed Forces; 22 October 1982

A funeral committee has been formed for deceased Comrade Kim Chung-yol.

'POLITICAL ASYLUM' IN ROC GRANTED PRC PILOT

SK230324 Seoul YONHAP in English 2314 GMT 23 Oct 82

[Text] Seoul, Oct. 23 (YONHAP) -- The South Korean Government has decided to grant a Chinese pilot who has flown his MIG fighter plane to Korea "political asylum" in Taiwan and to dispose of his aircraft in accordance with "international practice," the Foreign Ministry announced Saturday.

In a prepared statement Chung Ki-ok, spokesman for the Foreign Ministry, said the government has granted consent for the wishes of the pilot (for asylum in the Republic of China) in accordance with humanitarian and international practices. The spokesman said the Chinese requested political asylum "immediately" upon his arrival in Korea (on Oct. 16) and that it has been ascertained by pertinent authorities that his request was an action of his own free will.

The fate of the aircraft, Chung said, would be determined in accordance with "international practices and precedents, and in consideration of the present circumstances," but he did not elaborate.

The Chinese pilot, identified by Korean authorities only as a Mr. Wu, 25, arrived at an unnamed South Korean Air Force base one week ago aboard a Chinese MIG fighter plane.

Asked when the pilot would be sent to Taiwan, Chung said the transfer would take place "at an early date" but added tht he did not know exactly when. Chung said Korean authorities have investigated the circumstances which led to Wu's defection and that Seoul's decision was that of "a sovereign state", based on the will of the pilot. He explained that the Seoul government has not informed Beijing of its investigation.

South Korea, which maintains diplomatic relations with Taiwan, is the only country in Asia which does not have official links with mainland China.

CALL FOR RESUMING NORTH-SOUTH DIALOGUE REITERATED

SK250444 Seoul YONHAP in English 0325 GMT 25 Oct 82

[Text] Seoul, Oct. 25 (YONHAP) -- South Korean Foreign Minister Yi Pom-sok has again urged North Korea to "return to the dialogue table in compliance with the purposes and principles of the United Nations Charter so as to establish peace on the Korean Peninsula and promote peaceful reunification" of the country.

Yi made the call Sunday in an address read by Vice Foreign Minister No Chae-won at a ceremony observing the 37th anniversary of U.N. Day held at the U.N. Cemetery in the southeastern Korean port city of Pusan to honor the U.N. troops who sacrificed their lives during the Korean war (1950-53).

Yi said: "We are fully committed to the continued efforts for the resumption of inter-Korean dialogue and peaceful reunification of Korea," as Seoul has been in the past. Yi also emphasized that the admission of South Korea or that of "both Koreas into the United Nations will provide an opportunity to terminate the state of cold-war in Korea and to accelerate the normalization of relations among the parties concerned with the Korean Peninsula."

He reminded that his government has made consistent efforts with determination and perseverance to promote national reconciliation through dialogue in order to solve the Korean problem at the earliest date. However, Yi added, the realities facing "us today demonstrate clearly that peace has yet to be achieved on the Korean Peninsula, with tensions and the state of confrontation prevailing."

A total of 58,000 soldiers of the United Nations forces were killed during the Korean war and of them, 2,200 have been buried at the U.N. Cemetery of Pusan, some 350 km southeast of Seoul.

FOREIGN MINISTER DENIES N. KOREA-U.S. TRADE LINKS

SK230159 Seoul YONHAP in English 0144 GMT 23 Oct 82

[Text] Seoul, Oct. 23 (YONHAP) -- South Korean Foreign Minister Yi Pom-sok has dismissed as "totally groundless" a published report that North Korea and the United States have had direct trade links since 1979. In an appearance before the National Assembly Foreign Affairs Committee Friday evening, Yi said he had received an official letter from the U.S. secretary of commerce on July 1, 1981 confirming the denial of such trade.

In its latest issue, the FAR EASTERN ECONOMIC REVIEW, a Hong Kong-based weekly news magazine, has reported that North Korea and the United States have had direct trade links since 1979 despite an official Washington embargo on U.S. exports to Pyongyang. The report was denied Friday by the U.S. State Department, which attributed the alleged trade to inaccurate customs classifications.

RALLY URGES NORTH TO RETURN ABDUCTED FISHERMEN

[Text] Sokcho, Korea, Oct. 25 (YONHAP) -- Some 20,000 South Korean fishermen publicly reproached North Korea for its frequent abduction of South Korean fishing boats Monday at a mass rally held in this eastern port city.

Yun Tae-sun, vice chairman of the Kangwon provincial chapter of the Korea Anti-Communist League, which sponsored the rally, also denounced North Korea's subversive clandestine activities in the South, such as attempts to infiltrate into the campus and religious circles and the frequent kidnapping of South Korean fishing vessels. He urged North Korea to immediately return the 31 South Korean fishing boats and 407 crew members still detained in North Korea.

The fishermen who participated in the rally were from Kosong, Yangyang and five other cities on the eastern coast of the country.

Hong Chun-won, skipper of the 115-ton Masan-Ho No. 5, who returned with 34 fellow fishermen Sept. 29 after 78 days of detention in North Korea, recounted the inhuman treatment they received in the North. The Masan-Ho was forcibly taken to a North Korean port July 13 while engaging in peaceful fishing operations on the high seas off the east coast.

CHON WELCOMES CHOICE OF SEOUL AS IPU MEETING VENUE

SK191027 Seoul YONHAP in English 0949 GMT 19 Oct 82

[Text] Seoul, Oct. 19 (YONHAP) -- President Chon Tu-hwan said Tuesday that the government would not withhold any support for the preparations to host the annual Inter-Parliamentary Union (IPU) General Assembly meeting in Seoul next year. Chon made the remarks in welcoming a nine-member South Korean delegation to the 69th IPU General Assembly session in Rome last month, which chose Seoul as the 70th IPU General Assembly venue. Chon thanked the lawmakers, including Rep. Kwon Chong-tal, for their efforts at the Rome meeting, saying that the selection of Seoul as venue for the international parliamentary body is worthy of celebration, especially following the decisions to use Seoul for the 1986 Asian Games and the 1988 Summer Olympics. The delegation told Chon that the African nations he visited in August and other friendly Western nations have supported the South's active effort to overcome the North Korean delegation's attempts to disrupt the Seoul general assembly.

YOUTH LEADER SENTENCED FOR SLANDERING GOVERNMENT

SK230150 Seoul CHUNGANG ILBO in Korean 22 Oct 82 p 7

[Excerpt] The law which was added to the criminal code in March 1975 to punish nationals who slander and degrade our country and government both at home and abroad by exploiting foreigners and foreign agencies has been applied for the first time.

On 21 October Judge No Won-uk of the Seoul District Criminal Court, applying the law on acts of degrading the country, sentenced 26-year-old defendant Kim Chol-ki, permanent director of the Korea Ecumenical Youth Council [EYC], who lives at 137 Sangok-dong, Inchon, to 18 months in jail.

Defendant Kim had been arrested and indicted on charges of inviting over 10 domestic and foreign reporters, including a reporter from the Japanese KYODO press agency, to an EYC office in Yonji-dong, Seoul, at 1600 on 23 July and of distributing among them 300 pamphlets entitled, "Our Stand on the Control Data Incident."

In the pamphlets defendant Kim denounced multinational enterprises, admonished the United States, slandered the government and demanded its resignation, saying that, while overlooking, sympathizing with and supporting violence against those involved in the Control Data incident and while using coercive means against workers and the people, the government has taken an irresolute attitude toward a multinational enterprise and has relied on foreign forces.

The prosecutor demanded 3 years in prison, citing Section II B, Article 104, of the criminal code and saying that the defendant's acts of slandering the government authorities -- a constitutionally established state agency -- to foreigners is liable to jeopardize ROK dignity. The judge said that the defendant's acts of distributing pamphlets that slandered the government among foreign reporters after inviting them to discuss domestic issues and of accusing the government of relying on foreign forces are intolerable.

SIX PUNISHED FOR SETTING UP ANTISTATE BODY

SK200425 Seoul THE KOREA TIMES in English 20 Oct 82 p 8

[Text] The Supreme Court yesterday overruled an appelate court's decision and determined that the six members of "Aram-Hoe" were guilty of having established an anti-state body by engaging in activities following the North Korean political line. The highest court ruled that "if two or more people continue to cooperate voluntarily to realize a subversive purpose," they should be considered to have formed an anti-state body. To form an illegal society or association, it was not necessary to have such formalities as a name, regulations, a representative or an initiating ceremony, the Supreme Court said. The case was returned to the Seoul appelate court for retrial.

The Arah-Hoe allegedly started on May 17 last year when some 10 dissident students, teachers, former policemen and prosecution employees gathered in a 100th day party for the daughter of one of them, named Aram, at his house in Taejon. Six members including Pak Hae-chun, 27, a senior at Sungjon University, were accused of having tried to instigate public demonstrations concurring with North Korean unification policies. They were charged with violating the national security law, the anti-communist law, the law on assembly and demonstration and martial law decrees for having organized an anti-government ring in August last year. The six defendants admitted that they sought to topple the government but denied they had set up an "Aram-Hoe," the alleged anti-state body.

The Taejon district court found them guilty of all charges, handing down prison terms ranging from two years to 10 years plus suspension of civil rights for the same periods. The Seoul appellate court, however, acquitted them of the charge of violating the national security law for having formed the anti-state body, reducing the jail terms ranging from six years to probations.

HUN SEN SENDS MESSAGE TO UN SECRETARY GENERAL

BK241114 Phnom Penh Domestic Service in Cambodian 0430 GMT 23 Oct 82

I have the honor to inform Your Excellencies that the PRK Government and more than 6 million people of the PRK became very indignant when it was known that the 37th session of the UN General Assembly will debate the so-called "Kampuchean problem" in the near future.

It is regrettable to note that the United Nations, which was created to defend justice and safeguard peace and human rights, was forced to debate what is called the "Kampuchean situation" which, in fact, is only an intentional and disparaging fabrication of the expansionist-hegemonist Chinese, the U.S. imperialists and their ASEAN satellite countries. No one has taken into account the repeated protests of the government and entire people of the People's Republic of Kampuchea.

When the entire world was indignant and condemned the genocidal crimes committed in 1975-78 by the bloody Pol Pot-Ieng Sary-Khieu Samphan clique, with the complicity of their Beijing masters, why didn't the United Nations discuss or raise the question of this tragic "Kampuchean situation"? When all progressive peoples hail the extraordinary achievements that our people scored during the first 3 years of their rebirth, why does the United Nations continue to admit in its bosom the representatives of a fallen genocidal regime? Why doesn't the United Nations invite the authentic representatives of the Kampuchean people -- victims of this genocide -- to its tribune to evoke the heroism of their people? Why does the United Nations now permit some well-known aggressors, who made trouble among nations, compromised peace, and created tension in various regions in the world, to serve this tribune with hypocrisy, to appoint themselves as defenders of the principle of non-military intervention in other countries, to safeguard the right of self-determination of the Kampuchean people by demanding the withdrawal of Vietnamese troops from Kampuchea and seeking a solution to the so-called "Kampuchean problem"? But, at the same time, the Kampuchean people -- victims of the genocidal regime -- were prevented from expressing their voice of justice.

The government and the people of the PRK take the liberty of declaring that there is no Kampuchean problem. The pure and simple truth is that the Pol Pot-Ieng Sary-Khieu Samphan fascist and genocidal regime -- lackeys of Beijing -- was toppled by the Kampuchean people. The Government of Democratic Kampuchea led by Sihanouk is only a gathering of disguised criminals of genocide.

The draft resolution elaborated by the ASEAN countries is only a maneuver of the reactionary Chinese and the U.S. imperialists and their ASEAN lackey countries aimed at restoring the genocidal regime in Kampuchea. The PRK Government administers the entire territory of Kampuchea. It is the sole authentic representative of the Kampuchean people.

We must reiterate that all discussions on the so-called situation in Kampuchea constitute a gross and inadmissible interference in the internal affairs of the Kampuchean people and that they are in opposition to the UN Charter. All decisions related to Kampuchea adopted without the approval and presence of the PRK representatives are considered illegal, null and void. The United Nations must put an end to these illogical activities in order to restore its prestige and honor; otherwise, all of this will only destroy its international reputation and role. The People's Republic of Kampuchea is continuing to consolidate and develop immutably. The just cause of the Kampuchean people will win. The right of authentic and legal representation of the Kampuchean people falls only to the People's Republic of Kampuchea.

I would be grateful if Your Excellencies would circulate this text as an official document of the 37th session of the General Assembly.

Would Your Excellencies please accept my highest salutations and considerations.

SIHANOUK VIEWS SRV POSITION, ROLE OF CGDK

BK250246 Bangkok THE NATION REVIEW in English 25 Oct 82 pp 1, 2

[By Jacques Bekaert]

[Text] Prince Norodom Sihanouk, stressing the necessity of coherence of the factions in Democratic Kampuchea, said the nationalists in his coalition government could reconsider their position if Hanoi comes up with new proposals.

In an hour-long exclusive interview with THE NATION in New York recently, where he attended the UN General Assembly, the prince said: "There is no doubt that the coalition government is useful for the time being because we have to show the Vietnamese occupants the unity of the Khmer people and our determination to have the Khmer people regain their independence." The prince said he still saw no sign of a change in the Vietnamese position and described as unacceptable the Vietnamese proposal for an international conference which will imply recognition of the Vietnamese-backed Heng Samrin regime.

The prince is attending the UN General Assembly in his capacity as president of the Democratic Kampuchea Government along with Vice President Khieu Samphan and Prime Minister Son Sann. His speech delivered at the beginning of the session has been warmly welcomed by most observers.

He pointed out in his speech his past friendly attitude towards Vietnam, but at the same time emphasizing his determination to fight for an independent and neutral Kampuchea. "If the Vietnamese want to approach me directly, I will be ready to listen to them. But I will also keep my government informed of such a meeting. I am not about to play a separate game and will always be a faithful and honest partner in the coalition government," he said.

Asked if he was ready to once again assume power in Kampuchea after the Vietnamese withdrawal, he insisted that he would never accept the leadership unless he owed it to the Kampuchean people alone.

"Even some of our good friends believe I am not so popular anymore. I am not anxious to go back to power and I am not begging for power. I feel a strong commitment to the Kampuchean people and it is only if and when I clearly win free general elections that I would accept the leadership of the country," he said.

Prince Sihanouk also said he did not think the time has come for a merger between his FUNCINPEC [National United Front for an Independent, Neutral, Peaceful and Cooperative Cambodia] movement and the Khmer People's National Liberation Front (KPNLF) led by Son Sann.

"My good friend, Lee Kwan Yew, is anxious to see the nationalists merge into one single group, but I don't think we are ready for it. On both sides, I have people who are reluctant to join hands with each other and let's not forget that the agreement for the formation of the coalition government was signed by three parties, and not two," he said. He added that he could play a more useful role serving as a "bridge" to keep together the Khmer Rouge on the left wing and the KPNLF on the right wing.

Singaporean diplomats here have told THE NATION that they are beginning to agree with the prince's views over the issue, saying that it was probably better to keep the three groups as they are now.

Prince Sihanouk also expressed satisfaction at the outcomes of his recent trips to Yugoslavia, Romania and Guinea. "The Romanians are specially anxious to play a positive role. They would be delighted to serve as a bridge between Hanoi and myself," he said.

He added: "Let the Vietnamese make the first step; we will then judge how serious they are. For the moment, I have the impression that the Vietnamese leaders are still sticking to their own game and this is not very smart. Of course, it could change and I will then have to reassess my position, including my role in the coalition in the interests of my country. But I will not give up on our dignity and independence".

The prince said there had been so far no direct contacts from the Vietnamese since January 1979. "In 1979, while I was in France, Wilfrid Burchett, an Australian pro-Vietnamese journalist, phoned me up to invite me to a dinner, but he made an unacceptable condition: He told me to come alone for the dinner," said the prince about a possible attempt for an indirect approach from the Vietnamese.

He said that the Australian journalist later published the phone conversation in a "grossly distorted" manner. "It will be hard for me to trust him any more," he added.

He said that last year, Philippe Devillers, a French professor, visited him in Mougins (in France) and told him that Hanoi was still thinking about a role for him in the future. "I told him that the message was too vague and that the Vietnamese could speak to me directly. There has been no other communication," he said.

Despite the prince's connections with some senior U.S. officials, including Secretary of State George Shultz and Vice President George Bush, he said the United States still holds some grudge against him.

"They used to call me the 'Red prince'. They agree I am a charismatic leader, but are afraid that I would not be flexible enough. Well, they must understand one thing: I am a Khmer who will always fight for the interests of my country," he said.

Prince Sihanouk has been invited to visit China and North Korea after his trip to the U.S., but he might not be able to visit the two countries because of the delay in the voting on a resolution supporting the Democratic Kampuchean credentials at the UN General Assembly. The voting was initially scheduled for October 18, but it was postponed to this week.

PRESS RELEASE ISSUED ON U.S. OFFICIAL'S VISIT

BK250620 Vientiane Domestic Service in Lao 0430 GMT 25 Oct 82

[Press release]

[Text] On 21 October His Excellency O'Donohue, [deputy] assistant U.S. secretary of state for East Asian and Pacific Affairs, paid a visit to the LPDR. Soulivong Phasitthidet, chief of the Office of the Foreign Affairs Ministry, and Mrs Kannika Phommachan, director of the Second Department of the Foreign Affairs Ministry, held a working session with Mr O'Donohue. Attending the session on the U.S. side was (William Toma), U.S. charge d'affaires ad interim to Laos. The two sides exchanged views on issues of mutual interest.

The LPDR side explained to the U.S. side the proposals of the three Indochinese countries raised in the joint communique of the sixth conference of the foreign ministers of Laos, Vietnam and Kampuchea as well as in the letter of Phoun Sipaseut, vice chairman of the Council of Ministers and foreign affairs minister of Laos, to the ASEAN foreign ministers. It also explained the correct and consistent policy of our governments toward the countries in this region, saying we have never ceased to contribute to promoting a dialogue between the Indochinese and ASEAN countries with a view to creating conditions to turn Southeast Asia into a region of peace, stability, friendship and cooperation.

Concerning bilateral relations, we hail the good intentions of the United States in trying to develop relations between the United States and the LPDR. We believe that the development of the relations between the two countries must be based on the principle of respect for each other's national independence and territorial integrity, noninterference in each other's internal affairs, equality, mutual interest and peaceful coexistence in conformity with the interests of the peoples of the two countries and with peace and stability in Southeast Asia. We, the Lao side, have expressed our good intentions and will do everything within our power to develop relations between Laos and the United States. We always hope that the U.S. side will display its good intentions through good deeds in its relations with Laos.

The working session between the two sides was permeated by a frank and constructive atmosphere. Mr O'Donohue left for home on 23 October.

KYODO: PHOUMI NOSAVAN TO FORM ROYAL LAO GOVERNMENT

OW221431 Tokyo KYODO in English 1419 GMT 22 Oct 82

[Text] Bangkok, Oct 22, KYODO -- Phoumi Nosavan, former Laotian vice premier and now an exile in Thailand, has told KYODO news service here that he would declare the establishment of a royal Laotian democratic government Saturday in order to step up resistance against the Laotian Government, the Vietnamese forces stationed in Laos and international communism.

Phoumi, who fled to Thailand after a military coup d'etat failed in Vientiane in 1965, said the inaugural ceremony for the establishment of the government-in-exile would be held at the end of this month in a southern Laotian border district.

In an interview with KYODO news service at his home on the outskirts of Bangkok he claimed some 85 percent of the Laotian people would firmly support his government because of their hostility toward the Vietnamese forces.

At present, guerrilla forces in northern Laos receive supplies from China, while forces in southern Laos are aided by the guerrilla forces of Democratic Kampuchea backed by China, he added.

He said he had already worked out a list of cabinet members for his government, which he said he would head. He also unveiled a 12-point action plan for the new government.

According to informed sources here, guerrilla forces loyal to Phoumi totaled some 40,000. They were reportedly operating in the jungle in southern Laos along the Mekong River. Thai military sources said the number of troops loyal to the former Laotian vice premier were rather limited.

Phoumi said the new royal democratic government would consist of leaders of the Laotian faction led by himself for the time being, since other faction leaders were reluctant to join his government. He pledged he would do his best to bring the other faction leaders into his government.

His idea for establishing an anti-Vietnamese Laotian government took form after the formation of the anti-Vietnamese Kampuchea coalition government headed by Prince Norodom Sihanouk last summer, informed sources said.

He told KYODO that he had successfully set up cooperative relations with the Kampuchean coalition government in an effort to step up the military confrontation against the Vietnamese forces in Kampuchea and Laos last July when he conferred with Sihanouk's aides in Thailand.

MARINES CLASH WITH HENG SAMRIN FORCES IN TRAT

BK230814 Bangkok BANGKOK WORLD in English 23 Oct p 3

[Text] Trat -- Marine Rangers were attacked by Vietnamese-backed Heng Samrin forces three times earlier this week in Khlong Yai District of this province, but suffered no casualties, the THAI NEWS AGENCY (TNA) reported this morning.

TNA quoted Trat Governor Somphong Phansuwan as saying that the first attack occurred at about 1:30 p.m. on Tuesday, when an unknown number of Heng Samrin troops intruded into Thai territory and ambushed a unit of Marine Rangers patrolling on the Banthat Mountain Range. The intruders escaped after a brief clash.

Later on the same day, the governor said, about 30 to 40 Heng Samrin troops entered Hat Som Poi village in Hat Lek sub-district and clashed with a company of Marine Rangers. The intruders retreated after 30 minutes of fighting. Marine Rangers were ambushed again on Wednesday.

FOREIGN MINISTRY CANCELS VISIT BY LAO OFFICIAL

BK230330 Bangkok BANGKOK POST in English 23 Oct 82 p 20

[Text] The Foreign Minsitry has cancelled an official visit to Thailand by Laotian Deputy Foreign Minister Khamphai Boupha which was scheduled from today until Thursday, a ministry source said yesterday. The source said Deputy Foreign Minister Arun Phanuphong had informed the Laotian Embassy that he had a very tight schedule during the period and would not be able to receive Mr Khamphai Boupha.

Mr Khamphai, who was scheduled to hold talks with Mr Arun, is on his way back from attending the UN General Assembly meeting in New York.

Observers in Bangkok believe that the cancellation of the visit might be in response to the Laotian minister's distribution of letters in the UN General Assembly attacking Thailand for allegedly providing sanctuary to Democratic Kampuchea forces.

PREM TO VISIT PRC IN NOVEMBER FOR TALKS

[Text] Prime Minister Prem Tinsulanon will visit China next month for talks with his Chinese counterpart on matters of mutual interest and on strengthening relations between the two countries, an informed government source said yesterday. The source said officials of the two governments have been working out an itinerary for the visit which will be convenient for Gen Prem and Chinese Premier Zhao Ziyang. The source said that the most appropriate time for the visit, which will be the second of its kind for Prem, would be around the middle of next month. Gen Prem last visited China in late October and November 1980.

The invitation to General Prem to pay an official visit to China was extended by Zhao when he led a delegation to Thailand in January last year. It was reaffirmed to Foreign Minister Sitthi Sawetsila by his Chinese counterpart, Huang Hua, when they met at the United Nations recently. Sitthi said that Zhao wants Prem to visit China before the end of this year, and Prem has no objection to this.

Sources said the Thai delegation is likely to gauge what China's view would be if Thailand were invaded by Vietnamese forces in Kampuchea, and to discuss the long-term oil agreement between the two countries. The source said that Thailand signed the agreement with China when the world was facing an oil crisis. Now that there is a global oil glut, Thailand wishes to review the contract, the source said.

The Thai delegation would also raise the subject of the on-going Sino-Soviet talks on normalisation, especially the Chinese condition that Vietnamese troops should be withdrawn from Kampuchea, the source said, adding that Thai officials feel that the condition is conducive to peace and stability in the Southeast Asian region.

PREM ADDRESSES UNITED NATIONS DAY FUNCTION

[Text] Prime Minister Prem Tinsulanon yesterday expressed dismay at the decline in resettlement abroad of Indochinese refugees, and called for stepped-up efforts by the international community to help them.

Delivering a speech to mark the United Nations' 37th anniversary, Gen Prem said he appreciated the contribution and efforts of the United Nations, international and voluntary organisations and donor countries in alleviating the refugees' plight and reducing Thailand's burden. He added, however: "I cannot conceal my disappointment at the recent sharp decline in resettlement rate for Indochinese refugees in Thailand."

The premier urged donor countries and international organisations to intensify, or at least continue at a high level, their support for the UN programmes to help the refugees and to assist the Thai Government in the relief and rehabilitation of affected Thai villagers.

Gen Prem spoke at the UN Building on Ratdamnoen Nok Avenue, at a meeting attended by ESCAP Executive Secretary S.A.M.S. Kibria, local heads of UN organisations and Foreign Minister Sitthi Sawetsila.

Saying the United Nations has been through moments of glory, success and, inevitably, failure, Gen Prem quoted the UN secretary General as expressing grave concern over the inability of the Security Council to maintain international peace and security and to take decisive action to resolve international conflicts.

Several nations were still under alien domination despite the principle of self-determination espoused by the United Nations, Prem said. He said many countries, particularly those in possession of nuclear weapons, still prefer to spend their resources on war weapons rather than on the improvement of living standards, thus causing an unbridled arms race at the risk of human extinction, despite the UN efforts for disarmament.

Some nations continued to use force to achieve political objectives, although they knew such actions were flagrant violations of the principles enshrined in the UN Charter, Gen Prem said. This went on while billions of people, especially in this region, were still below the poverty line, he said.

The situation would have been worse if the United Nations had not maintained peace and security in some cases and at the same time helped accelerate development in developing countries during the past 37 years, Prem said.

He blamed the current global crises on some UN member countries which lack political will to adhere strictly to the UN Charter, and the uncontrolled rivalry of "great powers" which has prevented the Security Council from taking decisive steps to maintain peace.

Lack of political will by the developed countries had also delayed the full implementation of the programme of action for establishing a new international economic order, he said. However, he said, "the United Nations is at no direct fault that these sorry situations should continue."

Gen Prem said Thailand, as a dedicated UN member, will continue its strong faith in the organisation and adhere strictly to its Charter and noble ideals. The premier appealed to all nations to renew and augment their faith in the United Nations and to respect its Charter and resolutions.

"I would also urge all member states to resort to the United Nations to solve their political conflicts, for in its Charter and mechanism lie internationally accepted methods to maintain peace and stability, as well as to increase the prosperity of mankind," Gen Prem said.

INCURSION OF KHUN SA-LED GROUP REPORTED

[Text] Chiang Mai -- More than 300 armed members of the Shan United Army (SUA) crossed the border into a Thai village Sunday but left without any untoward incidents, a senior police official here reported yesterday. Provincial police chief Pol Col Kasem Sukphong denied an earlier report that the SUA guerrillas had occupied Ban Pang Saenkrua, Tambon Mae Ai of Mae Ai District. The initial report said that the Shan guerrillas, armed with an assortment of war weapons, chased Thai villagers out of the village, about 180 km from here. They were quoted as telling the villagers that they had fled a new military offensive launched by the Burmese Government troops.

Pol Col Kasem said that the SUA guerrillas under the leadership of drug kingpin Khun Sa only visited the village briefly to receive another band of friendly guerrillas. They later had lunch in the village before going back into the Burmese territory without creating any untoward incidents, he said. "After cross-checking the initial report we learnt that the SUA gerrillas had no intention of occupying our village," he said. Pol Col Kasem said local authorities had a clear policy of pushing back any foreign forces which happened to cross the border into Thai territory. He said as far as the Burmese minority groups are concerned the situation along the border had been rather quiet.

The SUA guerrillas are now taking refuge in the areas around Doi Lang where Khun Sa has established a new headquarters after driving out the remnants of the Wa National Army and Burmese communist forces. The international drug trafficker, who fled from his former stronghold at Ban Hin Taek in Chiang Rai early this year following a major government offensive, is believed to be trying to establish a new opium trafficking route in the area which is opposite Mae Ai District here.

Interior Minister Comments

[Text] Thailand will stick to its policy of repulsing any intruders on Thai territory. This was stated by Interior Minister Sitthi Chirarot, who was commenting on the report that guerrillas of the Shan United Army led by drug kingpin Khun Sa crossed the border into a Thai village in Mae Ai District of Chiang Mai Province.

The minister stressed that the government will not allow the Shan rebels to violate Thai territory, although the repulses may lead to clashes between the two sides. He said that the Border Patrol Police and the military are now working closely to prevent further incursions.

ARMY OFFICIAL VIEWS CAMPAIGN AGAINST INSURGENTS

BK250826 Bangkok Domestic Service in English 0000 GMT 25 Oct 82

[Text] The government's campaign to suppress communist insurgents in the northeast over the past fiscal year was very successful. Col Charuai Nimdit, deputy chief of staff of the 2d Army Region, said that during the period the communists lost over 1,300 guerrillas to the government side with about 1,180 surrendering to authorities, 126 arrested and 54 killed. He said the loss of the communist forces has significantly reduced the insurgents' capacity to launch subversive operations in this region. It is estimated that the communist strength in the northeast remains only about 900 men at present. Besides, Colonel Charuai said that 450 rebel camps were also destroyed while a large amount of strategic supplies were seized by the combined forces of soldiers, policemen, civilians and volunteers during campaigns last fiscal year.

HANOI MEETING MARKS SOVIET ANNIVERSARIES

[Text] Hanoi, VNA, October 22 -- A gathering was organized here today by the Executive Committee of the Vitenam-U.S.S.R. Friendship Association in anticipation of the 65th anniversary of the October Socialist Revolution and the 60th anniversary of the U.S.S.R. Present were Xuan Thuy, president of the association; Tran Dang Khoa and Nguyen Vinh, vice presidents; Vu Quoc Uy, general secretary of the Executive Committee; Soviet Ambassador B.N. Chaplin; and representatives of Soviet experts in Vietnam.

Speaking on this occasion, Nguyen Vinh brought out the great significance of these two historical dates. He praised the militant solidarity, fraternal friendship and comprehensive cooperation between Vietnam and the Soviet Union, and expressed the Vietnamese people's deep gratitude to the Communist Party, the government and the people of the Soviet Union for their great, effective support and assistance. He wished the fraternal Soviet people even greater success in building a developed socialist society.

For his part, Ambassador B.N. Chaplin spoke of the big achievements recorded by the Soviet people over the past 65 years, especially since the founding of the U.S.S.R. He underlined the Soviet people's efforts to put into effect the resolutions of the 26th C.P.S.U. Congress to make the Soviet Union ever stronger as the mainstay of socialism and progress in the world. He wished the great friendship between the parties, the governments and the peoples of the two countries further consolidation and development.

Many Soviet specialists also took this opportunity to express their joy and honour to help the Vietnamese people in socialist construction and national defence.

INDIAN MINISTRY'S DENIAL ON WELCOMING CGDK CITED

[Text] An official spokesman of the Indian Foreign Ministry issued a statement on 22 October refuting the rumors spread by Western news agencies alleging that India, at the meeting of 17 Asian and Pacific nations under the British Commonwealth held on 18 October in Suva, welcomed the formation of the Coalition Government of Democratic Kampuchea.

The spokesman of the Indian Foreign Ministry pointed out: The above rumors spread by the prime ministers of Singapore and Malaysia and other Western news agencies are in complete violation of the fundamental spirit of the meeting's final communique.

HO CHI MINH CITY DELEGATION VISITS INDIA

OW211149 Hanoi VNA in English 0712 GMT 21 Oct 82

[Text] Hanoi, VNA, October 21 -- The delegation of Ho Chi Minh City led by Mai Chi Tho, member of the Central Committee of the Communist Party of Vietnam and chairman of the city people's committee, arrived in New Delhi on October 18, beginning a two-week visit to India. It was welcomed at the airport by A.A. Rahim, minister of state, and other senior officials of the Indian Ministry of External Affairs, and Vietnamese Ambassador Nguyen Quang Tao.

On the same day, Indian Prime Minister Indira Gandhi received Mai Chi Tho and his party. Mai Chi Tho conveyed to Prime Minister Indira Gandhi greetings from Chairman Pham Van Dong and other Vietnamese leaders. He expressed the Vietnamese Government and people's profound gratitude to the Indian Government and people, especially Prime Minister Indira Gandhi, for their valuable support and assistance. He highly appreciated the all-sided cooperation between Vietnam and India, and the latter's role in the common struggle for peace and detente and in the Non-Aligned Movement as well.

Prime Minister Indira Gandhi expressed her admiration for the Vietnamese people's struggle for national liberation in the past and their efforts in national construction and defence at present. She spoke highly of the friendship between the two countries and inquired about economic development in Vietnam, especially food production. She affirmed that despite many difficulties ahead, India is always ready to render all necessary aid to Vietnam through bilateral cooperation. She asked the delegation to convey her greetings to Chairman Pham Van Dong and other Vietnamese leaders.

In the evening, Minister of State A.A. Rahim offered a banquet in honour of Mai Chi Tho and his party. A.A. Ramim said he hoped that the visit would contribute to further cooperation between India and Vietnam and that the dialogue between the Indochinese and other Southeast Asian countries would serve the restoration of peace and stability and the settlement of outstanding problems in the region. Mai Chi Tho thanked the Indian government, especially Prime Minister Indira Gandhi, for their warm welcome; he praised the achievements made by India in economy, science and technology and the assistance granted by India to other developing countries.

The delegation is scheduled to tour some cities and provinces in India.

OFFICIALS LEAVING FOR IRAN, IRAQ TO IMPROVE TIES

OW201225 Tokyo KYODO in English 1209 GMT 20 Oct 82

[Text] Tokyo, Oct 20, KYODO -- Japan will send a senior Foreign Ministry official to Iran at the end of this month to improve strained Japan-Iran diplomatic relations, government sources said Wednesday. Nobuo Matsunaga, vice foreign minister for economic affairs, will visit Tehran for two days from October 30 for talks with high Iranian Government officials including Prime Minister Mir-Hoseyn Musavi-Khamenei and Minster of Foreign Affairs 'Ali Akbar Velayati. Matsunaga will emphasize that a truce in the Iran-Iraqi war is vital for improving Japan-Iran diplomatic ties, the sources said. He will also exchange views on the Middle East situation, the oil situation and policies and resumption of the suspended Japan-Iran joint petrochemical project in southern Iran, they said.

Matsunaga, however, will repeat the Japanese Government's view that resumption of the project should be negotiated at private levels first, the sources said. Japan's high-level diplomatic exchanges with Iran have been halted since the escalation of the Iran-Iraqi war.

Japan has also decided to send Kunio Komatsu, vice minister for international affairs of the Ministry of International Trade and Industry, to Iraq early next month to balance its diplomatic ties with both of the warring countries, Foreign Ministry officials said. Komatsu is scheduled to attend a trade fair to open in Baghdad November 1.

COMMUNICATIONS SATELLITE LAUNCH SET FOR FEB

[Text] Tokyo, Oct 21, KYODO -- Japan plans to place its first communications satellite for practical use in stationary orbit next February to improve communication links with isolated islands and enable experiments for TV-linked conferences and electronic mail service. The National Space Development Agency (NASDA) plans to use a three-stage N-2 rocket in launching the satellite code-named CS2A into orbit at a point some 36,000 kilometers over the equator from its Tanegashima space center in Kagoshima Prefecture. The satellite will have eight transponders, radio or radar transceivers, that automatically transmit electrical signals. The transponders will have a communication capacity equal to 4,000 telephone circuits.

Government ministries, agencies and corporations already have drawn up detailed plans for use of the new satellite when it starts functioning some three months after it is put in orbit. The Nippon Telegraph and Telephone Public Corp. (NTT) and the National Police Agency will exclusively use six and one of the eight transponders, respectively. The other transponder will be shared by the Construction Ministry, Posts and Telecommunications Ministry, Fire Defense Agency, the Japanese National Railways and electric power companies.

NTT, the biggest user, will set aside two of the transponders for telephone and television links to isolated islands. One will be used to connect Tateyama in Ohiba Prefecture with the Ogasawara Islands, and the other Okinawa with Minamidaito Island. The four other transponders used exclusively by the NTT will be utilized for emergency communication at times of disasters such as earthquakes and typhoons. The National Police Agency plans to use the transponder for its exclusive use for maintaining contact with prefectural police headquarters and at times of emergency, as well as for investigation purposes.

The Posts and Telecommunications Ministry intends to use the satellite to conduct technological tests on such matters as data communication, electronic mail service and TV-linked conferences while the JNR plans to utilize it to reinforce ground communication facilities for Shinkansen services. The electric power firms plan to use the satellite to exchange information among them.

Protocol on Economic Committee

BK260433 Karachi Domestic Service in English 1700 GMT 25 Oct 82

[Text] Pakistan and the DPRK today signed a protocol in Pyongyang for the establishment of a joint economic committee to oversee the implementation of the decisions of the joint ministerial commission agreed to be set up by the two countries. An agreement regarding the setting up of the joint ministerial commission is expected to be signed tomorrow.

Radio Pakistan's representative Abdul Aziz in a dispatch from Pyongyang says the protocol comes into effect immediately and will be valid for 5 years with automatic extension for another 5 years. The economic committee to be set up under the protocol will further strengthen and promote economic, scientific and technical cooperation and further expand relations of friendship and cooperation between the two countries. It will explore and study the possibilities of cooperation in various fields, including joint ventures. It would also recommend measures for joint ventures between corporations and companies of the two countries. The agreement was signed on behalf of Pakistan by Finance Minister Ghulam Ishaq Khan and by Vice Premier Kong Chin-tae on behalf of the DPRK.

3d Set of Talks 25 Oct

Tour of Factories, Farms

SK260054 Pyongyang KCNA in English 2202 GMT 25 Oct 82

[Excerpts] Pyongyang, October 26 (KCNA) -- His Excellency General Mohammad Ziaul Haq, president of the Islamic Republic of Pakistan, on an official state visit to Korea, and Madame and his entourage went round the Taean general heavy machine works on the morning of October 25.

The guests were accompanied by Vice-President of the DPRK Pak Song-chol and his wife, Vice-Premier and Foreign Minister Ho Tam, Vice-Premier Kong Chin-tae, Vice-Minister of Foreign Affairs Cho Kyu-il, Vice-Minister of External Economic Affairs Kim Chong-u, and DPRK Ambassador Extraordinary and Plenipotentiary to Pakistan Yu Song-chin. They were met there by Yu Pyong-yon, chairman of the Nampo Municipal People's Committee, and personages concerned, and leading personnel of the works.

Then the president and his entourage drove to the Chongsan cooperative farm. They inspected the historic house where the great leader Comrade Kim Il-song guided the general membership meeting of the party organisation of Chongsanri and the revolutionary museum there and saw farm machines, the grain-drying site and other agricultural production facilities with deep attention.

President Ziaul Haq and his entourage dropped in the Chamjin cooperative farm and saw farmers thrashing rice and grain storages and inspected the Pyongyang Metro.

Ziaul Haq Hosts Banquet

SK260053 Pyongyang KCNA in English 2213 GMT 25 Oct 82

[Text] Pyongyang, October 26 (KCNA) -- His Excellency General Mohammad Ziaul Haq, president of the Islamic Republic of Pakistan, arranged a grand banquet at the Kumsusan Assembly Hall on the evening of October 25 in honor of the great leader Comrade Kim Il-song, president of the Democratic People's Republic of Korea.

When the great leader Comrade Kim Il-song and his wife appeared in the banquet hall, conducted by His Excellency President Mohammad Ziaul Haq and his wife, amid the playing of the welcome music, all the attendants warmly welcomed them with stormy applause. The national anthems of our country and the Islamic Republic of Pakistan were played.

His Excellency President Mohammad Ziaul Haq spoke at the banquet.

The great leader Comrade Kim Il-song made a speech there.

Invited to the banquet were minister of People's Armed Forces O Chin-u and his wife, vice-president of the DPRK Pak Song-chol and his wife, Vice-Premier and Foreign Minister Ho Tam, Vice-Premier Kong Chin-tae and chairmen of commissions and ministers of the Administration Council, leading personnel of Working People's organisations and Pyongyang municipal power bodies, generals of the Korean People's Army, leading personnel of science, education, culture and art, public health and the press and DPRK Ambassador Extraordinary and Plenipotentiary to Pakistan Yu Song-chin. The entourage of the Pakistani president were present at the banquet.

The banquet proceeded in a cordial atmosphere overflowing with friendly sentiments. A performance was given by artists in Pyongyang at the banquet.

Ziaul Haq's Banquet Speech

SK260505 Pyongyang KCNA in English 0343 GMT 26 Oct 82

[Text] Pyongyang, October 26 (KCNA) -- Mohammad Ziaul Haq, president of the Islamic Republic of Pakistan, arranged a grand banquet at the Kumsusan Assembly Hall on the evening of October 25 in honour of the great leader Comrade Kim Il-song, president of the Democratic People's Republic of Korea, and made a speech there. Follows the full text of his speech:

President of Democratic People's Republic of Korea Excellency Kim Il-song, distinguished guests, ladies and gentlemen:

It is a matter of great honour, privilege and pleasure for me that you are present at this banquet. On my own behalf and on behalf of my delegation I extend to you a welcome and express my thanks for the honour you have done me.

Once again I wish to express my happiness that I and my delegation had the opportunity of visiting Democratic People's Republic of Korea and to meet its great leader and I offer you our gratitude also for the hospitality that has been showered on me and members of my delegation since our arrival. We have been profoundly impressed by your affection, friendly sentiments and warm hospitality and shall leave for home tomorrow morning, carrying deep impressions of this enthusiasm.

The past three days in Democratic People's Republic of Korea are memorable days of my life. In these days we have seem glimpses of your country's industrial, agricultural and cultural progress; found an ocean of love and affection for Pakistan and its people; and, above all, during our short stay, we got an opportunity to benefit from the thought-provoking and instructive views of Excellency Kim Il-song. We profoundly respect these views, because these are the thoughts of an experienced, sagacious and enlightened leader of this era. I have no hesitation in openly acknowledging that I have learnt much from Excellency Kim Il-song's thoughts and viewpoint, and found his chuche philosophy especially beneficial for the developing countries.

All the sessions of talks during my current tour were not only held in a friendly and brotherly atmosphere but also illustrated that our views are very close to each other on world issues, about which I spoke in my speech on 23 October. Thus both our countries consider the deteriorating world situation with deep concern; we wish to discourage anti-peace forces and to encourage peace-forces everywhere.

I consider it a fundamental duty of all world leaders that they should endeavour to defuse tensions, assist in the political settlement of disputes and establish an equitable order in which all countries can live in peace and security and work for the prosperity of mankind.

I am happy that for the realisation of these objectives Pakistan and Democratic People's Republic of Korea are making efforts according to their means and ideologies individually and together, and, God willing, we will continue to do so. May God bless all such efforts wherever they are being made.

As for bilateral relations between Pakistan and Democratic People's Republic of Korea, I consider that these are progressing along correct lines. To expand bilateral cooperation we are signing an agreement on economic, scientific, technical and cultural cooperation. Also to implement this agreement we are concluding a protocol on the establishment of a joint economic commission between Pakistan and Democratic People's Republic of Korea. I am confident that by implementing the agreement and the protocol, cooperation between the two countries will be enhanced.

Excellency, I and members of my delegation shall depart your great country tomorrow morning. Respected Mr President: I assure you that each moment of our stay was very beneficial and enjoyable and once again I express my appreciation, on my behalf and on behalf of my delegation, for the generous hospitality.

Ladies and gentlemen: with these words I request you to join me in expressing best wishes and sincere prayers: for the long life, health and happiness of His Excellency Kim Il-song, president and the great leader of the Democratic People's Republic of Korea, for the long life, health and happiness of the dear leader of Democratic People's Republic of Korea, His Excellency Kim Chong-il, for the progress, welfare and prosperity of the people of the Democratic People's Republic of Korea, for the peace and security of the world, and for ever increasing friendship between the people of the Democratic People's Republic of Korea and Pakistan. Long live the friendship between Pakistan and Korea!

Kim Il-song's Speech

SK260501 Pyongyang KCNA in English 0330 GMT 26 Oct 82

[Text] Pyongyang, October 26 (KCNA) -- The great leader Comrade Kim Il-song, president of the Democratic People's Republic of Korea, made a speech at the grand banquet arranged by Mohammad Ziaul Haq, president of the Islamic Republic of Pakistan, at the Kumsusan Assembly hall on the evening of October 25. Follows the full text of his speech.

Your Excellency esteemed President Mohammad Ziaul Haq, distinguished guests from Pakistan, comrades and friends:

Short as it was, the visit to our country by Your Excellency General Mohammad Ziaul Haq, president of the Islamic Republic of Pakistan and our intimate friend, was an event of epochal significance in the development of friendly relations between Korea and Pakistan. I am pleased at the successful visit to our country of Your Excellency President and express deep thanks to you for such a splendid banquet to which you have kindly invited us on the eve of your departure from our country.

This time, we have met again after a long time, further deepened our friendship and thrashed out many questions of common concern including the development of relations between the two countries.

In this course we have agreed to do our best to further extend and develop friendly and cooperative relations between the two countries in various fields and promote the common cause of the non-aligned and Third World countries. Our two countries have agreed upon signing an agreement on economic, scientific, technical and cultural cooperation and instituting a joint economic commission. These have opened up a good prospect for the development of brotherly and friendly relations between our two peoples. This is a precious result of Your Excellency President's visit to our country.

You have highly appreciated the success made by our people in revolution and construction through the application of the chuche idea and expressed solidarity with our people in their just struggle to reunify their divided country peacefully without foreign interference. This gives a great inspiration to our people for which we are grateful.

The Pakistani people are paving bravely their road of development, overcoming various difficulties in their way of advancement. Our people wholeheartedly wish the Pakistani people to develop their country into a prosperous one as soon as possible under the leadership of their outstanding leader, Your Excellency President Mohammad Ziaul Haq.

The strengthened friendship and solidarity between the peoples of Korea and Pakistan constitutes a contribution to the promotion of the common cause for national prosperity and an independent new Asia free from foreign domination and interference and for making the whole world independent. The Korean people are proud of having the Pakistani people as their close friends and brothers on the same road of the struggle for independence against imperialism.

Our two countries will make joint efforts not only for the development of our bilateral relations but also for peace and security in Asia and the rest of the world, and the spirit of such close mutual cooperation will be highly displayed in the forthcoming 7th summit conference of the non-aligned countries and also in the efforts to strengthen full-scale economic and technical cooperation among the developing countries and establish a new international economic order.

Your Excellency President, you are leaving our country tomorrow, but the friendly and cooperative relations between the peoples of Korea and Pakistan will enter a new period of efflorescence. We are quite satisfied with the result of the current meeting with you and assure you that we will do our best to have more frequent friendly visits and meetings and strengthen mutual cooperation and solidarity between the two countries in the years to come.

In conclusion, I would like to propose, at this amicable place, a toast: To the firm friendship and solidarity between the Korean and Pakistani peoples, to the prosperity and progress of the Islamic Republic of Pakistan, to peace in Asia and the rest of the world, to a long life in good health and happiness of Your Excellency esteemed President Mohammad Ziaul Haq and madame, to the health of the guests from Pakistan and to the health of all comrades and friends present here.

Delegation's Departure

SK260559 Pyongyang KCNA in English 0444 GMT 26 Oct 82

[Excerpt] Pyongyang, October 26 (KCNA) — Mohammad Ziaul Haq, president of the Islamic Republic of Pakistan, left Pyongyang on October 26, successfully concluding his Korean visit.

The great leader President Kim Il-song came out to the airport to cordially see him off. During his stay in Korea President Ziaul Haq had a series of talks with President Kim Il-song in a sincere and friendly atmosphere.

NODONG SINMUN EDITORIAL ON KIM CHONG-IL TREATISE

SK220109 Pyongyang KCNA in English 1512 GMT 21 Oct 82

[Text] Pyongyang, October 21 (KCNA) -- NODONG SINMUN October 31 devotes the whole of its front page to an editorial in connection with the publication of the historic treatise "The Workers Party of Korea Is a Chuche-Type Revolutionary Party Which Inherited the Glorious Tradition of the Down-With-Imperialism Union" authored by the dear leader Comrade Kim Chong-il, member of the Presidium of the Political Bureau, and secretary of the Central Committee of the Workers Party of Korea. Follows the full text of the editorial titled "Let Us Constantly Strengthen and Develop Our Party Under the Motto of Imbuing the Whole Party With The Chuche Idea":

Today our party is in the most glorious period in its development. Through the struggle for modeling the whole party on the chuche idea the militant might of the party has grown stronger than ever before and its leading authority and prestige is rising high extraordinarily. Never in its long history has our party had distinct features as a revolutionary vanguard of chuche type and a bright prospect before it as today. Our people are now vigorously carrying on the struggle to accomplish the cause of chuche, cherishing an unbounded national pride and honour in making revolution under the leadership of the great party.

At a significant time when a new turn is being effected in the building of our party and in the carrying out of the revolutionary cause, we received the treatise "The Workers Party of Korea Is a Chuche-Type Revolutionary Party Which Inherited the Glorious Tradition of the Down-With-Imperialism Union" authored by Comrade Kim Chong-il, member of the Presidium of the Political Bureau, and sercretary of the Central Committee of the Workers Party of Korea. As soon as it was made public, the treatise began firmly grasping the hearts of the people with a great attraction and evoking unbounded excitement and warm repercussions among them. Now all our party members and working people are immensely rejoiced at the publication of the treatise authored by the dear leader Comrade Kim Chong-il in NODONG SINMUN, the organ of the party, and filled with the fiery determination to thoroughly carry out the tasks put forward in the treatise.

The main purport of the historic treatise "The Workers Party of Korea Is a Chuche-Type Revolutionary Party Which Inherited the Glorious Tradition of the Down-With-Imperialism Union" lies in invariably defending the revolutionary character of our party and carrying the revolutionary cause of chuche to a brilliant accomplishment by strengthening and developing it forever into a party of chuche type.

The great leader Comrade Kim Il-song had taught: "Drawing on the successes already scored in party building, we should further strengthen and develop our party as a revolutionary vanguard of chuche and constantly enhance its leadership role."

Our party is a glorious revolutionary party of chuche type. The invincible might, leadership ability and high honour and dignity of our party stem from its chuche character. It is the unshakable will of our party centre to regard as precious as life the revolutionary character of the Workers Party of Korea, which has been unswervingly carried forward along the road of chuche up to this day since the period of the "Down-With-Imperialism Union" ("DIU"), and defend it to the end.

In the treatise the dear leader Comrade Kim Chong-il has taught: "We must continue to strengthen and develop our party into a revolutionary party which eternally upholds the great Comrade Kim Il-song as the leader and teacher, into a militant party which breathes and moves in keeping with his ideology and purpose. Precisely this is the fundamental matter which we must always grasp firmly in building our party."

Running through the whole system and contents of the treatise is the lofty intention of the party centre to constantly strengthen and develop our party and make it shine as a party of chuche type. The basic source of the inexhaustible might and vitality of this document lies in that it has ensured a theoretical and practical guarantee for strengthening and developing our party into a glorious party of chuche type, a party of Comrade Kim Il-song, generation after generation, while consolidating the imperishable feats performed and traditions established by the great leader Comrade Kim Il-song in the course of leading the cause of our party building under the banner of the chuche idea.

The publication of the treatise "The Workers Party of Korea Is a Chuche-Type Revolutionary Party Which Inherited the Glorious Tradition of the Down-With-Imperialism Union" is a great event of epochal significance in the strengthening and development of our party and the revolutionary struggle of our people.

The treatise serves as a firm guideline in the building of a revolutionary party in our era and a classic work which has brilliantly broken fresh ground in the development of the revolutionary theory of the working class.

The theory of the working-class party building is founded and developed by its great leaders. Much water has flowed under the bridge since a working-class party made its appearance in the arena of history and the theory of revolutionary party building has constantly developed. The treatise systematizes and consummates in an all-round way the idea and theory for brilliantly carrying out the cause of the working-class party building in our era.

The treatise gives a perfect exposition of the problem of laying the historical roots of a working-class party and founding it and all other theoretical and practical problems arising in making the party have essential features and criterion as a party of its leader and building it in a prospective way. The treatise is a monumental work which holds a particular place in the building of a working-class party and the history of its revolutionary struggle because with its profound theory and brilliant propositions it clearly indicates the direction and ways of building a party of chuche type, a genuine revolutionary working-class party. The publication of this historic treatise is a great contribution of our party centre to the development of the era and revolution.

The significance of the treatise lies first of all in that it has argued the great history of our party which has covered a glorious path under the banner of chuche and thereby clarified the law-governed path of building of a revolutionary party of chuche type. Our party has a proud history through which it has hewed out a new road in the building of a revolutionary party of the working class in the era of chuche. The treatise is a brilliant record of this shining history of our party.

On the basis of new historical materials and a scientific analysis the treatise gives a systematic outline of the course of our party's growth and strengthening into an invincible revolutionary party as it is today through many periods from the days of the "DIU" when it began striking its gloricus roots. The history of our party shines as proud annals of the unswerving carrying forward of one ideology, leadership and tradition and as the glorious path of its growth into a great guiding force capable of carrying the revolutionary cause to completion. This history is the greatest history that can be created only by a working-class party with an outstanding leader. The history of our party proves the precious truth that a party can be constantly consolidated and developed and become a great revolutionary vanguard carrying the revolutionary cause to completion only by firmly defending its intrinsic nature and revolutionary characters. As the treatise clarifies this truth and contains a wealth of experiences and exploits in the building of a revolutionary party, it gives a scientific answer to the question as to how to build a party of the working class and strengthen and develop it.

Another significance of the treatise "The Workers Party of Korea Is a Chuche-Type Revolutionary Party Which Inherited the Glorious Tradition of the Down-With-Imperialism Union" is that it provides us with a programmatic guideline for the building of a revolutionary party of a new type conforming with the demand of our era and the desire of the popular masses by giving an all-out exposition of the fundamental characteristics of our party, a revolutionary party of chuche type.

In the treatise the dear leader Comrade Kim Chong-il has taught as follows: "Our Party, which has followed a unique path since it started to strike its roots with the formation of the DIU, is a revolutionary working-class party of a new type."

To build a party in conformity with the demand of an era is a fundamental question arising in the building of a working-class party. Fundamentally distinct from the preceding historic era, our era demanded the building of a revolutionary party of new type suited to it. Our party was founded and has been built up on the basis of such demand of our era and the law governing the building of a working-class party. Today our party has become an authoritative party of our era which has fully taken on the looks of a revolutionary party of chuche type.

The treatise patently proves that our party is a revolutionary party of chuche type, a party which was founded and acts, guided by the chuche idea, a party throughout which the monolithic ideological system has eeen firmly established and whose members have been united rock-firm on the basis of the chuche idea, a party which maintains close ties of kinship with the popular masses and strives to accomplish the revolutionary cause of chuche by enhancing their role. This is a brilliant formulation of the character and criterion of a revolutionary party of chuche type.

Our party has distinctive features previously unknown in history in its guiding idea, its organisation and the firmness of its ranks and its kindred ties with the masses. It is a convincing proof of the greatness and indestructible might of the Workers Party of Korea that these genuine features of the party have been clarified. The building of a revolutionary party of chuche type was a cause of hewing out an untrodden path. This cause has been brilliantly realised as our party put forward a unique line and policy of party building on the basis of the chuche idea and waged a persistent struggle to carry them into practice. As it deeply analyses and generalizes the chuche-oriented idea and theory of party building whose correctness and truth have been fully testified to in practice, the treatise becomes a correct guideline in the building of a revolutionary party and its activities.

The treatise opens up a bright prospect for party building by advancing a fighting programme for strengthening and developing our party for ever into a party of chuche type under the motto of imbuing the whole party with the chuche idea. This is one more significance of the treatise. The future of the revolution and the future destiny of people are linked with the future of the party. This is why to build a party in a far-sighted way is a most important work of all the communists and people. This work has been raised as a more important demand today when the revolution has advanced farther and the generation is being alternated. The treatise points to the way of properly carrying out this universal task of our era.

The treatise elucidates all the principles and ways of building our party far-sightedly in conformity with the demand of the developing revolution, including the problems of firmly establishing the monolithic ideological system within the party and carrying forward the traditions of chuche pure and clean under the uplifted motto of imbuing the whole party with the chuche idea. Only by firmly grasping this ideological and theoretical wealth and fully using it, can we strengthen and develop our party into a militant party with invincible might, a glorious revolutionary party of chuche type which holds the great Comrade Kim Il-song in high esteem for ever.

The treatise is, indeed, a great programmatic guideline which perfectly explains all the theoretical and practical problems raised by the cause of building a revolutionary working-class party and a powerful ideological and theoretical weapon to be held by our party for ever. It is a great honour of our party and a boundless joy of our people to have this historic document with incomparably profound and rich ideological and theoretical contents.

The treatise "The Workers Party of Korea Is a Chuche-type Revolutionary Party Which Inherited the Glorious Tradition of the Down-With-Imperialism Union" is a precious fruition of the outstanding ideological, theoretical and practical activities of the dear leader Comrade Kim Chong-il who has wisely directed our party with his extraordinary intelligence and leadership ability from his early age.

A great thought and theory are born from great ideological and practical activities and practical revolutionary struggle. Our party's chuche-oriented theory on party building was founded and has been constantly developed and enriched in the protracted struggle for founding a genuine working-class party in our country and strengthening and developing it.

The great leader Comrade Kim Il-song, who regarded it as a fundamental question decisive of the victory of the revolution and the future of the people to found a genuine revolutionary working-class party, from the first days of his revolutionary activity advanced for the first time in history a grand plan to found a revolutionary party of new type, nursed the party's historical roots in the flames of the arduous anti-Japanese revolutionary struggle and has strengthened and developed our party into an invincible militant general staff as we see today. Apart from his leadership, neither the glorious past and today of our party nor its brilliant future is thinkable. The cause of building a chuche-type party which began as far back as the formation of the Down-With-Imperialism Union is now being brilliantly inherited and developed by the correct line and policy of our party centre and its energetic guidance.

Dear Comrade Kim Chong-il is the sagacious leader of our party and an outstanding organizer and leader in the building of a revolutionary party. A fundamental change has taken place in the work of our party and its activities under the tested leadership of the party centre which put forward the revolutionary policy of imbuing the whole party with the chuche idea on the basis of the matured demand of the development of our party and revolution and the law of the building of a revolutionary party and has wisely led the struggle for its realization.

Imbuing the whole party with the chuche idea is a continuation and a higher stage of our party's historical struggle for transforming it on the pattern of the chuche idea. This is, in essence, a noble work for strengthening and developing our party for ever into the glorious party of Comrade Kim Il-song.

In the struggle to imbue the whole party with the chuche idea, the monolithic ideological system of the party has been firmly established in an all-round way in the whole party and in the whole society, the unity and cohesion of party ranks in ideology and purpose completely realized, the militant function of party organizations raised high as never before and the party's method of work radically improved. In particular, a solid organizational and ideological foundation and a guidance system have been established firmly to strengthen and develop our party for ever into a revolutionary party of chuche type and brilliantly inherit and develop the revolutionary cause of chuche. This is an irreplaceable, great victory achieved in the building of our party.

The course along which our party centre has developed party building onto a new stage is a course along which a new idea and theory and policies on the building of a revolutionary party were advanced and have been brilliantly embodied. In this course the chuche-based theory of party building propounded by the respected leader Comrade Kim Il-song has been firmly defended and safeguarded, carried forward and developed and the treasure-house of the revolutionary theory of the working class constantly enriched. This is a great feat which can be performed only by an outstanding thinker and theoretician, a great leader who lights the road ahead of the party and revolution with his extraordinary intelligence, creative thought and energetic pursuits.

The classic document "The Workers Party of Korea Is a Chuche-type Revolutionary Party Which Inherited the Glorious Tradition of the Down-With-Imperialism Union" is an ideological and theoretical summing-up and all-round consummation of the shining victories, successes and richest and most diversified exploits achieved by the respected leader Comrade Kim Il-song and our party centre in the protracted course of leading our party. This historic treatise will throw more radiant rays along with the victorious advance of the cause of building a working-class party and the revolutionary struggle. Today our party and people are faced with an honorable task to model the whole party on the chuche idea along the road indicated by the dear leader Comrade Kim Chong-il in his treatise and more vigorously promote the revolutionary cause of chuche under the leadership of the party.

The respected leader comrade Kim Il-song has taught: "The revolutionary cause of the working class is, in essence, the revolutionary cause of their party. In our country the revolutionary cause of chuche has traversed along a proud road resplendent with victories and glories under the leadership of our party, and this cause can be consummated only under its leadership in the future."

The struggle for carrying into practice the historic treatise of our party is a sacred work for bringing to completion the modelling of the party on the chuche idea which has started and advanced under the banner of chuche and for achieving the final victory of our revolution. To energetically conduct this work is the most sacred duty of all the party organizations and functionaries, the entire party members and working people. We should creditably carry into practice the great programmatic document of our party in the spirit and stamina with which the Korean communists and people accepted with their hot-blooded hearts and implemented with all devotion the program of the DIU, the line of the Kalun meeting in the past and the policy of party building after liberation.

This treatise is a valuable textbook which will help the party members and working people deeply understand the glorious history of our party and its greatness and a guiding principle in their work and life. We should strengthen study of the treatise and thereby thoroughly arm ourselves with a profound idea, theory and policy evolved in it and splendidly apply them to the struggle for the strengthening and development of the party and the accomplishment of the revolutionary cause.

An important task in carrying into practice this treatise is to resolutely defend and eternally glorify the exploits performed in the building of our party. All the feats performed in our party building in the period from the formation of the DIU to this day are a solid wherewithal for accomplishing the cause of building a chuche-type party and a precious wealth of the communist movement. Only by developing and consolidating these achevements can we invariably defend the revolutionary essence and character of our party and carry on the revolution to the end. Therefore, all the party organizations and the entire party members should direct the greatest attention to the work of defending the priceless successes and exploits performed in our party building and inheriting and developing them and tirelessly push ahead with this work without the slightest deviation.

The struggle for defending the exploits performed in our party building is, in essence, a work for steadfastly defending the founder and leader of the party and laying a rock-firm organizational and ideological basis of the party. We should hold in high esteem the great Comrade Kim Il-song and the party centre through generations and fight with loyalty to the end along the road indicated by the party and leader with a firm faith and revolutionary allegiance as the anti-Japanese revolutionary fighters fought faithfully, holding the great Comrade Kim Il-song in high esteem. All the party members and the working people should wholly entrust all their destiny to the party centre in an indomitable revolutionary spirit and should become true revolutionaries of chuche-type, soldiers of the party, who make revolution to the last, together with the party in any storm and stress.

To establish the monolithic ideological system in the whole party and defend and constantly strengthen the unity and cohesion of the party and its purity is an important matter which must be permanently tackled in the whole period of the existence of the party. We should thoroughly embody the intention of our party centre that all problems arising in party building and party work should be depended on loyalty to the party and leader and thereby more firmly build up the ranks of the party and revolution into ranks of loyalty honestly holding the party and the leader in high esteem and following them. Along with this, we should value like the apple of the eye and defend down through generations the unity and cohesion of the party closely knit around the leader on the basis of the chuche idea and further strengthen the revolutionary discipline to thoroughly implement the decisions and instructions of the party. We should thus constantly strengthen and develop our party into a revolutionary party which holds the great comrade Kim Il-song forever in high esteem as the leader and breathes and acts as one man according to the idea and intention of the leader and under his leadership.

Our party's tradition of chuche is the source of inexhaustible strength which makes it possible to overcome any trial and difficulties and accomplish the cause of our party building and the final victory of our revolution. The future of our party depends on how this great tradition is safeguarded. We should make the revolutionary idea of the great leader Comrade Kim Il-song and his theory shine for ever as the guiding idea and theory of our party and firmly defend the revolutionary feats performed and traditions established by him. The party organisations at all levels should fully prepare all the party members to be communist revolutionaries of chuche type and carry on the struggle to improve the party work method and work style. In this way they should increase the might and militancy of our party.

It is the most important revolutionary task facing us to vigorously accelerate the struggle to bring the revolutionary cause of chuche to final accomplishment under the leadership of the party. Today our party, with an unshakable determination to bring about a decisive turn in carrying out the cause of chuche, is vigorously leading the struggle to implement the decisions of the sixth party congress. Only when we wage a vigorous struggle upholding the grand plan of our party and its leadership, can we bring earlier the complete victory of socialism and the independent reunification of the country and creditably carry out the revolutionary cause of chuche. Under the banner of the three revolutions, ideological, technical and cultural, the entire party members and working people should raise higher the flames of a great revolutionary upsurge in socialist construction and brilliantly carry out the modelling of the whole of society on the chuche idea and thus strikingly demonstrate the might and honour of our party as a revolutionary party, a fighting party and eternally adorn the history of the party with proud feats.

The revolutionary cause of our party which started in Mt. Paektu many years ago has today entered a new higher stage of its development and a boundlessly bright prospect has been opened up before it. It is the militant quality of our party and its brilliant tradition to hew out the road of the revolution with struggle and confidently lead the people to the bright future of communism.

Ever-victorious is the revolutionary cause of the Workers Party of Korea valiantly advancing, holding the great leader in high esteem in its van. Let us all fight on more stubbornly for the strengthening and development of our party and for the ultimate victory of the revolutionary cause, united as firm as a rock around the party Central Committee headed by the great leader Comrade Kim Il-song.

POLICY COURSE HELD FOR LSWYK, KWP YOUTHS

SK241034 Pyongyang KCNA in English 1017 GMT 24 Oct 82

[Text] Pyongyang, October 24 (KCNA) - A national short course of functionaries of party youth affairs departments and the League of Socialist Working Youth of Korea (LSWY) was held in Pyongyang for a week from October 16. It was attended by functionaries of youth affairs departments of party committees at all levels, the central, provincial, city and county LSWY committees, LSWY personnel of industrial establishments and the People's Army, chairmen of the LSWY committees of rural villages, leading personnel of the LSWY and Children's Union organisations of schools at all levels, 10,000 all told.

Problems arising in implementing policies set forth by the glorious party centre with regard to the work with youth and children were discussed and a lecture was given at the short course on practical problems in different domains of the LSWY work including its organisational and ideological work. Various model lectures and get-togethers for exchanging experiences were held.

The attendants deeply grasped through the short course the plan and intention of the party centre and its original policies of youth movement for developing the LSWY work in conformity with the new demand of the revolution and renewed their firm determination to bring about a signal change in the LSWY work by thoroughly embodying them.

The short course marked an important occasion in improving the political and practical qualities of functionaries of youth affairs departments of the party and the LSWY, strengthening party's guidance to the youth movement and developing in depth the work with youth and children on to a new, higher stage.

TONG-A ILBO CAUTIONS U.S. ON TRADE WITH NORTH

SK251341 TONG-A ILBO in Korean 23 Oct 82 p 2

[Editorial: "Secrets of U.S.-North Korea Direct Trade"]

[Text] A foreign news magazine report that there has been direct trade between the United States and North Korea since 1979 was a surprising one as we knew that the United States is enforcing a trade embargo with North Korea. According to analysis by the FAR EASTERN ECONOMIC REVIEW, a Hong Kong-based weekly, U.S. Commerce Department statistics show that bilateral trade between the United States and North Korea from 1979 through 1981 amounted to $310,000.

Commenting on the news report, however, Norman Barnes, spokesman for the East Asian Bureau of the U.S. State Department, denied the report and said: "The statistics showing the direct trade with North Korea are wrong. Trade between the United States and North Korea has been banned by various provisions." However, he added: "Exports to North Korea are permitted depending upon the circumstances when some groups like charity organizations wish to send special goods to North Korea for humanitarian purposes."

It has been known that the United States has not lifted its trade embargo with North Korea as well as with Vietnam, Cambodia, and Cuba. The fact that the United States allows exports to North Korea depending upon the circumstances for humanitarian purposes is indicative of a minor change from a political point of view. The question of exports for humanitarian purposes was not raised until 1978; such question being raised since 1979 would represent a new development.

U.S. President Carter sent the U.S. table tennis team to Pyongyang when North Korea rejected participation of the ROK team in the 35th world table tennis championship held in Pyongyang in 1979. Furthermore, thereafter, the U.S. Government gave tacit permission for an incumbent congressman and a retired high-ranking State Department official to visit North Korea in the capacity of individual travellers. Amid such an appeasement policy of the Carter administration towards North Kroea, it seems, U.S.-North Korea direct trade in special goods started. Whatever the reason, the United States should not have started its special trade with North Korea without the prior understanding of, or prior consultation with, the ROK Government. This is particularly so when the United States is our ally which shed its blood to check the North Korean southward invasion and is still defending the Demilitarized Zone side by side with us.

What should be noted, among other things, is the fact that Communist China, which came to the aid of North Korea in the Korean war, is still avoiding direct trade with the Republic of Korea. U.S.-North Korea direct trade in this context is feared to adversely affect the balance of power surrounding South and North Korea. Coming to mind in this connection is the reported action taken by Communist China on 25 August that has banned even indirect trade with the Republic of Korea, Israel, and South Africa.

North Korea, ever since 1973, has persistently called for concluding a peace treaty with the United States, excluding the Republic of Korea. North Korea has been scheming to communize South Korea the same way South Vietnam was communized, by approaching the United States and having it withdraw from South Korea. Such direct trade without prior consultations with South Korea, even if it is limited to special products, could lead North Korea to misunderstand that it is gaining success in its U.S.-allurement policy. This would most likely solidify even more its reunification line of communizing South Korea in the manner of the communization of South Vietnam. This will fan North Korean bellicosity towards South Kroea and aggravate tension on the Korean Peninsula.

Pulling the closed Kim Il-song clique into the international arena and taming it can be a way to soften North Korean bellicosity.

However, under the circumstances where neither Communist China nor the Soviet Union dares to approach South Korea because of North Korean obstruction tactics, if the United States, in addition to Japan, should gradually increase its direct trade with North Korea, it might prove detrimental to the original intention of taming North Korea, stir up the communize-South Korea drive, and could result in an unfortunate development. It is, therefore, urged that the U.S. Government face up to reality and take appropriate steps to cope with such a situation.

KYONGHYANG SINMUN Editorial

[Editorial: "Views of Situation in the Korean Peninsula Between the ROK and the United States -- We Reconfirm the Unreasonableness of the Rumor About Direct Trade Between the United States and the North Korean Puppets"]

[Text] The 1980's have begun with the Northeast Asian situation becoming more and more fluid and uncertain. A move to abruptly restructure the situation in Asia is active. In the meantime, with the quality of U.S.-Japanese relations changing, a new international political climate is forming. When this kind of change spreads to the Korean Peninsula -- the central place of tension in Northeast Asia -- we expect to see the emergence of a different international situation because political circumstances in the Kroean Peninsula are so sensitive.

In particular, any devleopment that might affect the status quo, now or in the foreseeable future, attracts our concern and attention. A foreign news report that there has been trade between the United States and North Korea -- even in a small amount -- is one good example of such a development. Even though the trade from 1979 to 1981 was, in reality, trifling in terms of quantity and value, the actual results of this direct trade disclosed by the U.S. Commerce Department's annual report are enough to attract our concern.

Our government has concluded that trade between the United States and North Korea is an "impossibility." It has also made clear its position that, in accordance with the U.S. law on trade with hostile countries, direct trade with North Korea is illegal. The U.S. Embassy in the ROK cleared our suspicions a little by commenting: Except for charity organizations' supply of noncommercial medical equipment from 1979 to 1981 or in periods of an emergency, there has been no trade with North Korea. We guess that the news report about direct trade was made because of the customs office's inaccurate classification of countries-of-origin.

Our country and the United States have pledged to renew their cooperative relationship as powerful partners in the Asia-Pacific area, while attaching significance to our special relationship in the 1980's. This means -- more than simply reconfirming the traditional friendly alliance between the two countries -- that devleopment has been made in their partnership toward substantial cooperation.

Our understanding and support for the U.S. strategy of cross-recognition on the Korean Peninsula are based on the premise that cross-recognition is a means to ease tension and remove the dangerous situation in this area. Repeatedly putting forward realistic proposals for permanent peace on the Korean Peninsula, we have waited for North Korea's affirmative response. This is, we can say, aimed at seeing conditions for easing tension mature.

As the government authorities have made clear, we are paying more attention to the basic position of the U.S. toward its relations with North Korea rather than to U.S.-North Korean volume and its value. The U.S. Government has announced that trade with North Korea, as well as Vietnam, Cambodia and Cuba, is banned. And we understand that it has taken steps to extend that ban for another year.

Our frank opinion is that it is difficult to believe that the interests of big powers such as the United States, Japan, China and the Soviet Union are evenly affecting today's relations between North and South Korea. In other words, it is doubtful whether the big powers properly understand and respond to the reality of division on the Korean Peninsula. Therefore, what is most important at this juncture, we believe, is for the United States to maintain its persuasive stand on alleviating tension on the Korean Peninsula.

First of all, the U.S. Government has publicly denied trading with North Korea from 1979 to 1981, thus ruling out any direct trade with the North Korean puppets. This is worth welcoming because it shows the consistency of U.S. policy toward the Korean Peninsula. It shows, and we accept, that the United States has reconfirmed its stand of sharing our understanding of the international political reality surrounding the ROK-U.S. friendship and the division of the Korean Peninsula. Even so, we would like to stress that in connection with some news reports about U.S.-North Korean trade, major friendly countries, including the United States, should take a clear-cut approach toward the Korean Peninsula, basing its view on fundamental principles. The interests of the ROK must not be hampered even in the slightest.

YUN SONG-MIN TESTIFIES ON DEFENSE SPENDING

SK230320 Seoul YONHAP in English 0230 GMT 23 Oct 82

[Text] Seoul, Oct 23 (YONHAP) -- Defense Minister Yun Song-min said Friday that it is necessary for national security that the government maintain the current level of defense expenditures, estimated at six percent of the gross national product (GNP). In a testimony before the National Assembly Ad Hoc Budget Settlement Committee, Yun acceded to the opinion that the current defense expenditures are heavy in relation to the economic situation in South Korea. The minister showed opposition, however, to any cut in current defense spending, saying that the mid-1980s would be a difficult period for the country's national security. He cited Kim Chong-il's tentative succession to power in North Korea, the Reagan administration's hard-line foreign policy and Pyongyang's attempt to obstruct the hosting of the 1988 Summer Olympics in Seoul as possible factors rendering South Korea's security more vulnerable at this time.

The ad hoc panel began reviewing the execution of the 1981 national budget in the day.

Quoting a Defense Ministry report, Yun told the committee that the proper ratio of defense expenditures to GNP is 6.1 percent when a 6.7 percent annual economic growth rate is maintained, while 6.7 percent is appropriate to annual economic growth at 6.9 percent. The minister disclosed that South Korea, which recorded an average 6.8 percent economic growth rate between 1966 and 1976, spent 24 percent of the GNP on defense during the period.

SEOUL MEETING WELCOMES N. KOREAN DEFECTOR

SK260213 Seoul THE KOREA HERALD in English 26 Oct 82 p 8

[Excerpt] Yi Hyon-chu, a North Korean defector, was welcomed to Seoul yesterday in a ceremony at the Sejong Cultural Center. Yi, who had worked on a farm in Paek-chon, Hwanghae-do, before defecting in August, received greetings and gifts from well wishers. Seoul Mayor Kim Song-pae; So Chong-chol, chairman of the KACL; and Chi Kap-chong, chairman of the UN Korean War Allies Association and about 1,500 people attended the ceremony sponsored by the Korea Anti-Communist League (KACL) Seoul branch. Yi said in his speech that theft is common in the North because North Koreans suffer from a severe grain shortage. The 19-year-old defector said that while in the North, he wished to have enough to eat and to travel freely. Yi said he was not allowed to join the army for political reasons and had to work for a mine and a farm. More than 70 percent of the workers in a mine where he once worked are treated as outcasts for political reasons and suffer from overwork and malnutrition, he added.

PRK FOREIGN MINISTRY CONDEMNS UN KAMPUCHEA VOTE

[Text] Phnom Penh, 26 Oct (SPK) -- Today, the Ministry of Foreign Affairs published a declaration condemning and rejecting the result of the UN vote for the representatives of "Democratic Kampuchea". The text is as follows:

Resolutely protesting the presence of the representatives of the so-called Coalition Government of Democratic Kampuchea at the 37th session of the UN General Assembly, the Ministry of Foreign Affairs of the People's Republic of Kampuchea vehemently condemns and categorically rejects the recent decision of this assembly on 25 October in favor of the mandate of these disguised delegates of the Pol Pot genocidal clique. This illegal and unjust decision violates the right to self-determination of the Kampuchean people and goes against the UN Charter.

Democratic Kampuchea is only a genocidal regime which was toppled by the Kampuchean people on 7 January 1979. Discoveries made over the last 3 years have brought new evidence of monstrous crimes committed by this regime disgraced and vomited on by all progressive peoples who, unanimously, insisted on its expulsion from international poltical life. The so-called Coalition Government of Democratic Kampuchea, illegally and hastily set up in a foreign capital by the bloody hands of the Chinese expansionists in collusion with the U.S. imperialists and regional reactionaries, is only a forced gathering of some traitors around the genocidal criminals aimed at disguising them as advocates of patriotism. The premature creation of this coalition is aimed at presenting the least villainous image of the Democratic Kampuchean corpse at the 37th session of the UN General Assembly and at imposing the stinking presence of this rotten corpse on members of this assembly, hampering the rebirth of the Kampuchean people, restoring the Pol Pot genocidal regime in Kampuchea and increasing tension in Southeast Asia.

The presence of the representatives of the Pol Pot genocidal regime at the 37th session of the UN General Assembly is completely contrary to the objective reality in Kampuchea, contrary to the aspirations and determination of more than 6 million Kampucheans in full rebirth and contrary to the hope of good-willed people in the world. The objective reality in Kampuchea is that the People's Republic of Kampuchea is consolidating and developing each day. It is benefiting from the confidence and support of the entire people, and it is recognized by many countries and millions of progressive peoples in the world as the sole, authentic and legal representative of the Kampuchean people. By accepting the presence in its bosom of the genocidal clique disguised behind any mask, the United Nations has ventured to grossly, brutally and inadmissibly interfere in the internal affairs of Kampuchea by violating the spirit and the Charter of the United Nations.

Beijing in collusion with Washington and reactionaries in Southeast Asia have made every effort to maintain the corpse of the genocidal regime by wrapping it in a new shroud labeled "Coalition Government of Democratic Kampuchea" in the Kampuchean seat with their dark perfidious propaganda maneuvers of lies, blackmail and gross pressure. However, its presence will do nothing but poison the atmosphere of the United Nations, creating obstacles to the solutions of international problems and to those of Southeast Asia. Likewise, this presence cannot save the so-called "coalition government" from certain and rapid disintegration because it can never reverse the current development and consolidation of the People's Republic of Kampuchea or impede the tendency for peace, stability, friendship and cooperation in Southeast Asia.

It is very regrettable to note that the United Nations, which was founded to safeguard peace and human rights, has once again covered up and defended the sappers of peace and the violators of human rights. Erroneous decisions by the 37th session of the UN General Assembly concerning Kampuchea score severe hits to the United Nations' prestige. They will never change the immutable processes of the rebirth and continued development of the People's Republic of Kampuchea. On the contrary, they only sharpen more the firm determination of the entire Kampuchean people who, by their own efforts; by the militant solidarity of the three countries -- Kampuchea, Vietnam, Laos; and by the effective support of socialist countries, the nonaligned countries and progressive forces in the world, are quickly healing wounds left over by the genocidal regime in order to build a strong and prosperous People's Republic of Kampuchea, thereby gaining its place in the international community through a lofty struggle.

The right of authentic and legal representation of Kampuchea necessarily and uniquely returns to the People's Republic of Kampuchea. The PRK is always consolidating and developing. No reactionary force can hamper this irreversible tendency. The just cause of the Kampuchean people will win.

VODK HAILS UN VOTE ON RETENTION OF DK'S SEAT

BK260442 (Clandestine) Voice of Democratic Kampuchea in Cambodian to Kampuchea 0400 GMT 26 Oct 82

[Text] On 25 October the 37th session of the UN General Assembly voted to accept the decision of the commission in charge of examining credentials and recognized by a great majority the legitimate and lawful right of Democratic Kampuchea at the United Nations.

Ninety countries supported the Democratic Kampuchean seat at the United Nations -- 11 votes more than last year.

As for the Hanoi Vietnamese aggressors, who are against the legitimate right of Democratic Kampuchea, they received only 29 votes -- 7 votes less than last year. Only 26 countries abstained this year. This is a victory for the peace-, independence- and justice-loving forces the world over which oppose Vietnamese and Soviet aggression and expansionism. It is also a brilliant victory for the Kampuchean people and all the Kampuchean patriotic forces fighting on the battlefield against the Vietnamese enemy aggressors, expansionists and race exterminators to safeguard the Kampuchean nation and race.

KHIEU SAMPHAN MEETS WITH VARIOUS ENVOYS AT UN

[Text] On 13 October Khieu Samphan, vice president of Democratic Kampuchea in charge of foreign affairs, met and held talks with Zaire's foreign minister at the UN headquarters.

On 14 October he met and held talks separately with the foreign ministers of Upper Volta and Costa Rica. Khieu Samphan and the foreign ministers of these friendly countries exchanged views on issues of mutual interest, especially the situation in Southeast Asia and Kampuchea, where the Hanoi Vietnamese administration has waged a genocidal war for the past 4 years.

During his talks with His Excellency Yoka Mangono, Foreign Minister of Zaire, Vice President Khieu Samphan expressed the profound thanks of the Democratic Kampuchean Government and the Kampuchea people to the government and the people of Zaire for their active and firm assistance to and support for the just struggle for the liberation of the Kampuchean nation. The Zairian foreign minister reiterated the unswerving assistance and support of the government and the people of Zaire to the just national cause of our Democratic Kampuchea.

His Excellency Michel Kafando, foreign minister of Upper Volta [title as heard], reaffirmed to Vice President Khieu Samphan: The people and the Government of Upper Volta will continue to support firmly the just struggle of the Democratic Kampuchean people and government. Upper Volta is proud to stand by the just struggle of the Kampuchean people and the government of Democratic Kampuchea.

Vice President Khieu Samphan expressed his profound thanks to the government and the people of Upper Volta.

His Excellency Fernando Volio Jimenez, foreign minister of Costa Rica, stated that his country is very worried about the situation in Kampuchea, a country which has been victim of aggression, He reiterated his country's complete support for the just struggle of the Kampuchean people and the Government of Democratic Kampuchea. Vice President Khieu Samphan highly praised the assistance and support of friendly countries such as Costa Rica. He expressed his profound thanks to the people and the Government of Costa Rica.

These talks were held in a sincere atmosphere, showing the development of friendly relations between Democratic Kampuchea and these countries.

VODK COMMENTARY SLAMS TRUONG CHINH VISIT TO USSR

BK251716 (Clandestine) Voice of Democratic Kampuchea in Cambodian to Kampuchea 2330 GMT 23 Oct 82

[Station commentary: "The Expansionist Hanoi Vietnamese Have Not Abandoned Their True Warmongering, Aggressive and Expansionist Nature"]

[Text] Currently, although they are completely bogged down and are in a total impasse on the Kampuchean battlefield and are higly isolated on the international scene due to the world's denunciation, condemnation and demand for the complete withdrawal of their aggressor troops from Kampuchea, the Le Duan Vietnamese enemy aggressors have given no sign that they are ready to abandon their aggressive and expansionist strategy in Kampuchea and Southeast Asia.

The Vietnamese propaganda about their partial troop withdrawal from Kampuchea, their proposals for a demilitarized zone along the Thai-Kampuchea border and for convening their so-called international conference on Southeast Asia are only maneuvers in their attempt to reduce international poressure, to appease world opinion which has denounced and condemned them and asked for the withdrawal of all their aggressor troops from Kampuchea. These tricks were also aimed at making the world accept their aggression and occupation of Kampuchea as a fait accompli. These intrigues were intended to make everyone, through means other than military, recognize their Indochina federation that they cannot achieve on the Kampuchean battlefield. The Vietnamese intended to use their Indochina federation as a springboard to implement their Soviet masters' and their own aggressive and expansionist strategy and in Southeast Asia and the Asia-Pacific region. The Hanoi Vietnamese enemy's successive, concrete actions in the past and at present clearly show that:

Firstly, the Vietnamese have not withdrawn their aggressor troops from Kampuchea. Up to now they have not pulled out a single soldier from Kampuchea. They staged a farce about a partial troop withdrawal from Kampuchea in order to make their propaganda to dupe the world opinion in order to cover up their troop reinforcements in Kampuchea. During the new past months, the Vietnamese sent more than 20,000 troops to the western region of Kampuchea, close to the Thai border.

Secondly, the Hanoi Vietnamese enemy sent their officials such as Truong Chinh, Nguyen Co Thach and Pham Hung to lick the Soviets' boots, collaborate with the Soviets, Cubans and other Soviet satellite countries in order to continue their war of aggression in Kampuchea and to carry out their aggressive and expansionist strategy and that of the Soviet in Southeast Asia.

In fact, during his talks with Truong Chinh, Brezhnev reiterated that the Soviet Union will continue to support the Vietnamese-Soviet military treaty signed in 1978 and that it always stands with the Vietnamese in their aggressive and expansionist acts. Truong Chinh swore to Brezhnev that the Vietnamese would maintain their close cooperation with the Soviet Union as the principle basis of their foreign policy.

Furthermore, Truong Chinh went to Cuba, the Soviet Union's cat's-paw in Latin America, to conclude a military treaty with the Cubans and draw them into helping and collaborating with the Vietnamese in the implementation of their aggressive and expansionist strategy in Southeast Asia. At the same time, Vo Dong Giang, Vietnamese deputy foreign minister, declared on Vietnamese radio that the Soviet Union is Vietnam's strategic ally and provides indispensible support for Vietnam's implementation of its continued expansionist strategy in the region.

All this has shown more clearly that the Hanoi Vietnamese enemy is not ready to discard their Indochina federation strategy and their expansionist strategy in Southeast Asia. In collusion with the Soviet Union and its allies, the Vietnamese continue to stage their maneuvers -- military, political, diplomatic -- to implement and achieve their criminal goal of swallowing Kampuchea, establishing their Indochina federation and using it as a springboard to wage their aggression and expansion in Southeast Asia and the Asia-Pacific region.

The world has realized further that the Vietnamese regional expansionists, with the backing of the Soviet international expansionists, are the danger which has seriously and persistently threatened security and stability in Southeast Asia and the region's naval traffic. Therefore, all and peace- and justice-loving countries in the region and the world unanimously agree that it is necessary to cooperate with each other to check this danger caused by the Vietnamese with Soviet backing. They have decided to heighten their vigilance, increase their own defense forces, oppose the Vietnamese and dissipate their poisonous maneuvers. On the other hand, while the Vietnamese are continuing their barbarous aggression against and occupation of Kampuchea, it is necessary to increase assistance and support in all fields to the struggle of the Kampuchean people and Democratic Kampuchea. All peace- and justice-loving countries in the region and the world must take measures to bring pressure to bear on the Vietnamese until they pull all their troops out of Kampuchea in conformity with the resolutions of the UN General Assembly.

PRC'S HAN NIANLONG VISITS FOR TALKS WITH LEADERS

Talks With Prem

BK251438 Bangkok Domestic Service in Thai 1300 GMT 25 Oct 82

[Text] At 1430 today Han Hianlong, former PRC deputy foreign minister, who is now an adviser to the PRC Foreign Ministry, and his party, paid a courtesy call on Prime Minister Gen Prem Tinsulanon. The group was accompanied by Director General of the Protocol Department Nikon Phraisaengphet.

The prime minister and Mr Han Nianlong exchanged views on efforts to promote bilateral cooperation. Mr Han Nianlong believed that Thailand and the PRC, which are old friends, should consult, cooperate and coordinate efforts with each other in order to achieve peace in the world. The prime minister agreed with the Chinese proposal.

Mr Han Nianlong presented to the prime minister PRC Premier Zhao Ziyang's message inviting the Thai prime minister to visit the PRC. The prime minister expressed his willingness to visit and accepted the invitation.

Prem's PRC Visit Announced

BK260217 Bangkok BANGKOK POST in English 26 Oct 82 pp 1, 3

[Text] China has reassured Thai leaders that it will not export revolution to Thailand, in line with Beijing's recently reshaped policy on relations with foreign communist parties, it was learned yesterday.

Chinese policy towards other parties and the current Sino-Soviet normalisation talks dominated two hours of talks yesterday between Chinese Foreign Ministry Adviser Han Nianlong and Foreign Minister Sitthi Sawetsila, according to Saowanit Kongsiri, deputy director-general of the Department of Information.

The meeting was also attended by Chinese Ambassador Shen Ping, M.R. Kasem Samoson Kasemsi, the outgoing under-secretary of state for foreign affairs, and Mr Orachun Thanaphong, the new Thai ambassador to Beijing.

Recalling the 12th Chinese Communist Party Congress held early last month, Han noted party Chairman Hu Yaobang's speech on party relations and foreign affairs in which he declared that China will not export revolution or interfere in other parties' affairs. Hu's speech -- seen as a dramatic departure from previous official Chinese policy -- said that the success of a revolution in any country depends on the ripeness of conditions and the people's support for the policies of the country's Communist Party.

Mr Saowanit reported that the Thai side was obviously pleased with the Chinese representative's reaffirmation. The Thai Government has long been anxious about Chinese support for the Communist Party of Thailand. During his trip to Beijing in October 1980, Prime Minister Prem Tinsulanon reportedly asked his Chinese counterpart about this unsettled question.

Han also briefed the Thai representatives on the recently concluded Sino-Soviet normalisation talks. Mr Saowanit quoted Han as telling the Thai side that China had made it very clear to the Soviet Union that an end to the Soviet occupation of Afghanistan and the withdrawal of Vietnamese troops from Kampuchea were prerequisites to the resumption of normal Sino-Soviet relations.

Foreign Minister Sitthi revealed yesterday that Prime Minister Prem is scheduled to visit Beijing between November 17 and 20. Han presented Chinese Premier Zhao Ziyang's invitation to Gen Prem yesterday afternoon.

ACM [Air Chief Marshal] Sitthi said the two leaders will mainly disucss stability and security in the region, adding that details of the visit are now being worked out by the Foreign Ministry.

ACM Sitthi said that the Thai party will include only Gen Prem, the foreign minister, two other ministers and a small group of officials. They will visit only Beijing due to Gen Prem's tight schedule back home.

PROPOSED EXTRADITION TREATY WITH U.S. CRITICIZED

[Editorial: "Putting the Criminals Away."]

[Text] We were delighted to see over the weekend from America a news story which, we are sure, was meant to show Thailand in a derogatory way. The story, from Washington, said that more young Americans were winding up in prisons overseas. It singled out Thailand and four other countries in Europe and America [as published] "as particular hot spots," where young Americans were being jailed.

We were happy to see this for two reasons. First of all, the story itself will serve as a warning to Americans that crime fighting is taken seriously here and that criminals of whatever nationality may find themselves caught and punished more often than not. Thus, the effect of the story may be that fewer young American criminals come here. Secondly, it is a recognition that our authorities are doing a job so well that they are being noticed overseas for their achievements.

The story, of course, was not meant to serve either purpose. It was yet another of a seemingly endless series of stories purporting to show how "innocent" young Americans are being victimised by foreigners and thrown in dungeon-like prisons after torture and mistreatment by local officials, usually on trumped-up charges. According to this story, the victims are "average American kids... a lot are railroaded, framed, set up politically. These people go through such hell in these countries, even if they are guilty, the treatment they get could not be justified. Most jails are fairly lousy..." and so on.

All of this is continuing propaganda for the passage of treaties between the United States and foreign countries such as Thailand so that American criminals can return to their own country. Such a treaty will be signed this week in Bangkok by visiting U.S. Attorney General William French Smith and Thai officials. It will become law next year, perhaps, if parliament passes enabling legislation after the April elections.

Our new lawmakers then will have to decide whether they want those who break Thai laws to be punished in Thailand. The alternative, according to the United States story, is to turn convicted American criminals over to the United States where "American laws protect prisoners once they land on U.S. soil and they are covered by practices unheard of elsewhere -- such as parole," allowing those convicted back on the American streets.

NHAN DAN Hails Visit

[NHAN DAN 26 Oct editorial: "An Important Factor Ensuring the Victory of Our Country's Revolution"]

[Text] Strengthening friendship and broadening relations of cooperation with fraternal socialist countries on the basis of Marxism-Leninism and socialist internationalism are the primary issues in the foreign policy of our party and state.

Our people's glorious victory in the struggle for independence, freedom and national reunification was a victory of their militant solidarity with fraternal socialist countries. Today, our country's militant solidarity and all-round cooperation with the Soviet Union and other countries in the socialist community is an important factor ensuring the victory of our people in the cause of building and defending the socialist fatherland.

The official friendship visits to the Soviet Union and Cuba by our party and state delegation led by Comrade Truong Chinh, member of the party Central Committee Political Bureau and chairman of the SRV Council of State, achieved fine results and constituted an affirmation of the strong vitality of these relations of cooperation.

The Soviet and Cuban parties, states and peoples attached great importance to our party and state delegation's official friendship visit and gave it a grand and intimate welcome. This reflected the Soviet and Cuban peoples' warm sentiments toward our people and embodied our country's traditional solidarity with the first socialist country in the world and the first socialist state in the Western Hemisphere.

We are moved by the fact that the Soviet Union and Cuba highly valued the Vietnamese revolution and reaffirmed their unshakeable solidarity with and their resolute and strong support for our certainly victorious struggle in the new stage to implement the resolution of our fifth party congress. We are also moved by the fact that the Soviet and Cuban parties and states highly appreciated our highest party and state leaders' contributions to the development of the Vietnamese revolution and to the strengthening of Vietnamese-Soviet and Vietnamese-Cuban friendship.

The Soviet and Cuban leaders praised and showed their respect for the life and revolutionary activities of Comrade Truong Chinh, one of the most outstanding leaders of our party and people and a worthy representative of the ranks of veteran militants who fought for a long time alongside great President Ho Chi Minh.

The most outstanding result of the visits has been the complete indentity of views between Vietnam and the Soviet Union as well as between Vietnam and Cuba in evaluating their bilateral relations and the current international situation.

The Vietnam-USSR joint communique, stressing the importance of the treaty of friendship and cooperation between the two countries, expressed their iron determination to continuously strengthen their fraternal friendship, which has stood the test of time, and to develop bilateral all-round cooperation even more vigorously.

The identity of views between Vietnam and the Soviet Union on the policy toward China, on the problem of peace and stability in Southeast Asia, on the issue of common peace and security in the world, as well as on various regional problems, has once again confirmed that the two countries share common views on various international issues and on the road of struggle to check the arms race, to consolidate peace and to support the revolutionary movement of the peoples in various countries.

The Vietnam-Cuba joint communique stressed: The treaty of friendship and cooperation between Vietnam and Cuba provides main guidelines for further promoting multiform relations between the two fraternal countries. The two sides will do their utmost to ceaselessly consoldiate and strengthen relations between the two parties and between state agencies and mass and social organizations of the two countries through the broadening of contact and through direct exchanges of experience.

Vietnam and Cuba, members of the Nonaligned Movement, have clearly shown a complete identity of views on their close coordination in their revolutionary strategies and tactics concerning general international problems, especially the situation in Southeast Asia and in the Central American and Caribbean regions, and concerning the problems of the struggle against the reactionaries among the Chinese leadership and against U.S. imperialism and other reactionary forces.

Through our party and state delegation, our people expressed profound admiration and sincere gratitude for the fraternal peoples of the Soviet Union and Cuba.

Our people heartily welcome the historic resolutions of the 26th CPSU Congress and resolutely support the Soviet Union's peace plan. We are firmly convinced that under the leadership of the glorious CPSU headed by esteemed Comrade Leonid Ilich Brezhnev, today's worthy Marxist-Leninist successor of Lenin's perpetual cause and a fighter noted for his untiring struggle for world peace and for friendship among nations, the Soviet people will surely succeed in carrying out their great tasks in order to constantly strengthen the material and technical bases of communism, improve the people's life and make the Soviet Union -- the pillar of peace and a firm support of the world revolution -- ever more powerful.

Our people heartily hail the successes of socialism in Cuba's correct and dynamic foreign policy which is a shining example of the lofty spirit of proletarian internationalism and greatly contributes to advancing the world revolution. We are firmly convinced that in spite of the U.S. imperialists' criminal acts of aggression, military threats and economic blockade, the Cuban people, under the leadership of the glorious PCC led by esteemed Comrade Fidel Castro, an outstanding fighter of the international communist and workers' movement, will surely overcome new challenges and surge forward to score new successes in their cause of socialist construction and national defense.

Taking place at a time when all Soviet people and the community of socialist countries, together with all progressive mankind, are preparing to celebrate the 65th anniversary of the Great October Revolution and the 60th founding anniversary of the USSR, the visits to the Soviet Union and Cuba by our party and state delegation confirmed the brilliant achievements and invincible strength of the Soviet Union and the world socialist system. It also confirmed the will of the Soviet Union, Cuba and Vietnam to constantly strengthen unity, solidarity and mutual support among fraternal socialist countries on the basis of Marxism-Leninism and proletarian internationalism, and to further coordinate their actions in the international arena with the aims of defeating all the challenges of imperialism, hegemonism and reaction and of consolidating peace and the security of nations.

With its fine results, our party and state delegation's visit laid a new, important milestone in the process of strengthening the militant solidarity and the relations of cooperation between Vietnam and the Soviet Unions as well as between Vietnam and Cuba. The ever-deepening solidarity and the ever-expanding all-round cooperation between our country and the Soviet Union, Cuba and other countries of the socialist community serve as a tremendous driving force that greatly contributes to advancing our people's revolutionary cause to victory.

AFP VIEWS THACH'S UPCOMING VISIT TO INDONESIA

[Excerpts] Jakarta, Oct 26 (AFP) -- by Gilles Bertin -- Vietnamese Foreign Minister Nguyen Co Thach's visit to Indonesia starting Thursday forms part of a "discreet but continued" dialogue between the two countries with entirely different political systems. Pro-Western Indonesia, where the Communist Party is banned, is nevertheless seen as the country with the closest links to Vietnam of all five Association of Southeast Asian (ASEAN) countries of Indonesia, Philippines, Singapore, Malaysia and Thailand.

During his visit, the Vietnamese minister will meet with President Suharto and other Indonesian ministers and top personalities. On Cambodia, Jakarta has vehemently opposed any military aid to the anti-Vietnamese coalition headed by Prince Sihanouk, but has advocated a peaceful and political solution to the problem. Mr Thach has last paid an official visit to Jakarta in June 1980 and since then has kept up contacts with Indonesian officials, who have regularly returned the visits to Hanoi, reliable sources said.

Besides the Cambodian question, the talks are expected to probe into Hanoi's views on the possibility of a Sino-Soviet reconciliation. Vietnam could well follow a "more realistic" attitude for the occasion, reliable sources said. "Vietnam is not worried by Sino-Soviet discussions that are 'positive' for world balance," a reliable source close to the Vietnamese Embassy here said. "Vietnam follows an independent policy and does not take its orders from foreign powers," the same source, who declined to be identified, said.

The two sides are expected to take up their countries' dispute on the Natuna Islands in the South China Sea which harbours large gas and oil deposits. Mr Thach, leading a five person delegation, is expected from October 28 to November 1. He is also expecting to make private visits to the tourist attractions of Yogyaakarta and Bali, sources here said.

AFRO-ASIAN WRITERS BUREAU MEETS IN HCM CITY

Meeting Opens 20 Oct

OW211213 Hanoi VNA in English 0718 GMT 21 Oct 82

[Text] Hanoi, VNA, October 21 -- The 7th conference of the Permanent Bureau of the Afro-Asian Writers' Association (A.A.W.A) and an international meeting of Afro-Asian writers opened in Ho Chi Minh [City] yesterday evening.

Present at the presidium were Alex la Guma, secretary general of the A.A.W.A.; Nguyen Van Hieu, minister of culture of the Socialist Republic of Vietnam; Nguyen Dinh Thi, secretary general of the Vietnam Writers' Association; Subhash Mukerijee, deputy secretary general of the A.A.W.A.; Ali Dikla Orsan, deputy secretary general of the A.A.W.A.; Sarvar Azimov, deputy secretary general of the A.A.W.A.; Faiz Ahmed Faiz, editor-in-chief of the LOTUS magazine, Pakistan; Luandino Viera, president of the Union of Angolan Writers; and Mrs. Do Duy Lien, vice-president of the People's Committee of Ho Chi Minh City.

The conference is attened by prominent writers and poets from Algeria, India, Kampuchea, Bangladesh, Congo, Zambia, Zimbabwe, Ethiopia, Ghana, Guinea, Laos, the Soviet Union Madagascar, Mali, Morocco, Mozambique, Mongolia, South Africa, Japan, the Palestine Liberation Organization, Turkey, Tunisia, Senegal, Sri Lanka, Sudan, etc. and guests of the Permanent Bureau of the A.A.W.A.

Alex la Guma, secretary general of the Afro-Asian Writers Association, in his opening speech praised Vietnam's heroic struggle against foreign aggressions which he said had set a shining example for all nations in Asia and Africa. He said that in face of the evil schemes of the U.S. imperialists and their lackeys who are stepping up the arms race to prevent social and economic development in African and Asian countries and the establishment of an equitable international economic order, the Afro-Asian writers must identify themselves with the struggle for disarmament and become an important factor in the struggle for lasting peace in the world. He stressed that it is very significant that the international meeting of Afro-Asian writers is held in a place where neo-colonialism has collapsed, bringing down with it a decadent and enslaving culture.

Then, Vietnamese Minister of Culture Nguyen Van Hieu read a message of greetings from Pham Van Dong, chairman of the Council of Ministers of the Socialist Republic of Vietnam.

Welcoming the guests, Nhuyen Dinh Thi, writer and secretary of the Vietnam Writers' Association, said that every Vietnamese knows that the Asian and African peoples shared the same fate as the Vietnamese people and fought the same struggle for self-liberation from old and neo-colonialist domination. He expressed hearty thanks to the writers and peoples of Asia and Africa for their warm support to the Vietnamese people in the past as well as in the present stage of the struggle.

Young Pioneers of Ho Chi Minh City presented the delegates with bouquets of flowers.

Session Continues 21 Oct

[Text] Hanoi, VNA, Oct. 21 -- The Editors' Board of the LOTUS magazine, the "Lotus Prize" panel and the Secretariat of the Afro-Asian Writers' Association met in Ho Chi Minh City today. Alex la Guma, general secretary of the A.A.W.A., made a report on the association's activities since its sixth conference in Luanda (Angola) in 1979, and on its action programme in the years to come. Faiz Ahmed Faiz, editor-in-chief of the LOTUS magazine, reported on the work of the magazine in the past years.

D. Muldagaliyev, vice-president of the "Lotus Prize" panel, announced that the panel had decided to present the 1981 Lotus Prize to four writers of Syria, the Soviet Union Ethiopia and Turkey.

Writers Attend GOSR Fete

OW251015 Hanoi VNA in English 0755 GMT 25 Oct 82

[Text] Hanoi, VNA, October 24 -- Many Asian and African writers yesterday evening participated in a get-together held by more than 500 writers, artists and intellectuals in Ho Chi Minh City to commemorate the 65th anniversary of the Russian October Revolution and the 60th anniversary of the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics. Alex la Guma, secretary general of the Afro-Asian Writers' Association, and the other writers were attending the conference of the association's Permanent Bureau held in the city. The consul-general of the Soviet Union in Ho Chi Minh City was present at the meeting.

Addressing the meeting, writer Nguyen Quang Sang, secretary general of the Ho Chi Minh City Writers' Association, brought out the impact of the October Revolution on the Vietnamese revolution as well as the influence of Soviet literature on Vietnamese literature, and on writers and readers in the city.

He said: "In this very city seven years ago, when it still was the den of the U.S. aggressors and their henchmen, when noxious waves of reactionary and depraved culture from elsewhere, like storms of dust, were playing havoc on people, Soviet literature already illuminated the minds of many Saigonese readers. Not only works of Russian classics, but also those of contemporary Soviet writers, were treasured on family bookshelves in our city. It is safe to say that in the struggle between the patriotic, progressive literary current and the reactionary one, Soviet authors and progressive writers in the world were present side by side with our revolutionary writers in this city then under the enemy's sway."

Sarwar Azimov, secretary of the Soviet Writers' Association, head of the Soviet writers' Association, head of the Soviet writers' delegation, spoke of the influence of the October Revolution on Soviet literature, a literature in service of noble ideals, the liberation of man and the present struggle for peace and friendship among nations.

Alex la Guma spoke of the influence of the October Revolution on the revolutionary movement in Africa. He expressed his emotion and pride at the victories of the October Revolution and the Soviet state. He said that on the African ontinent nowadays more and more people speak of freedom and socialism. "The October Revolution banner is flapping ever more proudly in Africa", he said.

Writers from Mongolia, Palestine and Kampuchea also expressed their opinions on this occasion.

Writers Hold Press Conference

OW251021 Hanoi VNA in ENglish 0808 GMT 25 Oct 82

[Text] Hanoi, VNA, October 24 -- The Secretariat of the Afro-Asian Writers' Association held a press conference in Ho Chi Minh City today to announce the results of the conference of the A.A.W.A. Permanent Bureau. Alex la Guma, secretary general of the association, said the Permanent Bureau had unanimously adopted the resolutions and joint communique of the conference. The conference released the list of writers and poets who had been awarded the "Lotus Prize" for 1981. The conference adopted the appeal to writers throughout the world, the resolution demanding "a real and stable peace for the Near East", and a message to Chairman of the Council of Ministers Pham Van Dong extending the conference's sympathy with the inhabitants of Nghe Tinh and Thanh Hoa Provinces (central Vietnam) which had just been hit by typhoon "Nancy".

At the Afro-Asian writers meeting, 27 writers and poets from many countries expressed their joy to visit heroic Vietnam and affirmed their mission of struggling for peace, checking the scheme to wage nuclear war and defending mankind's happiness.

Meeting Concludes 24 Oct

OW251620 Hanoi VNA in English 1507 GMT 25 Oct 82

[Text] Hanoi, VNA, October 25 -- The Executive Council of the Afro-Asian Writers' Association successfully closed its conference in Ho Chi Minh City yesterday. The delegates to the conference have left the city for a visit to the People's Republic of Kampuchea.

During the conference, more than 20 delegates of the member countries of the Afro-Asian Writers' Executive Council read speeches confirming the contributions by Asian and African peoples to world peace and security and social progress, and the role of writers in the struggle against old and neo-colonialism, racism and Zionism, for national liberation, especially for the defence of national cultures.

The conference was very happy to admit the writers associations of the Lao People's Democratic Republic and the People's Republic of Kampuchea. It expressed its solidarity with the Palestinian and other Arab peoples who are fighting courageously against aggression by the Israeli expansionists. It affirmed the role of the People's Republic of Kampuchea and demanded that the latter be represented at the United Nations. Besides, the conference decided on the date and venue for the 7th Congress of the Afro-Asian Writers' Association on the occasion of its 25th anniversary.

The delegates to the conference visited the Nha Rong wharf from where President Ho Chi Minh went abroad in 1911 to seek a way for national liberation, and other social and cultural establishments in Dong Nai Province and in Ho Chi Minh City. The delegates were invited to a reception offered by the city People's Committee.

ARTICLE WELCOMES INDOCHINESE YOUTH MEETING

OW232113 Hanoi VNA in English 1453 GMT 23 Oct 82

[Text] Hanoi, VNA, October 23 -- Luu Minh Tri, secretary of the Ho Chi Minh Communist Youth Union Central Committee and of the Hanoi Youth Union, in an article for VNA, has warmly welcomed "the friendship meeting of the youth of Vietnam, Laos and Kampuchea", to be held from October 25 through November 1. He described the meeting as "a positive contribution to consolidating and strengthening the struggle for world peace and to building Southeast Asia into a region of peace and stability".

This is the first youth meeting of Indochina since all the three countries were liberated, Luu Minh Tri noted, adding that it is a good opportunity for the youth of the three countries to deepen their knowledge of each other's country, people and revolutionary traditions, to tighten their relations of cooperation and mutual assistance with a view to successfully implementing the political tasks of each country. During the week-long meeting, there will be teach-ins on issues of common concern, meetings with Hanoi and Haiphong youth and children, art performances, photo exhibitions and showings of Vietnamese, Lao and Kampuchean films.

Luu Minh Tri continued: "The Hanoi youth has been enthusiastically preparing for the meeting. Union members and Young Pioneers have inquired into the life and work of their friends in Vientiane and Phnom Penh, and held meetings with Lao and Kampuchean friends studying in Hanoi. The youth at many factories in the capital are carrying out extra plans of production and economisation in honour of the meeting. Cultural and art activities have also been promoted on this occasion. In particular, the 'Hanoi youth song festival' is attracting a great number of young men and women in the capital city". "Deeply imbued with proletarian internationalism, the Hanoi youth understand well that each of their achievements will contribute to the common victory of socialism on the Indochinese Peninsula", Luu Minh Tri concluded.

SUHARTO RETURNS, DISCUSSES RESULTS OF TALKS

[Text] President and Mrs Suharto and their entourage returned home at 1650 today following a 17-day visit to spain, the United States, South Korea and Japan. The visits to Spain, the United States, and South Korea were conducted on an official basis, while that to Japan was a working visit, not an official one. President Suharto and entourage were welcomed at the Halim Perdanakusuma International Airport this afternoon by Vice President Adam Malik, Chairman of the People's Consultative Assembly and of the Parliament Amir Makhmud, Supreme Advisory Council Chairman Idham Khalid, members of the third development cabinet and representatives of friendly countries stationed in Jakarta.

President Suharto said that his official visit to Spain, the United States and South Korea as well as his working visit to Japan were closely related to efforts to step up national development which would serve as the foundation for building a just and prosperous society. The president reiterated that his visit to the two developed and two developing countries were not designed to raise funds. The visits were intended, among other things, to enhance mutual understanding and mutual respect between the Indonesian people and those in advanced countries and increase friendly relations and mutually beneficial cooperation.

On the benefits of the visits, the president said the visits [words indistinct] the experiences of advanced countries for the sake of speeding up industrial development, supported by development in the agricultural sector. Therefore, the president's visit to Spain had resulted in establishing cooperation in the field of science and technology.

The president made these remarks before reporters on his way home from Tokyo today. He said that in mobilizing funds for development Indonesia no longer held the view that it had to find loans abroad, but would utilize foreign funds in the context of stepping up trade cooperation. The results of this trade cooperation would enable Indonesia to finance development projects by itself. For this purpose, beginning this year, the government had established policies aimed at increasing the export of nonoil commodities to advanced countries, he said.

More On Overseas Talks

BK230924 Jakarta ANTARA in English 0758 GMT 23 Oct 82

[Excerpt] Jakarta, October 23 (ANTARA-OANA) -- Both the United States and Japan have given the assurance that their assistance for the modernization of China would not be done at the expense of ASEAN and Indonesia in Particular. This was stated by President Suharto before 20 Indonesian journalists accompanying him on the flight home from Tokyo Friday. Such a positive pledge, said the president, provides a good foundation for maintaining long-term close cooperation.

Suharto disclosed that he had indicated to U.S. President Reagan and Japanese PM Suzuki as well as ASEAN still considers People's China as posing a threat for subversion and that assisting her modernization would increase her capabilities to conduct it. On this Suharto said he had reminded Suzuki that Japan should balance her aid to China (which already totalled yen 166 billion) with her assistance in strengthening their national resilience.

The president said his explanation on the Indonesian views regarding various international, regional and bilateral problems have received response from the leaders of the countries he visited.

Prime Minister Suzuki, he continued, has asked him to convey to the other ASEAN leaders that the Japanese military build-up was purely for her self-defence. This assurance was bound to arouse suspicion among the countries in Southeast Asia. The president emphasized that the safeguarding of Japan's vital sealanes should better be entrusted to the countries concerned. "We have no objection to Japan's strengthening her military capability, provided its responsibilities are clearly defined," he added.

MARCOS TO INVITE REAGAN TO VISIT PHILIPPINES

[Text] President Marcos said yesterday he will ask U.S. President Ronald Reagan to include the Philippines in his planned trip to Asia next year. The president declared this yesterday, but he declined to comment on the projected Asian visit by the American President. He said he will surely extend the invitation if Mr Reagan comes to Asia. The president made this remark following a White House announcement that the U.S. State Department is arranging with several Asian governments the possibility of a visit to the region by President Reagan. The visit will underscore the importance of Asia to U.S. world strategy. Concerning the Philippines, sources said it will complement the results of the September visit to the United States by President Marcos.

LABOR MINISTER: MIDDLE EAST PROGRAM IN PERIL

HK240052 Manilla Far East Broadcasting Company in English 2330 GMT 23 Oct 82

[Text] The Middle East program of the Philippines, especially in Saudi Arabia, is in peril. Labor Minister Blas Ople said yesterday that because of the perceived rise in the incidence of criminal violations committed by Filipinos, the Saudi Arabian Government is conducting a review of its policy of open-ended hospitality to Filipino workers. There are about 200,000 Filipino workers in Saudi Arabia. Ople said that this review could place in jeopardy the gains in overseas employment which since 3 years ago made the Philippines the top source of expatriate labor in the Middle East from the whole of Asia. The review, according to Ople, can result in reaffirming the present policy, or in significant restrictions. Ople said the Philippines is one of the few countries without quotas or ceilings in Saudi Arabia. The labor minister said that Saudi authorities have been made aware of the determination of the Philippines Government to improve the selection and tighten up the screening of Filipino workers bound for Saudi Arabia.

ENRILE ORDERS PROBE OF ARMY, POLICE CRIMES

HK230013 Manila Far East Broadcasting Company in English 2330 GMT 22 Oct 82

[Text] Defense Minister Juan Ponce Enrile ordered yesterday a full probe of all soldiers, military officers and policemen involved in various crimes throughout the country. Enrile issued the order through the assistant secretary for legal affairs, Brig. Gen (Samuel Soriano), due to reports of military and police abuses which were published in newspapers but were not reported to the Defense Ministry. He told General (Suriano) that the probe must determine immediately if the incidents can be prosecuted. Enrile also ordered his staff to collect newspaper reports of abuses by military men and policemen and initiate the necessary action.

GOVERNMENT CRACKDOWN AGAINST CHURCH DENIED

OW221359 Quezon City RPN Television Network in English 1100 GMT 22 Oct 82

[Text] The government has denied that a crackdown on the Roman Catholic Church is on. According to the Defense Ministry, the recent series of arrests involving priests and nuns does not represent the beginning of a crackdown on the church. The ministry says there is no such thing as persecution, as the government is moving only against those who have broken the law. If you will recall, AFP Chief of Staff Gen Fabian Ver has welcomed any move by the church for a continuing dialogue toward national unity and reconciliation.

Meanwhile, PC authorities will write a letter shortly this month to Renegade Priest Father (Contrado Balwec) to reiterate an earlier offer for a peaceful dialogue. First PC Zone Commander Gen (Victorio Azada) said he will send the letter through intermediaries capable of reaching Father (Balwec) in his mountain hideout. The letter is intended to persuade Father (Balwec) to surrender peacefully.

ENRILE WARNS CHURCH ON 'INROADS OF COMMUNISM'

HK240036 Manila Far East Broadcasting Company in English 2330 GMT 23 Oct 82

[Text] Defense Minister Juan Ponce Enrile has warned the Roman Catholic Church in the country against the inroads of communism. The defense minister said that if there is any organization determined to destroy the church, it is none other than the Communist Party of the Philippines [CPP]. Speaking before the Lions Club of Santa Maria, Bulacan, at the Army-Navy Club, Minister Enrile said that the Communist Party has proposed a coalition government in which religious elements are supposed to play an important role. He said this is merely a ploy and a deception. He stressed the reality that in the end the Marxists intend to destroy the church. He reiterated that the government is not persecuting the church, adding that the authorities have proceeded not against the church but against the people engaged in activities inimical to the security of the country.

Minister Enrile said that what they are seriously concerned about is the predelection of some religious radicals to link up with groups that are out to overthrow the government through terrorism, force and violence. Some, he said, have actively participated in the recruitment and training of cadres for the CPP and the NPA [New People's Army], while others have organized revolutionary bases and front organizations for the leftist movement. There are those who have extended direct aid to dissidents in the form of arms, ammunition and supplies, and some have even diverted church funds to support subversive activities. Enrile said some have used church facilities as forums for the propaganda program of the local communist movement, and there are those who have been involved in direct armed action against the government forces.

PUBLIC HEARINGS BEGIN ON SYNCHRONIZED ELECTIONS

HK240054 Manila Far East Broadcasting Company in English 2330 GMT 23 Oct 82

The next hearings will be held in Cebu and Davao cities on October 29 to 30, and in Manila in the first week in November.

Meanwhile the Nacionalista Party [NP], whose candidate placed second to President Marcos in the 1981 presidential election, sought accreditation yesterday and proposed five electoral reforms to safeguard the sanctity of the ballot. Former Senator Jose J. Roy, NP president, directed all NP regional vice presidents and provincial and city chairmen to attend the hearings being conducted by the Batasan Committee on Revision of Laws, Codes and Constitutional Amendments.

FOURTH NORTH-SOUTH ROUNDTABLE TALKS CONCLUDE

[Excerpt] Tokyo, Oct 24, KYODO -- The 4th North-South roundtable (NSRT) meeting ended here Sunday with a call for a new Bretton Woods conference to reexamine international financial and trade institutions set up at the end of World War II. Mahbubul Haq of Pakistan, chairman of the informal forum of leaders from developing and advanced countries and international organizations, said such a conference should be held in 1983 or "certainly before the end of 1984." He said efforts to revitalize the depressed world economy and stem the widening gap between rich and poor nations were being "frustrated" by failure to question the efficacy of the International Monetary Fund (IMF), the General Agreement of Tariffs and Trade (GATT) and the World Bank. "The rate of economic and social change has been so fast that it has outpaced the capacities of our governments and international institutions to cope with it," Haq said.

He said existing institutions were agreed on at Bretton Woods in the aftermath of war by only a handful of nations, without the participation of Eastern bloc countries or the developing nations, some of which were represented as colonies. "We need to fashion new structures and institutions in line with new realities," he told a press conference at the close of the NSRT meeting.

Some of the ideas raised included creation of a world central bank, merging the IMF and the World Bank into a single institution, and replacing the U.S. dollar with a genuine international currency, Haq said. He said an NSRT sub-group would be set up to study them. Haq also outlined 12 major proposals adopted by the meeting as "urgent and feasible" ways of easing the present economic crisis to the benefit of developed and developing nations. They included setting up an international energy financing facility to help oil-importing developing countries, a 9-12 million ton emergency food reserve to be owned by developing countries and agreement on further trade liberalization initiatives at the forthcoming NSRT ministerial meeting. Haq said the NSRT had also agreed to prepare a report on the state of the human condition, noting the suffering of billions of poor and undernourished people in a world where two days of armaments spending currently equals the entire budget of U.N. specialized agencies.

ASEAN OIL COMPANIES ENDORSE OIL-SHARING SCHEME

BK270407 Bangkok BANGKOK POST in English 27 Oct p 19

[Excerpt] Heads of the five ASEAN national oil companies have endorsed the Bangkok-inspired proposal to establish an emergency petroleum sharing scheme, minister of the Prime Minister's Office Flt-Lt Suli Mahansanthana said yesterday. Representing the Petroleum Authority of Thailand in the eighth annual meeting of the ASEAN Council of Petroleum (ASCOPE) held in Kuala Lumpur last weekend, Flt-Lt Suli said the council endorsed the scheme, known as the "ASEAN emergency petroleum sharing scheme."

The meeting also approved a supplementary scheme that provides for mutual help should any of the member countries face an emergency or difficulties. However, Flt-Lt Suli declined to elaborate on the scheme's details.

The council also passed the 1983 work programme which includes the following: regional studies on hydrocarbon occurrences and potential prospects; the efficient utilisation of oil, gas and petroleum products; research and development into fuel substitution; safety regulations; environmental protection and pollution control; and legal practices and charter parties in the petroleum industry.

NODONG SINMUN CRITICIZES REAGAN'S ECONOMIC POLICY

SK260614 Pyongyang KCNA in English 0436 GMT 26 Oct 82

[Text] Pyongyang, October 26 (KCNA) -- U.S. President Reagan, in his recent radio speech, contended that his economic policy, which had gone busted with repeated failures, was victorious and shouted at the unprecedented number of jobless people to show patience. This is the topic of a signed commentary of NODONG SINMUN Tuesday titled "Outburst of Hypocrite," which reads in part:

Flurried by his waning "popularity" on the threshold of the congressional elections, Reagan is now evidently making a desperate bid to boost it, even reversing black and white, but with no unctuous words can he conceal his crimes as the very one who has led the U.S. economy to bankruptcy and spelled greater sufferings to the American people in their living.

Reagan has already been branded as a gasbag by the Americans. Taking office early last year, he made a hundred and one "commitments." But, none of them has yet been honoured. This finds clear manifestation in the failure of his economic policy supposedly for "economic recovery." During his office, the U.S. economy has gone downhill to a more serious chaos. In the worst depression, a great number of factories and enterprises proved insolvent en masse and production is on the decline. In September, the operation rate of the U.S. factories was no more than 69.1 per cent of the production capacity, the lowest ebb in recent years. With the large increase of military spendings, the state budgetary deficit has gone beyond the 100,000 million dollar mark and the state debts added up to 1,110,000 million dollars, an all-time high. The unemployment rate which stood at 7.4 per cent in January last year leaped to 10.1 per cent, the peak record in 40 years, in September this year.

In face of the continuing economic depression and the record high of budgetary deficit and state debts, Reagan was compelled to put forward a tax raise bill some time ago, discarding his promise to "cut taxes."

Thus, Reagan's economic policy has led to economic inactivity and chaos, not to "an economic boom." Not without reason did a U.S. congressman deplore that Reagan's policy has ruined the U.S. economy as a whole.

Yet Reagan describes this as a "victory" and cries to the jobless people to show patience, not being disappointed. How shameless he is. This is little different from shouting at the people to die of hunger.

Reagan's outburst helps people see through more clearly his true color as a faithful servitor of the monopoly capital and a hypocrite who fills the purses of the millionaires by bleeding the people white.

KCNA NOTES PRC TV REPORT OF DENG XIAOPING VISIT

SK270509 Pyongyang KCNA in English 0437 GMT 27 Oct 82

[Text] Beijing, October 26 (KCNA) -- The Chinese central television of the evening of October 25 screened television films "Korean Visit of Comrades Hu Yaobang and Deng Xiaoping" and "Warm Welcome to President Kim Il-song" under the title "China-Korea Friendship Will Evergreen."

The films impressively show Comrade Hu Yaobang and Comrade Deng Xiaoping visiting Korea amid a warm welcome of the Korean people in April and the great leader of our people Comrade Kim Il-song paying an official state visit to the People's Republic of China, receiving an enthusiastic welcome of the fraternal Chinese people, in September.

[Seoul KYONGHYANG SINMUN in Korean on 25 October carries an article noting that YOMIURI SHIMBUN on 26 October reports from Beijing that the PRC central television station had aired a 40-minute feature program on 25 October, showing in detail Deng Xiaoping and Kim Chong-il shaking hands and Hu Yaobang and Kim Chong-il standing side by side, when the two Chinese leaders visited North Korea from 26 to 30 April of this year.

["This film showed Kim Il-song and Kim Chong-il standing on the platform of Pyongyang railway station to welcome Deng and Hu as they entered the railway station by special train, drawing attention to the scenes in which Kim Chong-il greeted Deng and Hu." It adds that the YOMIURI article analyzed the airing of a full view of Kim Chong-il to Chinese viewers "as showing that Communist China has recognized the issue of Kim Chong-il's succession to Kim Il-song as a domestic affair of North Korea."]

PRC'S CHEN MUHUA LEADS ECONOMIC DELEGATION

SK261607 Pyongyang KCNA in English 1547 GMT 26 Oct 82

[Text] Pyongyang, October 26 (KCNA) -- A Chinese Government Economic and trade delegation headed by Comrade Chen Muhua, alternate member of the Political Bureau of the Central Committee of the Communist Party of China and state councillor, arrived in Pyongyang on October 26 by train.

It was met at Pyongyang railway station by Comrade Kong Chin-tae, alternate member of the Political Bureau of the Central Committee of the Workers Party of Korea and vice-premier of the Administration Council, Choe Chong-kun, minister of foreign trade, and other personages concerned. On hand were Zong Kewen, ambassador, and officials of the Chinese Embassy here.

Meeting With Kong Chin-tae

SK270836 Pyongyang KCNA in English 0815 GMT 27 Oct 82

[Text] Pyongyang, October 27 (KCNA) -- Comrade Kong Chin-tae, alternate member of the Political Bureau of the Central Committee of the Workers Party of Korea and vice-premier of the Administration Council, on October 26 met and had a friendly talk with the Chinese Government economic and trade delegation headed by Comrade Chen Muhua, alternate member of the Political Bureau of the Central Committee of the Communist Party of China and state councillor, which paid a courtesy call on him.

Present on the occasion were Minister of Foreign Trade Choe Chong-kun, Vice-Minister of External Economic Affairs Chon Il-chun and an official of the Chinese Embassy in Pyongyang.

Banquet for Delegation

SK270540 Pyongyang KCNA in English 0447 GMT 27 Oct 82

[Text] Pyongyang, October 27 (KCNA) -- The Government of the Democratic People's Republic of Korea arranged a banquet yesterday evening at the Chongryu Restaurant in honour of the Chinese Government economic and trade delegation.

Invited to the banquet were the members of the delegation headed by Comrade Chen Muhua, alternate member of the Political Bureau of the Central Committee of the Communist Party of China and state councillor. Also invited were Chinese Ambassador Zong Kewen and officials of his embassy in Pyongyang.

Present there were Comrade Kong Chin-tae, alternate member of the Political Bureau of the Central Committee of the Workers Party of Korea and vice-premier of the Administration Council, Choe Chong-kun, minister of foreign trade, Chon Il-chun, vice-minister of external economic affairs, and other personages concerned.

Comrade Kong Chin-tae spoke first at the banquet. He said: This time a 1982-1986 long-term trade agreement between the two countries will be concluded. This will clearly show the excellent development of economic and trade relations in conformity with the friendly relations between Korea and China.

Our people heartily wish the fraternal Chinese people more shining success in the future struggle to build China into a highly civilized and highly democratic socialist power by carrying out the tasks for socialist modernisation put forward at the 12th National Congress of the Communist Party of China and to reunify the whole country by having Taiwan returned to the embrace of the motherland under the wise leadership of the party.

He stressed that the historic visit of the great leader Comrade Kim Il-song to China some time ago developed the traditional Korea-China friendship on to a new higher stage and demonstrated the might of the indestructible Korea-China friendship to the whole world.

Our people, he declared, will value the blood-cemented Korea-China friendship and make every effort to develop and strengthen it generation after generation.

Comrade Chen Muhua spoke next. As Comrade Hu Yaobang said, Comrade President Kim Il-song has made an imperishable, lofty contribution to the great friendship between the parties, countries and peoples of China and Korea, she stressed.

Under the wise guidance of their great leader Comrade President Kim Il-song and the Workers Party of Korea, the Korean people built their country into a prospering socialist state on debris after the war, upholding independence and sovereignty, relying on their own efforts and waging a hard struggle, she noted, and said: The Chinese people heartily congratulate the Korean people upon their great successes.

Pointing out that the three principles and five-point policy of national reunification and the proposal for founding the Democratic Confederal Republic of Koryo advanced by Comrade President Kim Il-song fully accord with the fundamental interests and the common desires of the entire Korean people, she declared: The Chinese Government and people will as ever resolutely support the just struggle of the Korean Government and people against the foreign interference and for the independent and peaceful reunification of the country till the final victory.

Our two peoples have supported and united with each other in the protracted struggle against the common enemies and accommodated and helped each other in the course of building their respective countries, she said.

The attendants of the banquet raised glasses to the militant friendship and unity between the Korean and Chinese peoples and the development of economic cooperation between the two countries, to the good health and long life of the great leader Comrade Kim Il-song and to the good health and long life of the dear leader Comrade Kim Chong-il, to the good health and long life of respected Comrade Hu Yaobang and to the good health and long life of respected Comrade Deng Xiaoping.

DPRK AMBASSADOR TO PRC HOSTS CPV DAY BANQUET

SK270844 Pyongyang KCNA in English 0817 GMT 27 Oct 82

[Text] Beijing, October 25 (KCNA) -- Chon Myong-su, ambassador of our country to China, arranged a banquet at his embassy on October 25 on the occasion of the 32nd anniversary of the entry of the Chinese People's Volunteers into the Korean war. Invited there were Yang Shangkun, member of the Political Bureau of the Central Committee of the Communist Party of China and permament vice-chairman of the Military Commission of the party Central Committee; Wu Xiuquan, deputy chief of the General Staff of the Chinese People's Liberation Army; Qian Liren, deputy head of the International Liaison Department of the Central Committee of the Communist Party of China; Fu Hao, adviser to the Ministry of Foreign Affairs; and others.

Ambassador Chon Myong-su spoke first at the banquet. In the grim period of 32 years ago when the Korean people and the officers and men of the Korean People's Army were waging a heroic war of resistance against the invasion of the U.S. imperialist aggressors and their stooges, in hearty response to the call of the great leader Comrade Kim Il-song, the great leader of the Chinese people Comrade Mao Zedong formed volunteers with fine sons and daughters of the Chinese people and sent them to the Korean front, he said, and continued: The Chinese People's Volunteers who rushed to the Korean front, holding high the banner of "Resisting America and aiding Korea" fully displayed the internationalist spirit in the struggle against the armed invasion of the U.S. imperialists and their stooges.

The peoples and armies of Korea and China won a great victory with their united might in the war against this aggression, thereby defending the security of Korea and China and making a big contribution to the preservation of peace in Asia and the rest of the world.

The ambassador referred to the vigorous struggle waged by the industrious and courageous fraternal Chinese people to carry out the tasks of socialist modernisation upholding the decisions of the 12th National Congress of the Communist Party of China and wished them new success in the implementation of the decisions of the party congress.

Deputy Chief of the General Staff Wu Xiuquan spoke next at the banquet. He said that the Korean and Chinese Peoples achieved a great victory in the three-year bloody war against the aggressors and thus turned a new page in the annals of friendship between the two countries.

Though 29 years have passed since the war in Korea, the United States still keeps its troops in South Korea, interfering in the internal affairs of Korea and obstructing the Korean people's struggle for the national reunification, he said, and continued:
The Chinese people demand the United States to withdraw from South Korea and fully support the just struggle of the Korean people to achieve the independent and peaceful reunification of the country. They also resolutely support the just assertion that the country should be reunified by founding the Democratic Confederal Republic of Koryo, as proposed by President Kim Il-song.

Comrade Hu Yaobang and Comrade Deng Xiaoping visited Korea in April this year and registered a satisfactory success and some time ago President Kim Il-song paid an official state visit to China and achieved a very satisfactory success, thus developing the relations between the two parties and the two countries on to a new stage, he said. The Chinese people, he noted, are resolved to make every effort to further strengthen and develop the friendship between the Chinese and Korean peoples and carry it forward down through generations.

The attendants of the banquet drank a toast to the good health and long life of the great leader Comrade Kim Il-song and to the good health and long life of the dear leader Comrade Kim Chong-il, to the good health and long life of respected Comrade Hu Yaobang and to the good health and long life of respected Comrade Deng Xiaoping.

The guests saw with keen interest the historic momentoes in the native home of the great leader Comrade Kim Il-song in Mangyongdae, while being briefed on his revolutionary history and revolutionary family. After posing for a photograph in front of the native home, they went round the historic sites on Mangyong hill.

The delegation, which arrived in our country on October 18, toured Pyongyang, Chongjin, Hamhung, Nampo and Kaesong cities. It inspected the Kim Chaek iron works, the February 8 vinalon complex, the Yongsong machine complex, the Taean general heavy machine works, the Chongsan cooperative farm and other places.

The delegation toured Panmunjom and saw the reinforced wall built along the whole length of the Military Demarcation Line by the U.S. imperialists and the South Korean puppet clique. The head of the delegation stressed: Though the imperialists have built the reinforced concrete wall along the whole length of the Military Demarcation Line, they cannot call a halt to the struggle of the Korean people for national reunification. The Korean people will surely realise national reunifcation.

The Chongjin municipal committee, the South Hamgyong Provincial Committee, the Nampo Municipal Committee and the Kaesong Municipal Committee, of the Workers Party of Korea arranged parties in honor of the delegation.

The delegation was also shown round the Pyongyang Metro and the Hamhung youth chemical complex and appreciated the music and dance epic "The Song of Glory" and the music and dance tale "Song of Paradise."

Bulgarian Envoy Hosts Party

SK260510 Pyongyang KCNA in English 0426 GMT 26 Oct 82

[Text] Pyongyang, October 26 (KCNA) -- Bulgarian Ambassador to our country Khristo Kelchev arranged a party on October 25 at his embassy upon the conclusion of the visit to Korea of the delegation of the Bulgarian Communist Party headed by Ognyan Doynov, member of the Political Bureau and secretary of the Central Committee of the BCP.

Speaking at the party, head of the delegation Ognyan Doynov said: While touring various places during our visit to Korea this time, we deeply realized how talented and resourceful the Korean people are. The industrious and heroic Korean people have registered great successes in all fields including industry, agriculture, science, literature and art.

Noting that the Central Committee of the Bulgarian Communist Party actively supports the Korean people in their struggle for socialist construction and national reunification, he expressed thanks to respected Comrade Kim Il-song, general secretary of the Central Committee of the Workers Party of Korea, for having made arrangments to make his delegation's visit to Korea successful. He also expressed thanks to respected Comrade Kim Chong-il for having accorded deep considerations to the delegation members.

Speaking next at the party, Comrade Kim Hwan, member of the Political Bureau and secretary of the Central Committee of the Workers Party of Korea, said: During your visit to our country, the delegations of our two parties held talks in a sincere and comradely atmosphere, informed each other of the activities and immediate tasks of their respective parties and successes and experiences gained by them in socialist construction and exchanged views on problems of common concern including the problem of developing the friendly relations between the two parties.

We are very happy to have such reliable comrades-in-arms as the Bulgarian people in the Balkan Peninsula and will make every effort to further strengthen and develop the traditional relations of friendship and cooperation with your party, he stated.

The attendants raised glasses to the fraternal friendship and unity between the two parties and two peoples, to the good health and long life of the great leader of our people Comrade Kim Il-song, to the good health and long life of the dear leader Comrade Kim Chong-il and to the good health and long life of Comrade Todor Zhivkov, the outstanding leader of the Bulgarian people.

CHON URGES PREPAREDNESS AGAINST NORTH'S ATTACK

[Text] At an army base yesterday, President Chon Tu-hwan emphasized that the armed forces should be fully prepared to crush any enemy attack on the present frontline positions, saying that strategy should be developed to that end. The chief executive said the possibility is increasing that North Korea "will play with fire" against the South to find a breakthrough to conceal its economic, political and social difficulties. Unlike during the Korean war, he said, the first three or four days of any future eventuality will be the crucial period. Chon said that the armed forces should be fully prepared to meet the rapidly changing situations and developments in North Korea.

President Chon made the points while visiting an ROK Army headquarters in the central part of the country on his way to Seoul from Pyongchang, Kangwon-do, where he opened a memorial hall dedicated to Yi Sung-pok who was killed by North Korean communists at the age of nine in 1968. He said that the nation will be able to enter the threshold of advanced countries in five or six years if it maintains development at the present pace. He called on the armed forces to strengthen education economy for soldiers and encourage military spending savings.

Earlier, the president visited Wonju City Hall to be briefed on municipal administration activities.

Meanwhile, in Pyongchang the president said, while dedicating the memorial hall, that the memorial hall should provide a momentum to instill the anti-communist spirit demonstrated by Yi spread across the country and step up anti-communist education for the younger generation.

PRIME MINISTER URGES NORTH TO RESUME TALKS

SK270231 Seoul YONHAP in English 0214 GMT 27 Oct 82

[Text] Seoul, Oct. 27 (YONHAP) -- South Korean Prime Minister Kim Sang-hyop, in an address at an anniversary ceremony of the Korean National Red Cross (KNRC) Wednesday, urged North Korea to accept Seoul's standing invitation to come to the conference table. Kim commended the efforts of local Red Cross authorities to reunite Korean families separated because of the nation's division, and appealed to North Korea to "promptly respond to our call for the resumption of the inter-Korean dialogue."

North Korea has rejected Seoul's repeated calls for an inter-Korean dialogue, including President Chon Tu-hwan's request for a Seoul-Pyongyang summit, at both the governmental and the non-governmental level.

Kim said the 77-year-old Korean Red Cross has been instrumental in undertaking various humanitarian projects and encouraged the organization to continue its march toward the realization of Red Cross ideals.

At Wednesday's ceremony, the KNRC conferred a citation and a medal on So Yong-hun, former KNRC secretary general, for his contribution to Red Cross activities.

USSR HINTS PARTICIPATION IN SEOUL OLYMPICS

SK270302 Seoul YONHAP in English 0239 GMT 27 Oct 82

[Text] Tokyo, Oct. 27 (YONHAP) -- A top Soviet diplomat here Tuesday inferred that the Soviet Union would send its athletes to the 1988 Seoul Olympics. Vladimir Y. Pavlov, Soviet ambassador to Japan, was quoted as telling the publisher of the TOKYO SHIMBUN that the Soviet Union needed to train baseball players in case baseball is adopted as one of the Seoul Olympic games.

The Soviet envoy was also said to have requested Japanese assistance in improving the quality of Soviet baseball players. Pavlov's remarks were the first reference by a Soviet official to possible Soviet participation in the Seoul Olympics. South Korea does not maintain diplomatic relations with communist nations including the Soviet Union.

PRC TO USE CHONGJIN FOR EXPORTS TO JAPAN

[Text] It was learned on 21 October that North Korea recently allowed Red China to transport freight to Japan by way of Chongjin port. With this permission, Red China is scheduled from next year to begin exporting to Japan via Chongjin port.

Exposing this fact on 21 October, a source from a Japanese office trading with Red China said: In the wake of the long-term lease of Najin port to the Soviet Union, in the northernmost area of the East Sea, North Korea has allowed Red China to use Chongjin port. This fact shows that a delicate maritime trade among the Soviet Union, Red China and Japan will likely be conducted in the East Sea.

According to this source, between the end of August and the beginning of September Kim Il-song and Deng Xiaoping reached agreement on the question of Red China's use of Chongjin port. The source further said: Following this agreement, Red China's corporation for maritime transport with foreign countries and North Korea's corporation for maritime [trade] with foreign countries have concluded an accord on Red China's use of North Korea's Chongjin port, railway and warehouses.

The source explained that the freight, which will be transported to Japan, will be loaded onto trains in crop-producing provinces, including Jilin and Heilongjiang. The freight will be collected in Tumen, Jilin Province. Freight trains will cross the border between Red China and North Korea and will be sent to Chongjin port by way of Onsong. At Chongjin the freight will be loaded onto Japanese ships and then will be transported to Niigata port in western Japan.

The source continued: North Korea, in principle, has allowed Japan to use Chongjin port to transport freight from Red China to Japan. To resolve the question of Japanese use of Chongjin port in November, concrete negotiations over the question are under way between North Korea's maritime trade corporation and a Japanese company promoting trade with Red China. It was also learned that Red Chinese items to be exported to Japan via Chongjin port are agricultural products -- including beans, corn and wheat — and paper.

[In a separate report by Tokyo correspondent Chong Ku-chong, TONG-A ILBO adds: "It is strongly suspected that Communist China has been attempting to lease Chongjin port to provide a similar foothold in the East Sea for Chinese maritime activities as well as to check Soviet maritime activities in this region. The Soviet Union is believed to have leased Najin port to make economic inroads into areas surrounding the Hamgyong provinces, and this region, including Najin and Chongjin, is reported to have been turned into a Soviet economic sphere of influence. Communist China, according to sources well-versed in Chinese affairs, has been spurred by this fact.

["According to sources in Tokyo specializing in North Korean affairs, the Soviet Union appears to have obtained from North Korea, on top of trade rights in Najin, rights to build facilities in the port and rights to refuse interference in Najin harbor by North Korea, all of which far exceed trade rights. The Soviet Union is reportedly transporting cargo to Vietnam from Najin." The report concludes: "In exchange for leasing Chongjin port to Communist China, North Korea seems to be expecting to collect sealane charges, warehouse charges, berthing charges and wages for stevedores."]

FRENCH RECOGNITION OF NORTH TO BE RESISTED

["Gist" of question by Pak Chong-su, independent assemblyman, and answer by Foreign Minister Yi Pom-sok at 22 October National Assembly Foreign Relations Committee meeting]

[Text] [Question] As for the French move to recognize North Korea, it is preferable to take an attitude not of entreaty but one of indifference as long as there is no long-term guarantee. Do you also plan to abandon the passive attitude of not attempting to prevent the United Nations from putting the Korean issue on its agenda and of not submitting to the United Nations the issue of unilateral admission of the ROK or that of simultaneous addmission of North and South Korea?

[Answer] There has been indirect trade between the ROK and Red China. I will make an effort to change to direct trade.

I have no intention at all of folding if France plays a North Korean card. I will just make an effort to convince France that it cannot benefit from recognizing North Korea.

ASSEMBLYMAN DEPLORES ASSEMBLY'S LACK OF RIGHTS

SK261237 Seoul TONG-A ILBO in Korean 26 Oct 82 p 2

[From the column "Tidbits"]

[Excerpt] At the beginning of the 25 October meeting of the National Assembly Education-Information Committee, Assemblyman Yim Chae-chong of the Korea National Party said: Recently, the National Assembly has been paralyzed on one side by the sad situation of lacking parliamentary authority to inspect government offices and the right to examine the budget in its standing committees. He then made a "comment on the situation" and continued: We cannot convey the people's intentions when the voices of the opposition political parties are as quiet as a mosquito. Tension hung over the conference room while, taking off his glasses, he roared with anger.

NATION URGED TO STOP SPREAD OF WILD RUMORS

[Editorial: "The Antisocial Nature of Groundless, Wild Rumors"]

[Text] There has been an impure trend of fabricating groundless wild rumors in our society whenever there was an excuse do so. Such a trend, which was rampant during the old era, appeared to fade out momentarily with the stern control and sincere effort of the government to create an atmosphere of trust since the Fifth Republic set sail.

However, various vicious groundless and wild rumors began to go around with the occurence of various incidents and accidents last spring and summer and with the expansion of the lenient attitude of the government in order to attain national unity. The unfortunate death of Pak Kwan-hyon, which took place in Kwangju, might have given a good excuse to fabricate groundless and wild rumors to those who have complaints about a series of measures to realize the just society of the new era, for those who are basically dissidents and antinational and for those impure forces including resident spies. They began to fabricate and disseminate groundless wild rumors in the last few days and spread preposterous reports on Pak's death.

It was very appropriate for Minister of Justice Pae Myong-in to give a very detailed explanation as to the background and cause of the death of Pak while reporting to the National Assembly on 20 October. We also think it very appropriate that he had medical specialists conduct a post-mortem in an attempt to completely wipe out the basis for the groundless, wild rumors.

He clearly explained, fact by fact, the background of Pak's death and the contents of the rumors concerning his death by showing the evidence piece by piece. Thus, he made it clear that such rumors are groundless and that various suppositions and rumors which were fabricated and spread by impure forces are all nonsensical.

In addition, the suspicions on this unfortunate death will be completely cleared when the correct disease which caused Pak's death is announced after the medical specialists complete the examination. In view of the sincere and detailed report by Justice Minister Pae, Pak's death was caused simply by disease and there cannot be any "suspicion" concerning his death.

Nevertheless, impure forces are fabricating and spreading groundless wild rumors as if there is a suspicion regarding this incident. Such rumors are permeating part of our social circles. Indeed, this is sad and utterly destructive.

Groundless wild rumors fade away when the truth is revealed, just like soap bubbles. However, such rumors cause great harm to society and our society will be turned into a society of distrust if such rumors are continuously rampant. This phenomenon was proved by the tragic situation of the old era.

The society of the new era should by no means be one of distrust because justice, democracy and welfare can never be achieved in such a society. Thus, the effective measures to eradicate the sad trend of our society, in which the groundless wild rumors are rampant whenever a somewhat delicate incident occurs, should be worked out jointly by the government and civilians.

Our people, keenly realizing the fact that the antisocial and antinational impure forces who fabricate and spread vicious groundless and wild rumors still exist in our society, should demonstrate a sense of vigilance against such rumors to prevent them from causing harm to our society, which absolutely requires stability.

We hope the authorities, as revealed by Justice Minister Pae, will make all efforts to seek out the forces fabricating and spreading such rumors and clarify their identity.

CAUSE OF PRISONER'S DEATH IN KWANGJU CLARIFIED

SK270202 Seoul THE KOREA TIMES in English 27 Oct 82 p 8

[Text] Kwangju (YONHAP) -- Pak Kwang-hyon, 30, a prisoner who died at 2:30 a.m. last Oct. 12 at the Chonnam National University Hospital, has been determined to suffered a complication of cardiac insufficiency and myocardial infarction, the prosecution here announced yesterday. The cause of the death was confirmed through clinical observation, autopsy and chemical reaction and organic tests, Kang Yong-ku, head of the Kwangju District Court, said. He explained that Pak had long suffered cardiac insufficiency and had recently developed myocardial infarction, which led to his death of circulatory trouble.

The prosecution had seven medical doctors canduct an autopsy of Pak for 90 minutes from 0:05 a.m. Oct. 13 with a search warrant issued by the Kwangju District Court. In the autopsy, it was initially presumed that the prisoner died of circulatory impediment with secondary symptoms of inflammation of the liver and lungs, Kang said. To find the more detailed cause of the death, the prosecution extracted the heart, lungs, liver, stomach and brain from the body and referred them to the National Institute of Scientific Investigation. Medical test of the organs detected no sign of chemical intoxication, the prosecutor said.

Pak was indicted on April 9 and was sentenced to five years in jail for involvement in the Kwangju riot in 1980. He was awaiting an appeals trial. Justice Minister Pae Myong-in had explained minutely about Pak's death in the National Assembly last week to eliminate rumors concerning the cause of his death.

ACTIONS OF UIM IN BANKRUPTICIES QUESTIONED

[Editorial: "Wonpung Textile Company Is Facing Crisis"]

[Text] The Urban Industrial Mission [UIM] is driving another business enterprise into bankruptcy. The Wonpung Textile Company, one of the leading textile manufacturers in the nation, is facing a crisis, unable to operate normally because of violent labor struggle by workers belonging to the UIM.

Since the late 1970's enterprises have gone bankrupt or their business activities have declined because of violent struggles by workers belonging to the UIM. Thus, the popular saying "the UIM brings about bankruptcy" has been sweeping through our industries. This has been proven by the closure of the Control Data Company in July. Control Data closed because of the violent struggle of the workers of the UIM and some 350 employees of this company were abruptly out of work. In an article contributed to this paper, a non-UIM worker who lost his job said with resentment: Why should we lose our jobs? I have no means of livelihood for the three mouths I must feed. Why does the religious organization deprive people instead of purifying them?

Another business enterprise facing bankruptcy because of UIM violence while the closure of Control Data, also caused by the UIM, is still vivid in our minds is a great shock to the people concerned. If the Wonpung Textile Company, which has been the target of a concentrated struggle by the workers belonging to the UIM, goes bankrupt, more than 1,000 workers of this company will be unemployed. If this situation occurs repeatedly in the future, businesses in this country will become afraid of the UIM.

What on earth is the UIM and why does it commit such violence? Some people estimate that the UIM is a force sympathetic with communism, pointing to the fact that its ideology and slogans are leftist ones based on a doctrine for liberation, while others link the UIM movement to the international communist movement. Some assume that the violent antisocial struggle of the UIM must be connected with the impure forces' infiltration of workers unions.

We hope that the authorities will investigate and discover which judgment or assumption is correct. We trust the thorough anticommunist spirit of Christian circles in our country. We would like to believe that the struggle of the UIM workers that has caused bankrupticies is a part of instigation and moves of a small number of impure labor-struggle professionals who are forgetting their "pure church missionary work."

We would like to point out that the UIM, even if it is not actuality a procommunist force, is as perilous to our realities as communism if the UIM workers continue such a violent struggle maintaining secret organizations. If the nation's business enterprises go bankrupt one by one because of the UIM and our national economy is ruined, thus causing increased unemployment in our society, our nation will become the victim of a communist group in the long run.

Therefore, if the UIM continues a violent struggle maintaining secret organizations beyond the extent of pure missionary work, it should be controlled for the sake of national security, not by issues of labor and capital. We urge the authorities to take stern measures to sort out and eliminate the negative factors of the UIM by thoroughly investigating it, because we know that one of the keys to solving our economic difficulties is a smooth relationship between employers and employees.

MPRP GREETS CPSU, PEOPLE ON GOSR ANNIVERSARY

OW260531 Ulaanbaatar MONTSAME IN English 1710 GMT 23 Oct 82

[Text] Ulaanbaatar, October 23 (MONTSAME) -- The calls of the Central Committee of the Mongolian People's Revolutionary Party for the 65th anniversary of the Great October Socialist revolution have been published here. The M.P.R.P. Central Committee pointed out the world-historic significance of the October Revolution, which opened a new era in the history of mankind and highlights the ideas of Marxism-Leninism in the revolutionary transformation of the world.

The party Central Committee has saluted the great Soviet Union -- the reliable defender of peace, democracy and social progress, and the Communist Party of the Soviet Union -- the most tested vanguard of the world communist movement, and the Soviet people as the builder of communism and the persistent fighter for peace and security of the peoples.

The M.P.R.P. Central Committee has emphasized the great significance of the foreign policy of the Communist Party of the Soviet Union and the Soviet Government aimed at curbing the arms race and averting the thermo-nuclear war threat.

The Central Committee of the Mongolian People's Revolutionary Party bids welcome to the entire Soviet people in connection with the 60th anniversary of the foundation of the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics -- the cradle of the October Revolution and the land of the great Lenin. It has expressed fraternal solidarity with the peoples of the socialist community countries and also with the patriots of the countries of Asia, Africa and Latin America fighting for freedom and national independence, against imperialism and neocolonialism.

The party Central Committee has called all progressive people of the world to further consolidate their unity in the struggle for peace and security of the peoples.

The M.P.R.P. Central Committee wished the fraternal Soviet people success in the implementation of the historic decisions of the 26th C.P.S.U. Congress and has called the working people of socialist Mongolia to mark the 65th anniversary of the Great October Socialist Revolution with fresh labour achievements.

AFRO-ASIAN WRITERS ASSOCIATION GROUP VISITS

Arrival 24 Oct

BK261453 Phnom Penh SPK in French 1436 GMT 24 Oct 82

[Text] Phnom Penh, 24 Oct (SPK) -- At the invitation of the KUFNCD National Council, a delegation of the Afro-Asian Writers Association, led by its secretary general, South African Alex la Guma, arrived in Phnom Penh today for a visit to Kampuchea. The delegation consists of delegates from 33 countries who attended the conference of Afro-Asian writers held in Ho Chi Minh City from 20 to 22 October.

It was greeted on its arrival by Men Chhan and Min Khin, vice chairman and acting secretary general of the KUFNCD National Council respectively; Un Dara, vice chairman of the Association of Kampuchean Journalists; and other personalities. Members of the diplomatic corps accredited to Kampuchea were also present at the arrival of the delegation.

The delegation laid a wreath at the victory monument.

Meeting with Hun Sen

BK261458 Phnom Penh SPK in French 1425 GMT 26 Oct 82

[Text] Phnom Penh, 26 Oct (SPK) -- On 25 October Hun Sen, member of the KPRP Central Committee Political Bureau, vice chairman of the Council of Ministers and foreign minister, received in audience in Phnom Penh the Afro-Asian Writers Association delegation led by its general secretary, Alex la Guma.

Minister Hun Sen highly praised the visit and thanked the Afro-Asian Writers Association which has admitted the Kampuchean Writers Association into its organization. Hun Sen denounced the crimes committed by the Pol Pot gang and condemned the enemies of the Kampuchean people who are seeking every means to hamper the Kampuchean revolution and to reimpose the genocidal regime in Kampuchea.

Hun Sen continued: Currently, the Kampuchean people are joining forces for the reconstruction of the country. Their enemies cannot reverse the situation in the People's Republic of Kampuchea.

The Beijing expansionists, the U.S. imperialists and the regional reactionaries, particularly Thailand, seek to force the Kampuchean people to step aside from the path they have chosen, authentic socialism, and to break up the solidarity between Kampuchea, Vietnam, Laos, the USSR and other socialist countries. In order to change the shroud of the political corpse of "Democratic Kampuchea," supress its stinking odor and cover up the Pol Pot gang's criminal acts, they set up the so-called tripartite coalition government led by Sihanouk and Son Sann.

Minister Hun Sen stated: We wish to make the Kampuchean-Thai border a zone of peace and friendship like the Kampuchean-Vietnamese and the Kampuchean-Lao borders. However, Thailand, by following Chinese policy, has made no good gesture toward our good will. During the past nearly 4 years the Kampuchean people have avoided responding to provocative Thai actions. But all patience has its limits. If Thailand does not stop these provocative acts, we will have recourse to our right of legitimate defense.

The Kampuchean people do not oppose ASEAN's requests for the withdrawal of Vietnamese troops from Kampuchea and for making Kampuchea a neutral country. However, U.S. and foreign troops must also be withdrawn from the Philippines, Thailand and Malaysia, and Chinese troops from the Vietnamese Hoang Sa Archipelago, and the Chinese threat to Indochina must end -- Thus allowing a neutral Kampuchea in a neutral Southeast Asia.

That evening, the KUFNCD Council organized a reception in honor of the visitors.

Present at this reception were Men Chhan, acting general secretary of the Council of State and vice chairman of the front; Heng Teav, vice chairman of the Federation of Trade Unions; Kong Korm, deputy foreign minister; Mok Mareth, acting chairman of the Phnom Penh Municipal People's Committee; Min Khin, acting general secretary of the front; Pen Panhnha, deputy chief editor of the paper KAMPUCHEA; and Kong Bunchhoeun, representative of the Kampuchean Writers Association.

FIGURES ON RICE PLAN COMPLETION REPORTED

BK270442 Phnom Penh Domestic Service in Cambodian 0430 GMT 24 Oct 82

[Text] From the beginning of the rainy season until 30 September, our fraternal peasants throughout the country strived vigorously to increase production. As a result, five provinces in the PRK -- Battambang, Kompong Chhnang, Pursat, Prey Veng and Svay Rieng -- and one municipality -- Kompong Som -- exceeded the production plans.

The total production of rainy-season rice throughout the country was almost 1.5 million hectares, or 95.12 percent of the plan.

Other provinces, such as Takeo, Kampot and Kompong Speu, are continuing to transplant their rice, such as early rice and IR-36 strain.

AFP: KPNLF RADIO STATION BEGINS BROADCASTING

BK260813 Hong Kong AFP in English 0739 GMT 26 Oct 82

[Text] Singapore, Oct. 26 (AFP) -- The anti-communist Khmer People's National Liberation Front (KPNLF) has started a radio station broadcasting Khmer language programmes, it was learned here today.

The small station, situated in a KPNLF stronghold just inside Cambodia, is now broadcasting two 30-minute programmes beginning at 3 a.m. and 6 p.m., the sources said. The broadcasts are composed of news, commentary and music. But because the transmitter is low-powered the radio can only be heard in the western Cambodian provinces of Battambang and Siem Reap.

The KPNLF, which formed a coalition government with Prince Sihanouk and the Khmer Rouge in June this year, has been keen to have its own broadcasting facilities to match the relatively powerful south China-based transmitter made available to the Khmer Rouge by the Chinese authorities. There was speculation some time ago that the Singapore government might provide such facilities, but this was denied by KPNLF sources. If the temporary arrangements now made by the KPNLF prove successful, it will try to obtain a more powerful transmitter to reach listeners throughout Cambodia, the sources said.

MEMBER OF DK DELEGATION TO UN DENOUNCES SRV

BK251221 (Clandestine) Voice of Democratic Kampuchea in Cambodian to Kampuchean 2330 GMT 24 Oct 82

[Text] On 14 October a member of the Democratic Kampuchean delegation attending the 37th UN General Assembly addressed the Third Committee for People's Right to Self-Determination. Ngo Pin said: The Kampuchean people and Government of Democratic Kampuchea firmly and constantly support the struggle of people who are under the yoke of foreign colonialism and victims of foreign aggression and domination to achieve the right of freedom, the sacred right of self-determination and independence in accordance with the UN Charter and resolutions.

During the past 4 years our country has been the victim of Vietnamese aggression and domination. Our Kampuchean people have no right to self-determination. History and events have clearly shown that the original cause of Vietnam's aggression in Kampuchea was its expansionst policy. Vietnam has always been against Kampuchea's policies of independence, peace, neutrality and nonalignment, in short, against the aspirations of the Kampuchean people.

In recent times the Vietnamese expansionists wiped out the Cham race and annexed the Cham territory in central Vietnam. They also annexed more than 65,000 square kilometers of Kampuchean territory in the fertile delta of the Mekong River in present-day southern vietnam and killed over 4 million Kampuchean people there. Next, the Vietnamese annexed and controlled Lao territory through their so-called peace and cooperation treaty of 18 July 1977 and, since the end of 1978, they have exterminated millions of Kampuchean people -- young and old, men and women -- using all kinds of weapons including toxic chemicals and starvation.

The Democratic Kampuchean delegate said: At the United Nations -- whether in the Security Council, General Assembly, Economic and Social Commission or the Human Rights Commission -- the Vietnamese authorities have been denounced and condemned as international murderers, exterminators and suppressors of the peoples' right to self-determination in neighboring countries, in particular the Kampuchean people, in gross violation of the UN Charter and international law.

With the aim of letting the Kampuchean people exercise their sacred right to decide their own destiny, the UN General Assembly, the Economic and Social Commission and the Human Rights Commission have voted on eight occasions, with an overwhelming majority, to adopt Resolutions Nos 34/22, 35/6, 36/5, 36/9, 36/10, 29/36, 11/37 and 1982/13 demanding that Vietnam withdraw all its troops from Kampuchea and let the Kampuchean people decide their own destiny through a free election held under the supervision of the United Nations.

The International Conference on Kampuchea issued a declaration on 17 July 1981 outlining in principle a lasting solution to the Kampuchean problem in accordance with the above-mentioned resolutions.

The conference of nonaligned countries has adopted successive resolutions demanding the withdrawal of Vietnamese troops from Kampuchea, respect for the sovereignty, independence and territorial integrity of Kampuchea and respect for the Kampuchean people's right to self-determination without outside interference.

At the end of his speech, our delegate appealed to the world community to provide all assistance and support for the just struggle of the Kampuchean people and to take measures to increase pressure on the Vietnamese and force them to stop their aggression and abandon their ambition of annexing neighboring countries' territory by implementing the UN resolutions and those of the nonaligned countries.

[Unattributed "News commentary"]

[Text] At present the Vietnamese enemy aggressors are increasing their activities to arrest and disarm state officials they have forced to serve them in every province and district. On 8 October, in Memot village, Memot District, Kompong Cham Province, the Vietnamese enemy aggressors asserted a village chief and tortured him until he lost consciousness. The reason wea because he could not provide oxcarts to carry their dead and wounded soldiers. On 13 October, in (Ta Leak) village in Tram Kak District, Takeo Province, the Vietnamese enemy executed a village chief, accusing him of inefficacy in his service.

In Thalabarivat and Stung Treng Districts in Stung Treng Province, the Vietnamese enemy forces are disarming commune and village officials they have forced to serve them and are tracking these officials down, accusing and arresting them one after another.

At present the Vietnamese are increasingly bogged down and are totally and completely at an impasse in every field on the battlefield in Kampuchea. The Vietnamese are tightly surrounded by the Kampuchean people and no longer trust any Khmer. As long as they are Khmer -- whether they are common people, state officials or militiamen who have been forced to serve Vietnam's policy of aggression -- the Vietnamese see them as anti-Vietnamese forces. Therefore, the Vietnamese are increasing their indiscriminate repression, and arrest and killing of our Kampuchean people. This clearly shows that the Vietnamese enemy aggressors are completely isolated from the Kampuchean people.

The Kampuchean people of all race groups and all starta hate and detest the Vietnamese enemy aggressors, are infuriated and are rising everywhere to resist these barbarous aggressors more and more forcefully.

This is why for 4 years already, despite their tricky and deceitful maneuvers, demagoguery and fascist threats, the Vietnamese have not been able to make Khmer fight against Khmer, establish a puppet army and state power. This is a shameful defeat of the Vietnamese enemy aggressors' policy of the Khmerization of their war of aggression Kampuchea.

[Excerpts] The Laotian ambassador to Thailand has sent a protest letter to the American Embassy and the United Nations over an American picture exhibition at the UN building here last week.

The Laotian envoy's letter protested about some pictures exhibited by the U.S. Embassy at the UN building during the observance of United Nations Day on October 24. The letter claimed that some captions to the pictures were "insulting to Laos". A similar protest letter was also submitted to the Economic and Social Commission for Asia and the Pacific (ESCAP) criticising the organisation for allowing the U.S. Embassy to hold such an exhibition in the UN building. The letter also accused the Americans of interfering in Laotian internal affairs. The Laotian envoy said that the exhibition consisted of pictures of Hmong refugees from Laos with captions saying: "It is better to leave rather than stay in Laos".

A Laotian Embassy spokesman said the two protest letters, written in French and signed by Laotian Ambassador Khamphan Simalavong, were submitted to U.S. Ambassador John Gunther Dean and ESCAP Chief S.A.M.S. Kibria. The spokesman claimed that other embassies which participated in the exhibition showed their own countries' cultures and other pictures depicting life in their countries. "We do not want to see U.S. Embassy doing such thing again," he said.

SOVIET FOREIGN TRADE OFFICE OPENS EXHIBIT

BK230756 Vientiane Domestic Service in Lao 0000 GMT 23 Oct 82

[Text] An exhibition on business information of Soviet foreign trade organizations opened at the office of the Soviet trade representative to Laos on the afternoon of 21 October. This exhibition was held on the occasion of the 60th founding anniversary of the USSR, 30 December. Attending the opening ceremony were Sali Vongkhamsao, secretary of the LPRP Central Committee, vice chairman of the Council of Ministers and chairman of the State Planning Committee; Sisana Sisan, member of the LPRP Central Committee and minister of culture; deputy ministers and many cadres from various ministries. Vladimir Sobchenko, ambassador extraordinary and plenipotentiary of the Soviet Union, together with members of the diplomatic corps of socialist countries and certain representatives to Laos of internatonal organizations, attended the ceremony as honored guests.

In his opening speech, Emilyanov, representative of the Soviet trade office to Laos, said: The exhibition on business information of the Soviet foreign trade organizations is opening at a time when the Soviet Union has maintained full, vigorous strength to celebrate the 60th founding anniversary of the USSR. The successes in all fields achieved by the Soviet Union have proved the great credibility of socialism, the truth of Marxism-Leninism and the correct nationalities policy of the CPSU. He continued: Currently, the Soviet Union maintains trade relations with 150 countries, particularly with those in the socialist community and those which are carrying out development and construction work along the path of socialism.

As for trade and economic relations between the Soviet Union and the LPDR, they began after the victory of the national-democratic revolution in Laos in December 1975. Later, in January 1976, agreements on Soviet economic assistance to the LPDR were signed. These agreements stipulated the basic principles on Soviet-Lao economic and trade cooperation. He added: The signing of the agreement on setting up the Lao-Soviet Intergovernmental Commission for Economic, Scientific and Technical Cooperation in Vientiane in February 1979 was very significant for promoting and expanding economic relations between the two countries.

On this occasion, Chanpheng Bounnaphon, deputy minister of trade [title as heard], on behalf of the party, government and people of Laos, made a speech in reply thanking the Soviet Union for having always provided effective assistance to the LPDR, and regarding the Soviet Union as the rampart of the socialist community and the movements struggling for peace in the world. He continued: This exhibition of business information has created a good opportunity for the Lao people to be further informed of the vigorous, all-round growth and development of the Soviet Union. Through the exhibition, the Lao people will also see the successes achieved by the Soviet organizations for foreign trade. Chanpheng Bounnaphon also considered the exhibition a contribution to the daily developing and strengthening of Lao-Soviet economic and trade cooperation.

Prior to the exhibition's opening, Zakahrov, manager of the exhibition, held a press conference in which he said the purpose of the exhibition is to celebrate the 60th founding anniversary of the USSR and to effectively promote and expand trade relations between Laos and the Soviet Union while helping inform Lao businessmen and traders about the Soviet foreign trade organizations, possibilities in Soviet export goods and about Soviet economic, cultural and social growth and development over the past 60 years. Participating in the exhibition on this occasion are a total of 14 Soviet foreign trade organizations.

[Feature article: "Economic and Trade Cooperation Between the USSR and the LPDR"]

[Text] Trade and economic relations between the USSR and the LPDR began after the victory of the Lao people's revolution in December 1975. Later, in January 1976, agreements on Soviet economic assistance to the LPDR were signed. Following the signing of the agreements, Laos -- a country which was once under imperialist oppression and intimidation -- created an initial step of economic cooperation on the basis of equality with foreign countries. The basic principles of Soviet-Lao relations have been demonstrated in the trade agreement and the agreement on exchange of goods and repayment signed between the USSR and Laos on 22 April 1976. These documents stipulate the basic principles among the two countries, in particular regarding the adoption of measures for the development and strengthening of trade relations on the spirit of friendship cooperation and mutual assistance and on the basis of equality and mutual interests. Also stipulated in the documents are the basic principles for promotion of all trade and economic issues.

The signing of the agreement on the setting up of the Soviet-Lao Intergovernmental Commission for Economic, Scientific and Technical Cooperation in Vientiane in February 1979 was of great significance for the continual promotion and development of economic relations between the Soviet Union and Laos. In addition to the documents signed between 1977 and 1980, the USSR and the LPDR also signed agreements on trade, economic assistance and technical cooperation in national economic construction projects.

Based on these agreements, over the past 5 years -- from 1976 to 1980 -- goods worth more than 106 million rubles were dispatched to Laos from the Soviet Union. The volume of goods exported from the Soviet Union to the LPDR increased by 3.5 times between 1976-80. More than 70 percent of the exported goods consisted of machinery and other equipment, including tractors, farm machinery, road construction machines, aviation tools and so forth. In addition, fuel, iron for construction and other materials, as well as consumer goods such as paper, canned meat and fish, clothing and medicines were exported to Laos.

As for the LPDR, it has also concentrated on developing its exports. A new era of development in trade and economic relations between the USSR and the LPDR opened with the signing of the agreement on economic and technical cooperation for 1981-85 on 1 December 1980 and another agreement on exchange of goods and repayment during this period. According to these documents, emphasis is placed on increasing the volume of shipments from the USSR to the LPDR of machinery and equipment, fuel and consumer goods.

Laos maintains a policy of supplying the Soviet Union with forestry and agricultural products. The volume of goods exchanged between the USSR and the LPDR in accordance with this 5-year plan will be increased by 3.5 times compared with the 1976-80 period. Implementation of economic and trade relations between the Soviet Union and Laos on a long-term basis has also created favorable conditions for the planned (?success) and development.

The Soviet foreign trade organizations have given totally reliable services in their organization of the transportation of the machinery and equipment to Laos, as well as the necessary spare parts. They have also provided training for Lao technicians both at home and in the Soviet Union. At present, implementing their international tasks, thousands of Soviet technicians are working shoulder to shoulder with the Lao laboring people in fulfilling the task of effectively building a socialist foundation in the LPDR.

With Soviet technical cooperation, the LPDR has built and is building some 60 economic and social projects. Some projects have been completed and placed in service. Completed projects now in service include the bridge across the Neun River, an 8,000 cubic meter oil storage tank, an auto repair shop, 30-bed hospitals and others. Not long ago, the Lao people had an opportunity to watch television programs relayed from the Soviet Union which has built a (?Sputnik) satellite ground station called Lotus Flower 2 as a gift to the Lao people.

In his Crimea meeting with Comrade Kaysone Phomvihan, general secretary of the LPRP Central Committee and prime minister of the LPDR, Comrade Brezhnev, general secretary of the CPSU Central Committee and chairman of the Presidium of the USSR Supreme Soviet, said the Soviet Union has understood and supported the political policy of Laos, that it has in the past maintained and will continue to maintain friendship cooperation in the cause of the Lao people. For the Lao side, in his speech at the Third LPRP Congress Kaysone Phomvihan also said that it is imperative to strengthen and enhance the all-round cooperation with the Soviet Union and that this is the political policy and principle of the Lao party and state.

PHOUMI VONGVICHIT RECEIVES PRK YOUTH DELEGATION

[Text] On the morning of 26 October at the government guest house Phoumi Vongvichit, member of the LPRP Central Committee Political Bureau and vice chairman of the Council of Ministers, received in a courtesy call the delegation of the Kampuchean Revolutionary Youth organization led by its Vice Chairman Sam Sundoeun, now on a visit to our country. The delegation was accompanied by Mrs Thongvin Phomvihan, member of the LPRP Central Committee and vice chairman of the Lao People's Revolutionary Youth Union Central Committee. Neou Samom, PRK ambassador extraordinary and plenipotentiary to Laos, was also on hand.

During the call, Phoumi Vongvichit expressed his pleasure at the visit to Laos by the delegation, saying it was an example of a good-will gesture to strengthen the existing special solidarity between the two youth organizations and between the Lao and Kampuchean peoples, which cannot be destroyed by any enemies. Sam Sundoeun told his host of the activities of the Kampuchean Revolutionary Youth organization under the leadership of the KPRP in contributing to the defense and construction of their country, particularly in resisting the efforts to rekindle the war by the genocidal Pol Pot-Ieng Sary-Khieu Samphan regime and other Khmer reactionary groups masterminded by the U.S. imperialists and the Chinese big-nation expansionists and hegemonists.

The conversation between the host and the guests was permeated with an atmosphere of intimacy.

UN DECISION ON KAMPUCHEA REPRESENTATION WELCOMED

Sitthi Comments

BK270157 Bangkok BANGKOK POST in English 27 Oct 82 pp 1, 3

[Excerpt] The Foreign Ministry reacted with delight yesterday to the news that the United Nations General Assembly has voted with an increased majority to keep Kampuchea's seat in the possession of the Democratic Kampuchea Government.

The assembly voted 90-29, with 26 abstentions, to reject a proposal by Vietnam and 10 other countries that Democratic Kampuchea's credentials be rejected. In previous years the number of votes in favour of Democratic Kampuchea has ranged between 71 and 77.

Foreign Minister Sitthi Sawetsila said yesterday he was pleased at the high total, as he had expected 85 favourable votes at most. He said the higher figure meant more countries have endorsed the UN mandate calling for Vietnam's withdrawal from Kampuchea. This year, for the first time, the name Democratic Kampuchea has represented a tripartite resistance coalition government headed by former Khmer Head of State Prince Norodom Sihanouk. Previously, it represented only the Khmer Rouge regime, now a member of the coalition.

Air Chief Marshal Sitthi said the overwhelming vote should restrain Vietnam from further violating the UN resolution calling for a peaceful settlement of the Kampuchean problem, and would in effect improve the internal situation in Kampuchea.

He said he was optimistic that Vietnamese troops would not step up their attacks on the Khmer resistance forces based near the Thai border, a move which could trigger a spillover of fighting into Thai territory, as this would only further reduce international support for Vietnam. He said he did not expect to meet Vietnamese Foreign Minister Nguyen Co Thach after the latter's visit to Indonesia.

Foreign Ministry spokesman Chet Sucharitkun said the vote showed that formation of the coalition had improved Democratic Kampuchea's image in the eyes of the world. He noted that when Sihanouk spoke at the United Nations on September 28 many world leaders turned up to listen to him, and suggested that Vietnam should remember that fact. He added that the Vietnamese should also accept that the situation has changed with the entry of Sihanouk, who had shown that he was ready to hold talks with the Vietnamese.

During the General Assembly debate Thai Ambassador Phiraphong Kasemsi urged adoption of the Credentials Committee report as it stood, including its approval of the Kampuchean credentials. He noted that, even though some members had reservations about the report, the committee had adopted it without a vote.

NATION REVIEW Editorial

[Editorial: "Khmer Coalition Gets Massive Backing in UN"]

[Text] The United Nations General Assembly vote about the credentials of the Coalition Government of Democratic Kampuchea was not a surprise, but what was interesting about it was the thrust and riposte by the ASEAN members who now celebrate a bigger victory than they predicted. They had predicted that there would be 10 more votes backing the Khmer coalition and they came up with 13 additional votes to back them. The Khmer coalition held the UN seat by 90-29 with 26 abstensions, while last year the UNGA voted 77-37 with 31 abstensions. ASEAN victory must also be shared with President Norodom Sihanouk of the coalition government, whose charisma and international reputation played no small role in the final count.

The voting came about in a roundabout way. The Credentials Committee approved unanimously the seating of the Khmer coalition because the Soviet Union refused to call for a vote.

But the recommendations of the Credentials Committee has to be approved by the UNGA and Vietnam and 10 other countries introduced an amendment which approved the recommendations of the Credentials Committee "except for the credentials of Democratic Kampuchea." It is highly significant that neither the Soviet Union nor any of the East European countries sponsored this amendment tabled by the 11 countries.

However, the Soviet bloc, including such important "countries" like Belorussia and Ukraine, voted for the amendment to keep the coalition government out of the UN, but it was still a dismal failure. From the beginning when Vietnam wanted to seat the Heng Samrin regime's representative in the UN, Hanoi's policy has changed and she is now opting for the vacant seat for Kampuchea. This is a comedown from the point of view of Vietnam, since she did not push for a representative of the Heng Samrin regime.

Further, the rhetorical question is: Why did the Soviet bloc stay away from backing Vietnam in introducing the amendment? While voting for the Vietnamese amendment is not loss of face, the backing of the amendment when it was introduced would appear to Moscow as backing a certain loser, and consequently a loss of face. Incidentally, even in the voting Moscow could not keep East Europe in line because maverick Romania voted on the side of the Khmer coalition. Romania's vote is highly important, not only from the point of view of Kampuchea, but from the international point of view of how close she is getting to China.

Australia and France, as last year, sanctimoniously abstained for reasons best known to them. One can possibly understand France's holier-than-thou attitude because she has still delusions of being able to influence events in her former colony of Indochina, but Australia's lack of understanding of the coalition government is, to put it mildly, peculiar. Australia has close ties with ASEAN, but somehow she seems to be harking back to Pol Pot and his genocidal policies. Or perhaps she subscribes to the doctrine of socialist revolutions being irreversible, if she concedes that what is happening in Kampuchea is a socialist revolution.

Under the circumstances the votes of Yugoslovia and Egypt on the side of the Khmer coalition is important because of the non-aligned summit scheduled in New Delhi early next year. Yugoslavia and Egypt, along with India, are the founding members of the Non-Aligned Movement and Kampuchea (then Cambodia), represented by Sihanouk, was present at the first conference held by the movement. India, naturally, voted with the Soviet bloc because she already recognizes the Heng Samrin regime, but may find it extremely difficult to keep the Kampuchean seat vacant at the summit in face of the majority opposition India will face.

But as Sihanouk told the UN, it is a long haul for the coalition to be able to oust the occupying Vietnamese troops since Hanoi is not going to give any value to UN resolutions. In this Sihanouk seems to agree with China that there will be no quick political solution to the Kampuchean tragedy.

POST: UN CBW PROBE IN LAOS, KAMPUCHEA TO RESUME

[Text] The special United Nations team investigating the possible use of "yellow rain" and other chemical weapons in Laos and Kampuchea is now in Bangkok in its second attempt to collect more samples from refugees encamped in Thailand.

Squadron-Leader Prasong Sunsiri, secretary-general of the National Security Council, said yesterday that the seven-member UN investigating commission, headed by Egyptian Maj-Gen Esmat al-Ezz, a specialist in chemical and radiological defence, is currently in Thailand to find more information needed for the report to the 37th session of the UN General Assembly, held between September 21 to December 14.

A UN panel of experts visited Thailand from October 31 to November 10 last year but was unable to reach any definite conclusion on the possible use of the chemical weapons, reportedly due to its tight schedule allowing the panel to visit only Indochinese refugee camps in Thailand.

The investigation was the result of a UN General Assembly resolution calling for an inquiry into reports of the alleged use of chemical weapons in Southeast Asia and Afghanistan. The U.S. and Canadian probing teams which visited Thailand early this year, however, claimed that there was adequate evidence showing the use of toxins and other chemical warfare agents in Laos and Kampuchea.

DONOR COUNTRIES CUT REFUGEE AID 'SLIGHTLY'

[Text] The financial aid for the Indochinese refugees was slightly cut by donor countries during a meeting in Geneva which ended last Wednesday, Maj-Gen Fuengchaloei Anirutthewa said upon his return from.the meeting yesterday.

The drop in aid was due to the declining number of refugees remaining in Thailand, Maj-Gen Fuengchaloei of the Internal Security Operation Command said. However, he described the meeting of the International Conference on Refugees, which was attended by more than a hundred delegates, as having yielded "good result". Maj-Gen Fuengchaloei is a member of the three-man delegation led by secretary-general of the National Security Council Squadron Leader Prasong Sunsiri to the International Conference on Refugees [ICR] meeting held in Geneva, Switzerland from October 11 to 20.

Maj-Gen Fuengchaloei said that although the number of refugees in the country has dropped, there remained between 200,000 to 300,000 Kampucheans in the area straddling the common border. He expressed fear that should the Vietnamese-led force step up its offensive in the dry season, the Kampucheans living in the border area might flee into Thailand.

During the ICR meeting, "we pointed to the delegates that Thailand is a front-line state of the Free World" and should not be left to shoulder the burden of the refugee problem alone, he said. He said he explained to the meeting that although the number of refugee camps have been reduced, it does not accurately reflect the existing number of refugees.

Some camps were closed down and the residing refugees transferred to other camps for administrative purposes, he said.

On the anti-piracy programme, he said he explained to the meeting that a eport of the programme would be available only after at least ten months of its operation.

Maj-Gen Fuengchaloei also disclosed that the U.S. Government plans to send a "prominent senator", reportedly the chairman of congress refugee commission, and other senior government officials to evaluate the refugee problem anew.

LAO REFUGEES MOVED NORTH; REPATRIATION PLANNED

[Text] Chaing Rai -- More than 6,000 Lao refugees, mostly from the closed camps in Nan and Loei Provinces, have been moved to Chiang Khong District of this northern province, refugee officials said yesterday. These refugees have not been accepted by any third country for resettlement, the officials said. Officials said, however, that a repatriation programme will be launched at the camp to encourage refugees to voluntarily return to their country.

Some of the refugees are still living at the campsite, while several hundred others had already gone back to their country, officials said.

The repatriation programme will be launched by Interior Ministry officials and relief workers from the voluntary agencies early next month, refugee officials said.

KRIANGSAK PARTY CALLS FOR PREM RESIGNATION

BK260245 Bangkok THE NATION REVIEW in English 26 Oct 82 pp 1, 2

[Text] The National Democracy Party (NDP) yesterday called for Premier Prem Tinsulanon's resignation if he was not able to hold Commerce Minister Punmi Punnasi and his deputy, Thawi Kraikhup, responsible for the "insurance firm scandal." The demand was made only hours after Punmi told THE NATION that he has no intention of resigning over the scandal. "I will stay on until I complete my term," he said.

Deputy leader of the NDP Op Wasurat said members of the party held a special session yesterday to discuss the scandal in which Thawi was accused of receiving kick-backs by issuing licenses to seven new insurance firms. NDP is the first political party to have called for Prem's resignation over the controversy.

Op said Punmi and Thawi must be held responsible for the scandal, as they had been working together. "Otherwise Premier Prem himself must assume full responsibility because he had been saying that his government was against corruption," he said. He then added: "If Punmi and Thawi do not resign, the prime minister will have to do it himself to prove that he is a gentlemen."

However, OP said NDP will not join in a move initiated by the Pracharat Party to push for a special parliamentary session to grill Thawi.

Punmi said yesterday he did not feel disturbed by the scandal, saying that he had already cleared himself with the cabinet. He denied rumours that he had already tendered his resignation with Prem over the scandal. Leader of the SAP [Social Action Party] M.R. Khukrit Pramot said last week that there was no reason for Punmi to resign.

Meanwhile, a leading Senate whip, Gen Sak Buntharakun told THE NATION yesterday that the Commerce Ministry should issue a statement to inform the public of every detail of the issue. He said it was agreed by the Senate that such statement will be the most compromising way out for the government. Such statement, he said, will tell the public what happened and what the policy of the Commerce Ministry regarding the issue is. "It also has to say whether Thawi is authorized to issue the licences," he said. There had been no clear clarifications from the commerce ministry so far, he said.

KUOMINTANG UNIT QUITS KHUN SA, SURRENDER TO THAI

[Text] Chiang Mai -- The last 62 of the Kuomintang (KMT) soldiers who joined opium warlord Khun Sa's Shan United Army (SUA) to fight against the Burmese Communist Party two years ago have left the Sua and surrendered to Thai authorities, official sources said. The KMT men left the SUA's stronghold at Doi Lang in Burma and traveled over the border to Ban Hua Muang-ngarm in Mae Ai District of Chiang Mai yesterday morning. They were disarmed by Border Patrol Police and later handed over to the military, the sources said.

The sources said the KMT men, from Doi Mae Salong in Chiang Rai Province, joined the SUA over two years ago to fight against the Burmese Communists. The KMT men complained that more than 100 of their colleagues lost their lives in the fighting, but their contribution did not win proper recognition from Khun Sa, the sources said.

An estimated 800-man force from the SUA, assisted by 200 KMT soldiers and Lahu (Muser) hilltribesmen, besieged a major stronghold of the leftist Wa National Army (WNA) in fierce fighting near the Thai-Burmese border in July this year. The seizure followed a month of sporadic fighting between the SUA and the WNA for control over the opium trail on the Burmese side of Doi Lang near Mae Ai District.

Casualties and desertions have reduced the SUA's strength from 3,000 to 1,400 men under arms, the sources said.

UN ASSEMBLY VOTE ON KAMPUCHEAN SEAT CONDEMNED

NHAN DAN Commentary

BK270434 Hanoi Domestic Service in Vietnamese 2300 GMT 26 Oct 82

[From review of NHAN DAN for 27 October]

[Text] NHAN DAN today carries a comentary entitled "Expel the Pol Pot Genocidal Clique From the United Nations." The commentary says: According to foreign sources, the 37th UN General Assembly session on 25 October voted to keep the so-called Coalition Government of Democratic Kampuchea as a member of this organization. Despite some people's efforts to create something new and apparently different from the three previous votes, nothing can deceive public opinion. What is this so-called coalition government? It is a genocidal corpse, no more and no less. It is also a group of genocidal criminals which has been formed into a coalition government headed by Sihanouk merely in an attempt to create a new mask for the Pol Pot genocidal clique and to create further obstacles to the stabilization of the situation in Southeast Asia.

The commentary points out: This is the fourth time the UN General Assembly has made an utterly wrong decision without regard to principles and realities in Kampuchea -- a decision which is absolutely contrary to the principles and Charter of the United Nations concerning the right of self-determination of nations.

The commentary also points out the crimes which have been committed by the genocidal clique and the schemes which have been carried out by the international reactionary forces regarding the Kampuchea issue.

Finally, the commentary concludes: We strongly protest the decision to allow the genocidal clique under any label to illegally retain Kampuchea's seat at the United Nations. We demand that the genocidal clique be expelled from the United Nations and that the legitimate right of representation be returned to the PRK Government -- the sole genuine and legal representative of the Kampuchean people.

[Text] The 37th UN General Assembly has just concluded its voting for Kampuchean representation at this organization. Once again the Pol Pot-Ieng Sary genocidal clique continues to keep its seat. Its presence at the UN meeting constitutes an intolerable insult to the honor, dignity and conscience of human beings. It is also an insult to the souls of 3 million Kampucheans and thousands of foreigners who were killed by the Pol Pot butchers during the years they took power in Kampuchea.

Over the past 3 years since the overthrow of the Pol Pot-Ieng Sary clique, the Kampuchean people have been building a new life from scratch. The people's administration has been effectively handling all affairs of the country. The prestige of the People's Republic of Kampuchea has been increasingly rising in the international arena. The recent withdrawal of a number of Vietnamese army units, the announcement of the PRK to grant all rights of citizenship including the right to stand for and vote in Kampuchea's free elections in the presence of foreign observers, to observe Kampucheans returning from the enemy ranks -- all these eloquently prove that the Kampuchean people are really mastering their own destiny and their country. No doubt, the remnants of the Pol Pot-Ieng Sary clique and other Khmer reactionary groups are only bandits hiding along the Thai-Kampuchean border. They could have existed until now merely owing to food and arms supply provided by Beijing, Washington and some other reactionary forces.

The recent setting up of a so-called Coalition Government of Democratic Kampuchea was only a farce to furbish the loathsome face of the Pol Pot-Ieng Sary clique.

No one can deny the role of the Government of the People's Republic of Kampuchea headed by President Heng Samrin. Therefore, this government must be granted the right to represent the Kampuchean people at the UN General Assembly and other international organizations. To maintain the illegal seating of the Pol Pot-Ieng Sary representative at the United Nations is a brazen act of interference in the internal affairs of the Kampuchean people. This act is completely contrary to the reality in Kampuchea, to the principles and Charter of the United Nations. Surely, it will do more harm than good to peace and stability in Southeast Asia and to the honor and prestige of the United Nations.

Beijing, Washington and some other reactionary forces must be responsible for all of this. During the UN General Assembly session they have resorted to every means to secure votes for the Pol Pot-Ieng Sary clique. Representatives from some countries have maintained a wrong stand on the Kampuchean situation. They are hoping that the disguised Pol Pot government will be able to turn the tide in Kampuchea. But, in fact, the Pol Pot clique remains a group of bandits, no more and no less. Its strength is decimated by the desertions of 6,000 former soldiers of the Pol Pot clique and other Khmer reactionary troops, for example, who crossed over to the people's side recently. It's safe to say that the enemies have failed in their attempts to undermine the revival of the Kampuchean people.

The Vietnamese people together with other progressives fully support the Kampuchean people's just demand for expulsion of the Pol Pot clique or any disguised from [as heard] the United Nations. Any resolution on Kampuchea without the approval of the PRK Government, the only authentic representative of the Kampuchean people, is considered null and void.

FURTHER ON HANOI MARKING OF SOVIET ANNIVERSARIES

OW260251 Hanoi Domestic Service in Vietnamese 1100 GMT 22 Oct 82

[Summary] On the occasion of the 65th anniversary of the Great October Socialist Revolution and the 60th anniversary of the founding of the USSR, the Vietnam-USSR Friendship Association held a cordial meeting this morning in Hanoi, with comrade Soviet specialists who are working at Vietnamese construction projects.

Attending the meeting were comrades in the Central Committee of the Vietnam-USSR Friendship Association and representatives of the Vietnamese Foreign Ministry and of mass organizations and government agencies at the central level and in Hanoi. Also present were Comrade Chaplin, Soviet ambassador extraordinary and plenipotentiary to Vietnam; cadres of the Soviet Embassy; and many comrade Soviet specialists from various Soviet republics who are working on major Vietnamese projects.

"Comrade Nguyen Vinh, member of the party Central Committee and vice chairman of the Vietnam-USSR Friendship Association, made a speech in which he pointed out the historic significance of the Russian October Revolution and the founding of the USSR. He stressed: following the victory of the October Revolution, socialism has, step by step, become a reality on earth; for the first time in human history, a system in which exploitation of man by man is absent has been installed; the laboring people are incresingly becoming masters of their destiny, and the brotherly nationalities in the union live in peace, friendship and solidarity and provide mutual assistance for the sake of their better future and happiness.

"Over the past 60 years of existence and development, the USSR has proved its invincible strength from the unshakeable union and solidarity of the brotherly Soviet nationalities. The union, solidarity, friendship and cooperation among the Soviet nationalities have been tested and forged during the course of socialist construction and in the struggle to defend their socialist fatherland and have become a valuable revolutionary tradition.

"Comrade Nguyen Vinh also affirmed the time-tested, solid and unskakeable friendly, fraternal relations and militant solidarity between the two parties, states and peoples of Vietnam and the Soviet Union. He said: [begin recording] "With the implementation of the November 1979 Vietnam-USSR Friendship and Cooperation Treaty, Vietnamese-Soviet relations have entered a new stage of all-round and profound development in all domains. The recent official visit to the Soviet Union by a Vietnamese party-state delegation led by Chairman Truong Chinh and the meeting between Comrades Truong Chinh and Brezhnev have further strengthened the fraternal friendship and all-round cooperation between the two parties, states and peoples of Vietnam and the Soviet Union.

"In the months and years of the past arduous, fierce war of resistance against the United States for national salvation, as well as in the creative labor for socialist construction at present, the Soviet Union has reserved and is reserving for Vietnam its extremely great, wholehearted and effective support and assistance. Hundreds of key Soviet-trained skilled workers are operating in all fields. The Vietnamese people will never forget the example set by the thousands of Soviet specialists who are working selflessly to help the Vietnamese people in building socialism and defending their socialist fatherland. In the present difficult economic and social conditions in our country, the comrade Soviet specialists have willingly shared the difficulties, privation and hardships with our Vietnamese people. The comrade Soviet specialists working in all fields of activity in Vietnam have proved, in the most eloquent and lively manner, Lenin's remark: The Bolshevik working class in Russia has always proved its spirit of socialist internationalism not in words, but in deeds.

"On this occasion, we wish to express the profound gratitude of the Vietnamese people toward the CPSU and the Soviet Government and people for their noble sentiments and great assistance, filled with the lofty spirit of socialist internationalism. [applause; end recording]

"In an atmosphere permeated with cordiality and fraternal solidarity, Comrade Chaplin made a speech. He stressed the historic significance of the October Revolution and the founding of the USSR. He affirmed that these are momentous events in the lives of the Soviet people. In commemoration of these grand anniversaries, the Soviet nationalities are accelerating the creative labor movement, in order to successfully implement the historic resolution set forth by the 26th CPSU Congress. Comrade Chaplin said: [begin recording in Russian, fading into translation by a Vietnamese-speaking Russian] Our country, the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics, has existed for the past more than 60 years under the invincible Leninist banner. Under this banner, our people are fulfilling the communist construction plan laid down by the 26th CPSU Congress. [Word indistinct], labor and [word indistinct] are the objectives of our daily activities. The Soviet people work to simultaneously discharge their tasks as patriots and their internationalist obligations. They have to work well and efficiently and strive to unceasingly improve their labor productivity and practice thrift in economic activities. They are resolving complicated, encompassing tasks. (?The mission) of fulfilling the food production plan passed by the May 1982 party Central Committee plenum is a national task. The production forces in the Ural, Siberian and Far East regions are developing. A brilliant page in our people's history is the worksites of the Baykal-Amur railway. Across our Soviet Union, there exist many such worksites. At today's meeting, representatives from many of our Soviet republics will introduce, through their speeches, the achievements of their respective republics. Each republic of our Soviet Union will honor the 60th anniversary of the October Revolution with new achievements." [applause; end recording]

At this morning's meeting, many Soviet specialists working at Vietnamese construction projects made speeches. They belong to different nationalities in the Soviet republics. Displaying their noble spirit of proletarian internationalism and their friendship and solidarity with Vietnam, they have shared difficulties and privations with the Vietnamese people.

Comrade (Zuma Galiev), of Kazakh nationality, head of an assembly group at the Pha Lai thermoelectric plant, talked about joint Soviet-Vietnamese work at the plant and the close solidarity and cooperation between the Soviet specialists and Vietnamese cadres and workers.

Comrade (Zuma Galiev) said: [begin recording in Russian, fading into translation] "Our collective, in the light of the resolution of the Fifth VCP Congress, is striving to enhance the sense of responsibility of each collective member. Each person must be aware of his personal responsibility in society. On the occasion of Vietnam's National Day, we launched an emulation drive. We have planned our work to put the first group of generators with a 110,000-KW capacity into operation this year at the Pha Lai thermoelectric plant. In coordinating our work with the Vietnamese comrades, we firmly believe that the great tasks set forth by the Vietnamese Government regarding this worksite will be successfully carried out. The unshakeable Vietnamese-Soviet friendship and the Vietnamese-Soviet militant solidarity are a firm guarantee for our success. [applause; end recording]

"Following the comrade Soviet specialists' speeches, Comrade Xuan Thuy, chairman of the Vietnam-USSR Friendship Association, on behalf of the Vietnamese people and all association members expressed thanks to the CPSU and the Soviet state and people for their assistance, filled with the noble spirit of proletarian internationalism, to Vietnam. He also conveyed thanks to the comrade Soviet specialists working at Vietnamese worksites who, for the sake of the Vietnamese people's undertaking, have overcome many difficulties in their joint work with Vietnamese cadres and workers to complete many major tasks satisfactorily."

The meeting ended with a literary and arts program, performed by Vietnamese artists, in praise of Vietnam and the Soviet Union and the unshakeable friendship and fraternal solidarity between the two parties, states and peoples of Vietnam and the Soviet Union.

SCIENCE, TECHNOLOGY DELEGATION VISITS FRANCE

OW220855 Hanoi VNA in English 0721 GMT 22 Oct 82

[Text] Hanoi, VNA, October 22 -- A delegation of the State Commission of Science and Technology led by Dang Huu, chairman, has paid a visit to France.

It was received by Marcel Rigout, minister of professional training, and had working sessions with Jacques Thibad, director-general of the Cultural, Scientific and Technical Relations Department of the Ministry for External Relations,and Renaud Vignal, director of the Office of the Ministry of Cooperation and Development. In these contacts the delegation was told that France would carry out the agreements reached at the session last May of the France-Vietnam Joint Commission for Cultural, Scientific and Technical Cooperation.

Dang Huu and his party visited many research centres and had contacts with the Permanent Bureau of the Committee for Scientific and Technical Cooperation With Vietnam headed by Henri Van Regemorter. They also attended the fourth congress of the Vietnamese Scientific and Technical Association in France.

SRV REPRESENTATIVE ADDRESSES ECOSOC SESSION

OW222138 Hanoi VNA in English 1532 GMT 22 Oct 82

[Text] Hanoi, VNA, October 22 -- Speaking at the Oct 20 session of the Economic and Social Council (E.C.O.S.O.C.) of the United Nations, the Vietnamese representative criticized the industrialized capitalist countries for trying to shift the burden of their economic crisis and inflation onto developing countries.

He pointed out that disararmament, especially the limitation of nuclear weapons, was necessary for all nations' economic and social development. He said that the United States, while seeking to impose its will on other nations, including its allies, has used trade relations and economic aid to exert political pressure on other countries, especially developing countries.

On the food problem, the Vietnamese representative said: "It is regrettable that all orientations and measures worked out to solve the food shortage have met with many difficulties. In recent years, some Western countries have used food aid as an instrument to further their political objectives. We note with indignation that these countries are taking advantage of the famine and malnutrition in developing countries to exert pressure on them. We should immediately prevent this trend, because it runs counter to the objective of establishing a new world economic order as well as the fundamental principles of international economic relations.

TO HUU MEETS REPRESENTATIVES OF UN GROUPS

OW222201 Hanoi VNA in English 1543 GMT 22 Oct 82

[Text] Hanoi, VNA, October 22 -- Vice Premier To Huu, on behalf of Premier Pham Van Dong, received representatives of the international organizations in Hanoi this morning, on the occasion of United Nations Day (Oct. 24).

His guests were Karl H. Englund, representative of the U.N. Development Program, U.N. secretary general's coordinator and representative of the U.N. World Food Program and U.N. Fund for Population Activity, Fuad Kronfol, representative of the U.N. International Children's Fund (U.N.I.C.E.F.), Mohamed Salah Boulecane, representative on the U.N. Food and Agriculture Organization (F.A.O.), Martine Keller, representative of the International Committee of the Red Cross, Mohamed Bouabid, representative of the U.N. High Commission for Refugees; and Michel Amicot, deputy representative of the U.N. Fund for Population Activity.

To Huu thanked these organizations for their valuable, effective assistance to the Vietnamese people. Together with his guests, he toasted further development of the cooperation between Vietnam and U.N. organizations.

PEACE COMMITTEE ADOPTS DISARMAMENT RESOLUTION

OW251821 Hanoi VNA in English 1516 GMT 25 Oct 82

[Text] Hanoi, VNA, Oct. 2 -- The Vietnam Peace Committee held a mass meeting here tonight in response to the International Week of Action for Disarmament launched by the World Peace Council.

The meeting was attended by Pham Anh, president of the V.P.C. Presidium; Pham Huy Thong, member of the V.P.C. Presidium; cultural attaches of the embassies of socialist countries; and representatives of public offices and mass organizations.

Addressing the meeting, Pham Huy Thong pointed out that to struggle for world peace and security was (?now) more urgent than ever. "The united efforts and coordinated struggle of the socialist and non-aligned countries and of democratic and peace forces in the West have provided public opinion with a material strength capable of preventing the danger of a nuclear war and [word indistinct] the policy of aggression by imperialism and international reaction", he said.

Ham Huy Thong hailed the initiatives of the Soviet Union, other countries of the socialist community and peace forces throughout the world for disarmament, world peace and international detente. He condemned U.S. imperialism and other reactionary forces for stepping up the nuclear arms race on an unprecedented scale. These forces, he said, had brazenly worked hand in glove to oppose socialism and peoples' liberation struggle, and blatantly interfere in nations' internal affairs.

Pham Huy Thong said that the cause of tension and instability in Southeast Asia lied in the schemes and acts of Beijing expansionism in collusion with U.S. imperialism and other reactionary forces in the region, while the peoples of Vietnam, Laos and Kampuchea had shown their good will through successive initiatives and proposals for peace and stability.

The speaker continued: "We advocate normalization of relations between the Socialist Republic of Vietnam and the People's Republic of China on the principle of respect for each other's independence, sovereignty, territorial integrity and genuine interests, and of noninterference in each other's internal affairs and of equality and mutual benefit, [Words indistinct] that to struggle for peace is a task of strategic importance and special urgency, the Vietnamese people, through their own struggle for national construction and defence resolve to contribute to the world people's common struggle for the noble objectives of our time, namely peace, independence, democracy and socialism," Pham Huy Thong concluded.

The participants unanimously adopted the following resolutions:

1. The participants strongly condemn U.S. imperialism and other reactionary forces for stepping up the arms race, undermining detente, creating world tension, thus seriously threatening peace, sovereignty, security and independence of nations.

2. The participants resolutely demand that U.S. imperialism and other reactionary forces conduct serious negotiations, stop the arms race, respond to the correct proposal of the socialist countries and the Non-Aligned Movement, and meet the earnest demands and aspirations of peace-loving mankind.

3. The participants warmly welcome and fully support the recent important initiatives of the Soviet Union relating to disarmament, especially the Soviet Union's pledge not to be the first to use nuclear weapons, as practical proof of the Soviet Union's consistent policy for peace and disarmament, against nuclear war; they call upon the other nuclear powers to give a positive response to these proposals of good will of the Soviet Union.

4. The participants reiterate the Vietnamese people's determination to struggle against the danger of a nuclear war, for disarmament, peace, and man's right to life.

Peace, the common gain of the struggle of nations, must be preserved.

INTERNATIONAL SEMINAR IN HCM CITY ON MEKONG DELTA

OW222151 Hanoi VNA in English 1538 GMT 22 Oct 82

[Text] Hanoi, VNA, October 22 -- An international seminar on tidal hydraulics and salinity intrusion in the Mekong Delta opened in Ho Chi Minh City today under the co-sponsorship of the National Mekong Committee of Vietnam, the Secretariat of the Mekong Interim Committee and the Asian Institute of Technology (A.I.T.).

This is the second international seminar on hydrology held in the city. The first was on flood forecast for the lower reaches of the Mekong River held in May 1980.

The present seminar will discuss techniques of collecting and handling basic data and results and experiences in research to work out optimal methods for data gathering and suitable calculation method on tidal hydraulics and salinity intrusion. Results of the seminar will be applied to projects to prevent salinity in the Mekong River Delta in general and in the Ca Mau Peninsula in particular.

The seminar is presided over by Dinh Gia Khanh, vice-minister for water conservancy and president of the National Mekong Committee of Vietnam; Bernt Bernander, executive agent of the Mekong Interim Committee Secretariat; and Dr. Suphat Vongvisessomjai, who represents the A.I.T.

Attending the seminar were delegations of the National Mekong Committees of Laos and Thailand, and representatives of the Food and Agriculture Organisation (F.A.O.), the Economic and Social Commission for Asia and the Pacific (E.S.C.A.P.), the United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organisation (U.N.E.S.C.O.), the World Meteorological Organisation (W.M.O.), the Swedish International Development Agency (S.I.D.A.), and the A.I.T. The ambassador of the Netherlands to Vietnam and a representative of the Dutch ambassador to Thailand are also present.

Vietnamese participants include Nguyen Ngoc Tran, vice-president of the State Commission for Science and Technology; Le Quang Chanh, deputy-mayor; and many scientists.

NHAN DAN VIEWS RECENT DRIVE TO DRAFT YOUTHS

[Text] As of 15 September -- the deadline set by the Council of Ministers -- 25 provinces and cities had concluded the second drive to draft youths into the army, fulfilling all the set quotas, and ensuring better quality standards in all respects. Many provinces and cities had urgently undertaken preparatory work in accordance with the law on military service and were therefore able to deliver the recruits ahead of schedule. All districts, precincts and towns fulfilled their troop recruitment quotas. Between 95 and 100 percent of wards and villages in various precincts and districts fulfilled their assigned norms. The five provinces of Dong Nai, Minh Hai, Kien Giang, An Giang and Cuu Long are continuing to struggle to complete this task in September.

Scrupulously complying with the law on military service, the heads of various sectors and echelons in the many provinces and cities fulfilled their duties in organizing the second drive to draft youths into the army. Military service councils in various precincts, districts, wards and villages were further consolidated and their activities were effective. The military affairs organs in various provinces and cities satisfactorily advised on leadership activities and helped develop the combined strength of various sectors and mass organizations through efforts to propagate and disseminate the law on military service among cadres, party members and the people, especially among the youths. Hanoi, Ho Chi Minh City and various provinces such as Thai Binh, Hai Hung, Ha Son Binh and Quang Nam-Da Nang trained a contingent of lecturers to disseminate the law on military service down towards and villages in order to develop the people's role of collective mastery in fulfilling the national defense duties.

In this drive to draft youths into the army, the percentage of youths of military age who turned up for physicals was higher than before. Many districts organized the physical checkups for selective service quickly and efficiently, with a determination to oppose all negative phenomena. Youths were reported to have enthusiastically set out for military induction, thus showing their determination to fulfill their military obligation. A number of localities satisfactorily held send offs for their youths.

Although there were still many weaknesses and shortcomings to be overcome, such as a lack of coordination between units sending and receiving troops, and a few precincts and districts failing to identify prospective draftees and therefore sending draft notices to the wrong recipients, the results of this second drive to draft youths into the army have created a firm basis for putting the implementation of the law on military service on the right track throughout the country.

AUSTRALIA

U.S. DEFENSE SATELLITE FACILITIES EXAMINED

BK221343 Melbourne Overseas Service in English 1110 GMT 22 Oct 82

[From the "Australian Insight" program: Report by John Lombard in Canberra — recorded]

[Text] The Labor opposition Party has in the past been critical of the American facilities in Australia. Pine Gap and Nurrungar in Central Australia are the two United States defense satellite ground facilities here. Both bases are known to have the capability to undertake a wide range of military and intelligence operations in space.

Special interest focused this week on Nurrungar, which is located in a restricted area at Woomera, about 500 kilometers northwest of the South Australian capital of Adelaide. It comes under the control of the newly-formed United States Air Force Space Command based at Colorado Springs. The head of the space command, Gen James Hartinger, flew into Canberra for top-level talks with the Australian defense minister, Ian Sinclair. His arrival coincided with reports that the Reagan administration has planned to upgrade the role of their military satellites and their ground stations. The Australian Government has never publicly revealed the work carried out at either the Pine Gap or the Nurrungar station, other than that they helped in the American satellite system. But they operate under agreement between the Australian and American Governments as part of Australia's policy of support for the Western alliance.

In recent months, the opposition Labor Party has questioned the close links between Australia and the U.S. and wants the Australian Government to become more involved in the strategic aspect of the American satellite stations in Australia. The Labor Party has been extremely critical of the ANZUS Treaty, which is a defense pact between Australia, New Zealand and the U.S. Labor has argued, for example, that Australia should use the links provided by the ANZUS pact to influence American policy. However, the foreign minister, Tony Street, has just detailed his government's policy toward ANZUS and, in particular, the Western alliance.

He noted in a major speech to the Australian Institute for International Affairs that the contemporary world was divided between the aligned and the nonaligned and he acknowledged that in Australia's neighborhood, the Third World of Asia, the Pacific and Africa had chosen mostly to be nonaligned. But Australia had chosen quite deliberately to be closely aligned to the Western alliance and Australia contributed to the effectiveness of the Western alliance through its diplomacy and its own military forces. Under the five-power defense arrangement, for example, Australia operates fighter and maritime surveillance aircraft at Butterworth in Malaysia and in Singapore to strengthen regional security.

Touching on the sensitive issue of the American bases in Australia, Mr Street said these facilities, which are jointly managed by Australia and the U.S., had an importance which transcended their immediate role in the Australian and American security arrangement. They were, he said, part of a vast invisible net which constituted an essential element of Western strategic deterrence. And finally, he warned that without such facilities, the world would be an even more dangerous place than it was today.

SOVIET AIRCRAFT CARRIER SPOTTED IN TSUSHIMA STRAIT

OW280441 Tokyo KYODO in English 0401 GMT 28 Oct 82

[Text] Tokyo, Oct 28, KYODO -- A patrol plane spotted the Soviet aircraft carrier Minsk sailing south through the Tsushima Strait between Japan and the Korean Peninsula Thursday morning, the Maritime Self-Defense Force said. The 36,800-ton Minsk was accompanied by the 8,200-ton Tashkent, a Kara-class guided missile cruiser, officers said. Both ships were moving southwest in waters off the Goto group, west of Kyushu, at 11 a.m., they said.

The Minsk is one of three Kiev-class aircraft carriers and is the only one belonging to the Soviet Pacific Fleet. It was based at Vladivostock in June 1979.

USSR TO RELEASE FISHING BOAT, CREW MEMBERS

OW280433 Tokyo KYODO in English 0356 GMT 28 Oct 82

[Text] Sapporo, Oct 28, KYODO -- The Soviet Union Friday morning will release a Japanese fishing boat and four crewmen detained since September for alleged violations of Soviet territorial waters, the Maritime Safety Agency (MSA) said Thursday. It said the 9.9-ton No 18 Shoshin Maru and the men will be handed over to Japan at Anama Bay in Shikotan Island, east of Hokkaido.

The ship and its crew from Nemuro port in southeastern Hokkaido were captured by a Soviet patrol boat September 25 while operating in waters some four kilometers off Kunashiri Island.

The MSA patrol boat Kunashiri will go to Shikotan Island to escort the Japanese fishermen and the boat Friday.

With the release of the four, the number of Japanese fishermen still detained by Soviet authorities is 34.

NEGOTIATIONS WITH USSR ON PIPE PURCHASE FALL THROUGH

OW280543 Tokyo KYODO in English 0403 GMT 28 Oct 82

[Text] Tokyo, Oct 28, KYODO -- Negotiations for Japanese steel pipe shipments to the Soviet Union have fallen through, with Soviet officials refusing to accept a Japanese-proposed interest rate for trade credit, sources said Thursday.

A group of Soviet officials, led by Foreign Trade First Vice Minister Yuriy L. Brezhnev, left for home empty-handed Thursday morning.

The Soviet leader's son flew to Tokyo October 19 amid expectations the Soviets would be ready to compromise on the interest rate for credit to finance shipments of 1 million tons of line pipes in fiscal 1983, beginning next April. But the negotiations proved to be a hard-bargaining session, with the Soviets using low-cost West German trade credit as a bargaining point, the sources said. West German steel companies have provided the Soviet Union with trade credit carrying a 7.8 percent interest rate.

The Japanese proposed a five-year suppliers credit carrying an interest rate of 8 percent per annum, unchanged from the rate of the loan the Export-Import Bank of Japan granted for fiscal 1982 shipments of 795,000 tons of line pipes to the Soviet Union.

Because the rate for a five-year Eximbank loan to the Soviet Union has been raised to 8.7 percent at the minimum, a broad agreement was reached to switch to a supplier's credit as in the case for the fiscal 1981 shipments of 750,000 tons of large-diameter pipes. The credit then called for interest payment at an annual rate of 7.75 percent.

Although a definite timetable has yet to be decided, the negotiations are expected to resume in Moscow later this year or early in 1983, well in advance to the start of shipment next April.

On the annual volume of shipment, a basic agreement was reached in Moscow negotiations earlier this year.

U.S. TOBACCO TRADE TALKS END WITHOUT AGREEMENT

OW261109 Tokyo KYODO in English 1048 GMT 26 Oct 82

[Text] Tokyo, Oct 26, KYODO -- Japan and the United States Tuesday wound up two days of bilateral negotiations on trade in tobacco without any agreement over the American request that Japan lift its tariff on imported tobacco, Foreign Ministry officials said.

The U.S. delegation again urged the Japanese officials to abolish the 35 percent tariff, while the latter rejected the demand. Japan reduced the tariff from 90 percent to the current level under an agreement reached in November 1980.

The Japanese officials said that the U.S. side blamed Japan's monopoly sales system for tobacco for blocking access by foreign tobacco traders to the Japanese market.

The Americans asked that all retail shops willing to deal in foreign tobacco in Tokyo and Osaka be provided with licenses to do so, according to the officials.

The Japanese side told the U.S. officials that the monopoly system is being reviewed as part of the government streamlining efforts and that the number of retail shops dealing in foreign tobacco will be increased to 70,000 by the end of March 1985, as was announced in the second package of market opening measures last May. Retail shops dealing in foreign tobacco in Tokyo and Osaka will be increased next year, the Japanese side was quoted as saying.

BELGIUM'S EYSKENS MEETS MITI'S SHINTARO ABE

OW251107 Tokyo KYODO in English 1039 GMT 25 Oct 82

[Text] Tokyo, Oct 25, KYODO — Belgian Economic Minister Mark Eyskens declared Monday his export-oriented country is opposed to any trade protectionist moves despite the global recession. He said Belgium is ready to play a mediator's role in trade disputes between the European Economic Community and Japan, Japanese officials said.

Eyskens made the remarks in a meeting with International Trade and Industry Minister Shintaro Abe.

Ministry officials said both ministers agreed on the need to expand industrial and economic cooperation between Japan and Belgium. The two countries held their first industrial cooperation conference in June and were expected to follow it up in the form of a series of working-level meetings.

Saying exports account for 60 percent of Belgium's gross national product, Eyskens was quoted as telling Abe: We oppose any protectionist moves. He also proposed to Abe that the two countries conclude a science and technology pact, ministry officials reported.

Eyskens arrived in Tokyo Saturday for an official visit at the invitation of the Japanese Foreign Ministry. He conferred with Foreign Minister Yoshio Sakurauchi before his talks with the MITI minister. He will leave for Osaka Monday for talks with business leaders in the region.

OBJECTION TO BE FILED WITH IWC ON WHALING BAN

OW261335 Tokyo KYODO in English 1152 GMT 26 Oct 82

[Excerpt] Tokyo, Oct 26, KYODO -- Japan Tuesday decided to file an objection with the International Whaling Commission (IWC) over the IWC resolution for a total ban on commercial whaling from 1986, government sources said.

The government reached the decision -- which amounts to a veto of the IWC-adopted worldwide moratorium on commercial whale hunting -- after careful study and consideration, the sources said. The government is expected to finalize its decision at a regular Cabinet session on November 2 in time for the November 4 deadline for filing an objection.

The resolution was passed by the IWC at its annual meeting in Brighton, England, last July by a vote of 25 to 7.

The Japanese objection would reserve Japan's right to continue whale hunting in 1986 and after. The Japanese action is bound to invite harsh criticism from antiwhaling countries and organizations of the world. Japan may face fresh demands for a whaling ban at the IWC meeting next year, observers said.

BANK GOVERNOR DEALS WITH DECLINING YEN VALUE

OW260413 Tokyo KYODO in English 0401 GMT 26 Oct 82

[Text] Tokyo, Oct 26, KYODO -- Haruo Maikawa, Governor of the Bank of Japan, indicated Tuesday he would counter speculative attacks on the yen to keep the Japanese currency from declining further.

Maekawa told a meeting of the Central Bank's local branch chiefs he would keep a close eye on the foreign exchange market. He expressed concern over the yen's continuing fall in value against the U.S. dollar, which he said is adding to upward pressure on prices and is widening gaps in earnings between industries.

Maekawa attributed the yen's depreciation to a continuing outflow of money seeking higher interest returns, the restless Middle East situation and worries about international banking crisis.

The three-day fall meeting of branch chiefs opened at the bank's head office in Tokyo Tuesday morning.

Maekawa also warned against an adverse impact sluggish exports would have on the economy. The downtrend in exports is casting a shadow on corporate earnings, he said.

Pointing out the need to maintain appropriate monetary policy to help speed an economic recovery through stabilizing the yen's exchange rate and prices, he indicated the central bank would intervene in interbank trading on the exchange market and guide short-term interest rates higher.

The governor refrained from making direct mention of the deepening political uncertainty in Japan, but warned that deficit public financing would kill economic resilience and lead to renewal of a high rate of inflation. He thus urged a new government to pursue an economic policy to give priority to the reestablishment of public finance.

Denies Yen Kept Low

OW280805 Tokyo KYODO in English 0758 GMT 28 Oct 82

[Text] Tokyo, Oct 28, KYODO -- Haruo Maekawa, Bank of Japan governor, Thursday denied an allegation by some U.S. business leaders that Japan has intentionally kept the yen's value low to take export advantage, government sources said Thursday.

The Central Bank governor made the statement when he was asked to comment on reports from Washington that Charles Percy, chairman of Senate Foreign Relations Committee, Wednesday asked the U.S. General Accounting Office to examine Japanese Government monetary policies. Percy reportedly said these policies might have an effect on the value of the Japanese currency.

Maekawa said the yen's depreciation has adversely affected the Japanese economy. "It's a matter of fact that the Bank of Japan has intervened actively in the exchange market to shore up the faltering yen," he said.

Text of Kim Il-song Speech

SK270031 Pyongyang KCNA in English 2331 GMT 26 Oct 82

[Text] Pyongyang, October 26 (KCNA) -- Follows the full text of the speech made by the great leader Comrade Kim Il-song, general secretary of the Central Committee of the Workers Party of Korea, at the banquet he arranged on October 26 in honour of the delegation of the Communist Party of France headed by Secretary General Georges Marchais on visit to Korea:

Esteemed Comrade Georges Marchais, esteemed comrades of the delegation of the Communist Party of France, comrades:

We are very pleased to meet esteemed Comrade Georges Marchais, a renowned figure of the French working-class movement and secretary general of the Communist Party of France, and have you among us here in Pyongyang today. I would like, on behalf of the Central Committee of our party and on my own, to take this opportunity overflowing with the feelings of fraternal friendship to re-express my warm welcome to the delegation of the Communist Party of France headed by respected Secretary General Comrade Georges Marchais.

Comrade Georges Marchais, you have come a long way to visit our country. Thus you and the Communist Party of France have explicitly expressed your trust in and solidarity with us and our party. We are grateful to you for this.

The Workers Party of Korea and the Communist Party of France are brothers who are struggling for the cause of peace and socialism as the vanguards of the working class and the toiling masses.

The Communist Party of France, born of the arduous struggle of the French working class against the oppression by capital, has a long history of struggle and proud revolutionary traditions. It has covered a rugged path, waging various forms of struggle -- political, economic, armed and unarmed -- to abolish rightist reactionary rule and set up socialism which will guarantee political freedom and democratic rights for the working masses.

Having inherited the heroic fighting spirit of the valorous fighters of the Paris Commune, who recorded the first brilliant chapter in the history of the international working-class movement, the French communists have struggled courageously through thick and thin, under the banner of freedom and liberation.

Your party has worked out independent lines and policies to pave the road of socialism which suits the specific conditions of France and is making energetic efforts to implement them, adhering to an independent stand even in the current complex situation of West Europe.

There can be no single policy that can cope with the different situations and different revolutionary tasks in all countries.

In our era, practice in the revolution, which is diverse and complex and incomparably gigantic in scale, demands that one should use one's own brains, shape one's own lines and policies in accordance with one's own views and judgement and translate them into reality mainly by one's own efforts, instead of copying ready-made formulae, propositions or foreign experiences.

We consider that your party's line of building a democratic socialism of French style mirrors the conditions of France and also accords with the present trend of the international communist movement.

By forming a joint front with the Socialist Party and other democratic political parties and taking a concerted action with them, your party is participating in the government of leftist forces and progressive socio-economic reforms in France.

The Communist Party of France is working hard in the international arena to insure peace and security against the imperialist policies of aggression and war, establish a new international order and promote friendshop among peoples.

Regarding all your successes as conducive to the social progress of France, we wish your party a new advance in its future activities for peace and socialism.

Dear comrades, it is an unshakable policy consistently maintained by our party in its relations with the fraternal parties and fraternal countries to adhere to chajusong (independence) while at the same time uniting and cooperating with each other and strengthening international solidarity on the principles of equality and chajusong, mutual respect and non-interference.

This time we will extensively discuss with the comrades from the Communist Party of France various problems of common concern including further development of friendly and cooperative relations between the two parties.

I am convinced that this meeting and our subsequent talks with Comrade Secretary General Georges Marchais will be a momentous opportunity to deepen comradeship between us and strengthen and develop the friendly relations between the two parties. Your current visit to our country will greatly encourage our party membership and working people who, under the leadership of our party, are vigorously struggling for the complete victory of socialism and the independent and peaceful reunification of the country under the unfurled banner of the chuche idea.

The Communist Party of France rendered active support and encouragement to our people in their cause of struggle in the past fatherland liberation war when they were undergoing grim trials and today it is striving in various ways at home and abroad to support our just cause of national reunification. We always remember this and are deeply grateful to you for this.

You will receive hearty welcome from our party members and working people everywhere you go during your stay in our country and feel the warm feelings of fraternal friendship cherished by our party and people towards the Communist Party of France. We greatly treasure the friendly relations established between our two parties in the course of the struggle for the common goal and ideal and will make every effort to further consolidate and develop them.

The present tense situation which results from the imperialist moves for aggression and war makes it urgent for all the revolutionary forces of the world to firmly unite and take powerful anti-imperialist, anti-U.S. joint actions. Our party will vigorously struggle under the banner of independence against imperialism to build an independent and peaceful new world free from all manner of domination and subjugation, aggression and war, in firm unity with the communist and workers parties, the peoples of the socialist countries and non-aligned countries and all the progressive peoples of the world.

Wishing that the current visit of the delegation of the Communist Party of France to our country will bring about an excellent result, I would like to propose this toast: to the fraternal friendship and unity between the Workers Party of Korea and the Communist Party of France, to the unity and cohesion of the international communist movement, to a durable world peace, to the health of respected Comrade Secretary General Georges Marchais and Madame, to the health of all the members of the delegation of the Communist Party of France and, to the health of all comrades present here.

Marchais Speech Text

[Text] Pyongyang, October 26 (KCNA) -- Follows the full text of the speech made by head of the delegation Comrade Georges Marchais, secretary general of the Central Committee of the Communist Party of France, at the banquet arranged by the great leader Comrade Kim Il-song, general secretary of the Central Committee of the Workers Party of Korea, on October 26 in honour of the delegation of the Communist Party of France:

Respected Comrade Kim Il-song, dear comrades: Permit me, first of all, to express to you, in the name of the delegation of the Communist Party of France, our sincere thanks for your invitation and for the warm welcome which you reserved for our arrival in the Democratic People's Republic of Korea. This attests to the traditions of hospitality of the Korean people and the sentiments of friendship which you have manifested to our party, the French people and to our country.

On this occasion we express our friendship and solidarity for the Korean working class, people and the Workers Party of Korea.

Our two countries are separated from each other by a distance of thousands of kilometres, but we have always watched with interest and attention the situation of Korea. We know of the courage and determination with which the people and communists of Korea fought against Japanese colonialism for a free and independent Korean nation. We also remember the battle you waged at the beginning of the 1950's against the U.S. imperialist aggression which brought your people so great destruction and sufferings. Despite all its efforts, imperialism could not conquer the whole of Korea as it wished. But, it, responsible for the artificial division of your country, is trying to perpetuate it.

Our party has supported from the very beginning the struggle of the revolutionaries and progressive democrats of Korea for the liberation of their country. It has firmly supported the cause of the independent and peaceful reunification of Korea, for which your party and your government recently advanced new concrete propositions.

We assure you that we will continue to express our active solidarity with the Korean people for the realisation of their objective of reunification. It is a just cause which corresponds not only with the interests of your country and your people, but also with those of peace, the stability and progress in Asia and the world.

I also avail myself of this opportunity of extending support to the struggle of the democrats of South Korea. The inhabitants there are suffering under the sanguinary dictatorship supported by the presence of the American army. Since it is the United States which installed this dictatorial "regime" and which actively supports it, the Americans are, in fact, utterly indifferent to the "human rights" of tens of millions of people of South Korea. The virtuous indignation of the pretended "defenders" of their "human rights" and "liberties" is selective.

They mean that the South Korean inhabitants, after more than thirty years, should still be subjected to the brutal repressive force. They who want to give others lessons refuse to see or hear anything.

As the struggle for a world of human rights is a noble cause, it can never be left to such hypocrites. As far as we are concerned, we will defend the human rights everywhere they are violated, as I once again declared at the plenary meeting of our party Central Committee held early this month. Vis-a-vis South Korea, we do everything we can to aid its inhabitants in shaking off the yoke of oppression and freely shaping their destiny.

We know that your party defined at its congress its objectives for the socialist development of the Democratic Peoples' Republic of Korea.

Under the impulsion of the Korean communists, your country has built an independent economy. It has attained successes in the economic, scientific, technical, social and cultural domains. For its activities in the international domain and its non-aligned policy, your country represents the forces which love peace and progress. You define and follow independently an original road of development of socialism.

On our part, we, at our 24th congress which was held in February, outlined the content of the original socialist society which we proposed to our people to build in France; a democratic socialism defined on the basis of the reality of our country, the history, aspirations and taste of our people, a socialist society which is out-and-out French. This means that we categorically reject the notions of "model" of socialism and each people should freely decide their own destiny and the Communist Party of each country independently shape its policy most suited to it. In this connection we believe that the experiences of socialist construction which are being more diversified with each passing day constitute a big wealth for all the liberation forces of the world and a factor of their success. The road of France corresponds to socialism of France; the road we want to follow is a democratic road which respects the will of the majority in each period.

The ensemble of this overall strategic direction made us decide in 1981 to be embraced in the left majority to participate in the government and determine ourselves to make constructive efforts in the spirit of unity to contribute to making advance in the solution of important problems facing France, overcoming internal and external difficulties created by the forces of money and realising the commitments we gave jointly with our allies to the people.

In the international arena our party is conducting activities to make France pursue a non-aligned policy, while respecting her relations of alliance, take all the possible initiatives and stands for peace and disarmament, while ensuring the security of states, and contribute to the establishment of a new international economic order.

In this spirit we hope that our country will improve and develop cooperation with the Third World countries and socialist countries. We consider that such new type of relations of solidarity which we desire accords not only with the interests of our people but also with the interests of the peoples of other countries.

In connection with the problem of relations with the Democratic People's Republic of Korea, we like you hope that France, as she promised to you, will establish diplomatic relations with your country and new relations be formed and developed between our two countries. We are carrying on our activities in this direction.

Respected Comrade Kim Il-song, dear comrades, in the present tense situation created by the imperialists, our two parties consider that it is necessary to unite all forces of the world struggling for peace, disarmament, justice, democracy and socialism.

The world people know that we have different stands in a series of problems. What is more natural than this? As I have already said, our two parties, separated from each other by thousands of kilometres, are struggling under very different national conditions and circumstances. Therefore, there exist differences between our two parties. How can the solutions of the two parties to all problems raised be the same? Accordingly, we think that differences in our views and opinions can never be an obstacle to our joint action for the realisation of our great common objectives and to the development of our relations on the basis of independence, mutual respect, equal right and non-interference.

We want to continuously develop the friendship, unity and cooperative relations existing between our two parties on the basis of this spirit. We are convinced that our current visit and our talks will bring about a new upswing in developing the friendship between the two parties in the interests of our two peoples and peace.

In the name of our delegation and of all the French communists, I propose to drink a toast: to the good health and long life of Comrade Kim Il-song, general secretary of the Central Committee of the Workers Party of Korea and president of the Democratic People's Republic of Korea, to the health of Korean comrades present here, to the success of the Workers Party of Korea in the struggle for the realisation of its objectives and the prosperity of the Korean people, and to the fraternal friendship and cooperation between our two parties in the interests of our two peoples, peace and socialism.

Discusses Afghan Issue

BK270452 Karachi Domestic Service in Urdu 0200 GMT 27 Oct 82

[Text] DPRK President Kim Il-song has said that President Ziaul Haq's visit to his country has provided a great opportunity to bring the two countries closer. Talking to Pakistani newsmen in Pyongyang yesterday, he said that his talks with the Pakistan president have enhanced mutual understanding and strengthened friendship. The two countries hold identical views on a number of issues.

Referring to his country's stand on the Afghanistan issue, he said it has always been our viewpoint that international disputes should be solved peacefully through negotiations between the concerned parties. The issue of Afghanistan should also be solved politically in accordance with the national aspirations of the Afghan people. He said that as a member of the Nonaligned Movement, his country will extend every possible cooperation to all friendly countries in their efforts toward a peaceful solution of the Afghan issue.

O CHIN-U AT FAREWELL BANQUET FOR CPV DELEGATION

SK271121 Pyongyang Domestic Service in Korean 2200 GMT 26 Oct 82

[Text] Zong Kewen, ambassador of the People's Republic of China to our country, arranged a banquet at his embassy yesterday [26 October] upon the conclusion of the Korean visit of the delegation of the former Chinese People's Volunteers.

Invited there were Comrade O Chin-u, member of the Presidium of the Political Bureau and member of the Military Committee of the KWP Central Committee and minister of people's armed forces, and Comrade Paek Hak-nim, member of the Political Bureau and member of the Military Committee of the KWP Central Committee and vice minister of people's armed forces, KPA Lieutenant Generals Pak Chung-kuk and Yun Chin-ho, alternate members of the KWP Central Committee, Deputy Director of a department of the KWP Central Committee Cho Yong-kuk, Vice Foreign Minister Kim Chae-suk, KPA Major Generals O Kyong-hun and Han Chu-kyong, and others.

Present there were the members of the delegation headed by Comrade Han Xianchu, member of the CPC Central Committee and deputy commander of the former CPV, and Gu Zhanhong, chief of the CPV Liaison Office at the Military Armistice Commission.

Comrade Han Xianchu spoke first at the banquet. He said: During its visit, the comrades-in-arms of the two nations of China and Korea met each other again with deep emotion and recalled the days when they valued and motivated each other in the same trenches and fought shoulder to shoulder, thus winning victory together. They expressed the common wish to consolidate and develop further the great China-Korea friendship.

Referring to the very successful visit of his delegation to Korea, he said that busy as he was respected President Kim Il-song found time to meet and have a cordial and friendly conversation with the delegation and greatly encouraged it. We would like to take this opportunity to express again our sincere thanks to respected President Kim Il-song.

The Korean people, he noted, have turned their country into a socialist state with a modern industry, developed agriculture, powerful defence potentiality and brilliant national culture by displaying the spirit of self-reliance and hard struggle under the wise guidance of their great leader President Kim Il-song and the Korean Workers Party.

He pointed out that the KPA had registered great success in the struggle to expedite the modernization of the army and it has grown into a stubborn, invincible heroic army safeguarding the fatherland. We wholeheartedly wish you greater success in the struggle for building the country and achieving national reunification, he stated.

He pointed out that the friendship between China and Korea was personally nursed by Comrade Mao Zedong, Comrade Zhou Enlai and Comrade Kim Il-song.

Comrade Han Xianchu stressed: The mutual visits of Comrade Hu Yaobang, Comrade Deng Xiaoping and Comrade Kim Il-song, the party leaders of China and Korea, have developed this friendship to a new height and the China-Korea friendship will be carried forward down through generations.

The Chinese people and the entire members of the former Chinese People's Volunteers will advance together, helping each other in firm unity on the same front with the Korean people in the future, too, as in the period of the past war, in the socialist construction and the revolutionary struggle.

Comrade Paek Hak-nim spoke next at the banquet.

The whole course of the visit of the former CPV delegation to our country clearly showed that the friendship of comrades-in-arms sealed in the period of the hard-fought fatherland liberation war which was decisive of their destiny is invariable and the militant friendship and unity between the two peoples and two armies is coming into fuller bloom as the days go by, he said.

He continued: On various occasions, you have actively supported our people's struggle to achieve the final victory of socialism and the independent and peaceful reunification of the fatherland under the wise leadership of the glorious party center, upholding the programmatic tasks put forward by the great leader Comrade Kim Il-song at the Sixth KWP Congress.

During its stay in Korea, he noted, the delegation expressed the firm stand of fighting against the common enemy shoulder to shoulder with us as in the period of the past fatherland liberation war, no matter what trial may come to Korea. Your sincere support and principled position are of great value to our people and the officers and men of the KPA and serve as powerful stimulation to us. He noted that from long ago, the peoples and armies of our two countries sealed friendly relations and consolidated and developed them on the same path of arduous struggle for national liberation and class liberation, for socialist revolution and socialist construction.

He declared: Today the great Korea-China friendship is coming into fuller bloom thanks to the energetic activities and deep care of the great leader Comrade Kim Il-song and respected Comrades Hu Yaobang and Deng Xiaoping.

Our people and officers and men of the People's Army wholeheartedly wish the fraternal Chinese people and comrades-in-arms of the People's Liberation Army greater success in their future struggle for realising the socialist modernization of the country advanced at the 12th CPC National Congress which marked a milestone in their history of struggle, and for having Taiwan returned to the embrace of the motherland to achieve the reunification of the whole country.

We will fight as ever shoulder to shoulder with the fraternal Chinese people in firm unity for the final victory of the cause of independence against imperialism, stated Comrade Paek Hak-nim.

The attendants of the banquet drank a toast to the everlasting friendship and unity between the Korean and Chinese peoples and armies, to the good health and long life of the great leader Comrade Kim Il-song and to the good health and long life of the dear leader Comrade Kim Chong-il, to the good health and long life of respected Comrade Hu Yaobang and to the good health and long life of respected Comrade Deng Xiaoping.

O CHIN-U GREETS ROMANIAN DEFENSE MINISTER

SK260843 Pyongyang KCNA in English 0803 GMT 26 Oct 82

[Text] Pyongyang, October 26 (KCNA) -- General O Chin-u, minister of people's armed forces, sent a message of greetings to Lieutenant General Constantin Olteanu, minister of national defence of Romania, on the occasion of the 38th anniversary of the founding of the Romanian Army.

The message says that since its founding the Romanian Army under the correct leadership of the Romanian Communist Party has reliably defended the gains of socialism and national sovereignty, smashing the repeated subversive activities and sabotage of the class enemies at home and abroad. Today, it notes, the Romanian Army, which has grown stronger as modern regular armed forces, is striving to increase its combat capacity for defeating any formidable imperialist enemy.

The message expresses the conviction that the friendly and cooperative relations sealed between the armies of the two countries will grow stronger and develop in the future.

HWANG CHANG-YOP MEETS POLISH SEJM DELEGATION

[Text] Pyongyang, October 26 (KCNA) -- Hwang Chang-yop, chairman of the Standing Committee of the Supreme People's Assembly, on October 25 met and had a friendly talk with the Polish Sejm delegation headed by Wit Drapich, chairman of the Complaints Commission of the Sejm and vice-chairman of the National Committee of the National Unity Front of Poland, which paid a courtesy call on him.

Present there were Yom Tae-chun, member of the Standing Committee of the Supreme People's Assembly and Presidium member of the Central Committee of the Democratic Front for the Reunification of the Fatherland, Ku Il-son, deputy to the Supreme People's Assembly, and Polish Ambassador to Korea Leon Tomaszewski.

Praise For Kim Chong-il

SK251113 Pyongyang KCNA in English 1020 GMT 25 Oct 82

[Excerpts] Pyongyang, October 25 (KCNA) -- The delegation of the Sejm of the Polish People's Republic headed by Wit Drapich, chairman of its Complaints Commission and vice-chairman of the National Committee of the National Unity Front of Poland, toured various places of Korea.

After visiting the Korean Revolution Museum, the head of the delegation said: The museum is of great significance in educating the youth and children in the revolutionary traditions. Tadeusz Orlof, a member of the delegation, noted: Through the visit, I gained a deep knowledge of the revolutionary activities of the great leader Comrade Kim Il-song. He further said: The dear leader Comrade Kim Chong-il is brilliantly carrying forward the revolutionary cause started by the great leader Comrade Kim Il-song. The revolutionary idea of the great leader Comrade Kim Il-song is being successfully translated into practice by the dear leader Comrade Kim Chong-il.

The delegation visited the Chongsan cooperative farm on October 24. Tadeusz Orlof, a member of the delegation, said that he saw, through the visit to the cooperative farm, big successes achieved by it in agricultural production thanks to the instructions and care of the great leader Comrade Kim Il-song and the dear leader Comrade Kim Chong-il.

The delegation visited Panmunjom and saw the reinforced concrete wall the U.S. imperialists and the South Korean puppet clique built along the whole length of the military demarcation line.

The guests appreciated the music and dance tale "Song of Paradise" and an acrobatic performance and inspected the Tower of Chuche Idea, the Arch of Triumph and other places.

NODONG SINMUN ON KIM CHONG-IL'S EMULATION CAMPAIGN

SK261156 Pyongyang Domestic Service in Korean 2246 GMT 25 Oct 82

[NODONG SINMUN 26 October special article: "The Great Leadership Which Leads the Movement To Emulate Unsung Heroes to Victory" -- KCNA identifies this as an "article"]

[Text] The respected and beloved leader Comrade Kim Il-song has taught as follows: Vigorously waging the movement to emulate the examples of the unheralded heroes is an important policy presently sought by our party.

Changing the ideas and thought of the working people is one of the fundamental questions on which success of socialist and communist construction depends. The greatness of the party of the working class and the correctness of its leadership are mainly displayed in the solution of this question.

In October 1979, in accordance with the demand put forth on the high stage of the development of the situation under which the cause of imbuing society with the chuche idea was being carried out in a full scale, the dear leader Comrade Kim Chong-il put forth the new policy to emulate the examples of the unheralded heroes. By so doing, he paved the broad way to successfully carry out the work of remolding the people.

The movement to emulate the examples of the unheralded heroes is a mass movement to change the ideas of the people, which has embodied our party's policy to educate people with affirmative examples. Educating people with affirmative examples is a policy firmly maintained by our party and is a method of mass education that accords with the nature of the socialist system.

Great attraction is being displayed by the movement to emulate the examples of the unheralded heroes, because the unheralded heroes nurtured by our party are regarded as models in carrying out the movement.

Putting forth the policy to wage the movement to emulate the examples of the unheralded heroes, the glorious party center set forth a basic target to be pursued in waging the movement. Most important in emulating the examples of the unheralded heroes is the emulation of their boundless loyalty to the party and the leader. The success of a mass movement depends on its basic target. The basic target of the movement to emulate the examples of the unheralded heroes is the emulation of their loyalty to the party and the leader. This is a principled demand intrinsic to the movement.

The unheralded heroes were all true communists and models to be emulated by all people. The basic character of the ideas and thought of the unheralded heroes is their boundless loyalty to the party and the leader. This is the noble spirit underlying the thought and acts of the unheralded heroes and the source of the might that enabled them to perform such heroic feats.

For 10, 20 or 30 years, the unheralded heroes always overcame difficulties and waged the heroic struggle to implement the party's line and policy. While performing such feats, they expected no reward and silently devoted themselves to the prosperity of the fatherland and the happiness of the people.

Another important question arising from the movement to emulate the examples of the unheralded heroes is to bring about innovation in scientific research and technical reform with the chuche-oriented way of thinking and the working fashion of settling matters in accordance with our own style. Thinking and acting in accordance with the chuche-oriented stand is an ideological and spiritual trait and fighting spirit of true communist revolutionaries.

In scientific research and technical reform, the unheralded heroes firmly maintained the chuche-oriented stand and thought in accordance with their conviction and boldly set forth high goals disregarding the existing theories and experiences. Under all circumstances, they did not change their revolutionary faith and persistently struggled against all obsolete ideas such as flunkeyism, conservatism, technological mysticism and empiricism. By so doing, they attained the high goals that they had boldly set forth.

Thoroughly embodying the great leader's work style -- the traditional work style of our party -- through the improvement of the work style and fashion of the functionaries is another important demand arising from the movement to emulate the examples of the unheralded heroes. The unheralded heroes totally rejected the obsolete work style and fashion, penetrated the people in accordance with the requirement of the Chongsan-ri spirit and method and gave priority to political work, vigorously encouraging people to accomplish the revolutionary task. By so doing,they set living examples of embodying the great leader's work style.

Indeed, the policy of the movement to emulate the examples of the unheralded heroes is the guiding principle that has illuminated the way to early achievement of the cause of imbuing society with the chuche idea through the vigorous acceleration of the three revolutions of ideology, technology and culture.

By putting forth the policy to wage the movement to emulate the examples of the unheralded heroes, dear leader Comrade Kim Chong-il started the mass movement on a higher stage and is leading wisely so that the movement may be waged on the scale of the whole party and all of society. The most significant fact in this is that he has seen to it that the organizational and political work to emulate the examples of the unheralded heroes be carried out actively among the party members and working people.

Making people correctly understand the aim, significance and nature of a mass movement is an important requirement in mobilizing them. Through various publications such as the party organ, our party has seen to it that the struggle of the unheralded heroes has been widely introduced and propagandized and the cadres, party members and working people have intensively studied it. In addition, our party has also seen to it that an aggressive campaign has been carried out to explain and penetrate the aim, significance and nature of the movement.

In the wake of this course, the party organ NODONG SINMUN carried a feature on large-scale discussion by the people. In the discussion that continued for more than 4 and 1/2 months from November 1979 through April 1980, as many as 2.4 million people of all strata participated. This shows the revolutionary zeal that the party members and working people, through the organizational and political work vigorously carried out under the banner of the party, have come to possess in living and struggling for the party and the leader like the unheralded heroes.

The glorious party center is also seeing to it that the movement to emulate the examples of the unheralded heroes is handled and implemented by the party organizations themselves. The progress of a mass movement entirely depends on the guidance that the party organizations give it.

In January 1981, taking a step to further deepen and develop the movement to emulate the examples of the unheralded heroes, our party saw to it that the movement was carried out as a task of the party committees. As a result, today, the movement has become an important task for our party organizations and is being ceaselessly deepened and developed in close relation with the daily organizational and ideological life of the party members and working people.

All the pledges that have been made during the course of the movement to emulate the examples of the unheralded heroes have been fulfilled without fail and the proud achievements won and good deeds done during its course are winning sympathy throughout the society, encouraging party members and working people to feats of loyalty. This is clear evidence of the correctness of the party's policy to assign the movement as the task of the party committees.

The glorious party center is also seeing to it that the movement to emulate the examples of the unheralded heroes is closely linked with the movement to win the red flags of the three revolutions so that it can be accelerated vigorously and carried out on a broad scale. The movement, which is being carried out under the revolutionary slogan "For the party and the leader and for the fatherland and the people," is displaying even greater attraction and vitality with each passing day.

We are now facing the honorable task of implementing the decision of the Hamhung plenary meeting of the party, Central Committee. The historic Hamhung plenary meeting appealed to our people for an aggressive struggle to epochally increase nonferrous metal production and bring about a new upsurge in the machine industry. This militant appeal shows our party's deep trust in the party members and working people and its far-reaching plan to further strengthen the economic might of the country through a new revolutionary upsurge in socialist construction.

Important in implementing the decision of the Hamhung plenary meeting of the party Central Committee is for party members and working people to vigorously carry out the movement to emulate the examples of the unheralded heroes, the vitality of which has been fully displayed through its progress over the past 3 years.

With lofty loyalty to the party and the revolution, the unheralded heroes waged the unyielding struggle to implement the party's lines and policies. This was an incomparable happiness and joy for them. When we are prepared ideologically as the unheralded heroes to devote ourselves to the struggle for the prosperity of the fatherland and the happiness of the people, we can carry out any task and overcome any difficulty.

The party members and working people must keep in mind loyalty to the party and the leader as a revolutionary faith and further display the revolutionary spirit of self-reliance and arduous struggle. In doing this they must thoroughly implement the decision of the historic Hamhung plenary meeting.

KIM CHONG-IL, THREE-REVOLUTION TEAMS LINKED

SK221053 Pyongyang KCNA in English 1030 GMT 22 Oct 82

[Text] Pyongyang, October 22 (KCNA) -- NODONG SINMUN stresses that the three-revolution team movement directed by the dear leader Comrade Kim Chong-il is a powerful revolutionary guiding method for carrying on the three revolutions, ideological, technical and cultural, in a more organised and active way in conformity with the actual demand of socialist construction.

In an article titled "Three-Revolution Team Movement Is Powerful Revolutionary Guiding Method for Making Three Revolutions Organised and Active" the paper says:

Our party initiated the three-revolution team movement for decisively strengthening guidance to the three revolutions in conformity with the new historical period for the modelling of the whole society on the chuche idea and has wisely directed this movement. In this way our party has created a brilliant example showing by what revolutionary guiding method the working-class party should carry on the ideological, technical and cultural revolutions and direct socialist construction.

The three-revolution team movement becomes a revolutionary guiding method for making the three revolutions organised and active because, first of all, this movement closely combines political and ideological guidance with scientific and technical guidance.

The three-revolution team members sent by our party to factories and rural villages in all parts of the country are party cores and young intellectuals fully prepared politically and ideologically, scientifically and technically. They are firmly equipped with our party's revolutionary idea, the chuche idea, and with advanced science and technique, and have revolutionary qualities -- sensitive to new things and enterprising. As it embraces such forces well prepared politically and practically and full of vigor, the three-revolution team movement makes it possible to decisively strengthen political and ideological guidance and scientific and technical guidance.

To satisfactorily ensure both political and ideological guidance and scientific and technical guidance -- herein lies the inexhaustible might of the three-revolution team movement.

The second reason why the three-revolution team movement becomes a revolutionary guiding method for making the three revolutions -- ideological, technical and cultural -- organised and active is that this movement fully meets the demand of the revolutionary work method that the superior help the subordinate.

Through the three-revolution team movement, well-prepared guiding forces directly go down to the production units and actively help leading personnel with the work so that they may be possessed of revolutionary zeal and qualities and carry out the revolutionary tasks as intended by the party. Experience shows that this movement is a powerful means of helping the old leading personnel and all other functionaries boldly divorce themselves from the old work method and work with vigor and zeal, knowing neither decrepitude nor stagnation.

The third reason is that the three-revolution team movement actively enlists the revolutionary zeal and creative wisdom of the broad masses in the struggle for carrying out the three revolutions. The three-revolution team members go down deep among the producer masses and energetically conduct political propaganda and economic agitation in conformity with their level, helping all the working people to be deeply conscious of being master and display a high sense of responsibility in carrying out their revolutionary tasks.

The three-revolution team members are the fighting standard-bearers who are leading the masses in the van of the ranks with their practical example. It is the way of their activity to be always one in body and spirit with the masses, share bitters and sweets with them and take the lead in most difficult work. Such struggle of the three-revolution team members greatly inspires the party members and working people with a firm confidence and fighting spirit and greatly encourages them to actively turn out to the struggle for implementing the party policy.

Under the guidance of the dear leader Comrade Kim Chong-il the three-revolution team movement has fully displayed its might as a powerful force propelling the three revolutions, says NODONG SINMUN.

KIM CHONG-IL OCTOBER 1976 GUIDANCE REVIEWED

SK231027 Pyongyang KCNA in English 1000 GMT 23 Oct 82

[Text] Pyongyang, October 23 (KCNA) -- NODONG SINMUN October 22 carried an article titled "Political and Ideological Unity and Purity Is the Life and Soul of the Party and a Decisive Guarantee for All Victories." The article says:

In October 1976 the dear leader Comrade Kim Chong-il put forward the great idea of firmly defending the political and ideological unity of the party and its purity from generation to generation. This gives a concrete exposition of the essence and necessity of carrying forward the revolutionary cause and tasks of inheriting and accomplishing it down through generations.

This original idea, which gives scientific answers to the fundamental problems arising in building a working-class party, vividly reflects the revolutionary will of the glorious party centre to steadfastly defend the unity of our party and its purity based on the chuche idea and thus carry forward the cause of chuche, the revolutionary cause of the great leader Comrade Kim Il-song, to a shining accomplishment.

The dear leader Comrade Kim Chong-il gave an overall exposition, above all, of the problems of principle arising in carrying forward the cause of the leader.

The revolutionary cause of the working class, the revolutionary cause of the leader, is a sacred work that must be inherited and accomplished through generations.

Carrying forward the cause of the leader and bringing it to accomplishment through generations means to defend with fortitude invariably the revolutionary idea and exploits of the leader who was the first to hew the path of revolution, though a new generation takes over the revolution, and thereby successfully realize the cause of communism.

The fundamental question in carrying forward the revolutionary cause of the working class to accomplishment is to be boundlessly loyal to the leader who was the first to pave the road of revolution and to his cause.

The leader plays a decisive role in the revolutionary struggle. As taught by the glorious party centre, the revolutionary cause of the working class is started and led to victory by the leader and accomplished under his leadership.

To firmly guarantee the political and ideological unity of the party and its purity is also a question of principle arising in inheriting and accomplishing the revolutionary cause of the leader.

Unity and cohesion is the life and soul of the party. The existence of a working-class party and its sound development as the general staff of revolution is firmly guaranteed only by the steel-like unity and cohesion of the whole party. The unity and cohesion of the party is attended with a struggle against all anti-party trends that plague it.

The history of the Korean communist movement for more than half a century has been a course of struggle to achieve and cement unity and cohesion based on the chuche idea. A brilliant tradition of unity and cohesion has been attained in this struggle.

The dear leader Comrade Kim Chong-il clarified tasks of firmly defending the political and ideological unity of the party and its purity from generation to generation. What is important in this is for the party organisations to properly conduct work with people, strengthen ideological education among the party members and working people and establish a revolutionary method of work among party workers.

IOC MEMBER VISITS ROK; TO TOUR PRC AFTER VISIT

SK270245 Seoul YONHAP in English 0233 GMT 27 Oct 82

[Text] Seoul, Oct. 27 (YONHAP) -- Monique Berlioux, visiting secretary general of the International Olympic Committee (IOC), met with Chong Chu-yong, president of the Korea Amateur Sports Association (KASA), at the KASA headquarters building in Seoul Tuesday afternoon to discuss preparations for the 1988 Seoul summer Olympics.

The Frenchwoman told Chong, concurrently president of the Korean Olympic Committee (KOC), that the ICC would assist the KOC to successfully host the 24th Seoul Olympiad in every way possible, noting that organizers were doing fairly well in preparing for the international sports festival, sources close to the meeting said.

Berlioux was said to have asked Chong to attend a joint meeting of the IOC Executive Committee members and representatives from the national Olympic committees scheduled for Jan. 14-21 in Los Angeles, and the KOC president accepted her request.

According to the sources, Chong told Berlioux, who is scheduled to fly into mainland China following her ongoing five-day Korean visit, that South Korea hopes for sports exchanges transcending national ideology and political system with the entire world. Seoul has no diplomatic relations with Beijing.

The IOC official arrived in Seoul Sunday at the invitation of the Seoul Olympic Organizing Committee (SOOC) on an observation tour of preparations for the 1988 Olympiad. Prior to her meeting with Chong Tuesday, Berlioux received the Order of Sports Merit, Maengho Medal, from South Korean President Chon Tu-hwan when she paid a courtesy call on him at Chongwadae, the presidential mansion here. During her stay here, the Frenchwoman is also scheduled to meet with other government officials and sports leaders, and view sports facilities, both established and under construction, for the Seoul Olympics.

DRAFT LAW SEEKS FOREIGN POLICY CONDUCT OVERHAUL

[Text] The government has worked out an "External Relations Law" bill, seeking an intensive overhaul of the Foreign Ministry's administrative mechanism and all diplomatic missions abroad to attain maximum possible efficiency in the conduct of foreign policy, it was learned yesterday. The newly-drafted formula is likely to be submitted to the National Assembly for approval during the current house session slated to continue until December 18.

Drafting such a bill is aimed, among other things, at strengthening drastically the nation's diplomatic functions in the international community through effective cooperation among the relevant ministries in the sectors of diplomacy and economic cooperation with foreign countries. It is also intended to improve drastically the ministry's administration, including personnel management.

The law bill makes it mandatory for all cabinet members to have prior coordination with the foreign minister in dealing with external affairs which are related to their offices. Accordingly, if the bill is passed as drafted in the House, the foreign minister will be given greater authority to manage non-career embassy officials dispatched from other ministries. At present, officials from about 10 ministries and offices are assigned to embassies in the name of attaches to help promote overseas cooperation in the sectors of trade, construction, fisheries, maritime business, and other necessary fields.

A plan is also being made to create an administrative agency to deal exclusively with the nation's economic cooperation with foreign states in the first half of next year.

The organ, initially named "Korea International Development Cooperation Agency (KIDCA)," may be operated under the direct control of the Foreign Ministry and take over all kinds of businesses concerning overseas economic cooperation.

At present, administrative affairs concerning overseas economic cooperation are dispersed among the Foreign Ministry and economic offices such as the Construction, Finance, Energy-Resources, and Commerce-Industry Ministries. Government sources said that the creation of the organ was aimed at promoting cooperative ties with developing countries in such fields as economy, culture, energy, and medical fields.

MAJOR PARTIES AGREE ON POLITICAL FUND CHANNEL

[Text] The three major political parties agreed yesterday to utilize the existing legal device at the Central Election Management Committee (CEMC) to raise political funds through donations by the general public, including businessmen, in a bid to solve financial difficulties they were now facing. To this end, the parties decided to ask the CEMC to study concrete plans, and empowered their secretary generals to confer further on the matter. The parties have been depending on sporadic government subsidies and money collected from party members so far.

The accord was made in a joint meeting of senior officers of the parties -- Democratic Justice Party, Democratic Korea Party, and Korea National Party -- at the National Assembly Speaker's Office. The party leaders discussed a broad range of pending issues, including the way of dealing with "political bills" presented by the opposition camp and the removal of a political ostracism on former politicians. No further agreement on the major issues came in the lengthy meeting which lasted for about four hours.

The opposition DKP and KNP officials insisted that the so-called "reformative legislation" should be rewritten during the current regular House sitting. However, their ruling DJP counterparts reiterated their basic position that the laws enacted by the defunct legislative assembly during the interim government before the inauguration of the Fifth Republic could be revised, if reasonable grounds warranting amendment were found.

The opposition camp also demanded in the sit-together that the political ban be lifted at an early date, but the DJP maintained that the matter should be left to the judgment of the president.

The key officials from the opposition parties hoped that the government would take lenient measures for the prisoners involved in the Kwangju riot. Their counterparts revealed that they would contact the Justice Ministry authorities for the possible "moderate measures" for 12 riot-related offenders still in prison.

The opposition leaders further claimed that the standing committees should be empowered to deliberate the budget bill of the government as before.

Participants of the meeting were secretary generals, chief policy makers and floor leaders.

OPPOSITION LAWMAKERS URGE PRESS LAW REVISION

SK280248 Seoul THE KOREA TIMES in English 28 Oct 82 p 1

[Text] The opposition lawmakers on the National Assembly Education-Information Committee urged the government yesterday to rewrite the basic press law, claiming it might infringe upon the freedom of the press.

Rep. Kang Ki-pil of the Korea National Party said: "Although the law was enacted for the purpose of guaranteeing freedom of the press, it must be amended lest it should disturb journalistic freedom." Rep. Sin Sang-u of the Democratic Korea Party requested the Culture-Information Ministry to explain why it did not allow an assembly of past dissident poets.

The committee was one of the 11 standing committees which met to interpellate the pertinent ministries and also to deliberate various law bills and motions.

Rep. Kim Chun-su of the ruling Democratic Justice Party on the panel called for the government to hammer out due measures for the protection of cultural property. He pointed out that many cultural treasures had been smuggled out of the country in recent days.

In a meeting of the Home Affairs Committee, Home Minister No Tae-u said that it was not the proper time for the government to place Kwangju city under its direct control in view of the size of its population, numbering less than 1 million. "However, the government will consider upgrading the status of the capital city of Cholla-namdo according to the degree of its financial independence," he said. He also said that his ministry had already instructed administrative units concerned to hold monthly neighborhood meetings, which had been convened uniformly on the 25th, at any date according to regional circumstances.

'PURIM INCIDENT' DEFENDANTS' APPEALS REJECTED

SK280255 Seoul THE KOREA TIMES in English 28 Oct 82 p 8

[Text] The Supreme Court yesterday turned down the appeals of all the 16 defendants involved in the so-called "Purim incident," a plot to instigate a seditious demonstration in Pusan, finalizing prison terms ranging from six years to probation.

The court also rejected the appeal of the prosecution, acquitting some defendants of the charges of violating the National Security Law. The court reasoned there was no substantial evidence to prove the contents of their alleged confessions.

The 16 defendants were arrested on Oct. 15 last year for agitating students, labor unionists and other workers to stage a demonstration with the aim of building a socialist-communist state. They conducted ideological indoctrinations regularly of target members with leftist-oriented texts, according to the prosecution. They were all charged with violating the National Security Law, the Anti-Communist Law, the Law on Assembly and Demonstration, and martial law decrees.

Two masterminds, Yi Sang-nok, 27, and Ko Ho-sok, 26, were jailed for six years each plus suspension of civil rights for the same period.

OPPOSITION RAISES QUESTIONS ON CAMPUS SITUATION

[Summary of question by Kim Yu-pok, national assemblyman of the Korea National Party, and answer by An Ung-mo, chief of the Police Headquarters, at the National Assembly Home Affairs Committee session held on 26 October]

[Text] [Question] There is in our society today a trend toward viewing the situation dismally, and viewing the state administration cynically. This can be attributed to the creation of many victims because of reform actions, and to the lack of pacifying efforts. Is Minister No ready to make a suggestion to the president on solutions to this issue?

To prevent great disturbance on campuses, the government should always assume a flexible attitude toward students so as not to suppress their discontent. If the students limit themselves to discussion, so should the government. It should take a defensive attitude if they resist. Because the government has used its own method of surveying campuses by employing agents clad in civilian clothes, students have used their own methods.

[Answer] I have not made an effort to learn of foreign reaction to rumors of torture by the police. There has been no need for this effort.

I have limited intelligence surveillance of the campuses to the minimum.

Pak Kwan-hyon, who died in prison in Kwangju, had not requested release due to sickness.

I have recruited policemen in accordance with the law on Combat Police Forces.

Further on An's Response

SK280203 Seoul TONG-A ILBO in Korean 27 Oct 82 p 11

[Text] Speaking at the National Assembly in the evening of 26 October, An Ung-mo, director-general of the National Police Headquarters, said there have never been such things as plainclothes policemen sneaking into universities disguised as students.

In the interpellation at the National Assembly Home Affairs Committee held on 26 October, Korea National Party Rep Kim Yu-pok said: Such an expediency as sending disguised policemen into universities in civilian clothes to investigate campus activity should never be allowed.

Answering Rep Kim, Director General An said: Some people are spreading rumors accusing the police of sending into universities those brainwashed in the purification camps, gangsters, policemen and combat policemen wearing badges and enrolling as if they were legitimate students in order to keep watch on the students. Director General An also made it clear that he would make a thorough investigation on the source of such rumors.

ARRESTS OF UNIVERSITY STUDENTS REPORTED

Hongik Student Arrested

SK240423 Seoul THE KOREA TIMES in English 24 Oct 82 p 8

[Text] The Seoul Mapo police arrested yesterday a student from the Economics Department of the Hongik University on charges of violating the Law on Assembly and Demonstrations.

According to the police, Kim Hyon, 23, a senior at the university, allegedly distributed over 70 anti-government leaflets in the underground dining hall and 10 in rooms of student associations at the university at around 1 p.m. Thursday. Kim told the police that he had printed over 150 anti-government leaflets by himself in "S" Inn in Hapchung-dong, Mapo-ku, western Seoul, at around 8 p.m. on the previous day.

Chonnam Arrests

SK260220 Seoul TONG-A ILBO in Korean 25 Oct 82 p 10

[Text] On 23 October Sobu police station in Kwangju arrested 4 students of Chonnam University and sentenced them to 20 days in jail each on charges of violating the Law on Assembly and Demonstrations. The four students are: So Chong-sok, 20, a sophomore majoring in geology; Ko Hui-sok, 19, a sophomore majoring in chemical engineering; Na Hyang-chu, 20, a sophomore majoring in education on English literature; and Sim Chan-sop, 18, a sophomore at the School of Law.

The police also sentenced 3 additional students to 10 days in jail each on the same charges: Kim Kwan-chung, 18, a freshman at the School of Natural Science; Cho Yong-hun, 20, a sophomore at the Preparatory School of Medical Studies; and Ki Won-pil, 20, a sophomore at the School of Sociology.

UN ASSEMBLY DECISION ON REPRESENTATION CONDEMNED

Pen Navouth Remarks

BK271216 Phnom Penh Domestic Service in Cambodian 0430 GMT 27 Oct 82

[Summary] "At 0730 on 27 October cadres, personnel of the Ministry of Education and students held a solemn meeting at the higher pedagogic school to voice support for the 26 October statement of the PRK Ministry of Foreign Affairs. On that occasion, after Comrade Chan Min, assistant to the education minister, read the Foreign Ministry's statement, Comrade Pen Navouth, minister of education, made a speech stressing the importance of the statement."

He said: We are very indignant about the injustice imposed on us by a number of countries at the United Nations which have violated the UN Charter and the right to self-determination of our Kampuchean people and allowed the genocidal gang of the so-called Coalition Government of Democratic Kampuchea to represent Kampuchea at the United Nations.

Everyone knows where this so-called government was born and who acted as midwife in delivering it. It was conceived in the capital of an ASEAN country and the midwife was the Beijing expansionist clique in collusion with the U.S. imperialists and other reactionaries in the ASEAN countries.

"We are very indignant about the injustice that the delegates of a number of countries have done to us at the 37th session of the UN General Assembly. However, we are not impressed by these illegitimate resolutions. We are optimistic and believe in our strength. Day by day the reconstruction of our country is firmly progressing. Our people are proud of this revival; we are proud of our stabilized life, we are proud of our recovered rights. Our people are striving to increase production, and are determined to defend our revolution as well as our fatherland. We also have the backing of a number of countries and all the world's progressive forces which are actively defending us and our just cause -- in particular the militant solidarity of the three Indochinese countries -- Kampuchea, Vietnam and Laos -- which is the determining factor of our victory."

"We unanimously unite and categorically reject the representation of Kampuchea at the United Nations by this disguised genocidal clique. We unanimously support the statement of our Ministry of Foreign Affairs which condemned the decision to grant the right of representation for the Kampuchean people to the Pol Pot-Ieng Sary-Khieu Samphan genocidal gang in disguise."

Later, representatives of teaching personnel and students from throughout the country took the floor and expressed their anger at the UN decision to give the Kampuchean seat to the traitorous Pol Pot clique and considered this a gross interference in the internal affairs of the PRK. The delegates also expressed their total support for the statement of the PRK Foreign Ministry. "The meeting ended at 0900 in an atmosphere of highly combative solidarity."

Further Comment

BK261104 Phnom Penh SPK in French 0423 GMT 23 Oct 82

[Text] Phnom Penh, 23 Oct (SPK) -- Under the pressure of the imperialists, expansionists and reactionaries, the so-called "Kampuchean problem" was included in the agenda of the 37th session of the UN General Assembly without the presence of a representative from the PRK.

It is a maneuver whose ultimate goal is to impose once again on the Kampuchean people a regime they have cast onto the garbage of history and it is a violation of the fundamental rights of a nation in rebirth after having escaped genocide.

Following the defeat of an international conference on the "Kampuchean problem" in July 1981, the enemies of the Kampuchean people renewed their maneuver, inciting the United Nations to raise a "Kampuchean problem" which has not existed for more than 3 years. Today, the Kampuchean people are masters of their own destiny and are working hard to rebuild a new, independent, free and Democratic Kampuchea under the leadership of the People's Revolutionary Party and the PRK Government -- the sole authentic and legitimate government born of the people's will.

The "Kampuchean problem" was the unprecedented, genocidal regime of Pol Pot-Ieng Sary-Khieu Samphan which the Kampuchean people endured for 3 years, 8 months and 20 days.

The United Nations -- this international organization called to defend justice, peace and human rights -- did nothing then while now it allows the genocidal hangmen -- vomited upon by public opinion -- to use it as a platform for their slanderous propaganda.

How can a government like that of "Democratic Kampuchea," which has neither territory nor people, be allowed to represent Kampuchea? Furthermore, its representatives are notorious criminals hiding behind the "coalition" mask. To support the representatives of "Democratic Kampuchea" is to support Hitler...

The best thing for the United Nations to do is to expel the Pol Pot or disguised Pol Pot gang from its throne. Once this is done, the United Nations will see its prestige soar because it is in conformity with its objectives and the aspirations of people the world over. Once this is done, it will contribute to peace, security and stability in Southeast Asia.

Any discussion concerning Kampuchea and any resolution adopted without the participation or agreement of PRK representatives are considered null and void and a gross interference in the internal affairs of the PRK, stressed the PRK minister of foreign affairs in his letter to the secretary general of the United Nations and the chairman of the 37th session of the UN General Assembly.

In fact, an unreasonable act will lead to an illegitimate result; it does not correspond to the real situation in Kampuchea.

THAI BORDER INTRUSIONS FROM 15 TO 21 OCT REPORTED

BK270822 Phnom Penh SPK in French 0404 GMT 27 Oct 82

[Text] Phnom Penh, 27 Oct (SPK) -- According to military sources, during the week of 15-21 October, artillery pieces located in Thailand pounded Kampuchean territory 51 times, causing much loss of life and property.

Thai reconnaissance aircraft flew over the Kampuchea-Vietnam-Laos border junction sector three times, penetrating up to 3 km inside the border.

One hundred and fifty intrusions by Thai boats and armed vessels between 4 and 6 nautical miles inside the territorial waters of the People's Republic of Kampuchea, northwest of the Koh Kong Islands, were reported.

MURDER, DEFECTIONS SAID RIFE IN SON SANN GROUP

BK271007 Phnom Penh Domestic Service in Cambodian 0430 GMT 26 Oct 82

[Text] According to reports from Western sources, (Di Sar Luct), a key commander of the Son Sann group, was killed during infighting on 11 October. Ten days later, Dien Del was compelled to resign from his post as chief of staff. This has plunged the Son Sann group into more serious crises in their continual struggle for power.

It should be noted that cases of murder and defection among the Son Sann group are increasing, while our Kampuchean revolution is advancing firmly. In fact, many repentant elements of the Son Sann group turned themselves over to the Kampuchean revolutionary power during the third quarter of this year.

At present, these returnees are being accorded all kinds of support and assistance in their daily life by the Kampuchean revolutionary power and people so that they can contribute to the defense and construction of the fatherland.

VODK LAUDS UN DECISION ON REPRESENTATION ISSUE

BK271444 (Clandestine) Voice of Democratic Kampuchea in Cambodian to Kampuchea 2330 GMT 26 Oct 82

[Station editorial: "A Majority Vote in the UN General Assembly Once Again Clearly Shows the Legal Right To Representation and the Legitimacy of Democratic Kampuchea in the United Nations"]

[Text] On 25 October 1982 the 37th session of the UN General Assembly voted to retain the Democratic Kampuchean seat in the United Nations as the sole legal and legitimate representative of Kampuchea with a 90 to 29 majority and 26 abstentions. This is the fourth time that the UN General Assembly -- the highest world organization -- has voted for the legal right to representation and legitimacy of the Democratic Kampuchean state and taken it to its bosom. Compared to 1981, there were 11 [figure as heard] more ballots supporting the Democratic Kampuchean seat in the United Nations in 1982. The number of ballots supporting the Hanoi Vietnamese enemy aggressors' trick decreased from 36 to 29 -- seven less than last year.

Since the Vietnamese began their aggression in Kampuchea 4 years ago, the UN General Assembly has adopted a firm and just stand based on the UN Charter by voting to support the Democratic Kampuchean seat with an increase in the majority every year -- 71 in 1979, 74 in 1980 and 79 [figure as heard] in 1981. In 1982 the number of UN General Assembly ballots supporting the right to representation and the seat of Democratic Kampuchea rose to 90. The fact that the UN General Assembly overwhelmingly voted in favor of the Democratic Kampuchean seat clearly shows that the international community can never accept the violation and trampling underfoot of the principles of the UN Charter and laws of international relations. The world firmly opposes the Hanoi Vietnamese enemy's aggression in Democratic Kampuchea -- an independent, sovereign state and a member of the United Nations. It can never accept the Vietnamese enemy's aggression and occupation of Kampuchea as a fait accompli.

The result of the 25 October UN vote clearly shows that the international community strictly opposes the aggressive and expansionist strategy of the Hanoi Vietnamese enemy and the Soviets in Southeast Asia, who want to oust Democratic Kampucheas and intend to swallow Kampuchea and include it in the Indochina federation and use this federation as a springboard to stage their aggression and expansion in various countries in the region. This is a brilliant victory of the just struggle of the Kampuchean people and all patriotic Kampuchean forces under the leadership of the Democratic Kampuchean Government, which has made efforts in the struggle with every hardship in a bloody war against the Vietnamese enemy aggressors. This just struggle has been waged in the defense of the Kampuchean nation, people and race, preventing the Vietnamese enemy from swallowing and exterminating them. It has been carried out for the Kampuchean national cause and race, and the preservation of Kampuchea as an independent, sovereign, peaceful, neutral and nonaligned country.

This victory is a common victory of all peace-, independence- and justice-loving forces in the world who have opposed aggression and expansionism in defense of peace, stability and order in the world, as well as for the defense of the principles of the UN Charter and international law. It is a major boost for the Kampuchean people and the Democratic Kampuchean National Army and guerrillas in their just struggle against the Vietnamese enemy aggressors, expansionists, swallowers of territory and race exterminators. It will continue to encourage them until all the Vietnamese enemy are driven out of Kampuchea, achieving their national liberation cause for the defense of the Kampuchean national independence, sovereignty and territorial integrity. The result of this vote vehemently supporting the Democratic Kampuchean seat at the United Nations encourages and provides support to all independence-, peace- and justice-loving countries and peoples, especially the Third World countries, small, medium-size, poor and weak countries which are opposing external threats.

The outcome of this vote is providing assistance and support to these countries and the peoples' struggle against aggression, expansionism and external interference for the defense of their national sovereignty and independence. The fact that the 37th session of the UN General Assembly voted with a greater majority than in previous years to support the Democratic Kampuchean seat is once again a shameful and bitter defeat for the Hanoi Vietnamese enemy aggressors and their Soviet masters that made them more isolated on the international scene. The Le Duan Vietnamese enemy aggressors are bogged down and are at a complete impasse on the Kampuchean battlefield and are making every effort to stage every poisonous maneuver -- military, political and diplomatic -- to steal the Democratic Kampuchean seat. They wish to oust Democratic Kampuchea from the United Nations in order to clear the way for them in their attempt to legitimize their aggression in Kampuchea. But they have suffered successive defeats. They were defeated during the 34th session of the UN General Assembly in 1979, the 35th session in 1980 and the 36th session in 1981. And at present, during the 1982 37th session of the UN General Assembly, the Vietnamese enemy aggressors are being severely defeated. This defeat has pushed them into a stronger impasse and they have become more isolated on the international scene.

The Kampuchean people and the Democratic Kampuchean National Army and guerrillas under the leadershop of the Democratic Kampuchean Government would like to express their profound thanks to all peace-, independence- and justice-loving governments and peoples for their support in the majority vote for the Democratic Kampuchean seat at the United Nations. The Kampuchean people are confident that all these governments and peoples will unite with each other to provide sympathy and greater assistance and support -- political, diplomatic, moral and material -- to the correct and just cause of the Kampuchean people and the Democratic Kampuchean National Army and guerrillas under the leadership of the Democratic Kampuchean Government in their struggle against the Le Duan Vietnamese enemy aggressors until they are all driven out of Kampuchea. This struggle has been aimed at restoring peace in Kampuchea, letting the Kampuchean people work for their living as usual, reestablishing the independence, sovereignty, peace, neutrality and nonalignment of Kampuchea, which contributes to peace and stability in Southeast Asia as well as throughout the world. Concurrently, the Kampuchean people and the Democratic Kampuchean Government hope that during the future debates on the Kampuchean situation, all peace- and justice-loving countries will raise their voices to denounce and condemn the Vietnamese enemy's aggression in Kampuchea. They hope that these countries will continue to ask for and take the necessary measures to apply pressure to the Hanoi Vietnamese enemy until they immediately and unconditionally pull out all their aggressor troops from Kampuchea, and respect the right to self-determination of the Kampuchean people in determining their own destiny without any outside interference and in conformity with the resolutions adopted by the UN General Assembly during the last three sessions.

The Kampuchean people and the Democratic Kampuchean National Army and guerrillas under the leadership of the Democratic Kampuchean Government are determined to raise higher the banner of struggle against the Vietnamese enemy aggressors to liberate and defend the Kampuchean nation and race in order to preserve them. They deserve the noble confidence, assistance and support of all friendly peoples and countries in the world, both near and far, contributing to the defense of international security and world peace.

SOVIET COMMUNICATIONS, TRANSPORT DELEGATION VISITS

BK271126 Vientiane KPL in English 0906 GMT 27 Oct 82

[Text] Vientiane, October 27 (KPL) -- The delegation of the Communist Party of the Soviet Union, led by V.I. Davydov, first deputy-director of the transport, post office and telecommunication of the CPSU, on October 26 called on Col Phao Bounnaphon, alternate member of the Lao People's Revolutionary Party CC, and minister of transport and post office. The CPSU delegation arrived here on October 26 for an official and friendship visit to Laos.

Col. P. Bounnaphon, on this occasion, congratulated the Soviet delegation for its visit here and pledged for the strengthening of co-operation in the transport and communication field between Laos and the USSR. V.I. Davydov seized this occasion to thank the Lao side for its hospitality.

PHOUMI VONGVICHIT RECEIVES PRK YOUTH DELEGATION

BK270341 Vientiane Domestic Service in Lao 0000 GMT 27 Oct 82

[Text] On the morning of 26 October at the government guest house, Phoumi Vongvichit, deputy chairman, member of the LPRP Central Committee Political Bureau and vice chairman of the Council of Ministers, received in a courtesy call the delegation of the Kampuchean Revolutionary Youth organization led by its vice chairman Sam Sundoeun, now on a visit to our country. The delegation was accompanied by Mrs Thongvin Phomvihan, member of the LPRP Central Commiteee and vice chairman of the Lao People's Revolutionary Youth Union Central Committee. Neou Samom, PRK ambassador extraordinary and plenipotentiary to Laos, was also on hand.

During the call, Phoumi Vongvichit expressed his pleasure at the visit to Laos by the delegation, saying it was an example of a good will gesture to strengthen the existing special solidarity between the two youth organizations and between the Lao and Kampuchean peoples, which cannot be destroyed by any enemies. Sam Sundoeun told the host of the activities of the Kampuchean Revolutionary Youth Organization under the leadership of the KPRP in contributing to the defense and construction of their country, particularly in resisting the efforts to rekindle the war by the genocidal Pol Pot-Ieng Sary-Khieu Samphan regime and other Khmer reactionary groups masterminded by the U.S. imperialists and the Chinese big-nation expansionists and hegemonists.

The conversation between the host and the guests was permeated with an atmosphere of intimacy.

AFP: LAO REBELS CLAIM ATTACKS AGAINST SRV TROOPS

BK280656 Hong Kong AFP in English 0634 GMT 28 Oct 82

[Text] Bangkok, Oct 28 (AFP) -- Laotian rebels have claimed a series of attacks against Vietnamese troops in their country in the rebels' first military communique since forming a "government" last week.

The communique, delivered to AGENCE FRANCE-PRESSE here today, said a guerrilla unit on September 30 attacked troops guarding a government cooperative in a village identified as Ban Nadu Kao in the southern province [as received] of Vapikhamthong.

It said the enemy troops, presumably Vietnamese, withdrew after a stiff one-hour firefight, enabling the guerrillas to seize weapons, ammunition, food and supplies. The communique included precise claims on movements by Vietnamese troops and Soviet advisers.

There was no independent confirmation of the information in the detailed statement, which bore the heading "Kingdom of Laos, Army of Lao Liberation."

Laotian rightists announced last Saturday that they had set up what they called the Democratic Government of the Kingdom of Laos to force out the estimated 50,000 Vietnamese troops backing the communist government in Vientiane.

PHNOM PENH CHARGES OF VIOLATIONS SAID 'GROUNDLESS'

BK281048 Bangkok Voice of Free Asia in Thai 1000 GMT 27 Oct 82

[Text] The VIETNAM NEWS AGENCY on 19 October quoted the so-called Voice of the Kampuchean People Radio as saying that during the week ending 14 October, Thai L-19 reconnaissance aircraft intruded four times into Kampuchean territory and Thai armed vessels entered Kampuchean territorial waters 286 times. The accusation also listed 55 instances of artillery shelling from Thailand into Kampuchean territory.

The Voice of Free Asia rejects as groundless this report by the VIETNAM NEWS AGENCY and the so-called Voice of the Kampuchean People radio. The accusations have been made with the ill intention of dragging Thailand into the Kampuchean conflict and discrediting Thailand. The Voice of Free Asia hereby denounces and strongly denies such accusations.

In point of fact, the Vietnamese and Kampuchean Armed Forces have violated Thai territory by shelling and intruding into Thailand and caused damage to property and loss of life among the Thai people on several occasions.

On 20 October Vietnamese troops in Kampuchea fired antiaircraft artillery at a Thai reconnaissance plane flying a patrol mission in Thai airspace. The plane was damaged. The Vietnamese aggression against Kampuchea not only violates that country's sovereignty, but also constitutes a threat to the independence and sovereignty of the nearby nations as well as to peace and tranquillity in the Southeast Asian region as a whole.

The Voice of Free Asia wishes to make it known that the so-called Voice of the Kampuchean People radio is only a mouthpiece of the Heng Samrin regime, which was set up by the Vietnamese forces of aggression and occupation in Kampuchea. Any activity by the agency under the above mentioned regime is only serving the foreign aggressors.

SITTHI COMMENTS ON SIHANOUK UN SPEECH CITED

BK271246 Bangkok Voice of Free Asia in English 1100 GMT 25 Oct 82

[Text] Thailand recently urged Vietnam to pull its forces out of Kampuchea and to negotiate peace with the Kampuchean coalition government of Prince Norodom Sihanouk. The call came from Thai Foreign Minister Sitthi Sawetsila during his comment on Prince Norodom Sihanouk's recent address to the UN General Assembly in his capacity as president of the coalition government.

Describing the prince's address as an impassioned speech, the Thai foreign minister said an opportunity was presented for Vietnam to get out of the Kampuchea quagmire and come to sit at the negotiating table with Democratic Kampuchea under the coalition government of Prince Norodom Sihanouk. The prince said: As soon as Vietnam has totally withdrawn its troops from Kampuchea, all will be possible in friendship between our two countries, and he proposed the signing of a treaty of peace and nonaggression with Hanoi. The AFP news agency has further reported that Hanoi, which has rejected the coalition as a bid to dress up the Khmer Rouge, has responded to the proposal spelled out on 30 September.

The Thai foreign minister made comment during a wide-ranging speech to a meeting of the Association of Southeast Asian Nations Standing Committee in Bangkok. The 5-nation grouping linking noncommunist Thailand, Malaysia, Indonesia, Singapore and the Philippines supports the tripartite coalition and has moved for a political settlement to Kampuchea since the Vietnamese-led drive toppled the Khmer Rouge leadership in January 1979. The Standing Committee met to prepare for talks due in the Thai beach resort of Phatthaya from 2-4 November on joint cooperation with the European Economic Community. The ASEAN-EEC Joint Cooperation Committee has met annually since the two groupings signed a cooperation agreement in Kuala Lumpur in March 1980.

NAVY CHIEF DISCUSSES SRV BUILDUP, SUBMARINES

[Text] Vietnam may soon replace its troops in Kampuchea and build up its forces along the Thai-Kampuchean border in an attempt to launch a major offensive against Kampuchean resistance forces during the upcoming dry season.

Royal Thai Navy [RTN] Commander-in-Chief Admiral Sombun Chuaphibun said yesterday that information received by the authorities indicated that Vietnam would replace its troops in Kampuchea and at the same time build up its forces along the border. Adm Sombun said that Thailand was concerned about these indications but the armed forces are prepared to cope with the situation. "I don't think they will make any incursion into Thailand, but if they do we will retaliate," he said.

Asked how the RTN would act if Vietnam sends its submarines into Thai territorial waters, Adm Sombun said that he did not think Vietnamese submarines would enter Thai territorial waters. "If they should come into our territorial waters, they must have special knowledge on the Gulf of Thailand." He said that the RTN had sent its officials to inspect the anti-submarine rocket -- Exocet M-40 -- in France and might consider buying it if it proves to be good.

OFFICIALS COMMENT ON SRV ATTACK ON AIRCRAFT

BK271024 Bangkok MATUPHUM in Thai 22 Oct 82 pp 1, 16

[Text] During the press conference held by the Supreme Command Information Office on 21 October, Secretary of the Royal Thai Air Force Group Captain Prasoet Satchukon told news reporters that the aircraft which the press reported was attacked by Vietnamese anti-aircraft artillery was not an aircraft of the Royal Thai Air Force. At this point, he was interrupted by the new director of the Information Office, Lt Gen Wibun Raosathian, who confirmed to reporters that the office had received a report saying a Thai reconnaissance aircraft on a mission at the border area in Aranyaprathet District was fired at by a Vietnamese-Heng Samrin artillery unit. However, the plane returned safely to base and the pilot was unhurt. The secretary of the Royal Thai Air Force reacted to the report with surprise, saying: "Really." This caused laughter among the 50 news reporters present at the press conference. Lieutenant General Wibun added that the military will have to check whether the aircraft is an L-19 before filing a protest with Vietnam through the Foreign Ministry. He added that the plane was not damaged.

Group Captain Prasoet, meanwhile, said that the Royal Thai Air Force has never used L-19's for reconnaissance missions. That was the reason why he said the plane which was attacked was not an air force plane. However, the matter will be thoroughly checked.

Lieutenant General Wibun said it is believed Vietnam will step up its campaign against the Kampuchean resistance forces and this will affect the border areas of Thailand. He said Vietnam planned to take control of all areas in Kampuchea during the 1982-83 dry season. The director of the Information Office said it is believed Democratic Kampuchea will get over 70 percent of the votes in the United Nations this year, a percentage close to last year.

SRV'S THACH STOPS OVER EN ROUTE TO INDONESIA

BK280225 Bangkok THE NATION REVIEW in English 28 Oct p 3

[Text] Vietnamese Foreign Minister Nguyen Co Thach flew here yesterday on an overnight stop-over on his way to Indonesia and declared that Hanoi had made "too many" proposals to settle the Kampuchea conflict.

He said upon his arrival at Don Muang Airport that he would not come up with any new proposal during his talks with Indonesian Foreign Minister Mokhtar Kusumaatmaja. He will visit Jakarta tomorrow.

"How can I come forward with a new proposal when ASEAN has not as yet responded to our latest proposal made last July?" he asked. He added: "The ball is now in the ASEAN court."

Thach, who arrived two days after the UN General Assembly voted down a bid to reject the credentials of Democratic Kampuchea, said Hanoi had put forwards many proposals for an accommodation with ASEAN which he claimed had not "moved an inch forward from its original position." However, he said he was very optimistic that the Indochinese countries and ASEAN would one day reach rapprochement. "You see, I am always smiling", he said. "We have made too many proposals and we are also not ambitious. Our calls are modest and realistic." Thach, who is accompanied by a four-man entourage, said he would leave here today and would stay about four or five days in Indonesia before returning to Hanoi via Bangkok. He said the schedule for his visit to the Philippines, the last leg of his ASEAN tour, had not been fixed.

He said that he would like to pay a visit to Foreign Minister Sitthi Sawetsila during his stop-over here from his way back to Hanoi next week. Vietnamese Charge d'Affaires Do Ngoc Duong yesterday morning notified the Foreign Ministry of Thach's request for a meeting with Sitthi, according to Thach.

"As Sitthi is my elder brother, I would like to meet him just to greet him. It's good if I have a chance of meeting him, and it's also good if I cannot meet him, as we are brothers anyway," he said with a smile. He added a joke: "Like husband and wife. They can meet any time, during daytime or nighttime, and any place. Perhaps in a park."

Thach said that Vietnam welcomes the negotiations between China and the Soviet Union to normalize relations between the two, as Vietnam itself wants to have normal relations with all countries. Asked about the Sino-Vietnamese relations which were virtually severed following the Vietnamese invasion of Kampuchea in 1979, the Vietnamese foreign minister said the resumption of peace talks between the two countries would come about "sooner or later." We are in coexistence with China for about 2,000 years. The first 1,000 years was the Chinese domination over our country and during the last half, there were 10 invasions of our country by the Chinese. So, you see, I am optimistic," he said laughingly.

Thach also said that it could be seen from the five scenarios he came up with during his visit to Singapore that the Vietnamese were realists and not ambitious. The scenarios are:

1. The Khmer situation maintains its status quo which Vietnam as well as ASEAN considers as unacceptable and wants it changed;
2. A "peace with all" scenario, the ideal outcome which Vietnam accused China of trying to subvert by refusing to negotiate with Vietnam;
3. A rapprochement between Indochina and China while ASEAN continues to be hostile toward Indochina;
4. A conciliation between Indochina and ASEAN while China remains hostile toward Vietnam;
5. A situation short of a peaceful settlement in the Kampuchean problem.

Meanwhile, a spokesman of the Foreign Ministry said that it was considering the request by Thach for a meeting with Sitthi.

DEPUTY COMMERCE MINISTER THAWI RESIGNS POSITION

BK280343 Bangkok BANGKOK POST in English 28 Oct 82 pp 1, 3

[Excerpt] Deputy Commerce Minister Thawi Kraikhup, at the centre of a storm over the issuance of new licences for insurance companies, yesterday resigned as a cabinet member and member of parliament.

His resignation followed that of MP Chaowalin Latthasaksiri, who had clashed with Thawi over the insurance licences and other issues. Thawi tendered his letter of resignation as deputy commerce minister to Prime Minister Prem Tinsulanon at his Si Sao Thewet residence, and as an MP to parliament President ACM Harin Hongsakun.

He announced his resignation after a session with reporters at parliament yesterday afternoon, during which he produced bank statements in a bid to rebut suggestions that he was bribed to issue the seven insurance licences. Thawi told the reporters that if they accepted that he was not guilty of any irregularities, he would be prepared to resign, but if they had any further questions he would stay on and answer them.

Producing statements for savings accounts in four commercial banks totaling 32,154 baht, Thawi said that if anyone could prove that he had additional assets he would allow them to confiscate them. He also asserted that if he was guilty of any form of corruption he was willing to be executed as an example to others. Thawi also announced plans to stand in next year's election, adding that if no party would accept him, he would form his own.

He said he resigned his cabinet post as a gesture of loyalty to Gen Prem, and quit as an MP because parliament was in recess, and he did not want to go on receiving his salary at the taxpayer's expense.

EXILED CPT MEMBER GIVEN PERMISSION TO RETURN

[Text] Beijing -- A senior member of the outlawed Communist Party of Thailand, Mongkhon na Nakhon, who is living in exile in the southern Chinese city of Kunming, has been given permission to return to Thailand, the outgoing Thai ambassador to China told THE NATION here this week. In an exclusive interview, the ambassador said the Thai Embassy in the Chinese capital had notified Mongkhon of the permission and was waiting for his contact to arrange for the return.

The ailing member of the Central Committee of the Communist Party of Thailand (CPT) had earlier contacted Justice Minister Marut Bunnak, in Bangkok, asking him to convey his desire to return home to the government, Koson said. He said the National Security Council (NSC) decided to grant Mongkhon permission after having studied the request forwarded by Marut.

Koson said Mongkhon had not shown up at the Thai Embassy possibly because he was seeking the green light to call it quits from the party. He did not rule out the possibility that the delay might have stemmed from the reluctance on the part of China to allow the senior communist member to leave for Thailand. "So far, China has been very cooperative in arranging for the return of about 50 exiles to Thailand, but none of them are communist members, unlike Mongkhon's case which may be a test case. His case might be more problematic than that of others," he said.

The ambassador said the latest group of the returnees were flown to Thailand on September 24. Among them are a university student and a child, according to the ambassador, who is due to leave here soon to take up a new assignment in West Germany in the middle of this month. He said Pluang Wannasi, another CPT Central Committee member, has not so far approached the embassy for his defection and return to Thailand. Pluang is expected to surrender to the government following the defection last month of his close friend, Politburo member Udom Sisuwan, Thai Government intelligence sources have said.

Koson also quoted Chinese Deputy Prime Minister Ji Pengfei as saying recently that Beijing regards the problems between CPT and the Thai Government as part of Thailand's domestic affairs. "He affirmed that China would not provide material aid to the outlawed party and would not let the party-to-party relations harm the state-to-state ties. And I believe China has kept her promise," he said. Ji Pengfei, who serves as a liaison officer between the Chinese and Thai parties, also said it was impossible for the Chinese party to cut off relations with the Thai party, given the "historical heritage," but China was making efforts to stop contacts with the CPT.

Koson said the CPT issue is no longer a major problem in the Sino-Thai relations as the scepticism the Thai had over the Chinese support for the CPT had been "cleared and dispelled." However, the envoy admitted that he was concerned over the trend that the CPT might turn to the Soviet Union for aid following the discontinuation of the Chinese aid to the party. "We have to prevent the CPT from coming under the influence of the Soviet Union which has its puppets in Kampuchea and Laos. The possibility could not be ruled out as the Soviet influence has reached our border," he said.

PRECONDITIONS, SURRENDER OF CP LEADERS REPORTED

Suwit Sets Conditions

BK230534 Bangkok BANGKOK POST in English 23 Oct 82 p 3

[Excerpt] A leading member of a breakaway faction of the Communist Party of Thailand, Suwit Niamsa, has offered to surrender on two conditions, which have been rejected by the authorities.

The commander of Special Branch Police, Maj-Gen Ophat Rattanasin, said yesterday that Suwit contacted Special Branch Police in northern Udon Thani, saying he would surrender if he would not be detained for questioning and if the government would find him a job. Gen Ophat said the government could not accept the conditions, even though it wanted insurgents to give themselves up. Moreover, many communist insurgents, some of them more senior than Suwit, had surrendered without any preconditions, he said. Suwit, known as Commander Yut, led a breakaway faction of the CPT which sided with Vietnam. He is said to have been in charge of operations in the upper part of Udon Thani Province. Maj-Gen Ophat said that if Suwit did surrender, he would be released after interrogation if he has no criminal record.

'Wiwat' Surrenders

[Excerpts] Sakhon Nakhon -- A leading communist insurgent who had joined the Communist Party of Thailand (CPT) for almost 20 years has given himself up to government authorities, saying he was disillusioned with its revolutionary cause, an army spokesman said yesterday. Spokesman of the Second Army Region Col Sangiam Rattanasimakon said the communist defector, identified only as "Wiwat," held the high-ranking post of secretary of a CPT unit covering areas straddling Sakhon Nakhon and Kalasin. He said Wiwat surrendered to army authorities here two weeks ago. "He was the most important figure in these areas," he said. Wiwat, he said, was the secretary of the so-called "999 operation zone" of the CPT which is responsible for areas in Kut Bak District of Sakhon Nakhon and Khammuan and Somdet Districts of Kalasin.

Col Sangiam said the defection of Wiwat, who had been with the outlawed party for 19 years, reflected widening conflicts within the party. Two of the four members in the committee in charge of the CPT activities in the zone had already defected, he said. The committee is under the control of the secretary, according to the power sstructure of the CPT. "He admitted that he was disillusioned with the revolutionary cause of the party. He fought in the jungle for 19 years, but there are no prospects of improvement. He said things were instead becoming worse," he said. Col Sangiam also quoted Wiwat as saying that a large number of the CPT members had defected and joined the Phak Mai Party. The army spokesman also said that another leading communist insurgent, Suwit Niamsa, had contacted him through an emissary for his surrender. "We are ready to welcome him, but he has set some conditions," he said. Col Sangiam also expressed confidence that within the end of this year the "999 operation zone" of the CPT will be dissolved because of the mass defections.

UN DELEGATE SCORES INTERVENTION IN KAMPUCHEA

OW271608 Hanoi VNA in English 1526 GMT 27 Oct 82

[Text] Hanoi, VNA, October 27 -- Discussion of the so-called "Kampuchean problem" by the United Nations is a crude intervention in the internal affairs of an independent, sovereign country and a violation of one of the most fundamental principles of the U.N. Charter, said the Vietnamese representative at the afternoon meeting of the U.N. General Assembly yesterday.

Le Kim Chung, deputy-head of the Vietnamese mission, pointed out that the achievements made by the people and the Government of the People's Republic of Kampuchea over the past four years were "the best denial of the slanderous allegations from Beijing and Washington as well as the lies by the Pol Pot clique of genocide".

Le Kim Chung particularly condemned Beijing for maintaining the presence of the Pol Pot clique and for its hostility to Vietnam. He pointed out that while noisily demanding that Vietnam withdraw its forces from Kampuchea Beijing did everything to make such a withdrawal impossible." Indeed, by increasing aid, especially military aid, to remnants of the Pol Pot army for repeated intrusions into Kampuchean territory from sanctuaries in Thailand, the authorities in Beijing want to achieve several objectives by the same move: to maintain a permanent state of tension along the Thai-Kampuchean border to prevent Vietnamese troops from pulling out of Kampuchea, to bleed and weaken Vietnam economically, and to impede the trend towards dialogue which has emerged between the Indochinese countries and the ASEAN states".

The Vietnamese delegate renewed the proposals made by the Indochinese foreign ministerial conference in Ho Chi Minh City last July. "We are awaiting positive signs from the concerned countries in response to our legitimate preoccupations. For its part Vietnam wishes to say again that these proposals still stand".

Le Kim Chung also said that Vietnam always treasured its friendship with the Chinese people and hoped that the Chinese leaders would respond positively to its proposal for a resumption of negotiations.

Returning to the U.N. vote, Le Kim Chung said: "History has shown that any solution forcibly imposed on a nation, even in the name of the United Nations, will inevitably fail, because it runs counter to this nation's legitimate aspirations and its inalienable rights".

"If the United Nations is really concerned about the destiny of the Kampuchean people, the least it can do now is to stop meddling with their internal affairs and stop imposing on her erroneous decisions and resolutions which only perpetuate tension between Kampuchea and Thailand and in the whole of Southeast Asia", Le Kim Chung stressed.

The delegation had working sessions with the host commission and other public offices. It also toured agricultural and industrial establishments in various localities.

HUNGARIAN PEOPLE'S CONTROL DELEGATION DEPARTS

INDOCHINESE YOUTH MEETING CONVENED IN HANOI

Delegations Arrive 25 Oct

OW251900 Hanoi VNA in English 1529 GMT 25 Oct 82

[Text] Hanoi, VNA, Oct. 25 -- Youth delegations of Vientiane and Phnom Penh arrived here today for a friendly meeting of youths of the three Indochinese capitals which is to open tomorrow.

The guests were welcomed at the airport by Luu Minh Tri, secretary of the Central Committee of the Ho Chi Minh Communist Youth Union, secretary of the Hanoi Youth Committee and head of the Hanoi youth delegation. Representatives of the Lao and Kampuchean embassies in Hanoi were also present.

Meeting Opens 26 Oct

OW261755 Hanoi VNA in English 1504 GMT 26 Oct 82

[Text] Hanoi, VNA, October 26 -- A friendship meeting of the youth of Hanoi, Vientiane and Phnom Penh -- the first of its kind since the complete liberation of the three Indochinese countries -- opened here today.

The delegates are representatives of young men and women who have made outstanding achievements in production, study and national defence in the capital cities of the three countries.

Present at the opening ceremony were Le Van Luong, member of the Communist Party of Vietnam Central Committee and secretary of the Hanoi party committee; Tran Vy, member of the C.P.V. Central Committee and president of the Hanoi Republic Committee; Vu Mao, member of the C.P.V. Central Committee and first secretary of the Ho Chi Minh Communist Youth Union Central Committee; Lao Ambassador Khampkun Tounalom; Kampuchean Ambassador Sieng Saran; and others.

In his speech, Le Van Luong, on behalf of the party committee, the administration, mass organizations and the population of Hanoi, extended warm welcome to the delegates. "We regard this meeting as an event of great importance in the political life of the youth and the entire people of Hanoi", he said.

In their speeches, Intha Vongchanong, Phane Sokim and Luu Minh Tri -- respectively head delegates of the Vientiane, Phnom Penh and Hanoi youth delegations -- expressed their confidence that the meeting would actively contribute to promoting the fraternal solidarity and the special friendship and cooperation between the youth of the three countries.

The meeting heard messages of greetings from the Phnom Penh committee of the Kampuchean People's Revolutionary Party and the Vientiane committee of the Lao People's Revolutionary Party. This was followed by an art performance by Hanoi youth and children.

The meeting will last till Oct. 31. The participants are expected to take part in debates on "the defence of national security", "creative labour", "protection and care for children" and other topics. They will also take part in cultural and sport activities in Hanoi and other places.

Get-Together Held 26 Oct

BK270502 Hanoi Domestic Service in Vietnamese 2300 GMT 26 Oct 82

[Text] A cordial get-together of the delegates to the current friendship meeting of the youth of Hanoi, Vientiane and Phnom Penh was organized by the Hanoi city party and people's committees on the evening of 26 October. Attending this function were Comrades Le Van Luong, Tran Vy, Tran Quoc Huong and leaders of various agencies and sectors in Hanoi. Also present were the LPDR and PRK ambassadors to Vietnam.

Comrade Tran Vy stated that it was a pleasure for the people of all strata of Hanoi to welcome the delegates participating in the cordial friendship meeting in order to exchange experiences in youth union activities. He wished the delegates good health and the meeting splendid success.

The heads of the Vientiane and Phnom Penh delegations also expressed pleasure at being able to visit the heroic capital of Hanoi and witness the affectionate sentiments among the youth of the three capitals.

On this occasion, the Hanoi city party and people's committees offered the youth delegations of the three capitals a picture of Hanoi city. In return, the Vientiane and Phnom Penh delegations gave the Hanoi city party and people's committees some valuable gifts.

NHAN DAN Editorial

[NHAN DAN 26 October editorial: "The Youth Forces' Militant Solidarity"]

[Text] The friendship meeting among youths from the capitals of the three countries of Vietnam, Laos and Kampuchea, which is due to open today in Hanoi, is an important event. This is a fresh and beautiful manifestation of the three countries' friendly solidarity, all-round cooperation and exceptionally close attachment built up and nurtured by the esteemed leaders of the three nations. This is also an illuminating image of the youth forces of the three Indochinese countries, which are taking up the glorious cause and the heroic tradition of their revolutionary predecessors and are joining hands in moving forward to build and protect the new life of their respective peoples and the peoples of the Indochinese Peninsula.

We warmly welcome this friendship meeting and, through the young friends from Vientiane and Phnom Penh, we extend our warmest sentiments to the two fraternal peoples of Laos and Kampuchea.

This youths' meeting will contribute positively to the development of the extremely pure and faithful relations of solidarity and friendship among the three nations. The existence and constant growth of these close relations are a historical inevitability and an objective demand of the common struggle.

The exceptional relations among Vietnam, Laos and Kampuchea have gone through many great ordeals and have been constantly strengthened with the sweat, minds, energy and blood and bones of many generations. For all of us, this great solidarity is very sacred and no enemies can destroy it.

Thanks to this solidarity, the three Indochinese nations have acquired sufficient strength and conditions to gradually destroy centures-old colonialist rule, overthrow feudalist thrones and defeat the most powerful imperialist aggressive forces and the perfidious and crafty Chinese expansionists and hegemonists.

In that protracted and harsh struggle against the common enemies for a common cause, the many younger generations of Vietnam, Laos and Kampuchea have made very great contributions and have scored praiseworthy achievements. Millions of youths of both sexes have enthusiastically joined this great struggle unprecedented on the Indochinese Peninsula. Tens of thousands of outstanding young sons of the three nations have fallen on various battlefields. Wave after wave of youths in the three countries are joining with their respective peoples in heroically overcoming countless difficulties and in building and defending their respective fatherlands. In many areas and respects, they are living, fighting, working, studying and spending good time with one another as a result of the youthful sentiments and feelings of militant solidarity among the three nations.

All succeeding generations in our country must be educated well so they will strive, or their own will, to preserve the exceptional relations among Vietnam, Laos and Kampuchea as they protect the apple of their own eyes. They must fulfill their duties toward the fatherland and be ready to perform their international obligations for the sake of the vital interests of the three nations, whose destinies have been bound together in the past and present and will remain so in the future.

Today, the relations of solidarity and friendship and the all-round cooperation among Vietnam, Laos and Kampuchea are stronger than ever and have been integrated with the steadfastness of the Soviet Union and other fraternal socialist countries to become a very important factor for ensuring peace and stability in Southeast Asia and the rest of the world.

The glorious missions of the young generations in the three countries are to take up the revolutionary cause of their forefathers, to join with their respective peoples in reaching new peaks of victories in the cause of national construction and defense and to increasingly consolidate the exceptional relations among Vietnam, Laos and Kampuchea, allowing these relations to take deep roots in the lives of the peoples and youths of the three countries.

INTERNATIONAL MEKONG DELTA SEMINAR CLOSES 27 OCT

[Text] Hanoi, VNA, October 27 -- The international seminar in Ho Chi Minh City on tidal hydraulics and salinity intrusion in the Meking River Delta was closed today.

The seminar, which opened on October 22, was jointly sponsored by the National Mekong Committee of Vietnam, the Secretariat of the Mekong Interim Committee [MIC], and the Asian Institute of Technology (A.I.T).

The participants discussed 13 reports of the riparian countries, two reports of the M.I.C. Secretariat, and six reports of foreign delegates. The seven Vietnamese reports were about application of mathmatical models in calculating tidal hydraulics and salinity.

The delegates also made a tour of the Mekong River Delta.

BRIEFS

STUDENTS FROM LAOS -- The Hanoi Municipal People's Committee recently held a graduation ceremony for 125 Lao students who have studied at the school for economic management, the financial middle school and the electromechanic school in Hanoi since September 1979. Present at the ceremony were Le Van Luong, member of the party Central Committee and secretary of the Hanoi municipal party committee; Nguyen Dong, vice chairman of the Hanoi Municipal People's Committee; and an official in charge of cultural and educational affairs at the LPDR Embassy in Hanoi. PLO'S YASIR 'ARAFAT TO VISIT IN DECEMBER

BK280049 Hong Kong AFP in English 1634 GMT 27 Oct 82

[Text] Jakarta, Oct. 27 (AFP) -- Palestinian Liberation Organisation (PLO) leader Yasir 'Arafat is expected to visit Indonesia in December as guest of the government, official sources said today. The date of the visit was being worked out, they added.

Indonesia has once rejected a PLO request to open a representative office in Jakarta on the ground that it could be used as a base to terrorise foreign embassies supporting Israel. Indonesia, the world's most populous Moslem country, backs the PLO's cause in the struggle against Israel.

COMMENTARY WELCOMES UN VOTE ON KAMPUCHEA

BK271417 Jakarta Domestic Service in Indonesian 1200 GMT 27 Oct 82

[Unattributed commentary]

[Text] The UN General Assembly last Monday rejected a resolution -- sponsored by Vietnam, Laos, India, Cuba, Congo, South Yemen, Grenada, Libya and Guyana -- calling for the expulsion of the Republic of Democratic Kampuchea [as heard] from the world body by a vote of 90 against, 26 abstentions and 29 for.

The results of the voting mean that, with greater support than ever, the Republic of Democratic Kampuchea, which is now led by President Norodom Sihanouk, will continue to retain its seat at the UN General Assembly. The results indicate that the majority at the world body disagreed with Vietnam's claim that the Coalition Government of Kampuchea [CGDK] led by Sihanouk is nothing but a Khmer Rouge government.

According to Vietnamese UN representative Vo Anh Tuan, recognizing Pol Pot will only encourage reactionaries in every corner of the world to compete with Pol Pot in committing crimes like the massacre at the Palestinian camp in Lebanon.

However, we must realize that, with the outcome of Monday's voting, the UN General Assembly did not recognize Pol Pot but the Republic of Democratic Kampuchea. Likewise, it did not recognize a person, but a state. We must also know that, if the CGDK had not been formed in time, the Republic of Democratic Kampuchea's seat at the General Assembly might not have been retained.

In fact, when Sihanouk succeeded in forming the coalition government he leads, Vietnam said that, with his action, Sihanouk had made himself part of the Khmer Rouge. This Vietnam regarded as a step toward success. Vietnam predicted then that the Kampuchean coalition will not last long and Vietnam's prediction would have been correct if the CGDK had dissolved before the UN General Assembly session started last month. The facts show that the CGDK continued to survive, resulting in a brilliant victory safeguarding Republic of Democratic Kampuchea's seat. What Vietnam can do now is continue the dialogue with ASEAN.

As we know, it is ASEAN which forms the backbone of the majority at the UN General Assembly in safeguarding the Republic of Democratic Kampuchea's seat.

FRETILIN GUERRILLAS STEP UP ATTACKS IN E. TIMOR

BK280855 Hong Kong AFP in English 0738 GMT 28 Oct 82

[Text] Jakarta, Oct 28 (AFP) -- by Gilles Bertin -- Nationalist guerrillas in East Timor have stepped up their attacks on police posts, vehicles and other targets in a campaign of violence linked to next month's United Nations debate on the Indonesian annexation of the former Portuguese colony.

At least 15 people have been killed during the past three months by the guerrillas of the Revolutionary Front for the Independence of East Timor (FRETILIN), informed sources said here. About 40 houses were set on fire during the month of August as well as two schools where the teachers were not from East Timor. A group of 20 FRETILIN guerrillas carried out these attacks in the Viqueque District, killing a policeman. On August 21 several people were killed in an attack on a police post. A few days later the occupants of a jeep were killed in an ambush.

Reliable sources said that during August and September guerrillas mounted raids to procure food and weapons in the mountains between Baguia and Los Palos in the eastern part of the island.

A Roman Catholic priest familiar with East Timor said that a flare-up of guerrilla attacks was an annual occurrence before the U.N. vote. Informed sources said that during clashes with the guerrillas Indonesian troops seized American weapons dating from the Vietnam war. For the past two months no ship was allowed to dock in Timor until after it had been carefully searched, the sources said.

FRETILIN forces, estimated to be a few hundred strong, have been resisting the Indonesians since they took over East Timor seven years ago. They are mostly armed with weapons left behind by the Portuguese.

Reliable sources said that the number of internees on the island of Atauro, a few miles off the East Timor capital of Dili, has in the past six months increased from 3,500 to about 4,800. The prisoners are generally FRETILIN sympathisers and their families, including 450 children under five years of age. They live in crowded, unhygienic shanties and suffer from malnutrition and such diseases as gasrtro-enteritis, cholera and tuberculosis. Some of the internees were said to be reduced to eating roots. The sources said there was considerable tension between the internees and the original inhabitants of Atauro, who number about 4,000.

Experts from international organisations, who have worked in Timor, said that there was no famine there but that there were food shortages, from which children were the principal sufferers. The Indonesian Army has carried out forcible population movements in various parts of Timor and suspects are not allowed to move about freely or cultivate the land. These forcible "regroupments" have caused food problems and a part of the population of East Timor has become dependent on external aid.

Meanwhile, the Roman Catholic Church in East Timor appears to be extending its influence with 60,000 people being baptised in less than one year. Many animists, who account for about half the East Timor population, have chosen Catholicism in preference to the Moslem faith since the Indonesian authorities started putting pressure on them to choose a religion with a single god in line with the Indonesian official ideology, known as Pancasila.

Indonesian diplomatic efforts at the United Nations before the vote on East Timor, probably on November 9, have been concentrated particularly on West Africa, the Caribbean and Central America to ensure the maxixmum possible number of favourable votes. The Indonesian Government has sent one of its most distinguished diplomats, Ali Alatas, to New York to plead Jakarta's case. Informed sources here believe that Venezuela, Ecuador and the Gabon, which abstained in 1981, would this year back Indonesia. Three countries which voted against Indonesia last time -- Haiti, Iran and Iceland -- may abstain. Some other countries like Ruanda, Niger, Kenya, Santa Lucia and Costa Rica are still uncommitted.

In 1981, 54 countries voted for a Portuguese resolution condemning Indonesia, 42 against, and there were 46 abstentions.

KIM IL-SONG WELCOMES LIBYA'S AL-QADHDHAFI AT AIRPORT

SK290904 Pyongyang KCNA in English 0832 GMT 29 Oct 82

[Excerpt] Pyongyang, October 29 (KCNA) -- Colonel Mu'ammar al-Qadhdhafi the leader of the great September 1 revolution of the Socialist People's Libyan Arab Jamahiriya, arrived in Pyongyang today by special plane for an official visit to the Democratic People's Republic of Korea on the invitation of the great leader Comrade Kim Il-song, president of the Democratic People's Republic of Korea. President Kim Il-song greeted Colonel al-Qadhdhafi at the airport. A welcome function for Colonel Mu'ammar al-Qadhdhafi was held at the airport.

Working people in Pyongyang warmly welcomed him at the airport and along streets. All papers here today publish editorials welcoming his visit.

NODONG SINMUN Hails Visit

SK290434 Pyongyang Domestic Service in Korean 0000 GMT 29 Oct 82

[NODONG SINMUN 29 October editorial: "The Good-Will Envoy of the Libyan People"]

[Text] At the invitation of the great leader Comrade Kim Il-song, DPRK president, His Excellency Col Mu'ammar al-Qadhdhafi, leader of the great 1 September revolution of the Socialist People's Libyan Arab Jamahiriya, will arrive today in Pyongyang, the capital of the revolution, to pay an official visit to our country. This visit will provide an important opportunity to further expand and develop the friendly and cooperative relations cultivated between the two countries in the joint anti-imperialist and anti-U.S. struggle and in strengthening unity and solidarity among the peoples of developing and nonaligned countries, who protect independence.

The Korean people warmly welcome the envoy of the Libyan people, who is coming from distant Africa with the feelings of friendship for our people. In his congratulatory message to Col Mu'ammar al-Qadhdhafi, the great leader Comrade Kim Il-song said: After winning victory in the 1 September revolution and upholding an anti-imperialist banner of independence under your leadership, the Libyan people have brought about a great change in the struggle to achieve the prosperity in their country and to build a new life. After achieving victory in the 1 September revolution in 1969 by overthrowing a pro-Western feudalistic monarchy and holding aloft the slogan of popular revolution under the correct leadership of Col Mu'ammar al-Qadhdhafi, the Libyan people have achieved great successes in the struggle to build a new life.

To protect the country's sovereignty, Libya has taken a positive measure to oppose the imperialists' meddling maneuvers to once again dominate it. By nationalizing monopolistic Western firms, by eliminating foreign military bases and by repealing subservient treaties and agreements, it has cleared away the imperialists' political, economic and military foundations. This reflects the Libyan people's firm will not to repeat their disgraceful history in which their sovereignty was miserably trampled underfoot by the imperialists.

The Libyan people are struggling to eliminate colonial partiality in the economic sector and to build a multilaterally developed national economy.

While externally assuming an anti-imperialist and anti-U.S. stand under the slogan of nonalignment and while protecting independence, Libya has developed its friendly and cooperative relations with newly emerging and socialist countries and has strived to achieve the common cause of the Arabs. Calling for a comprehensive and fair solution to the Middle East question, the Socialist People's Libyan Arab Jamahiriya and its people are struggling against the U.S. imperialists' and Zionists' policy of aggression and war for this region and are extending positive support for and solidarity with the just cause of the Palestinian people. The government of our republic and its people support Libya's resolute anti-U.S. and anti-Israel stand and warmly congratulate the Libyan people on attaining successes in building a new, independent life.

Today, the friendship between the peoples of two countries has daily developed in the joint struggle to oppose imperialism, colonialism and Zionism and to achieve self-reliance, independence, progress and peace.

As member nations of the Nonaligned Movement, the two countries are struggling to strengthen and develop this movement in order to eliminate the old international economic order and to establish a new international economic order.

The Socialist People's Libyan Arab Jamahiriya and its people appreciate the successes that our people have attained in thoroughly materializing the great chuche idea in all sectors of revolution and construction under the wise leadership of the great leader Comrade Kim Il-song and the glorious party center, and they support the just struggle of our people to achieve the fatherland's independent and peaceful reunification. The Korean people are happy to have the Libyan people as their close friend in the struggle to oppose imperialism and to achieve independence.

Our present era is one for independence. For the world's people to demand independence and for many countries in the world to traverse the road of independence is the basic trend of the present era, which no force can block. In an attempt to hinder this trend and to strengthen their domination, the imperialists, led by the U.S. imperialists, have strengthened their maneuvers for aggression and interference everywhere in the world, including Asia, the Middle East and Africa.

Because of the imperialists' reckless policy of aggression, a grave situation has developed everywhere in the world in which state and national sovereignty has been violated and the danger of a new world war has further increased. This situation demands that the world's peace-loving people, including the peoples of nonaligned and newly emerging countries, firmly unite and cope with the imperialists' maneuvers for aggression and war.

Developing the friendly and cooperative relations between the Korean and Libyan peoples will contribute to strengthening anti-imperialist, independent forces and to protecting world peace and security. Just as they have in the past, our people, upholding the banner of independence, friendship and peace, will make a positive effort to develop their friendly and cooperative relations with the peoples of newly emerging and non-aligned countries, including the Libyan people.

Our people sincerely hope that, during his stay in our country, the good-will envoy of the Libyan people will spend joyful and meaningful days and attain great successes.

KANGWON PEOPLE FETE PRC ECONOMIC DELEGATION

SK280547 Pyongyang KCNA in English 0350 GMT 28 Oct 82

[Text] Pyongyang, October 28 (KCNA) -- The Kangwon Provincial People's Committee gave a reception on the evening of October 27 in honour of the Chinese Government economic and trade delegation on a visit to our country.

Invited there were the members of the delegation headed by Comrade Chen Muhua, alternate member of the Political Bureau of the Central Committee of the Communist Party of China and state councillor. Choe Chong-kun, minister of foreign trade, Kim Kyong-ho, vice-chairman of the Kangwon Provincial Peoples Committee, and other personages concerned were present on the occasion.

Vice-Chairman Kim Kyong-ho spoke first at the reception.

Noting that under the wise leadership of the Communist Party of China the fraternal Chinese people, overcoming obstacles lying on the road of advance, have achieved the stability and unity of the whole country and entered the historic stage of realising socialist modernisation, he said: The people of Kangwon Province sincerely rejoice as over their own over all the successes achieved by the fraternal Chinese people and wholeheartedly wish them shining success in the struggle to build China into a highly civilized and highly democratic socialist state by carrying out the tasks of socialist modernisation put forward at the 12th National Congress of the Communist Party of China and to reunify the whole country by having Taiwan returned to the embrace of the motherland.

The recent Chinese visit of the great leader Comrade Kim Il-song was a historic event in strengthening and developing the friendship and unity between the Korean and Chinese parties, governments and peoples on to a new higher stage, the speaker said, and declared: Our people are filled with the determination to consolidate and develop the great success achieved in the visit and glorify the Korea-China friendship for ever through generations to come.

Comrade Chen Muhua spoke next at the reception.

Through our current visit we witnessed at first hand the great successes achieved by the Korean people in socialist construction by displaying the revolutionary spirit of independence, sovereignty, self-reliance and hard struggle under the leadership of the Workers Party of Korea headed by Comrade Kim Il-song, their energetic and vivacious features everywhere we went from the capital city of Pyongyang to local areas, she said, and continued:

As your comrade-in-arms, we rejoice at your successes as at our own.

Noting that Comrade Deng Xiaoping and Comrade Hu Yaobang visited Korea in April this year and Comrade Kim Il-song paid a visit to China in September, she stressed that these visits, recorded in the annals of the China-Korea friendship, have brought the friendly relations between the two countries to a new height.

No matter what twists and turns there may be on the road of advance in the future, the Chinese people will march shoulder to shoulder with the Korean people towards the grand goal of socialism and communism, Comrade Chen Muhua stated.

The attendants drank a toast to the indestructible blood-cemented friendship and unity between the Korean and Chinese peoples, to the good health and long life of the great leader Comrade Kim Il-song and to the good health and long life of the dear leader Comrade Kim Chong-il, to the good health and long life of respected Comrade Hu Yaobang and to the good health and long life of respected Comrade Deng Xiaoping.

VRPR DENOUNCES MINISTER'S REMARKS ON UN DAY

SK260203 (Clandestine) Voice of the Revolutionary Party for Reunification in Korean to South Korea 1000 GMT 25 Oct 82

[Text] In the so-called commemorative address at a ceremony marking the 37th anniversary of the United Nations held at the UN Cemetery in Pusan on 24 October, Foreign Minister Yi Pom-sok urged that the North and the South should simultaneously enter the United Nations.

That the Chon Tu-hwan ring has continued to persist in calling for the simultaneous entry of the North and the South into the United Nations only reveals its splittist stand and nature.

The Chon Tu-hwan ring's continued persistence in calling for the simultaneous entry of the North and the South into the United Nations is aimed at fixing the existing division and trying to have its U.S. colony, the puppet government, recognized internationally.

The Chon Tu-hwan ring should stop its silly, nation-selling schemes against the people and should immediately step down from power.

VRPR RAPS CHON'S REMARKS ON SOUTHWARD INVASION

SK290101 (Clandestine) Voice of the Revolutionary Party for Reunification in Korean to South Korea 1000 GMT 28 Oct 82

[Text] While inspecting an army field command in the central area on the afternoon of 26 October, Chon Tu-hwan incited a craze for war, clamoring about the nonexistent threat of southward invasion by the North. This shows that the war maneuvers of the Chon Tu-hwan ring are reaching a very dangerous stage.

Following the U.S. aggressive strategy, the Chon Tu-hwan ring, together with the U.S. forces in South Korea, is straining tension on the Korean Peninsula and further spurring preparations for war, building up the military capabilities of the South Korean Army and daily staging small- and large-scale war exercises. This notwithstanding, the Chon Tu-hwan ring is mocking public opinion at home and abroad, continously babbling about the nonexistent threat of southward invasion by the North.

To prevent war on the Korean Peninsula and realize the cause of the country's peaceful reunification, we should force the U.S. troops to withdraw from South Korea, frustrate the U.S. war maneuvers and overthrow the Chon Tu-hwan ring -- a group of the U.S. colonial puppets -- running amok in preparation for northward invasion.

VRPR SPURNS PROPOSAL TO RESUME DIALOGUE

SK290105 (Clandestine) Voice of the Revolutionary Party for the Reunification in Korean to South Korea 1000 GMT 28 Oct 82

[Text] Addressing a ceremony held on the morning of 27 October to commemorate the 77th anniversary of the founding of the Korea National Red Cross, Premier Kim Sang-hyop babbled about the resumption of dialogue. This is sophism to shirk responsibility for the rupture of the North-South Red Cross conference. The North-South Red Cross conference was ruptured by the rulers who laid artificial obstacles on the road of dialogue, committing maneuvers to use the conference for their impure political purpose.

This notwithstanding, while trying to make it appear as if the North had ruptured the North-South Red Cross conference, the Chon Tu-hwan ring is raving about the resumption of dialogue. These are absurd remarks like a thief turning on the owner.

The Chon Tu-hwan ring must stop all maneuvers hampering dialogue for the reunification of the country and immediately step down from power.

LSWYK CENTRAL COMMITTEE HOLDS THIRD PLENUM

SK251507 Pyongyang KCNA in English 1500 GMT 25 Oct 82

[Text] Pyongyang, October 25 (KCNA) -- The Third Plenary Meeting of the Central Committee of the League of Socialist Working Youth was held in Pyongyang on October 23 and 24.

It discussed tasks of the LSWY organisations for thoroughly implementing the party's policy of effecting a new revolutionary turn in the LSWY work.

Yi Yong-su, chairman of the LSWY Central Committee, delivered a report and many attendants took the floor.

The reporter and speakers pointed out that the glorious party centre put forward a revolutionary policy of consolidating the LSWY as the political reserves of the Workers Party of Korea and an organisation of ideological education for rearing the youth and children as dependable heirs to the revolutionary cause of chuche and wisely leads the struggle for its realisation.

The plenary meeting stressed that the LSWY organisations at all levels should bring about a great revolutionary turn in the LSWY work by energetically waging a struggle for implementing the policy advanced by the dear leader Comrade Kim Chong-il and thus carry out with credit their noble duty to the party and revolution.

A resolution was adopted there.

It discussed new draft rules of the Korean Children's Union and endorsed it.

REPORT MEETING MARKS KIM IL-SONG LSWYK SPEECH

SK250339 Pyongyang Domestic Service in Korean 2300 GMT 23 Oct 82

[Text] A central meeting was held on 23 October at the People's Palace of Culture on the first anniversary of the publication of "The Youth Should Be Dependable Heirs to the Chuche Revolutionary Cause," a historic speech delivered by the great leader Comrade Kim Il-song at the 7th Congress of the League of Socialist Working Youth of Korea [LSWYK]. Placed on the platform of the meeting hall was a portrait of the great leader of our party and our people Comrade Kim Il-song. Seen in the meeting hall were slogans reading: "Long live the great leader Comrade Kim Il-song!" and "Long live the glorious KWP!" Also seen in the meeting hall were the slogans: "Let us become the royal guard and suicide corps endlessly loyal to the great leader Comrade Kim Il-song and the glorious party!" and "Let us become the reliable youth vanguard of the KWP!"

Kim Si-hak, a department director of the KWP Central Committee, Yi Yong-su, chairman of the LSWYK Central Committee, and other personages concerned attended the meeting together with the LSWYK functionaries from all parts of the country.

The report meeting began with the singing of the song "General Kim Il-song."

Chairman Yi Yong-su made a report at the meeting. The reporter noted: While our workers are turning out to the struggle to create the speed of the 80's, unholding the party's militant appeal, and are effecting new miracles and renovations in socialist economic construction, our youths are significantly greeting the first anniversary of the publication of "The Youths Should Be Dependable Heirs to the Chuche Revolutionary Cause," a speech delivered by the great leader Comrade Kim Il-song at the 7th LSWYK Congress.

In his speech, the respected and beloved leader Comrade Kim Il-song reviewed the proud path covered by the communist youth movement of our country over the past half century and gave a new explanation of the duty and tasks of the LSWYK organizations, including the problems of making the youth firmly arm themselves with the great chuche idea, of remaining boundlessly faithful to the leadership of the party, of billiantly carrying foward and developing the glorious revolutionary traditions of our party and working in a militant way, while keeping a struggling and mobilized posture.

He pointed out: The historic speech of the great leader is a revolutionary document brightly illuminating the road ahead of the communist youth movement of our country that has ushered in a period of new turn and a chuche-type program of the youth movement to be firmly upheld by our youth at all times for the victory of the cause of socialism and communism.

As a result of vigorous efforts to carry out under the leadership of the glorious party center the programatic tasks put forward by the great leader in his speech, a great change has taken place in our youth movement and in the sociopolitical life of our country's youth.

Noting that the past year was a full, significant year that witnessed a new heyday in the Korean youth movement, the reporter said: The LSWYK organizations have been strengthened and developed into powerful political organizations and vivacious militant ranks firmly bringing up heirs to the cause of chuche and the youth have performed shining feats, as a vanguard and shock force in socialist construction, in carrying out the second seven-year plan ahead of schedule and in erecting monumental edifices of the KWP age and thereby have fully demonstrated the resourcefulness and valor of heroic Korea.

The wise leadership of the glorious party center is a genuine source of power that gives vibrant life and revolutionary vitality to the work of the LSWYK and enables the communist youth movement of Korea to adhere to revolutionary principles and to vigorously advance down the single road of victory.

All the successes and changes in our youth movement since the 7th LSWYK Congress clearly prove the greatness, truth and invincible vitality of the speech of the great leader at the congress.

Noting work assigned to the LSWYK organizations and youths, the reporter said: By advancing, firmly upholding the work of imbuing the ranks of the LSWYK with the chuche idea as their general task, the LSWYK organizations should solidly prepare the rising generation as the genuine heirs to the chuche revolutionary cause.

YOUNG ACTIVIST MEETING HELD IN PYONGYANG

SK261031 Pyongyang KCNA in English 1020 GMT 26 Oct 82

[Text] Pyongyang, October 26 (KCNA) -- A national meeting of young activists was held at the Pyongyang indoor stadium on October 25 for mobilizing all the members of the League of Socialist Working Youth and young people to a drive for the creation of the "speed of the 80s," upholding the party's militant slogan.

A portrait of the great leader of our party and our people Comrade Kim Il-song was placed on the platform of the meeting hall.

Present there were Kim Si-hak, director of a department of the Central Committee of the Workers Party of Korea; Yi Yong-su, chairman of the Central Committee of the League of Socialist Working Youth; and personages concerned; functionaries of youth affairs departments of party committees at all levels; central, provincial, city and county LSWY committees and LSWY organisations at factories, enterprises; and the Korean People's Army; chairmen of Rural ri LSWY committees; leading workers of LSWY and Children's Union organisations at schools of various levels and young activists, more than 10,000 in all.

Chairman Yi Yong-su made a report and many young activists took the floor at the meeting.

The reporter and speakers stressed that like the young communists in the period of the anti-Japanese revolutionary struggle and heroes in the period of the fatherland liberation war, the LSWY members and young people should cherish a high degree of loyalty and give full play to their inexhaustible strength and creative talent in the drive for the creation of the "speed of the 80s" to become a standard-bearer and hero in this drive.

The meeting adopted an appeal to the LSWY members and young people throughout the country.

It calls upon all the LSWY members and young people to become a standard-bearer and a hero in the all-out charge for creating the "speed of the 80s" and add lustre to the history of the great revolutionary upsurge, upholding the wise leadership of the glorious party centre, and thus demonstrate once again to the world the invincible might of the Korean youth who are fighting, closely rallied around our party.

GOVERNMENT TO SEEK EC LIAISON OFFICE IN SEOUL

[Text] The government plans to seek the establishment of the Liaison Office of the European Community (EC) in Seoul next year. According to a report submitted to the National Assembly by the Ministry of Foreign Affairs yesterday, the government also intends to hold regular consultations with EC to increase cooperative ties with the 10-member organization. It was learned that EC has its liaison offices in 60 foreign countries.

The report further said Gaston Thorn, chairman of the EC Commission, will be invited to Korea in 1983.

Korea, which has cultural agreements with 46 countries, plans to conclude the accord with 23 more countries, mostly in Asia, Middle East and Latin America, it said. The ministry will try to create a favorable international atmosphere for the Republic of Korea's early admission to the United Nations, the report said. It will seek to expand nonaligned support for the South Korean formula of unification at a summit meeting of nonaligned countries scheduled for March next year in New Delhi.

The report said the ministry will support the exchange of parliamentarians between Korea and ASEAN (Association of Southeast Asian Nations) members in an effort to realize President Chon Tu-hwan's proposal for a Pacific summit meeting.

OPPOSITION ON RECONCILIATION WITH FORMER POLITICIANS

[From the column "Tidbits"]

[Excerpt] Speaking in the interpellation at the National Assembly Home Affairs Committee held on 26 October, Korea National Party Rep Kim Yu-pok noted that former politicians banned from engaging in any political activity are being treated as if they were violators of national security laws, and that they resent it. He continued: As they are men of dignity and intelligence who handled state affairs in the past, former ministers and parliamentarians should be treated with due respect. Otherwise, their resentment will only grow.

Rep Kim, a former army officer, said that he is now in the position to give advice to his juniors, army officers turned politicians, who are in charge of state affairs.

Pointing to the government's attitude toward former politicians who are banned from participating in any political activity, and issues concerning the campus situation and anti-state Christian organizations, Rep Kim demanded that Minister of Home Affairs No Tae-u, one of the prime movers of reforms, call on the president to take reconciliatory measures. Silence fell in the room as he was saying this.

Answering questions raised in regard to the government's special recruitment of Military Academy graduates, Minister No said: Since I am one of the Military Academy graduates, I am in no position to discuss such a subject. But I can assure you that those Military Academy graduates assigned to the Home Affairs Ministry have no problems in accommodating themselves in the government offices.

An Ung-mo, Director General of the National Police Headquarters, was scolded by the opposition party members for his evasive attitude toward questions on police torture. They told him to be more honest about it.

After hearing from Minister No, the opposition party members pointed to Mayor of Seoul city Kim Song-pae's perjury about the degree of the Seoul government's financial self-reliance and about a committee on population problems in the Home Affairs Ministry which is nonexistent. They said they were looking forward to an opportunity of confronting him.

NEED, PLANS TO UPGRADE NATION'S TECHNOLOGY NOTED

Chon Comments

SK210156 Seoul THE KOREA TIMES in English 21 Oct p 1

[Text] President Chon Tu-hwan said yesterday that it was most urgent to acquire, above all things, the world's ultramodern technology in all fields to maintain national growth, pointing out that relations among countries today are characterized by links with resources and technical know-how.

"To keep horizontal ties with industrially advanced countries in the sector of technology, the development of new technology is required through the fostering of highly skilled manpower," he emphasized. At the same time, he said that exchanges of information among the government, enterprises, and the related research agencies and positive use of newly developed local items should follow to realize this purpose.

The chief executive stressed the need for the growth of technology during the third technology promotion conference, which he presided over at the capitol.

He called for the adoption of methods designed to leap forward instead of gradual growth, which requires time, to win in the sharpest-ever international competition in the 1980's. to attain this end, big industrial firms and small and medium enterprises must maintain a cooperative system on a complementary basis with the former transmitting the newest technology and information available to the President Chon said that more efforts should be made than before to seek cooperation in technology with developed states because now is the time for all countries to engate in the keenest contest on the one hand and to cooperate with each other in the field of technology on the other.

He said that investment in the related enterprises for the cause of cooperation with advanced foreign states and efforts for joint development of technology were needed.

Science Minister's Remarks

SK200642 Seoul YONHAP in English 0321 GMT 20 Oct 82

[Text] Seoul, Oct. 20 (YONHAP) -- The South Korean Science-Technology Ministry has worked out a detailed plan to upgrade the nation's technology up to the international level, Minister Yi Chong-o reported Wednesday.

In the government's technology promotion conference chaired by President Chon Tu-hwan, Yi said the 11-point plan called for an "aggressive drive" to reach the standards of high technology countries and the introduction of foreign technology on a "new dimension."

Yi said his ministry will encourage the private sector to establish small and medium-sized technology-intensive corporations in advanced countries, and promote joint research and development projects by local institutions and their foreign counterparts. The ministry is to also actively support recruitment of more than 5,000 South Korean scientists living in foreign countries.

Meanwhile, Education Minister Yi Kyu-ho bared a plan to upgrade scinece and technology education at a cost of 432.4 billion won (some 580 million U.S. dollars) for the next four years. The Education Ministry plan provides for establishing a science high school in each province and expanding high school laboratory facilities.

VOPB CRITICIZES BURMA'S NEW CITIZENSHIP LAW

BK251314 (Clandestine) Voice of the People of Burma in Burmese to Burma 0030 GMT 25 Oct 82

[Unattributed article: "The Citizenship Law Is Aimed at Oppressing and Persecuting People of All Nationalities Residing in Border Areas"]

[Text] The top boss of the military clique, who once said he was going to cut down on speeches and that he intended to speak only when it was unavoidable, is now making speeches -- perhaps unavoidably -- once every 2 or 3 months. He has once again come out to introduce the so-called citizenship law, which is in fact a narrowminded, bourgeois and racist manifesto of the Burma Socialist Program Party [BSPP]. He, who claimed that he is now in the old-age phase of life, said he had no desire to hurt anybody with his speech. Because of that introduction phrase, those who were listening to his speech thought he was about to deliver a fiery and bold speech. However, it consisted of words of racism, hatred and narrowmindedness which flowed straight from his heart.

There have been two types of foreigners entering Burma: people who entered the country when there was no systematic form of administrative power during the feudal era and people who have naturally crossed borders frequently because they reside in densely forested and hilly border areas. There will always be people who live in areas straddling the border. Another type coming into the country were the ones who were intentionally brought in by imperialists for their own interests. Imperialists used them while they were ruling over a country or were about to provoke a country.

Despite this, U Ne Win made no attempt whatsoever in his speech to differentiate among people who reside in areas straddling the border -- such as the Shans, Kachins, Wa, Lahu, Lushe and so forth -- with the Chittiya Indian landlords brought into the country by British imperialists, the British public servants and the spies and "white" troops who came along with the Kuomintang. He lumped all these people together under the category of "those who came into the country for various reasons."

Of these people, he put all the blame only on the Indians and the Chinese who had arrived during that period. He did not mention a word or even give a hint about the real culprits -- the British and U.S. imperialists and the Kuomintang bandit troops. Even in such a clear-cut case, he dared not raise any charges against the imperialists who are his supporters.

He merely criticized with vengeance aliens who, because of economic difficulties in their native land, had come to a naturally hospitable country like Burma. When in introducing his speech he said he did not want to hurt anybody, he meant to apologize to his old masters and bosses.

The BSPP chieftain acted very innocently by pretending that he knew nothing about or had anything to do with the Union Citizenship Act of 1948, and the Union Citizenship Election Act of 1948. The fact is, all the people who were in power then not only had roles in the enactment of those acts but were also implementers of those acts. How can we believe him when he said he was not responsible in any way for such an important undertaking of the state when he served as the chief of staff, the defense minister, the deputy prime minister, the prime minister of the caretaker government and the State Council chairman at one time or other? Historical facts cannot be distorted just because one is in power and has the right to deliver speeches. It is not true that all the successive reactionary governments made use of the 1948 acts to recruit foreigners and mercenaries as scapegoats in their reactionary civil war?

On another point, when speaking about why foreigners should not be used in organizations which can decide the fate of the country, U Ne Win libelously charged that foreigners have the habit of doing detrimental things for the sake of money. Nowhere can one find such blatant racism.

Today in Burma, under instructions from the military clique, the mercenary army is also carrying out misdeeds for money. It massacres workers, peasants and students, plunders and burns villages and rapes women. Isn't this so? Throughout the history of the BSPP, because they could not agree on the share of the loot, many top leaders have been discharged, arrested and face legal action on charges of corruption. Moreover, the military clique had also conferred honorific titles on the top British and Japanese officials who played active roles in enslaving Burma while on the payroll of imperialists. There are many other similar examples of narrowminded bourgeois racism in the speech of the top boss of the military clique. Even the terms he used reflect racism.

The BSPP's so-called citizenship law conveys the same meaning as the earlier draft citizenship law; that is, it mainly intends to divide and continue threatening the people of all nationalities in Burma. They do not intend to solve the problems concerning foreigners and citizens but only mean to interpret the law to suit their interests. Later, they will use the law to threaten and arrest people of all nationalities in the border areas where armed struggles are being waged intensely.

KPRP CIRCULAR HAILS USSR'S OCTOBER REVOLUTION

BK290753 Phnom Penh Domestic Service in Cambodian 0430 GMT 28 Oct 82

[KPRP Secretariat circular signed by Heng Samrin, dated 20 October]

[Text] This year the people of the USSR and other socialist countries and progressive mankind are joyfully welcoming the anniversary of two important historic days -- the 65th anniversary of the Great October Revolution on 7 November 1971 and the 60th founding anniversary of the USSR on 30 December 1922.

The party Secretariat has decided to organize grand celebrations for these historic days to broadly publicize among the people and the army all points concerning the Soviet Union and the great significance of the October Revolution, expressing our people's gratitude toward the October Revolution and the Soviet Union's vigorous support for the Kampuchean revolution. This stimulates the entire people and army to heighten the spirit of genuine patriotism and sense of proletarian solidarity, to successfully fulfill the immediate tasks of national defense and construction and to consolidate solidarity with the Soviet Union, Vietnam and all fraternal socialist countries in contribution to the world cause.

I. In order to carry out the above requirements, the essence of the propaganda campaign on these anniversaries must be focused on the following points:

1. To clearly display the international great historic significance of the October Revolution and the founding of the USSR, the revolutions in our country and the fraternal countries in the Indochinese Peninsula, the socialist network and the revolutionary movements in the world.

2. To display the great achievements scored by the Soviet Union in the past 60 years, the splendid development of the ethnic minorities in the Soviet Union, thanks to the correct ethnic policy of Lenin, the party and government of the Soviet Union; to introduce the valuable experiences, combat models and sacrifices of the Soviet people in building and turning the Soviet Union into a stable socialist country in which all nationalities achieve progress simultaneously in all fields, thus serving as a brilliant model in launching a revolution in line with Marxism-Leninism; and to acclaim the spirit of proletarian internationalism and the peace-loving foreign policy of the Soviet Union, which is a firm bulwark for the defense of peace and a prop for the revolutionary struggle of all nationalities in the world.

3. To heighten the spirit of genuine patriotism and international solidarity, first of all with the Vietnamese comrades, the Soviet Union and other fraternal socialist countries; and strengthen the alliance of the three Indochinese countries which is the correct line of our party and state and the significant, decisive factor in all victories of the Kampuchean revolution.

The Kampuchean people and army are sincerely grateful to the Soviet Union and pledge to follow the revolutionary model of the Soviet people, increase unity and accelerate all efforts to increase production, build the revolutionary forces and, particularly in this immediate period, successfully carry out the campaign to heighten revolutionary spirit, crush the implanted enemy elements and scored new victories in the defense and construction of the fatherland, thus contributing to the world cause.

While launching this campaign, efforts to oppose the past and present slanderous propaganda of the enemy must be carried out simultaneously with the propaganda on the Soviet Union and the Kampuchea-Vietnam solidarity.

II. Plan for Organizing the Celebrations:

1. On these two anniversaries -- 7 November and 30 December -- the party, state, front, Kampuchean-Soviet Friendship Association and mass organizations must send greetings messages to the Soviet party, state and related ministries and send delegations to visit and greet the Soviet Embassy staff in Kampuchea. The Foreign Ministry and the party's Foreign Relations Commission are to be responsible for the organization and implementation of these tasks. The Cabinet of the Council of Ministers and the sectors and units where the Soviet experts are working must organize get-togethers in order to extend best wishes to the Soviet friends. Meanwhile, they must advise and encourge the cadres and personnel in their sectors and units to learn from the experts in order to enhance their ability to fulfill all tasks.

2. The KUFNCD National Council and Phnom Penh Municipality must jointly organize grand meetings on each of these anniversaries -- 7 November and 30 December. Kompong Som Municipality, provinces, the rubber plantation region, rubber production directorates and all units which bear the name Kampuchean-Soviet friendship must organize meetings according to their local circumstances and conditions.

3. All ministries, units and localities must organize broad, mass activities such as get-togethers, newspaper readings, film shows and so forth which concern the Soviet Union. The Central Propaganda and Education Commission must provide documents to the sectors and localities to be used during meetings and get-togethers. The Kampuchean-Soviet Friendship Association must organize meetings for representatives of all ministries, departments and mass organizations and invite Soviet comrades to give lectures or our comrade representatives who have visited the Soviet Union to speak about what they saw in the Soviet Union, such as the good life in the Soviet Union, the Soviet people's revolutionary spirit and the Soviet people's lofty spirit of internationalism toward our Kampuchean people. The mass organizations -- women's associations, youth organization and trade unions -- must stimulate their members to join in the activities marking these anniversaries and launch a propaganda campaign about these anniversaries among the people from all walks of life, particularly the workers. The Central Propaganda and Education Commission has the duty to assist Phnom Penh and Kompong Som Municipalities, the Industry Ministry, transport sector, the rubber production directorate and the ministries which own factories in making plans to propagandize work in accordance with the above-mentioned points.

4. The Ministry of Information and Culture, in cooperation with Phnom Penh Municipality, must organize Soviet film shows and photo exhibitions displaying the great achievements made by the USSR in the past 60 years.

5. Phnom Penh Municipality must organize well the labor day of international solidarity.

6. The news agency, newspapers and radio must prepare announcements and publicize articles in accordance with the above-mentioned points and activities which take place during the anniversaries.

III. Slogans:

Long live the Great October Revolution!
Warm welcome to the great achievements of the heroic Soviet people!
Long live the Soviet Union, the bulwark for the defense of world peace and revolution!
Long live immortal Marxism-Leninism!
Long live the PRK!
Long live the KPRP!
Long live the ever-lasting solidarity between the Kampuchean people and the Soviet and Vietnamese peoples and the other fraternal socialist countries!

KPRAF EARLY OCTOBER BATTLE RESULTS REPORTED

BK220942 Phnom Penh Domestic Service in Cambodian 1200 GMT 21 Oct 82

["Weekly roundup of KPRAF Activities"]

[Excerpt] According to latest reports, during the second week of October 1982 Pol Pot soldiers and Son Sann Sereika elements across the Thai-Kampuchean border continued to set up small groups of their remnant forces and send them to commit crimes against the peaceful existence of our people. The activities undertaken in a senseless manner by the reactionary forces were instigated by the Chinese expansionists and U.S. imperialists -- their masters -- and particularly supported by the Thai rulers who let them use their territory as sanctuaries. The Thai used all types of aircraft, armed boats and cannons in this endeavor.

During the second week of the month, the Thai authorities sent L-19's and F-5's to conduct four reconnaissance flights deep into our territory over the area from Ampil in Siem Reap Province to the Preah Vihear temples. At sea, they sent armed boats to make nearly 300 fishing or reconnaissance intrusions into our territorial waters. On the ground, the Thai continued to engage in provocations, using 120-mm and 100-mm artillery pieces on 31 occasions against Hill 343 in Koh Kong Province, a point west of Smat Deng in Pursat Province, the Ta Sanh, Samlot and Pailin areas in Battambang Province, the Ampil area in Siem Reap Province and Trapeang Kul in Preah Vihear Province.

However, despite Thai support, all their infiltration attempts were smashed by our heroic armed forces and people, causing them to fall into a most shameful position of defeat. On 12 October, around Hill 343 in Koh Kong Province, enemy commandos who sneaked into the area were discovered by our highly vigilant forces. A unit dispatched to track them down killed four enemy soldiers on the spot and seized four AK's. A lone survivor fled back to Thai territory in total panic.

On the following day, at a point 17 km north of Smat Deng, Pursat Province, a small group of enemy soldiers attempted to reconnoiter the area. It was intercepted by our border defense forces which killed two of them on the spot before they could commit any crime. We seized 2 AK's, 6 mines, 15 kg of TNT powder and 9 B-41 rockets.

On 8 October a group of bandits collecting information near a position defending the borderline west of Smat Deng, Pursat Province, was surprised by our vigilant forces. We killed five bandits on the spot and seized three AK's. A day later, in Varin District, Siem Reap Province, a group of enemy soldiers attempting to sabotage the people's peaceful existence in the area was intercepted and smashed by our army and militia forces. Following a brief clash, five enemy soldiers were killed and two AK's, three KP-2 mines and some documents were seized.

Also during the same week, deep in the interior of our country, Pol Pot bandits operating in small groups continued to sneak into villages and communes to steal the people's food and destroy communications lines while implementing their psychological warfare by setting up spy rings among the people to slander the revolution, distort the situation and frighten and hoodwink the people living in remote areas. However, their diabolical tricks could not escape the alert eyes of our local people, army and militia. All their sabotage attempts were discovered and dealt with accordingly and in time.

In Moung Russei District, Battambang Province, two enemy elements attempting to plant mines to blow up a section of national Route 5 were surprised by our alert militiamen. The two were surrounded and killed. We seized two AK's and two KP-2 mines. On 10 October, at a point east of Chhuk District, Kampot Province, some Pol Pot soldiers attempting to make contact with their informers to extort food from the local people were surrounded and attacked by the regional forces and militia. Ten of them were killed and 3 AK's and 200 kg of rice were seized. The rice was returned to the people. On 8 October, in Memot District, Kompong Cham Province, militiamen at Choam Kravien surrounded point X-2/Y-43, killing five Pol Pot soldiers preparing to rob the people, including a man named (Chau Rieng), deputy commander of Pol Pot's fragmented brigade 920, and (Chhun Ni), deputy commander of a regiment. We seized nine assorted weapons, including a K-54 pistol, a B-40, three AK's and an M-79, a radio receiver, a compass and a map. In the same district, our armed forces also captured a Sereika leader named (Nhoek Son), who is commander of the ghostly brigade 76 of the "green-tusked white elephant" faction. We seized an AK, a blood measuring device and some medicines.

PREM, PRASONG RECEIVE U.S. ATTORNEY GENERAL

BK281503 Bangkok Domestic Service in Thai 1300 GMT 28 Oct 82

[Text] The prime minister expressed his gratitude to the United States for its efforts in providing aid for refugees and said it is necessary that the United States continue taking refugees for resettlement in order to set an example for other countries and help relieve Thailand's refugee burden. Prime Minister Gen Prem Tinsulanon said this to U.S. Attorney General William French Smith and his party when they paid a courtesy call on him at Government House this morning.

The prime minister told his guests that the Thai Government has a strong desire to eliminate all kinds of narcotics from the country by making full use of all the resources available to tackle this problem.

The U.S. attorney general, on behalf of the U.S. Government, thanked the Thai Government for the assistance given to refugees and its cooperation in narcotics suppression. Although the two countries might have their own ways of solving problems, he said, long-standing good relations between the two countries enable them to understand each other well. The United States will try all ways and do its utmost to solve the refugee problem and thanks the Thai Government for its attempt to suppress all kinds of narcotics because narcotics are the prime cause of crime in the United States. The Reagan administration has attached particular significance to narcotics suppression and will continue to cooperate with Thailand.

The U.S. attorney general and his party called on Secretary General of the National Security Council Squadron Leader Prasong Sunsiri at Government House in the afternoon and exchanged views with him on the refugee and narcotics problems in Thailand. Squadron Leader Prasong Sunsiri asked the U.S. Government to accelerate the admission of refugees from Thailand for resettlement in the United States in greater numbers and at a faster rate. He said that over 175,000 refugees in various holding centers are awaiting departure to third countries. In particular, the processing at Ban Phraya Kamphut and Phanat Nikhom transit centers in Chanthaburi and Chon Buri Provinces is very slow. He also asked the United States to give more support to the voluntary repatriation program for the illegal Kampuchean immigrants which is being implemented by the UNHCR office in order to enable these people to return to their homeland safely.

The U.S. attorney general told Squadron Leader Prasong that the United States sympathizes with and understands the heavy burden and problems of Thailand and will accept more refugees from Thailand next year when it has a quota for 64,000 refugees from this region. He said more U.S. officials will be sent to Thailand to speed up the work.

NATION VIEWS SHAKEUP IN LAO ADMINISTRATION

BK280621 Bangkok THE NATION REVIEW in English 28 Oct 82 p 4

["Indochina Watch" column by Somphong Kittinaradon: 'Structural Changes' Seen in Vientiane Reshuffle"]

[Text] Lao Deputy Prime Minister Nouhak Phoumsavan, who has been rumoured to be at odds with Premier Kaysone Phomvihan, has been stripped of his finance portfolio in the latest cabinet reshuffle. But most observers here have detected no signs of a power struggle in the shake-up.

The reshuffle, believed to be still incomplete, saw at least two deputy premiers deprived of their cabinet portfolios. Apart from Nouhak, Phoumi Vongvichit has lost his education portfolio to his deputy, Bountiam Phitsamai, according to reliable information made available to the NATION.

Nouhak lost his finance office to Gnao Phonvantha, a new face whose profile remains relatively new to Laos-watchers here.

Interior Minister Sisavat Keobounphan and Defence Minister Khamtai Siphandon (who is also a deputy premier) have retained their posts, according to an order which was rubber-stamped by the Supreme People's Council headed by Prince Souphanouvong on September 20.

The order was tabled by the Politburo of the Lao communist party to the Supreme People's Council on August 5. The order went into force on September 22. The changes, according to the order, have not affected the Foreign Ministry headed by Deputy Premier Phoun Sipaseut. But an informed source told THE NATION yesterday that the number of deputy foreign ministers had been increased from two to either three or four.

Before the reshuffle, a process which started right after the third congress of the Lao communist party in last April, Khamphai Boupha and Khoun Chandeng were deputy foreign ministers. Khamphai was recently still referred to as deputy foreign minister and acting foreign minister. The reference of the senior diplomat as acting foreign minister has touched off speculations that he might succeed Phoun.

However, a Laotian source said that Khamphai was named acting foreign minister when Phoun took his annual leave to "take care of his health". The deputy premier visited resort spots both in Laos and overseas, including the Soviet Union, during the leave, according to the source.

The reshuffle came about along with major structural changes at the Laotian executive branch. Some ministries were divided up while others were re-organized and even newly set up in one of the most sweeping structural changes ever. The structural changes are believed to have been designed to re-group similar areas of administration into a ministry, and to attach more importance to some fields of work, most of which is related to economic affairs. In short, efficiency improvement has emerged conspicuous as the main goal of the changes. And by logical extension, the relevant cabinet reshuffle should have nothing to do with a power struggle, given that the structural changes have been designed to make way for the reshuffle.

The Industry Ministry was also reorganized to take charge of new areas of work and re-named the Ministry of Industry, Handicraft and Forestry. The handicraft affairs were thus upgraded in the structural change.

The Ministry of Agriculture, Forestry and Irrigation was at the same time re-organized and re-named the Ministry of Agriculture, Irrigation and Cooperatives -- an indication that the cooperatives promotion would receive more attention than ever.

A brand-new ministry set up in the structural change is the Ministry of Material and Technique Supply, according to reliable information made available to THE NATION.

A striking change in the shake-up was the appointment of Vanthong Sengmuang, a former Laotian ambassador to Thailand and a recognized commerce expert, to the top post of the newly-formed Commerce Ministry. Maisouk Saisompheng continues to retain his position as minister of industry, handicraft and forestry.

The Ministry of Education, Sports and Religious Affairs was also broken up to take the name of the Ministry of Education. The change could be taken as an indication that the education affairs alone are already too burdensome for an education minister or a downgrade of the sports and religious affairs.

Interestingly enough, former Minister in Charge of Education, Sports and Religious Affairs Phoumi Vongvichit has repeatedly emphasized on various occasions the importance of education to the development of the country and the hardships the country is facing in training adequate teaching staffs. Along with the renaming of the Education Ministry, the Cultural Ministry was set up possibly to take charge of the sports and religious affairs from the Education Ministry.

The Justice and Public Health Ministries seem to have undergone no dramatic structural changes. However, former Minister in Charge of Public Health Souk Vongsak was replaced by his deputy, Khamliang Phonsena, while Kou Souvannamethi managed to retain his post as justice minister.

The Ministry of Interior, War Veterans and Social Welfare was also trimmed when the war veterans and social welfare affairs were taken away to form a ministerial level committee, called the Committee of Social Welfare and National War Veterans. The new committee is headed by Meun Somvichit, a former governor of the Vientiane metropolis.

The Ministry of Information, Propaganda, Culture and Tourism was dissolved and replaced by a committee, named the Committee of Information, Newspapers, Radio and Television Broadcast, chaired by Thongsing Khamvong, a former senior official in the defunct ministry.

The National Planning Committee, renamed the State Planning Committee, is still chaired by Sali Vonghkamsao, a powerful member of the Lao communist party. Sali is concurrently the secretary general [as published] of the party headquarters.

The National Bank was also re-named the State Bank and chaired by Boutsabong Souvannavong. The former National Bank Committee chairman is Sot Phetlasi.

Nhiavu Lobaliayao remains chairman of the Nationalists Committee.

All in all, the ministries of the Lao executive branch were increased from 12 to 14 in number while the number of the ministerial level committees decreased from seven to five. Another interesting aspect of the structural changes is the appointment of a number of ministers without portfolio possibly to take charge of affairs that could not be grouped into ministries.

They are: Ma Khaikhamphithoun, ex-chairman of the National Planning Committee, who was named minister in charge of special affairs; Khamsouk Saingaseng, former minister in charge of agriculture, forestry and irrigation, who was named minister in charge of tobacco plantation promotion; Thongchan Uoplavan, ex-chairman of the defunct Price Committee, who was named minsiter in charge of price problems; Sot Phetlasi, ex-chairman of the dissolved Foreign Economic Cooperation Committee, who was named minister in charge of the national map and the border demarcation departments.

An informed source said the size of the cabinet, renamed the Council of Ministers, would swell following the completion of the reshuffle, which is in a way the re-juvenation of the executive branch. He said formerly a ministry would comprise two deputy ministers at the most, but after the reshuffle, the number of deputy ministers in a certain ministry could be four or five.

He said the reorganization within most of the ministries had already been completed and the new deputy ministers would be given clearer responsibilities than ever. "This is one of the purposes of the structural changes and the cabinet reshuffle. We aim to reduce overlapping among ministries and among deputy ministers under a same ministry," he said.

A Laos-watcher said the deputy premiers were expected to be given wider scope of supervision over the ministries. "The loss of cabinet portfolios by some deputy premiers was aimed at improving the administration rather than having to do with a power struggle," he said.

In fact, most observers here said there have been so far no reliable reports to substantiate rumours about the alleged rifts between Nouhak and Kaysone. An informed Thai source told THE NATION that Nouhak and Kaysone were believed to belong to a same faction, dubbed the "international wing" after the faction members' close ties with the Vietnamese and the Russians.

He said the Thai believe that another major faction in the Laotian leadership comprises more nationalist elements, including head of state Prince Souphanouvong, Phoumi Vongvichit and Kham-ouan Boupha.

"We dub the faction the nationalist wing, as they had formerly few connections with the Vietnamese," said the source, who added that up to about 60 percent of the Laotian officials had served in the ousted non-communist regimes.

It is not known how much of the structural and cabinet shake-up has been influenced by the Russian advisers, totaling about 2,000, in Laos, but an informed source said the changes might have been partly designed to adjust the state mechanism to the flow of aid from the Soviet Union.

"Moscow last year concluded a long-term economic aid agreement with Vientiane and the Russians are very relentless in setting conditions about the use of their aids. Each fund provided by the Soviet Union will be clearly earmarked for a specific project," the source added.

Footnote: From now on, a Lao prime minister will be officially called chairman of Council of Ministers and the deputy premiers called deputy chairmen. Ministers attached to the PM's [Prime Minister's] Office have also been re-named ministers heading the Office of Council of Ministers.

'LARGE-SCALE' ACTION AGAINST SUA FORCES LAUNCHED

[By Subin Khuankaeo]

[Excerpts] The government yesterday launched a large-scale operation involving warplanes and hundreds of troops against suspected Shan United Army [SUA] positions following intelligence reports that opium warlord Khun Sa had moved his troops up to three kilometres into Thai territory.

About 1,500 Border Patrol Policemen [BPP] and army-trained Rangers stood by for action yesterday as air force Dakotas and helicopter gunships carried out heavy strafing and bombing runs against newly-built SUA strongholds at the junction of Chiang Rai and Chiang Mai Provinces bordering Burma.

There were no immediate reports on SUA casualties following the air strikes, which began early yesterday morning and lasted until 4 p.m. The aerial bombardments were aimed at facilitating the advance of ground troops on the move since last Wednesday and positioned along the Chiang Mai-Chiang Rai border area.

Two BPP forward bases have been set up in Mae Ai District of Chiang Mai and Mae Chan District of Chiang Rai and a Rangers' base at Ban Muang Ngam to command the operation code-named "Den Dara" (Great Star), field military sources said. The air force has set up a joint air support centre at its Wing 41 to assist the operation.

The sources said the Third Army Region was in charge of mapping out strategy against the SUA, which took a heavy battering from government troops at Ban Thoet Thai (Hin Taek) last year and was forced to flee to its stronghold at Doi Lang, a hilltop marking the border between Burma and the districts of Mae Ai and Mae Chan.

At least six companies of BPP men from the Fifth Zone were deployed along the Thai-Burmese border in Mae Ai and Mae Chan. Six more companies of Rangers from Pakthongchai camp in Nakhon Ratchasima have also been reinforced along the border area at Doi Lang, Doi Laem, Doi Sanchu in Mae Ai District and at Doi Samsao at Mae Chan District, to assist the BPP men.

The operation was directed at the SUA's stronghold at Doi Lang after aerial reconnaissance photographs showed that Khun Sa had constructed more than 200 buildings with strong bunkers and underground tunnels there. The sources said Khun Sa had ignored the Thai Government's order banning entry into Thai territory and had set up camps to try to build influence lost in the government suppression campaign at Ban Thoet Thai. All passes and roads leading deeper into the Thai side have been blocked off by the BPP and Ranger forces, while Mae Ai and Fang District authorities have been placed on alert to prevent possible revenge attacks against government forces.

A military intelligence source disclosed that Khun Sa has moved about 300 men to A Ban Na Sa-Uan about three kilometres south of the stronghold at Doi Lang. Another 600 SUA men have also been sent to another spot at Doi Sanchu in preparation for the government attack, the source said. An unknown number of Burmese soldiers are also moving from their base at Muang Tuan to the Thai border at Doi Sanchu, where they clashed with the SUA early this month, the source said.

On Friday, a BPP unit arrested three hilltribesmen at Ban Laofa in Mae Chan District and seized 96 kilogrammes of opium along with an AK-47 rifle while on an assignment to search for SUA remnants there, a police source said. On the same morning 10 SUA men intruded into a Thai village at Ban Chawi in Mae Ai District and shot at villagers. No one was killed or wounded during the incident, the source said. Only sporadic fighting was reported between the Thai Government force and the SUA guerrillas at several spots along the border line yesterday.

Army Commander in Chief Gen Athit Kamlangek is expected to travel to inspect the operation at Doi Lang today.

Further Report

[Excerpts] Three Shan United Army (SUA) camps were captured by army-trained Rangers and a heroin refinery and a chemical warehouse were destroyed during day-long bombing raids Sunday. Military sources said army-trained Rangers were in total control of the three camps since Sunday after a brief clash with Shan rebels under the leadership of opium warlord Khun Sa. Two Rangers were slightly wounded in the clash. Both were later flown out of the battle zone near the Thai-Burmese border to Suan Dok Hospital in Chaing Mai Province, the sources said.

The seized camps were situated on Doi Samsao Mountain in Mae Chan District of Chiang Rai Province, about 10 kilometers east of Ban Thoet Thai (Hin Taek) -- the major SUA stronghold crushed by government forces in January this year. Soi Samsao was one of the major targets of attack by the combined forces of Rangers and Border Patrol Policemen [BPP] sent to dislodge the Shan rebels from the Thai-Burmese border area on Sunday.

The Rangers discovered 39 make-shift buildings in the first camp. There were 29 and 17 more buildings respectively in the second and third camps, the sources said. A large heroin refinery and a heroin-processing chemical warehouse were also destroyed in a huge fire caused by 500 pound incendiary bombs during waves of air attacks at the border area which lasted almost all day Sunday, the sources said. The sources said the Rangers were still scouring the jungle for a fourth target on Doi Samsao and more fighting was expected between Khun Sa's men and government forces at other positions along the Chiang Rai-Chiang Mai border.

Army Commander in Chief Gen Athit Kamlangek, who traveled in a fleet of five helicopters to inspect the operation, told reporters after a briefing session at a Ranger forward base in Tambon Thaton of Mae Ai District that all the "foreign forces" would be driven out of Thailand. Gen Athit was accompanied by Third Army Region Commander Lt Gen Prom Phiunuan, the general in charge of the Den Dara operations. "The government has no policy of allowing any foreign force to stay in the country to produce heroin or carry out other purposes. We will push them out as soon as possible," Gen Athit announced.

Further Clash

[Excerpt] Chiang Mai -- Three Border Patrol Policemen [BPP] were seriously wounded yesterday morning in a clash with Shan United Army (SUA) rebels in Mae Ai District here, field military sources said. The sources said the three wounded BPP men were still trapped in the battle zone last night. The clash occurred around 10:30 a.m. in the area of Ban Sop Lang about three kilometres from Ban Doi Lang, the sources said.

SOVIET ARMY, NAVY DELEGATION PAYS VISIT

NHAN DAN ARTICLE DISCUSSES FULRO CRACKDOWN

Part I

BK080920 Hanoi NHAN DAN in Vietnamese 21 Sep 82 pp 3, 4

[First installment of article by Thanh Tin: "Central Highlands: The Security Front"]

[Text] Leaders of the FULRO Bandits

We talked to Ya Duk in a small house atop a pine-covered hill in the middle of Dalat city. The following is a brief personal history of this man: His full name is Nahria Ya Duk -- Nahria is the family name, ya the middle name for the male sex, and Duk the given name. Ya Duk, who turns 40 this year, is of the K'ho ethnic group which totals more than 100,000 people living, for the most part, in Lam Dong. Ya Duk was born in Ca Do hamlet, Ca Do village, Don Duong District. He graduated from the Buon Ma Thuot pedagogical school in 1961 and taught classes at the Nguyen Cong Tru elementary school from 1961 to 1964.

Ya Duk left for the jungle and joined FULRO on 20 September 1964. At that time, this organization was known as the movement of Ba-Gia-Ra-Kha (an acronym formed from the initial letters of the names of the four ethnic groups in the Central Highlands -- Ba Na, Gia Rai, Ra De and K'ho). In mid-1965, Ba-Gia-Ra-Kha changed its name to FULRO, a French acronym (Front Unifie de Lutte des Races opprimees).

In 1968, after FULRO had cooperated with the Thieu administration and merged its 5,000 members into the puppet military and administrative machinery, Ya Duk was appointed by the Saigon puppets as head of the Vung Tau city financial service and, subsequently, head of the ethnic development service of Ba Ria province in late 1969.

In 1973, aided by the U.S. imperialists, FULRO resumed its activities in the jungle. It was supplied by the CIA with weapons and communications equipment. In late 1974 and early 1975 the Americans exerted even greater efforts to groom FULRO for a postwar strategy aimed at building an armed instrument for long-term opposition and sabotage against the revolution in Vietnam and the three Indochinese countries in the strategically important Central Highlands. The VOA at one time referred to Ya Duk as "one of the outstanding leaders of the FULRO forces."

After leaving the jungle, Ya Duk made the following statement: On 9 June 1976 Brig Gen Y Giao Ni-e, deputy chief of the General Staff of the FULRO forces, presided over a very important conference at P.C. 10 (Command Post No 10) in the Da Lo Nghit area, Lac Duong District, to organize a system of command for Zone 4. As defined by the FULRO Central Committee, Tactical Zone 1, also known as the 1st Military Region, consists of former Kontum, Quang Ngai and Binh Dinh Provinces; Tactical Zone 2 or the 2d Military Region comprises former Pleiku, Cheo Reo (formerly Phu Bon) and Phu Yen Provinces; Tactical Zone 3 or the 3d Military Region consists of the provinces of Dac Lac, M'drak (formerly Khanh Duong District) and Dak Nong (formerly Quang Duc Province); and Tactical Zone 4 or the 4th Military Region comprises the provinces of Lang Biang (formerly Lam Dong Province) and Gung Car (formerly Dong Xoai District). At this conference, Y Giao Ni-e appointed Colonel Ya Duk commander of the 4th Military Region. It should be pointed out to the readers that the "military regions,""divisions," "provinces" and "districts," as the FULRO bandits call them, exist in name and not in substance. A division consists of only 60 to 80 personnel, a regiment is composed of only 20 personnel, and a provincial military organ is staffed with only three persons.

In December 1976 Ya Duk was informed that the FULRO "cabinet" had just met in Dac Lac and Y Giao Ni-e had been promoted to the rank of "major general" and nominated "premier of FULRO."

In July 1977 Y Giao Ni-e returned to Zone 4 for a conference held at P.C. 10; in the course of this conference, he appointed Ya Duk "director of the premier's office" and nominated Pon Du to replace Ya Duk as "commander" of Zone 4.

Y Giao Ni-e was toppled and killed by his own gang members on 12 October 1978 in Duc Trong District because of grave internal conflicts. Prompted by this event, FULRO leaders called an emergency conference in the Dam Ron area to set up their own "advisory council."

On 22 November 1979 they staged a farce, appointing Y Ghok Ni-e Krieng "premier" of FULRO and promoting him to the rank of brigadier general. Ya Duk was nominated "first vice premier in charge of domestic and foreign affairs" and Pon Du, "second vice premier in charge of security and national defense" and concurrently "minister of national defense." Early in 1979 Ya Duk had been nominated by FULRO leaders as first vice chairman of FULRO, and when it was reported that Y B'ham, FULRO's top leader, had fled to northeast Kampuchea and then to Thailand, he became the chief bandit in the Central Highlands.

At the Headquarters of the Combined Forces for the Suppression of FULRO

Why did Ya Duk fall into the dragnet of our security combatants? The answer to this question is given by Comrade Tu Vu, a leading cadre of the Lam Dong Province People's Security Forces, in a narrative he told us. This exciting story is full of intrigue and can supply the basic plot for a fairly long detective and counterespionage novel or for an enthralling film series. His story kept us occupied for the better part of the night.

The story was told at the very headquarters of the combined forces for the suppression of FULRO in Lam Dong Province, which comprises army and security units and civilian-proselytizing, front and other organs. Since 1975 and 1976 we have gained a lot of experience in tracking down FULRO elements, which are puppet army remnants hiding in the jungle and conducting harassment and sabotage operations in the hit-and-run style of guerrilla warfare. The FULRO chieftains -- who were trained in a fairly thorough manner by the Americans in psychological and espionage warfare activities -- have, with the collaboration of a number of local clergymen of the Protestant and Catholic faiths, actively fanned racial hatred between lowlanders and the Montagnards. Taking advantage of the people's fear of the supernatural and superstitious beliefs, they force the youths to enter the jungle and take up arms against the revolution. They also capitalize on family and racial ties to obtain supplies from the local people and set up underground rings to gather intelligence in a bid to closely coordinate activities between "the jungle and the hamlets."

Efforts to track down FULRO remnants have been closely linked to activities designed to enlighten the people of various ethnic minority groups, to promote their participation in revolutionary organizations and to carry out the party's policy on nationalities most satisfactorily in order to bring about profound changes to this strategically important region in all fields -- political, military, security, economic, ideological and cultural....

An agent of ethnic minority origin alerted our administration to the presence of Ya Duk, the new vice premier of the FULRO, in northern Don Duong at the foot of 2,400-meter Mount Bi Dup. Three months later, a reliable intelligence message was transmitted to the scouts of the provincial security reporting that Ya Duk had sent three bandits to Ho Chi Minh City to establish contact with a reactionary Catholic organization. One of the three was arrested at a cheap hotel in Dalat city immediately after he had returned from Ho Chi Minh City. Interrogation of this bandit revealed that Ya Duk and his cohorts were actively establishing contact with outside organizations. Since their jungle forces were diminishing with every passing week as a result of the sweep operation mounted against them, they had to move even deeper into remote mountains, far from the main roads and populated areas, and grow their own food. Faced with a poor diet, shortages of salt and medicines, and a rapidly dwindling stock of weapons and ammunition, they hoped that outside contacts and foreign support would breathe some life into them. Ya Duk considered it vital to establish contacts with foreign countries such as the Southeast Asian countries, the United States, Japan, France, Britain and so forth.

Some time later Ya Duk received two letters from Caritas, a Catholic organization that maintained a semipublic office in the 1st Precinct of Ho Chi Minh City, acknowledging FULRO's desire to establish contact with "the Free World." In an official French-language letter labeled "top secret" and typewritten on a sheet of imported paper complete with the letterhead of Caritas and its seal, the representative of this organization suggested that "Caritas will be able to arrange an early departure abroad for one or more important FULRO emissaries through a secret channel that can be guaranteed as safe." Toward the end of the letter, it was stated that "Caritas would be honored and will do its best if that delegation of emissaries is led by his excellency the first vice premier of FULRO himself."

At Ya Duk's request, the FULRO leaders started planning for the trip abroad of its delegation of secret emissaries. Ya Duk would be accompanied by some other leaders fluent in French and English, an interpreter and two bodyguards. It was decided that the delegation would consist of 10 members. Our combined forces command was fully aware of and maintained close surveillance on the exchanges between Caritas and Ya Duk. All dead drops, communications channels, points of rendezvous and times of departure of the bandits' emissaries were fully monitored by our forces. At 0400 on 13 August 1980 a blue Ford station wagon waiting at the old market of Tung Nghia near Route 20 on the bank of Da Nhim River, which runs south of Duc Trong town, flashed its highlights three times in succession. Appearing from nowhere, bandit Duong Gua Ha H'rang, 26, approached the vehicle and made the proper recognition signal, flashing his flashlight three times when he was approximately 30 meters away. His companion, another bandit, went to the river bank and gave a signal by making a horizontal sweep with his flashlight. Twenty minutes later, a small boat crossed the Da Nhim River, bringing Ya Duk and his entourage to Tung Nghia. After receiving the welcoming handshakes complete with 555-brand cigarettes offered by the Caritas representative, the "distinguished guests" were crammed into the car which then started through the market area and hit Route 20 at full speed. At km 227, the car took a right turn on a shortcut leading to Crong Pha. On its way, the car was stopped at a security checkpoint and a customs checkpoint. On both occasions, the car's log chart, the driver's papers and the travel order authorizing the "team of forestry cadres from Lam Dong" to go to Phu Khanh and Thuan Hai were found to be in good order. Everything went smoothly. Another security checkpoint loomed ahead after the car had left Crong Pha more than 20 km behind. It was now almost 0600. One minute after the big Ford pulled to a standstill, a white sedan drew up and out jumped Comrade Tu Vu and two other security cadres of Lam Dong Province. They were here to welcome the "team of forestry cadres from Lam Dong." Recognizing Ya Duk from his pictures on file, Comrade Tu Vu told him in a stern voice: "Ya Duk, you are under arrest! It is useless to resist." After everyone was herded back into the station wagon, a security cadre took the wheel, made a U-turn and sped toward Dalat by way of the Ngoan Muc Pass under escort of a radio-equipped armed jeep.

[Second installment of article by Thanh Tin: "Central Highlands" The Security Front"]

[Text] Since early morning, every detail of the "reception" had been reported to the combined forces headquarters. One and a half hours later, a car stopped in front of two houses located behind a guest house. Ten FULRO members got out of the car unceremoniously, heading toward a veranda. There stood 10 security comrades who led them individually to separate rooms for questioning.

Our security cadres began questioning Ya Duk and Lo Mu Ha K'rong. At the beginning, Ya Duk looked dejected. He kept sighing and shaking his head or answered questions haltingly. He refused to eat.

It was not until 2 days later that Ya Duk began showing a willingness to speak. He later told of his fear that he would be tortured, insulted and finally killed. But, contrary to his prediction, he was given kind treatment. The food he was served was not bad. He was even fed better than when he had been in the jungle. He thought much of a statement by brother Tu Vu: "In the final analysis, you are merely a victim and a tool of the U.S. imperialists and the Beijing reactionary clique" and "if you truly love your own race and other fraternal ethnic groups in this Central Highlands, you should not worry about not having a chance to serve your people most satisfactorily." Afterward, Ya Duk and Ha K'rong were given books and newspapers to read. Ya Duk attentively read those books which dealt with the history of Vietnam as well as of other fraternal ethnic groups in Vietnam, and with the VCP's nationalities policy. Ya Duk, Ha K'rong and other members in his group were allowed to view films on the way of life and on cultural and artistic activities of the many ethnic groups in the Viet Bac region which are part of Vietnam's great family of ethnic minority groups. They also viewed films on those ethnic minority groups in Soviet Asia that are making rapid progress in all respects while still maintaining their own dialects, customs and traditions.

At last Ya Duk had to admit that FULRO is a reactionary organization set up by the imperialists in order to undermine the great national-solidarity bloc and serve their aggressive designs. He also had to admit that what the FULRO chieftains had done to bring youths into the jungle to oppose the army and the administration was unlawful and against the normal life and legitimate rights of the various ethnic minority groups. He had to admit that the FULRO chieftains are truly sinful toward their own race and that the revolution is just and invincible because it has defeated many powerful, aggressive forces, namely, the French colonialists, the U.S. imperialists and the Chinese expansionists. He admitted that opposing the revolution only amounts to hitting one's own head against a stone, committing suicide and walking into a blind alley. He realized that he and other FULRO leaders have committed great crimes against their own race because they have made their people's life miserable. Hundreds of ethnic youths had been fooled into dying in vain and humiliation. The rest are leading a harsh life, hiding in the jungle.

Constant Offensives

An "appealing letter" from Ya Duk had been delivered by a female FULRO messenger to a FULRO hideout — Command Post No 10, (P.C. 10) which is about 2 days' walk due south from Lac Duong District town. This letter was not written by Ya Duk but the handwriting was a perfect forgery. The letter said that Ya Duk wanted to meet a number of his most trusted subordinates to discuss some very important matters. The itinerary, rendezvous point, recognition signals, codenames and passwords and meeting time were fully specified in the letter.

At precisely 0300 on the appointed day, a blue Ford station wagon was waiting at the rendezvous point, more than 3 km north of Dalat city. After the car had flashed its headlights three times, a number of persons emerged from the pine forest with their flashlights on and walked cautiously toward the waiting car. They carefully ckecked the papers of the driver, asked him a few questions to verify his identity and turned back into the forest. About 10 minutes later, a group of 11 persons walked in single file out of the forest and got into the car without saying a word.

Leading this "special group of guests" was a bandit ringleader in charge of finance. He was Lieng Hot K'thot, 42, of K'ho race, a native of Lat village in Duc Trong District. He was a close friend of Ya Duk and had once been called "lieutenant colonel." K'thot had been a civil servant of the Saigon puppet administration since 1959, working as a clerk for the puppets' labor office in Tuyen Duc Province.

K'thot worked as a secretary for the Lac Duong district chief in 1967 and as a clerk at the Tuyen Duc provincial administrative building in 1972. He was sent to Saigon to attend a senior clerk course at the puppets' central administrative school. After his graduation, K'thot served as chief of the rural construction office of the Tuyen Duc provincial ethnic development service. He fled to the jungle at the end of 1979. He was given the rank of "major" by the FULRO chieftains and was then promoted to "lieutenant colonel" in 1979. The so-caled "ministry of finance" of K'thot had only two members, comprising K'thot himself and a bandit bodyguard. Accompanying K'thot was Chin Mup Ha Tu, one of the bandit leaders who also belongs to the K'ho race. Chin Mup Ha Tu, age 28, is a native of No Ton Ha village in Duc Trong District. His 45-year-old elder brother, Chin Mup Ha Giang, was also seen in this group. He formerly was a veterinarian cadre trained by the Saigon puppet administration. Also with Ha Tu and Ha Giang was Chin Mup Ha Mau, their 30-year-old cousin.

Somewhere near the permanent headquarters of the Command Committee of the Combined Forces for the Suppression of FULRO, our cadres and combatants were discussing the questions of whether more bandits would defect following the recent surrender of several bandit ringleaders and of whether the remaining bandits in the jungle knew about the recent surrender of two FULRO groups.

The security comrades in Lam Dong gave themselves a relatively difficult problem to which they were trying to find a solution.

K'thot made known that the remaining bandits in the jungle were still preoccupied with uncertainty and fear for the fate of Ya Duk because they did not know what was going on. Another letter was allegedly "drafted by Ya Duk" and sent to Lieng K'rai, his trusted subordinate. The letter read, in part, as follows: "I and other members are in good health. We are o.k., safe and wholeheartedly assisted by the Caritas organization. We are planning a long journey." In compliance with ordinary rules, Ya Duk identified himself as Mac Ten, the alias he had previously used when he was in the jungle. "Ya Duk" allegedly told his men in the jungle "to be calm, take care of themselves and wait for the successful return of the Central Committee's emissaries delegation." The letter ordered Lieng K'rai and a number of men to prepare to meet Ya Duk to discuss some important and urgent tasks. It said that a car would be sent to pick them up. The day and time of departure for this trip were clearly fixed. Destination, recognition signals and passwords were all changed.

At 0430 on the morning of the appointed day, a white sedan was driven to km 277 on Route 20 at a three-way road junction where there is a shortcut leading to Crong Pha, about 30 km from Dalat. Lieng K'rai's group was seen coming down from Mount Dau Voi. This group comprised five persons, including Ro-ong Set, age 46, "chief clerk of the Lang Biang provincial chief's office", and three other bandit chieftains. It was learned from this group that "Ya Duk's letter had been passed on and read delightedly by his cohorts." Those remaining in the jungle speculated that this time the FULRO would certainly be able to contact the outside world and that "the official trip of His Excellency Ya Duk, the first deputy prime minister," would bring a generous supply of weapons, medicine, equipment, canned food and aromatic cigarettes.

On learning this, our security comrades quickly drew up a plan to attract the fourth group of bandits out of the jungle. This group was to be larger, with more members being high-ranking bandits. Our security combatants showed a high determination to unrelentingly attack the enemy and constantly develop their combat exploits. Ya Duk and a number of FULRO members were taken to Da Nang. This was to serve a dual purpose, namely, allowing them to visit some areas in the country and correcting the misconception instilled in them by the imperialists and expansionists through their psychological warfare. They became enlightened when they saw the progress of the country. How could there be the question of a rebellion in the lowlands as claimed by Manila radio in a K'ho dialect broadcast? How could there be the question of a famine in the former 5th region "as a result of the communists' efforts to strip peasants of their grain stock?"

Again, the remaining bandits hiding in the jungle received many letters which they believed to be written by Mac Ten himself. Attached to this letter were more than 10 attractive pictures taken at the Da Nang beach!

The FULRO leaders were seen riding high waves with their buoys or standing in front of big and beautiful buildings and villas -- including the Dong Phuong and Song Hao Hotels -- or among groups of people of all colors, including the Europeans, Asians and Africans. There was also a picture showing a white villa which was claimed to be the head office of the "association" where the "association" was housing "our brothers while they were waiting for boarding a ship to go abroad on an official mission." Together with these letters were the gifts from the "association," which included several pairs of jeans, some foreign T-shirts printed with strange designs, two cartons of 555-brand cigarettes, four bottles of Napoleon-brand cognac, two kilograms of instant coffee, a few cakes of camay-brand soap, and a large packet of chewing gum.

The arrival of the letters and gifts in two American rucksacks filled the bandits' hideout with excitement as they were lacking both food and clothes at the time. It was the pictures that brought them more encouragement and restored their confidence in the "association." They passed around a typewritten letter written in French with the blue letterhead [of] Caritas and the red seal expressing "the association's" deep concern and great admiration for the FULRO's struggle full of ordeals."

At about 0400 on the appointed day a blue Ford station wagon arrived to take all the 16 "guests" -- who are high-ranking bandits -- out of the jungle from the same rendezvous point where it picked up the others in the previous trip. "This time we would certainly score a great victory of high quality," said our security combatants from Lam Dong and Dac Lac Provinces.

This group was led by K'ra Gian Ha Put, a dangerous archbandit, 35, native of Duc Trong. At 18, Ha Put joined a unit of the U.S. Special Forces in Dac Lac Province. As a young and intelligent daredevil of the K'ho nationality with a heavy-muscled body, he was known to have captured the attention of many U.S. Green Beret officers. Trained by the Americans under a regular army program, he was commissioned by the U.S. Special Forces Command as a second lieutenant at the age of 21 and was promoted to the rank of a lieutenant in the U.S. Special Forces at the age of 23. It was that cruel American named (Georgie) -- commander of the U.S. Special Forces in the Central Highlands between 1965 and 1972 -- and (John Paul Van) -- another U.S. commander -- who paid great attention to his training. Ha Put joined the FULRO in early 1975, as commander of a group of bandits responsible for ambushes and the destruction or burning of warehouses and office buildings in certain localities. The people of various nationalities consider him as more important than hundreds of the other FULRO bandits.

Accompanying Ha Put was Tu Prong Chap, 36, native of Krong Cho village, Don Duong. Chap, an audacious puppet army officer, was known to have committed many crimes against our people. At the age of 28 he was already a captain in the Saigon puppet army. Upon his graduation from the Thu Duc Officers Training School, Chap served as a company commander of the local force in Don Duong. He joined the FULRO in 1975 and later became one of the high-ranking and active bandits.

Also among this group were Kon-so Ha Rong, 30, also know as "the governor of Nha Trang-Khanh Hoa"; Chia Che Ma Thieu, 42, formerly a permanent secretary (responsible for work related to the tribal people) at the Tuyen Duc provincial court under the puppet administration; and many others who had once served as henchmen of the U.S.-puppet regime.

K'ty Caught

The Lam Dong Provincial Military Command informed the unified command of more good news: Pang Tinh Te -- another archbandit -- and his relative were captured together with their guns by our combatants. Formerly, Pang Tinh Te was a high-ranking official in the puppet adminstration. He also served as a deputy of the puppet National Assembly and a secretary in charge of military affairs of Thieu's Democratic Party in Lac Duong Precinct.

Pang Tinh Te revealed that the FULRO bandit groups in the jungle are disintegrating and, due to their food shortage, had to depend on jungle taro for survival. If they sneaked back into the villages to look for food, they would be detected and caught immediately by our tribal militiamen and soldiers.

Our security combatants then discussed ways to lure K'ty out of the jungle. K'ty is the son of a wealthy family. His father was Don Duong Precinct chief during the Ngo Dinh Diem and Nguyen Van Thieu regimes. In 1975, as a puppet army captain, K'ty was commander of Zone 53 of the local force in Duc Trong. By the middle of 1975, he went into the jungle to join the FULRO bandits and was named "deputy minister of defense" and "commander of the southern part of the Central Highlands." K'ty, who wears a thick moustache and smokes a pipe, is always seen in a U.S. commando uniform and short boots. It was he who led the bandits to burn down the Dinh Lac village headquarters and fire mortar rounds into Di Linh District early in October 1980.

We have driven the fourth batch of leading FULRO bandits out of the jungle. The fifth drive, however, would not appear to be easy; it would have to be outlined carefully and meticulously. The Lam Dong provincial security service was reinforced with an additional number of cadres from the higher echelon. Some of our men were assigned to the jungle to carefully restudy the situation of the K'ty group. They found out that K'ty would soon travel to Lam Dong with a plan to forcibly take a number of youths to Thailand and China via Mondolkiri in Kampuchea for training before sending them back into the country to oppose and disturb our people.

A letter in handwriting closely resembling that of Ya Duk was then sent to K'ty. The letter insistently asked K'ty to come out to see Ya Duk "for a careful discussion of some important and urgent matters which could not be put into writing." The letter also told K'ty that "prospects for FULRO's relations with Caritas -- the international charity association -- are much better than those in the jungle can imagine," and that "because Ya Duk has been instructed by the association to depart shortly, he would like to see K'ty for a couple of days and that it would be up to K'ty to travel along with him or to go back into the jungle as his safety would be guaranteed in either case." Attached to the letter was a picture taken at the Vung Tau beach in which Ya Duk was seen walking with Ha Put and K'thot, and all of them appeared to be quite happy and at ease.

K'ty hesitated for a week, then decided to make the trip. He thought he should try to go and see Ya Duk and observe the situation himself before returning to the jungle. Moreover, he had lived in misery in the jungle for quite a long time, so it would be nice to spend a few carefree days at a hotel on the beach. K'ty then prepared to depart with eight of his followers. Most important among these bandits are Tu Net Toong, 42, a Chu Ru national and Chin Ha Po, a bodyguard of Ya Duk.

A white Ford sedan of the Caritas Association bearing a Ho Chi Minh City number plate arrived very early, at 0330 in the morning, and parked near km 288 on Route 20, about 2 km from the Prenn waterfalls and 16 km from Dalat city. K'ty was seen coming down from Mount Dau Voi to meet his men. After recognition signals and passwords were exchanged, they set out for the trip.

That evening, a group of people with dark complexion was seen bathing at the rear beach of Vung Tau sea resort. They were "forestry cadres from Lam Dong Province who were on a sight-seeing tour of Vung Tau sea resort." They just swam and enjoyed themselves like hundreds of others. No one knew that they were those notorious bandits who had just been driven out of the jungle and brought to the beach by our security combatants. Among them was K'ty, a wicked archbandit in Dac Lac and Lam Dong Provinces. Even K'ty himself did not really know what had happened to him. He only came to know everything 2 days later. He was surprised and bitter to realize that he was finally caught.

[Third and final installment of article by Thanh Tin: "Central Highlands: The Security Front"]

[Text] Story About Four Death-Defying Combatants

Nearly a month after the fifth drive, our men drove the sixth batch of FULRO bandits out of the jungle. The remnants were in an alarming tumult.

A seventh drive was outlined. The more drives they initiated, the more careful and thorough our men had to be in taking precautions against every unexpected event. Preparation for the drive took more than a week. Four security men were selected and told that this would be a drive into the hideout of bandits during which courge and willingness to endure sacrifice would be necessary. Our men must be very courageous, resourceful and cool-headed to cope with all the dangers. There would be more than 10 "guests" to be received this time, according to the letters exchanged between "the jungle and the coast."

After six smooth drives, it would be natural for some problems to be encountered in the seventh one. We met Comrade Tran Huu Phi, who told us about this drive. Then, Comrade Duc -- the man charged with organizing and implementing the various daredevil operational plans -- took us to the spot where the drive took place, near the Pren waterfall, 14 kms south of Dalat city, in order to gain a full understanding of all that had taken place.

Tran Huu Phi was born in 1953 in Hoai Hao village, Hoai Nhon District, Nghia Binh Province. Orphaned since childhood, he and his younger sister had to do manual labor to earn their living. At age 17, he worked as a bus monitor for a passenger bus company in Kontum town, plying the Da Nang-Hue-Dalat road. Phi is also a skilled mason and stone cutter.

Following liberation, Phi volunteered to serve in the security service of Lam Dong Province. He is an avid student and reader of fiction on counterespionage and security intelligence, and practices martial arts. On several occasions, usually on holidays, he has participated in boxing matches and won prizes.

Phi talked about the seventh drive: "I was performing simultaneously the duties of a driver and a reconnaissance agent. A few months earlier I had been assigned the mission of making the acquaintance of a FULRO group in the Dau Voi mountainous area. The group members used to call me Hai, Brother Hai or Uncle Hai, and knew me as a driver of the Bac Ai Charity Association in Saigon. I had participated in six previous drives. Uncle Tu was driving a Peugeot, and Dieu was driving a minibus. I call him "Uncle Tu" because he is nearly fifty. Thach and I assumed the reconnaissance and liaison duties. Thus there were four of us. At 0400 the two vehicles came to the rendezvous. We turned the headlights off and on three times as a recognition sign. More than 10 FULRO men rushed out of their ambush positions. Thach got out first and tried to act as a liaison agent. He was intercepted and tied with his arms behind his back by two FULRO men. Thach calmly told them: 'Why do you put us to the test all the time? We are friends.' We had been tied like this before and then untied afterward. This time, we immediately sensed trouble. Uncle Tu was tied at gunpoint and was walking a few meters behind Thach. I was tied also and was following Uncle Tu. Glancing backward, I saw Dieu escorted by two armed FULRO men. Dieu was not tied because they had only 3 grey nylon cords. As we walked up a trail into the pine forest, they hit our shoulders, hips and flanks with their rifle butts. After walking a short distance, Dieu took advantage of being untied, rushed backward and tried to make it to the highway. Dieu dashed away very swiftly, but unfortunately he tripped on a bush and fell to the ground. A FULRO man shot him with an M-79 and he died only five meters from the highway. We all painfully mourned Dieu and hated the FULRO. The FULRO men stopped and tightened the bindings on our arms. They beat us more often and insulted us while leading us away.

We walked from 0415 to 0800 and reached Hon Bu Peak. The peak is 1,800 meters high and is situated in the Dau Voi Mountain Range. There is a cement pillar built by the French people who used to occupy the peak. One of the FULRO men went away to fetch coarse ropes used to bundle twigs and firelogs in order to replace the cords they had used to tie us. Only then did we realize that they liked to save the beautiful nylon parachute cords. We talked very casually in order to make them lower their guard. After three of them had pocketed the three nylon strings, the other three tied us again with coarse ropes. They then told us to walk again to a dense forest with steep slopes and stopped. One of the FULRO men took a handkerchief and tore it into three strips, saying: 'We are going to cross the road used by dolly trucks (trucks carrying logs); you must be blindfolded according to the orders of higher authorities.' The handkerchief strips were too small and short, so they had to enlarge and lengthen them with coarse ropes. Pretending hunger and exhaustion, we slowed our pace. They stopped us and said that they wanted our clothes. I tried to look through the blindfold to observe the surrounding terrain while they were untying us. They told us to take off our clothes in order to shoot us down. This was a good opportunity to flee. While I was taking off my clothes and thinking of running away, I heard a sudden thump. I saw Uncle Tu hurl a strong kick at the FULRO man beside him and dash down the mountain slope. Later on, he told me that he had dashed down too rapidly and hit a boulder that caused a bruise on his forehead just above his eye. With a natural reflex, I threw my shirt into the face of a FULRO man, tore off the blindfold and dashed to my right, where some big logs lay. On my left side, Thach also took to his heels. However, on this side the forest was clear and he was shot down by the FULRO men."

The corpses of Comrades Dieu and Thach were carried back and buried in Dalat cemetery on a high hill overlooking Cam Ly spring and Dalat city. Following the examples of these two comrades, our combatants conducted the eighth drive against the bandits in a daring and completely successful manner. This drive involved those bandits leaders who had long criminal records.

To Control the Highlands

The entire province of Lam Dong seemed to be engaged in the big campaign to search out and mop up the bandits. The tribal people of various nationalities have risen up to control their villages and hamlets politically, militarily, economically and culturally.

In all districts, large numbers of bandits have left the jungle to return to their families. Some of them have returned to their families on the very days when drives were launched to mobilize the masses. They told the people about the hardship and shame they had endured in the jungle and about their happiness in being reunited with their parents, wives and children. They emotionally praised the lenient and generous policy of the revolution and people, despite their past crimes.

The FULRO bandits' heavy defeats have made Washington and Beijing very bitter. The CIA and the Chinese secret agents have always considered FULRO as one of their helpful tools in opposing and sabotaging the revolution in the three Indochinese countries.

Beijing has long coveted the highlands of our country. In 1964 Beijing wanted to send its road building force to the area to participate in building the strategic route to southern Vietnam, and expressed its "kind" intention to send 600 of its drivers to the Tay Nguyen area to help move our troops. This trick of "using drivers and road builders in its aggressive scheme" was flatly rejected by us.

In early 1978 a special Chinese secret agent appeared in Dalat. Bandit Ysunier met him at the edge of a forest. Ya Duk said that he had spent a whole night with this Chinese agent named Ba Don in March 1978, in the vicinity of Tia stream behind Dalat palace No 3. Ba Don can speak Vietnamese fluently, with a Cantonese accent, and is about 50 years old. He introduced himself as a Chinese intelligence lieutenant colonel and inquired about the situation of the FULRO forces and expressed eagerness to give all-around assistance to these forces. He invited Ya Duk to eat cookies, drink coffee and smoke Chinese cigarettes and said that both Taiwan and Beijing would like to help FULRO. He inquired about the demands for materials, weapons and other military facilities of FULRO. He said temptingly: Relying on China, the FULRO forces will multiply several times, since China is a great power. He then suggested that FULRO headquarters be moved to Kampuchea (which was still under Pol Pot's control then) and that it would be advisable to have a Chinese military attache and various Chinese military advisers at the FULRO headquarters. The question of erecting a radio station for FULRO in an area northeast of Kampuchea could also be raised with China and large numbers of youths could be given preparation and sent to southern China for military training.

Three months afterward, a Vietnamese woman named K.H., who was married to a Chinese tradesman in Cholon, made further contact with the FULRO. She talked about a China-U.S. joint company in providing military aid and goods to FULRO. This project was a failure. Despite their heavy defeat in this connection, the imperialists and expansionists have not relinquished their cruel plots.

We have found the key to defending the security in this strategic area. The people of all nationalities have clearly recognized the enemy's face. The public security personnel and army soldiers whom I met in the Tay Nguyen area all expressed their resolve to turn these highlands into a prosperous area, thus contributing to enriching the national economy. I met the geological teams that were surveying the terrain to look for freshwater sources for the Tay Nguyen area. I conversed with the foreign experts working with these teams in tapping the freshwater source near Suoi Vang spring in Dalat. Those forestry workers who were planting pine trees and tapping latex can now go deeper into various tribal villages and hamlets both early in the morning and late in the evening.

Our public security combatants have taken the lead in the struggle against the enemy's multifaceted war of sabotage. How can we find enough words to talk about their armed exploits! There are such men as Brother Bay from Bao Loc -- who has been living in this location for 20 years or so, devoting his whole life to the task of assuring national security -- and Brother Hai Tien, who has just fulfilled his assigned duty in this area and is now being reassigned to a new duty station to engage in new and more important struggles. These men, together with their comrades and the people, will score new silent exploits which only time can tell.

SINCLAIR COMMENTS ON INDIAN OCEAN EXERCISE

BK221233 Melbourne Overseas Service in English 1130 GMT 22 Oct 82

[Text] The defense minister, Mr Sinclair, says the government attaches considerable importance to establishing of permanent Australian naval presence in the eastern Indian Ocean. He said it was an area of strategic importance to Australia and it was important to demonstrate its interest to other nations. Mr Sinclair was announcing two large naval exercises to be held in west Australian waters in preparation for the home porting of major fleet units at the state's Sterling base from 1984. The minister said the first exercise, named Sandgroper, beginning in mid-November, would involve 11 warships and aircraft from Australia, the United States and New Zealand. The second exercise, involving a seven-ship task force, was scheduled for early next year. Mr Sinclair said a second attack-class patrol boat would be stationed at the Sterling base by the middle of next year. The next defense force xercise is the Kangaroo series and will also be held to the north of western Australia next year. Mr Sinclair said the aim of Kangaroo '83 was to excercise the Australian defense force in joint operation in the defense of the north and northwest of Australia and to exercise the Australian, New Zealand and United States forces in combined operation.

NEW DEFENSE COMMUNICATIONS SYSTEM ESTABLISHED

BK210911 Melbourne Overseas Service in English 0830 GMT 21 Oct 82

[Text] The new communications system linking the defense services of Australia, the United States and New Zealand has begun operating. The system links the Defense Department offices in Canberra with centers in the New Zealand capital of Wellington and the American defense facilities in Hawaii. Defense Minister Sinclair says the system will provide a facility for data transmission and has eight times the capacity of the communications network it replaces.

TALKS ON AUSTRALIA-NZ ECONOMIC PACT HIT SNAG

BK280923 Melbourne Overseas Service in English 0830 GMT 28 Oct 82

[Excerpts] Neogtiations between Australia and New Zealand on closer economic ties have stalled over a failure to reach agreement on several issues. Talks in Wellington between Australia's Deputy Prime Minister Anthony and New Zealand's Prime Minister Muldoon broke up early without an agreement. The Australian ASSOCIATED PRESS reporting from Wellington says it's understood that the difficulties lie on Australian demands for increased initial access to New Zealand markets and a phasing out of period for New Zealand protection.

[Melbourne Radio at 0830 GMT on 29 October adds: "Mr Muldoon says his country and Australia are very close to agreement on a pact for closer economic relations. A draft agreement worked out at talks in Wellington, which lasted throughout yesterday, is to be referred to the cabinets of both countries for approval. Mr Muldoon and the Australian deputy prime minister, Mr Anthony, both said they hoped an agreement would come into force on 1 January. Mr Anthony said as he left the New Zealand capital for home that he hoped what had been achieved would be accepted as fair. He said a number of outstanding issues had been settled and the situation of Australia's manufacturing industry had been improved. Mr Anthony said he had been able to moderate the effects of the continued use of export incentives and import licenses by New Zealand."]

JAKARTA DAILY QUESTIONS U.S. CHINA POLICY

BK281514 Jakarta Domestic Service in Indonesian 2300 GMT 26 Oct 82

[From the press review]

[Text] SUARA KARYA yesterday [26 October] presented an editorial entitled "U.S. Global Strategy and Indonesia's attitude." It says that the global strategy of the big powers in the world generally has two main objectives: trying directly or indirectly to strengthen their position, politically and economically as well as militarily, in those parts of the world which they consider to have strategic importance, and simultaneously weakening the position of their opponents in those parts of the world which they consider of strategic importance.

With such a strategem, it is only logical that the United States, for instance, should help Communist (China) to make progress. In this context, it appears that U.S. attention and assistance is mainly directed toward Communist China, even to the extent of sacrificing its historical ties with the Nationalist Chinese regime in Taiwan.

It is for this reason, SUARA KARYA says, that the president deliberately touched on this matter in his meeting with President Reagan when he visited the United States recently. On his way home, President Suharto said that he had given Indonesia's view, namely, that U.S. assistance would only increase Communist China's potential to launch subversion and infiltration in Southeast Asia.

In the global strategic network, various excesses which have arisen must have been anticipated by the United States. Nevertheless, ignoring the interests and sovereignty of a friendly country such as Indonesia in applying its strategy would be a mistake which should be prevented ahead of time, SUARA KARYA says.

SRV FOREIGN MINISTER THACH ARRIVES IN JAKARTA

BK281301 Jakarta Domestic Service in Indonesian 1200 GMT 28 Oct 82

[Text] Vietnamese Foreign Minister Nguyen Co Thach has said that he is visiting Indonesia to resume the dialogue between ASEAN and the Indochinese countries on the Kampuchean problem. According to Minister Thach, this problem is not impossible to solve, nor can it be easily solved.

Speaking to reporters on his arrival at Halim Perdanakusuma Airport in Jakarta this afternoon, the Vietnamese foreign minister called on the governments of all countries involved in the Kampuchean problme to increase mutual understanding in a concrete way.

On arrival at Halim Perdanakusuma Airport at (?1530) today, Minister Thach was welcomed by Foreign Minister Mokhtar Kusumaatmaja and a number of staff members of foreign diplomatic missions in Jakarta.

In the course of his 6-day stay in Indonesia, the visitor from Vietnam will hold a series of talks with several ministers of the Development Cabinet III and pay a courtesy call on Vice President Adam Malik.

MALAYSIA

UN VOTE ON KAMPUCHEA REPRESENTATION WELCOMED

Ghazali Comments

BK270319 Hong Kong AFP in English 1051 GMT 26 Oct 82

[Excerpts] Kuala Lumpur, Oct. 26 (AFP) -- Malaysia today hailed the United Nations vote in favour of the Cambodian coalition government as a "reaffirmation of ASEAN's efforts" towards finding a political solution to the Cambodian problem. Foreign Minister Tan Sri Ghazali Shafie said in a statement that more countries had supported Democratic Kampuchea this year compared to the last three years.

The foreign minister said the U.N. vote was a "positive development" which removed all doubts on the legitimacy of the coalition government headed by Prince Norodom Sihanouk and which also include Son Sann and Khieu Samphan as prime minister and deputy president respectively. He urged other countries who recognized the Hanoi-backed "puppet" regime in Phnom Penh to change their position "so as to be in keeping with international opinion."

In an obvious criticism of India's support of the Heng Samrin regime, the Malaysian foreign minister said the coalition was not an "alliance of convenience" as described by Indian Foreign Minister Narasimha Rao in his speech at the United Nations early this month.

Malaysia hoped that the efforts by the Government of Democratic Kampuchea to regain independence for the country will continue to be supported by the international community. Ghazali said he was confident that the Cambodian people will succeed in their efforts to regain their freedom, dignity and honour.

Radio Commentary

BK271209 Kuala Lumpur International Service in English 0800 GMT 27 Oct 82

[Unattributed commentary]

[Text] Malaysia has warmly welcomed the decision taken by the UN General Assembly to reject an attempt to unseat Democratic Kampuchea at the world body. In the voting that took place on 26 October, 90 countries voted against the Lao amendment that was aimed at denying the Democratic Kampuchean Government of its rightful seat. Last year 77 countries voted for this government and the figures for 1979 and 1980 were slightly lower. Thus the voting has shown that year by year more nations are supporting the ASEAN's view that the Democratic Kampuchea Government is the sole legitimate government of the Kampuchean nation and people, and not the puppet Heng Samrin regime that was installed in Phnom Penh by Hanoi.

It is to be hoped that the Vietnamese Government would realize that all its propaganda efforts to mask its aggression against and destruction of Kampuchea has met with dismal failure. Nearly the whole of the Free World, and especially all its neighboring governments, has condemned this brazen attempt at foiling and colonizing a smaller country. Even Vietnam's principal backer -- the Soviet Union -- has been reportedly unhappy about Vietnam's intrusion and has called upon it to withdraw its forces.

During the Vietnam war, the communist regime in Hanoi successfully used the passage of time to weaken American commitment and resolve and was ultimately successful in toppling the South Vietnamese Government. But this time around the Vietnamese forces do not represent Vietnamese nationalism, but are the aggressors and colonizers. The passage of time has only meant that more nations are openly condemning their actions.

The Malaysian minister for foreign affairs, Tan Sri Ghazali Shafie, yesterday stated that the UN endorsement of the Democratic Kampuchea Government for the fourth successive year was the reaffirmation of its support for the efforts of ASEAN which were directed at achieving a political solution as provided for in the International Conference on Kampuchea declaration.

Of greater importance was the fact that the 90-vote endorsement has proven that the ascension of Prince Norodom Sihanouk to the presidency of the Democratic Kampuchea Government was a significant and positive development which should no longer raise any question with regard to the legitimacy of the Sihanouk government. The dedication and strong determination of this government to regain Kampuchean independence and sovereignty would now be supported by all nations who believed in a peaceful political solution to the Kampuchean question. And Malaysia and the other ASEAN nations are confident that the struggle of the Kampuchean people to regain their freedom, dignity and honor will be realized. Those nations who had recognized the Heng Samrin regime or who, because of reservations caused by the atrocities of the Pol Pot regime, had abstained from voting, should now support the Sihanouk government. The aggressor nation in Kampuchea now stands isolated and the growing Sino-Soviet rapprochement would only isolate it further. The ASEAN's stand and the International Conference on Kampuchea resolution provided the best solution for an honorable military withdrawal by Vietnam and the installation of a genuine and truly nationalistic government in Kampuchea.

GHAZALI DISCUSSES BORDER PROBLEM WITH SUHARTO

BK280035 Hong Kong AFP in English 1707 GMT 27 Oct 82

[Text] Kuala Lumpur, Oct 27 (AFP) -- Malaysia and Indonesia have reaffirmed their determination to solve their territorial dispute over the islands of Pulau Sipadan and Pulau Ligitan by negotiation, a Foreign Ministry statement said today. It said Foreign Minister Tan Sri Ghazali Shafie returned last night after an official visit to Jakarta over the weekend, when he had met Presdient Suharto for discussions on the border problem of the two islands and other subjects. The statement said the Indonesian Government informed Tan Sri Ghazali the Indonesian parliament would soon ratify the Indonesia-Malaysia treaty on the archipelago. During the visit he also had talks with his counterparty, Mokhtar Kusumaatmaja, and other Indonesian leaders.

Mr Ghazali told the Indonesian Government Malaysia would table the joint archipelago treaty for ratification during the current sitting of parliament here.

Tan Sri Ghazali briefed the Indonesian president on the results of the Commonwealth heads of government regional meeting in Suva, Fiji, and the result of Malaysian Prime Minister Datuk Sri Dr Mahathir Mohamed's official visit to Papua New Guinea.

LEE KUAN YEW ON RELATIONS WITH PAPUA NEW GUINEA

BK241422 Singapore Domestic Service in English 1100 GMT 24 Oct 82

[Text] The prime minister says that while the government to government relationship is the cornerstone of Singapore-Papua New Guinea relations, this should be expanded by increased economic links. Mr Lee pointed out though there were obstacles, like the lack of shipping and marketing networks, given time and political will, these could be overcome. Mr Lee was speaking at luncheon in Papua New Guinea given in his honor by the opposition leader of the country's parliament, Mr Ted Diro. The prime minister said the government must encourage and provide incentives to entrepreneurs to overcome the problems. But, in the final analysis, it was the entrepreneurs with foresight, imagination and a sense of what was feasible who would be able to see opportunities -- where others were overwhelmed by the difficulties -- and turn those opportunities into profitable enterprises. Mr Lee also suggested that Papua New Guinea seek the best advice from sociologists and psychologists to prepare its people for the inevitable age of technology and a frantic pressure which will be felt if the ancient tribal customs conflict with the demand of the discipline of an industrial work force.

Mr Lee is now back in Singapore.

PRESIDENT MARCOS RECEIVES TWO U.S. VISTORS

OW281315 Quezon City RPN Television Network in English 1100 GMT 28 Oct 82

[Text] The president today received two distinquished American vistors at Malacanang.

The president first met U.S. Assistant Secretary of State for East Asian and Pacific Affairs Daniel O' Donohue and exchanged views on the current situation in Asia. The president and (Donohue) discussed the regional situation, including the latest developments in Kampuchea. O'Donohue, who is touring the Asia Pacific region, is traveling with U.S. Defense Secretary Caspar Weinberger, whom he will join on Saturday in Singapore.

The president also received W.E. Tucker, chairman of the U.S. panel of the U.S.-ASEAN Trade Council. During the call, Tucker complimented the Philippines for being the strongest supporter of the U.S.-ASEAN Trade Council. The president and Tucker also discussed oil production in the Middle East and the prospects of oil prices rising again.

INVESTIGATIONS OF 'THIRD FORCE' UNDERWAY

HK290026 Manila Far East Broadcasting Company in English 2330 GMT 28 Oct 82

[Text] Defense and military authorities are investigating the existence of a third force which is trying to sabotage relations between the church and the military. The matter came to light in a meeting yesterday between Defense Minister Juan Ponce Enrile and Eastern Samar Command Chief Brig Gen Salvador Mison. The defense minister ordered a probe into the activities of the suspected third force. Some radical priests in Samar have made it appear that the bishop of Calbayog had written President Marcos protesting the arrest of Father (Edgar Carleon), the parish priest of (Silanga), Catbologan, Samar. Monsignor (Philomeno Bactul), apostolic administrator of Calbayog, denied he ever signed an open letter to the president. He said the letter, which was published in full in a newspaper, was not authorized by him. Father (Carleon) was arrested by the military in Samar for alleged subversive activities.

POLICE CHIEF ON 'INSIGNIFICANT' THREAT TO PEACE

HK230829 Manila Domestic Service in English 0800 GMT 23 Oct 82

[Text] PC-INP [Philippine Constabulary-Integrated National Police] Region I Commander Victorino Azada says the insurgency problem in the region is still an insignificant threat to peace in the area. He said the recent death of Father Zacharias Agatep has broken the backbone of insurgency in the area and that his followers have sent surrender feelers. Agatep was one of the five rebel priests in the region. He was killed, together with his aides, in an encounter with government troopers in Ilocos Sur a week ago. Azada said the insurgents can not yet afford a frontal confrontation with government forces, since their capability is still zero. He added that no part of the region has ever been in the hands or control of the insurgents.

ASEAN REJECTS SOUTHEAST ASIA CONFERENCE PROPOSAL

BK291444 Hong Kong AFP in English 1107 GMT 29 Oct 82

[Text] Bangkok, Oct. 29 (AFP) -- The Association of Southeast Asian Nations (ASEAN) has formally rejected a long-standing Indochinese proposal for a limited international conference on Southeast Asia, according to a statement released here today. The statement, circulated as an official United Nations General Assembly and Security Council document, dismissed the proposal -- recently reiterated by Laos -- as a bid to legitimise Vietnam's presence in Cambodia.

Laotian Foreign Minister Phoun Sipaseut, in a letter to the ASEAN states of Thailand, Malaysia, Indonesia, Singapore and the Philippines, last month proposed the holding of such a conference early next year in a neutral capital -- Rangoon, New Delhi, Paris, Stockholm or Vienna. The proposal was initially formulated last July by Vietnam and its allies in Laos and Cambodia. It implied that the situation in Cambodia would not be an exclusive point of discussion.

The ASEAN statement noted that Vietnam had "always regarded" the Cambodian situation as an internal affair for the Heng Samrin administration it installed in Phnom Penh in January 1979. Vietnam had also stressed its "preoccupation" with an alleged Chinese threat to the region, the statement added.

"The convening of a limited international conference on Southeast Asia suggests that the situation in Kampuchea would be submerged in a morass of unrelated matters," it went on.

"Such a limited international conference would thus only serve to legitimise continued Vietnamese military occupation of Cambodia, draw the ASEAN countries into a confrontation with those whom Vietnam perceives to be a threat, and in effect prolong the suffering of the Kampuchean people," the ASEAN members said.

Details of ASEAN Letter

BK300602 Bangkok BANGKOK POST in English 30 Oct 82 p 3

[Text] A partial troop withdrawal by Vietnam would have been a move in the right direction if it had been linked to an assurance that all Vietnamese troops would eventually be withdrawn from Kampuchea in accordance with the declaration of the International Conference on Kampuchea.

The above statement, issued on Thursday, is contained in a memorandum issued by ASEAN countries in response to a letter by Laos circulated at the United Nations General Assembly and Security Council. The letter, dated September 15, 1982, had also been addressed to the ASEAN foreign ministers.

The memorandum said that the Vietnamese proposal for a demilitarised zone along the Thai-Kampuchean border is an imposition on Thailand which is not a party to the conflict in Kampuchea and would lead to further displacement of refugees along the Thai-Kampuchean border who are dependent upon international humanitarian relief assistance....

It said that as regards the limited international conference on Southeast Asia proposed by Vietnam,it should be noted that Vietnam and Laos refused to participate in the International Conference on Kampuchea which was convened at the UN headquarters.

MATERIALS ON VISIT OF LIBYA'S AL-QADHDHAFI

Details of Arrival Ceremony

SK292222 Pyongyang KCNA in English 2200 GMT 29 Oct 82

[Text] Pyongyang, October 30 (KCNA) -- His Excellency Colonel Mu'ammar al-Qadhdhafi, leader of the great September 1 Revolution of the Socialist People's Libyan Arab Jamahiriya, arrived in Pyongyang by special plane on October 29 on an official visit to our country upon the invitation of the great leader Comrade Kim Il-song, president of the Democratic People's Republic of Korea. The great leader Comrade Kim Il-song and his wife came out to Pyongyang airport and warmly received His Excellency Mu'ammar al-Qadhdhafi and Madame.

The airport was pervaded with a festive mood upon receiving the friendship envoy of the Libyan people. A portrait of the great leader Comrade Kim Il-song and a portrait of His Excellency Colonel Mu'ammar al-Qadhdhafi, leader of the great September 1 Revolution of the Socialist People's Libyan Arab Jamahiriya, were set up amidst the crowd of thousands of people carrying national flags of the two countries, bunches of flowers and balloons. Standing there were also the slogans "Long live the great leader Comrade Kim Il-song!" "Long live His Excellency Colonel Mu'ammar al-Qadhdhafi, leader of the great September 1 Revolution of the Libyan people!" The great leader Comrade Kim Il-song appeared at the airport.

The plane carrying the envoy of the Libyan people touched down at 16:30. The crowd enthusiastically welcomed the good-will envoy of the Libyan people with cheers of hurrah.

The great leader Comrade Kim Il-song shook hands with His Excellency Colonel Mu'ammar al-Qadhdhafi and hugged him. Children's Union members presented bouquets of flowers to the great leader Comrade Kim Il-song and His Excellency Colonel Mu'ammar al-Qadhdhafi.

His Excellency Colonel Mu'ammar al-Qadhdhafi was accompanied by Mustafa al-Kharrubi, chief of General Staff of the Libyan Armed Forces, and his wife; 'Abd al-'Ati al-Ubaydi, secretary of the General People's Committee of the People's Foreign Liaison Office; Muhammad al-Manqush, secretary of the General People's Committee for Housing; Abu Zayd 'Umar Durham, secretary of the General People's Committee for Agricultural Development and Land Reclamation; Musa Ahmad Abu Furaywah, secretary of the General People's Committee for Economic and Light Industry; 'Umar al-Muntasir, secretary of the General People's Committee for Heavy Industry; al-Bukhari Salim Hudah, secretary of the General People's Committee for Transportation and Maritime Transport; Miftah al-Asta 'Umar, secretary of Liaison Office; Nuri al-Mismari, general director of protocol of the General People's Committee of the People's Foreign Liaison Office; and others.

The guests were greeted at the airport by Minister of People's Armed Forces O Chin-u and his wife, Vice-President of the DPRK Pak Song-chol and his wife, Chief of General Staff O Kuk-yol, Vice-Premier and Foreign Minister Ho Tam, Vice-Premier Kong Chin-tae, Vice-Premier Chong Chun-ki, chairmen of commissions and ministers of the Administration Council, leading personnel of working people's organisations, generals of the Korean People's Army, leading personnel of science, education, culture and art, public health and the press. On hand were 'Abd al-Majid Kashkushah, secretary of the People's Committee of the People's Bureau of the Socialist People's Libyan Arab Jamahiriya, officials of the People's Bureau and foreign diplomatic envoys in Pyongyang.

A function welcoming His Excellency Colonel Mu'ammar al-Qadhdhafi, leader of the great September 1 Revolution of the Socialist People's Libyan Arab Jamahiriya, was held at the airport. The national anthems of Libya and our country were played.

In company with the great leader Comrade Kim Il-song, His Excellency Colonel Mu'ammar al-Qadhdhafi reviewed a guard of honour of the three services of the Korean People's Army amid the booming of a 21-gun salute. Together with the great leader Comrade Kim Il-song, His Excellency Mu'ammar al'Qadhdhafi waved to the warmly cheering crowds, passing before them. Hundreds of thousands of working people in Pyongyang warmly welcomed Mu'ammar al-Qadhdhafi along streets.

Call on Kim Il-song

SK292252 Pyongyang KCNA in English 2236 GMT 29 Oct 82

[Text] Pyongyang, October 30 (KCNA) -- His Excellency Colonel Mu'ammar al-Qadhdhafi, leader of the great September 1 Revolution of the Socialist People's Libyan Arab Jamahiriya, and his wife on October 29 paid a courtesy call on the great leader Comrade Kim Il-song, president of the Democratic People's Republic of Korea, and his wife.

Text of Kim Il-song Speech

SK292242 Pyongyang KCNA in English 2218 GMT 29 Oct 82

[Text] Pyongyang, October 30 (KCNA) -- The great leader Comrade Kim Il-song, president of the Democratic Peoples Republic of Korea, made a speech at the grand banquet he arranged at the Kumsusan Assembly Hall on the evening of October 29 in honor of Colonel Mu'ammar al-Qadhdhafi, leader of the great September 1 Revolution of the Socialist People's Libyan Arab Jamahiriya. Follows the full text of the speech:

Your Excellency esteemed Colonel Mu'ammar al-Qadhdhafi, dear guests from Libya, comrades and friends: We are greatly pleased to meet in Pyongyang today Your Excellency Colonel Mu'ammar al-Qadhdhafi, the leader of the great September 1 Revolution of the Socialist People's Libyan Arab Jamahiriya. On behalf of the Government of the Democratic People's Republic of Korea and the Korean people and on my own, I warmly welcome Your Excellency Esteemed Colonel al-Qadhdhafi and the dear guests from Libya who have come to our country with the feelings of militant friendship and fraternal solidarity with our people.

Your Excellency al-Qadhdhafi made a long trip to the east this time to visit our country. This is our first meeting, but our friendship has long been established through various channels as comrades-in-arms and brothers standing on the common front for independence against imperialism and you are widely known among our people as a staunch anti-imperialist fighter of Arab and Africa. So we have received you with the pleasure of meeting an old friend of ours.

Korea and Libya are both newly-emerging countries and members of the Non-Aligned Movement standing on the forefront of the struggle against U.S. imperialism and its stooges. Today, the U.S. imperialists hate most bitterly revolutionary Libya in the Middle East Arab region and, regarding our country as the first target of attack in the Far East, are intensifying their manoeuvres to provoke a new war.

This unites our two peoples closer by bonds of militant solidarity and friendship in the struggle against the common enemy.

The current visit of Your Excellency Colonel al-Qadhdhafi to our country will be a momentous landmark in developing the fraternal friendship and solidarity between the two peoples to a new, higher stage and greatly contribute to the promotion of the Third World peoples' common cause of sovereignty, independence, and building of a new society.

The Libyan people, under the leadership of Your Excellency Colonel Mu'ammar al-Qadhdhafi, their outstanding leader, carried out the historic September 1 Revolution and have taken bold revolutionary steps to remove all imperialist colonial ruling machines, economic foothold and aggressive military bases from the Libyan soil since the revolution. In spite of the repeated threats of armed intervention, economic blockade, subversive activities and sabotage of the U.S. imperialists, the Libyan people are now firmly defending the country's sovereignty without vacillation and courageously paving a new path of national prosperity under their unique motto of "Jamahiriya."

Libya is maintaining chajusong (independence) and the non-alignment policy and struggling staunchly to defend the dignity of the Arab nation; she is supporting the liberation struggles of the Palestinian people and all other oppressed peoples and making energetic efforts for a fair settlement of the Middle East issue and the promotion of the cause of the complete liberation of Africa.

Expressing full solidarity with the uncompromising struggle Your Excellency esteemed al-Qadhdhafi, a prominent anti-imperialist fighter, is waging against the U.S. imperialists and the Zionists, the Korean people sincerely wish the Libyan people brilliant successes in building a new society.

On this occasion we once again sternly condemn the beastly war acts and brutal massacre committed by the Israeli aggressors after invading Lebanon with the U.S. imperialists encouragement and extend invariable support and encouragement to the just struggle of the Palestinian and all other Arab peoples to achieve national liberation, build an independent state and win back their lost territory.

The Arab people is a great nation with huge manpower and material resources. If all the Arab people closely unite and take a concerted action, the Israeli aggressors will never be able to act so high-handedly as they are doing now and the common cause of the Arab people will be finally accomplished. The strength of a united people is invincible, and it is a truth substantiated by history that the aggressors and oppressors meet their doom.

No frantic effort of the U.S. imperialists and the Zionists will be able to crush the cause of justice of the Arab people, and the flames of the Palestinian revolution will go on raging, as long as the Palestinian people are alive. The brutal invasion and massacre by the Israeli aggressors, that have stirred up the world people to furious resentment, will, in the long run, precipitate their own isolation and destruction.

The Korean people will in the future, too, struggle vigorously to build an independent new world free from imperialism and war, from all manner of national domination and subjugation, in close unity with the Third World people including the Libyan Arab people and all the rest of the world people who advocate chajusong.

Your Excellency esteemed Colonel al-Qadhdhafi, it always gives me pleasure to meet friends like you who are standing together on the anti-imperialist front. We firmly believe that this time we will reach good agreements through an unreserved discussion of the question of developing relations between the two countries and a series of problems arising in opposing imperialism and making the whole world independent.

I would like to take this amicable opportunity of meeting my Libyan friends to wish that the fraternal friendship and solidarity between the Korean and Libyan peoples may be strengthened and that the solidarity among the world people who advocate chajusong be cemented and to wish the Socialist People's Libyan Arab Jamahiriya prosperity, His Excellency esteemed Colonel Mu'ammar al-Qadhdhafi good health and happiness and the dear guests from Libya and comrades and friends present here good health.

Al-Qadhdhafi Speech

SK292316 Pyongyang KCNA in English 2244 GMT 29 Oct 82

[Text] Pyongyang, October 30 (KCNA) -- Colonel Mu'ammar al-Qadhdhafi, the leader of the great September 1 Revolution of the Socialist People's Libyan Arab Jamahiriya, made a speech at the banquet arranged on the evening of October 29 at the Kumsusan Assembly Hall by the great leader Comrade Kim Il-song, president of the Democratic People's Republic of Korea.

He said: I express thanks to Your Excellency President Kim Il-song, a dear friend and the respected leader of the Korean people, for your excellent speech just made.

Availing ourselves of this occasion, we express deep thanks to you, [Mr] President for having come out in person today together with the friendly Korean people to accord us a warm hospitality. We will always remember that the working people of Korea headed by the great leader President Kim Il-song warmly welcomed us. It will remain long in our memory.

Taking this occasion of meeting you and receiving a warm welcome from you, we voice our solidarity with the struggle of the Korean people to reunify the territory and nation of Korea and defeat imperialism in the Far East. We declare that we actively support the proposal for Korean reunification advanced by you, [Mr] president, which is a correct way of achieving the reunification of the Korean nation divided by the imperialists.

Availing ourselves of our stay in friendly Korea today, we announce to the world that we are standing on the same front against world imperialism from the Far East and Arab countries to Latin America. We declare this not only in the name of Libya but also in the name of the revolutionary forces led by Libya in the Arab motherland and Africa and the people fighting against imperialism and reaction in that region under the leadership of Libya.

We assure you that such solidarity of ours and the struggle we are waging, standing firm on the anti-imperialist front, are a strategic action which should be invariably continued till imperialism has been defeated and the people struggling for socialism and freedom have won victory.

Though we are far away from each other, we are in the same trench against imperialism, U.S. imperialism in particular. U.S. imperialism, which threatens Korea's reunification and directly your country, is directly menacing us in our country, too, from the Mediterranean and our border. This is why we are standing on the same trench against it. U.S. imperialism will certainly sustain defeat thanks to this solidarity and this broad front.

The reunification of Korea will be achieved and the imperialist moves against it fail in the solidarity extended to the Korean people by the people fighting for freedom.

In the Korean people's solidarity with the Libyan Arab people and the solidarity of the people who love freedom, the U.S. imperialists will be defeated in the Gulf of Sidra and their attempt to subdue the Libyan people by threat [will] come to a cropper. In the solidarity extended to the Palestinian people by the Korean and Libyan peoples and other peoples who fight for freedom, Zionism will ruin and the Palestinian people liberate their territory and establish their democratic state. [sentence as received] Thanks to this solidarity of theirs, racism will be defeated in South Africa and Namibia and the Tanzanian people and Namibian people will win victory in South Africa.

That today there is such a leader with resolute anti-imperialist sting as President Kim Il-song our great friend is a precious source of strength in the struggle of the people against imperialism. We stand on your side [words indistinct] may trust in the struggle against imperialism, the common enemy.

We highly appraise your wise leadership of the Korean people to construction, progress, reunification and direct confrontation with provocations of imperialism.

The U.S. imperialists feel uneasiness because we are meeting today precisely in the land of Korea. Imperialism not only feels uneasiness but is scheming to confront us. Under this condition we are resolved to further strengthen the anti-imperialist common front in the area from the Far East to the Middle East. U.S. imperialism also knows that ours is an era of people. The anti-imperialist struggle is a struggle to be participated in not only by regular armed forces but also by the entire popular masses who desire to achieve complete liberation and free themselves from all manner of outside forces' pressure.

We speak highly of the fact that the Korean people are unanimously turning out under the leadership of Your Excellency, and for this, the Korean people will certainly achieve victory in the struggle against imperialism and for the building of the country.

The Libyan people also won victory in the struggle against the reactionaries and for the dismantling of the foreign military bases and established a people's government. The Libyan people are now fully ready to fight against imperialism and Zionism. The entire Libyan people declared that if the U.S. troops dare attack the Gulf of Sidra, they would turn this gulf into a red one.

We fighting against imperialism and Zionism in the Arab region value the friendship and alliance with Your Excellency President, the staunch and great leader, and with the resolute and industrious Korean people led by you. We had been intimate friends from before we met each other. Though we have not established any alliance, we are allies waging a common struggle. We are greatly rejoiced at the excellent development of the friendly relations between the two countries and the bilateral relations between the two countries.

I express once again thanks to you, a great friend, and to the friendly Korean people for the unforgettable enthusiastic welcome accorded us today. Long live the friendship between us! Long live our common struggle till the defeat of imperialism!

The mass gymnastic display "People Sing of the Leader" began. It was warmly acclaimed by the guests and spectators for its rich ideological and artistic content and high sports skill. At the end of the display, cheers of hurrah again burst forth and a beautiful rainbow symbolising the militant friendship and solidarity forged between the Korean and Libyan peoples on the same front of anti-imperialism and independence and the words "Let us strengthen the anti-imperialist, anti-U.S. struggle!" and "May the friendship and solidarity between the Korean and Libyan peoples be everlasting!" appeared on the background and students and school children in national costumes of the two countries danced a beautiful dance of friendship on the gymnastic ground.

While the cheers continued, the great leader Comrade Kim Il-song and His Excellency Colonel Mu'ammar al-Qadhdhafi lifted their tightly grasped hands to express the sentiments of fraternal friendship and solidarity between the Korean and Libyan peoples and acknowledged the cheers of the crowds.

FORMER PRC PILOT HOLDS PRESS CONFERENCE IN SEOUL

SK310504 Seoul Domestic Service in Korean 0300 GMT 31 Oct 82

[Text] Twenty-five-year-old Wu Yung-keng, the former Red Chinese pilot who escaped from Red China in a MIG on 16 October and sought political asylum, held a press conference in the conference room of the National Defense Ministry at 0930 today.

Saying that he came from Jinhua County, Zhejiang Province, in Red China, Wu disclosed the motive of his attempt to seek political asylum. He said that since he was disgusted with communist society, he chose South Korea as an intermediate station in his exodus to free China.

Wu explained the circumstances of his escape. He said that at 1350 Beijing time on 16 October he left for South Korea from Ludong military airbase on Shandong Peninsula. He added that 6 minutes and 30 seconds after leaving the ground, Red Chinese radar picked up his plane and ordered him to make a 180-degree turn. He said that, ignoring this instruction, he continued to his course, entered the territorial skies of South Korea in 30 minutes and landed at a South Korea Air Force base at 1434 the same day.

Wu said that while living in Red China he knew that South Korea was a free democratic country and that since his arrival in South Korea he has seen the happy appearance of the people and the signs of rapid industrial development. Wu thanked the ROK Government for its humanitarian stand of helping him freely choose his residence.

Over 100 domestic and foreign reporters, including those from the Taiwan television station, AP, UPI, the American CBS and the ABC television, the Japanese NHK and the Japanese DAILY YOMIURI covered the press conference.

LOCAL AUTONOMY ISSUE RAISED IN ASSEMBLY SESSION

SK300610 Seoul CHUNGANG ILBO in Korean 29 Oct 82 p 2

[Lawmakers' interpellations at the National Assembly committee sessions held on 28 October]

[Excerpts] (At the Home Affairs Committee session of the National Assembly) Interpellations by Representative Kim Won-ki of the Democratic Korea Party: The enforcement of the local autonomy system is one of the solemn pledges made by the government of the Fifth Republic before the people. Therefore, the government should be held liable to make this local autonomy system take root during the single term of the presidential office. Without the enforcement of the local autonomy system, which is fundamental to democracy, we cannot expect a democratic country. Without the ideological sympathy from the people, we cannot expect full cooperation from them. Their cooperation will be limited.

Interpellations by Representative Cho Pyong-kyu of the Korea National Party: There is no ground whatsoever for withholding the enforcement of the local autonomy system. The local autonomy system is necessary to enhance the self-governing ability of the people and to achieve a balanced development of the country. The local autonomy system is necessary for successful preparation for the 1988 Olympic games in Seoul. It is also necessary to control the increase of population in Seoul and to move enterprises from Seoul to the provinces.

Interpellations by Representative Ko Pyong-hyon of the Democratic Korea Party: The government should make a choice now either to revise the constitution to abolish the provisions in it on forming local autonomous assemblies or to enforce the local autonomy system as provided in the constitution.

Answers by Home Affairs Minister No Tae-u: The government has been sincerely studying the enforcement of local autonomy system in accordance with the constitution. But I think that conditions for enforcing the local autonomy system have not matured as yet.

(At the Education and Public Information Committee session) Interpellation by Representative Kim Tae-su of the Fraternal Independent Association: The government should permit the Christian broadcasting station to broadcast commercials and fulfill its function as a broadcasting station serving the public interest.

BREZHNEV'S KREMLIN CONFERENCE SPEECH WELCOMED

OW302158 Ulaanbaatar MONTSAME in English 1724 GMT 30 Oct 82

[Text] Ulaanbaatar, 30 October (MONTSAME) -- The Mongolian public has welcomed the speech of L.I. Brezhnev, general secretary of the Central Committee of the Communist Party of the Soviet Union, chairman of the Presidium of the U.S.S.R. Supreme Soviet, at the Kremlin conference of the leading staff of the Soviet Army and Navy. L.I. Brezhnev has determined responsible tasks facing the Soviet Army and Navy at the current period of the aggravated international situation, the newspaper UNEN writes. Commenting on the Soviet leader's speech, the daily stresses that L.I. Brezhnev has underlined the necessity of stepping up the struggle for averting the threat of a thermo-nuclear war and for defending and consolidating peace and security of nations. The newspaper points out that touching upon the significance of relations of the Soviet Union with the People's Republic of China, L.I. Brezhnev has once again expressed the sincere aspirations of the Soviet Union for the normalization of relations with China and the resolve to do everything possible in this sphere.

The paper notes that the Mongolian People's Republic considers this question as urgent in the present conditions of sharp antagonism of two directions of the world policy. The newspaper UNEN singles out the statement of L.I. Brezhnev that the chief line of the foreign political activity of the socialist countries is the maintenance and strengthening of detente and security of nations and the preservation of peace.

COMMODITY EXCHANGE PROTOCOL SIGNED WITH CSSR

Charter and striving to develop and strengthen relations of co-operation on the basis of the principles of mutual respect of sovereignty and territorial integrity, of non-interference into internal affairs of each other and peaceful settlement of pressing problems.

FURTHER CONDEMNATION OF UN VOTE ON KAMPUCHEA

Foreign Ministry Statement

BK301630 Phnom Penh Domestic Service in Cambodian 1100 GMT 29 Oct 82

["Text" of 29 October PRK Foreign Ministry statement]

[Text] The PRK foreign Ministry states that the UN has no role to play with regard to the Kampuchean Government and people as long as it continues to keep in its body the genocidal Pol Pot criminals and disguised Pol Pot members. The Foreign Ministry vehemently condemns and completely rejects the erroneous and unjust UN decision on the present situation in Kampuchea. It considers this decision a gross, barbarous and unacceptable interference in the PRK's internal affairs.

Despite their perfidious maneuvers of blackmail, coercion, threat and pressure in various international arenas, Beijing, Washington and reactionaries among the ASEAN countries cannot camouflage their ventures of aggression, sabotaging of peace, violations of human rights and interference in others' internal affairs because history will be the serious and just judge of all world political events.

History has revealed the true nature of China's hegemonist policy as the greatest threat to peace and stability in Southeast Asia. No one can ignore that China is determined to resort to military measures -- by using the genocidal criminals and various reactionary Khmer elements -- to oppose the revival of the Kampuchean people and incite the ASEAN countries to confrontation with the Indochinese countries. Only traitors of the revolution can accept the reactionaries' arguments that the so-called situation in Kampuchea is the original cause of tension in Southeast Asia. It is clear to wise people that an end to China's hegemonist policy will constitute a solid guarantee for lasting peace and stability in the region.

The presence of Vietnamese troops in Kampuchea is demanded by the Kampuchean Government and people. It is meant to cope with the Chinese threat for the sake of peace and stability in Indochina and Southeast Asia. If China agrees to sign a nonaggression treaty with the three Indochinese countries and respects this treaty, Kampuchea and Vietnam will agree with each other immediately to a total withdrawal of Vietnamese troops from Kampuchea.

In fact, however, history has demonstrated that not only have the Chinese hegemonists rejected all of the three Indochinese countries' proposals full of good will, but they have also intensified their collusion with the U.S. imperialists and their reactionary ASEAN accomplices to wage war on the Kampuchean people by using genocidal criminals and various reactionary Khmer elements.

The Chinese hegemonists have threatened and are threatening to attack and exert military pressure on Vietnam and Laos. In fact, they have plotted a multifaceted war of destruction against the three Indochinese countries.

They have claimed that the presence of Vietnamese troops close to the Kampuchea-Thai border threatens Thailand's security. Such interference is aimed at covering up the use of Thai territory by the genocidal criminals and various reactionary Khmer elements to oppose the revival of the Kampuchean people and threaten the security of the Indochinese countries. The Thai leaders should have remembered that letting the Chinese hegemonists use Thai territory against the Indochinese countries and authorizing the Khmer reactionaries to use one of the ASEAN capitals to establish the so-called Coalition Government of Democratic Kampuchea constitute a dangerous precedent of foreign intervention in other countries' internal affairs.

We again would like to call the ASEAN countries' attention to the fact that patience has its limits. The PRK will use its right to legitimate self-defense as a state with sovereignty over all its territory. The Kampuchean people will use their appropriate right to retaliation in order to safeguard their right to exist as a nation.

How can the U.S. imperialists, the Chinese hegemonists and their ASEAN lackeys assume the right to dictate that Kampuchea be neutral and conform to their desire while the United States has established its military bases in the Philippines; Indonesia, in its own way, exerts military control over East Timor; Australia and New Zealand have claimed that they have the right to send and station their troops in Singapore and Malaysia; and China has invaded the Hoang Sa (Paracels) Islands and has persisted in its ambition of controlling all the Eastern Sea (South China Sea).

All Southeast Asia must be neutralized. No regional country will be permitted to establish a military alliance with another country outside the region, nor can it allow the establishment of foreign military bases on its territory or a country outside of the region to interfere in the internal affairs of Southeast Asian countries. Will the ASEAN ruling circles be independent and sovereign enough to take these logical and just proposals into consideration?

With regard to the PRK, the ASEAN countries have no right to demand the holding of a UN-sponsored international conference to find a solution to the so-called Kampuchean problem that the Chinese hegemonists and the U.S. imperialists have strived to fabricate and to disperse distorted propaganda. If the ASEAN countries really want lasting peace and stability in the region, they cannot refuse the convening of a regional conference between the Indochinese and ASEAN countries. A conference can attain the expected results only when, and first of all, the parties directly concerned agree to participate therein. Holding a conference in which one party pressures the other is only a cheap trick used by aggressors.

It is disgusting to see that those who have clamorously demanded the defense of the principle of nonmilitary intervention in other countries, the protection of the Kampuchean people's right to self-determination, the withdrawal of Vietnamese troops from Kampuchea and a political solution to the so-called Kampuchean problem are the criminals along with the Chinese hegemonists, the U.S. aggressors, the ASEAN reactionaries and other opportunists. Unfortunately for them, however, the situation in Kampuchea is irreversible. The three socialist Indochinese countries are consolidating and developing increasingly.

The PRK Government and people take the liberty of reminding the United Nations again that it must put an immediate end to its gross, barbarous and unacceptable intervention in the Kampuchean people's internal affairs so that it may regain, as soon as possible, its honor, prestige and international role.

KAMPUCHEA Commentary

BK291138 Phnom Penh SPK in French 0402 GMT 28 Oct 82

[KAMPUCHEA commentary: "The 25 October UN Decision Is Unreasonable and Unjust" -- SPK headline]

[Text] Phnom Penh, 28 Oct (SPK) -- "The vote for the representation of reactionary Khmers does not correspond to the real situation in Kampuchea, goes against the aspirations of Kampucheans -- rescued from genocide -- and is contrary to the UN Charter," notes the paper KAMPUCHEA in a commentary in its latest issue. The KUFNCD central organ continues:

Everyone is aware that "Democratic Kampuchea" was a genocidal regime unprecedented in the history of mankind and that it was overthrown by the Kampuchean people on 7 January 1979. By creating the so-called coaliton government, the Chinese expansionsists, the U.S. imperialists and the ASEAN reactionary circles intend to resurrect the political corpse of "Democratic Kampuchea" with the aim of undermining the rebirth of the Kampuchean revolution.

This UN decision represents gross and unforgivable interference in the internal affairs of the PRK. U.S. imperialism and Chinese expansionism have applied economic and political pressures on the UN member states so that they would vote in favor of the Pol Pot gang; other countries -- not up-to-date with the real situation in Kampuchea for more than 3 years -- have let themselves be taken in by the "coalition government" label. The UN decision cannot brighten the future of this "government" -- representing a genocidal regime which raises the strong indignation of world progressive opinion.

The 25 October UN vote does not reverse the situation in Kampuchea. The struggle for the defense and reconstruction of the country will lead the Kampuchean revolution to victory and it is the Kampuchean people who will decide their own destiny.

The Kampuchean people totally reject the result of the vote for the representation of "Democratic Kampuchea" at the United Nations and demand that the Pol Pot, Ieng Sary, Khieu Samphan, Sihanouk and Son Sann gang be expelled immediately from this international organization. The PRK Government is the only one entitled to represent the Kampuchean people in every international body. The paper KAMPUCHEA concludes:

In the search for a solution to Southeast Asian problems, the United Nations must work toward convening an international conference -- as proposed by the conference of foreign ministers of the Indochinese countries -- and not maintaining the presence of the Pol Pot murderers among its throng. As long as the UN mistake remains, peace and stability in this region -- and in particular along the Kampuchea border -- cannot be guaranteed.

SIHANOUK ADDRESSES UN GENERAL ASSEMBLY SESSION

25 October Speech

BK300824 (Clandestine) Voice of Democratic Kampuchea in Cambodian to Kampuchea 2330 GMT 29 Oct 82

[25 October speech by Samdech Norodom Sihanouk, president of Democratic Kampuchea and head of the Democratic Kampuchean delegation, to the 37th UN General Assembly -- read by announcer]

[Text] I am honored, as the president of Democratic Kampuchea and head of the Democratic Kampuchean delegation to the 37th UN General Assembly, to thank the Credentials Committee for accepting and submitting the credentials of Democratic Kampuchea to the plenary session for approval. I would like to ask the General Assembly to accept the proposal of the Credentials Committee which has confirmed to you that the credentials of Democratic Kampuchea -- the sole legal and legitimate state of Kampuchea and a UN member -- conform totally to the regulations of our General Assembly. You have consistently recognized Democratic Kampuchea. After the Vietnamese invasion of Kampuchea, you have continued to defend the Democratic Kampuchean seat, although the Hanoi government and its colleagues have tried to make you accept the so-called People's Republic of Kampuchea that they have installed in Phnom Penh. I would like to express my profound thanks for your justice. I firmly believe that this year more member states of our United Nations will vote in support of justice against aggression, independence against colonialism and freedom against slavery. As is known to you, in the past months, following frank and thorough discussions among various patriotic groups representing various political trends in our country, the government of Democratic Kampuchea has become a coalition government joined by representatives from each faction. This government is now representing our entire Kampuchean nation. The handful who do not join this government are persons who have chosen to serve the Vietnamese aggressors. They respect and serve the Vietnamese aggressors and cannot survive without the support of the 200,000 Vietnamese troops. In my opinion, there is no need to talk much about the puppet regime in Phnom Penh. There is no dispute between us and these puppets; the dispute is between our coalition government and the SRV leaders who have invaded, occupied, oppressed and plundered our Kampuchea.

Vietnam, the LPDR -- Vietnam's satellite -- the Soviet Union and its company oppose the Democratic Kampuchean credentials. They have launched all kinds of maneuvers in an attempt to prevent Democratic Kampuchea from occupying its UN seat. The government that I am honored to represent here is not a government in exile as some have said. Members of our government are waging the struggle in our Kampuchean territory, in the northwestern, southwestern and northeastern regions. Our cabinet, which I lead, meets and works in our Kampuchean territory now and in the future. It is true that the Vietnamese aggressor troops control many cities in our country but, as impartial observers have acknowledged, the Vietnamese aggressors do not enjoy security anywhere and have to prepare massive defense forces to protect transport from one town to another. It is true that the struggle for national liberation takes a long time and must include many difficulties and sacrifices.

I hope that one day the Kampuchean problem will be solved through peaceful means. But at present, we have no other alternative but to struggle resolutely. Our combatants fight not only for independence and freedom in our country; I want to emphasize that our combatants also struggle with the lofty spirit of sacrifice which prevents countries which are weak, in terms of both population and military strength, from falling under the domination of their stronger, expansionist neighbors. This does not only mean the Third World. Moreover, our combatants fight on the battlefield in order to prevent Kampuchea's neighbors from being threatened, encroached upon and invaded militarily by Vietnam. Therefore, this struggle helps reduce tension in Southeast Asia and serves the cause of stability and peace in the region. To check the advance of the Vietnamese expansionists, the Kampuchean combatants, who are fighting on the frontline, need more support from the UN member countries which do not want to reward acts of aggression and colonialism. Recognizing the Phnom Penh puppet regime or assisting it by leaving the Kampuchean seat empty would mean that our United Nations is rewarding the Vietnamese aggressors who have invaded and occupied a small, humble country which has done nothing wrong except for loving independence and refusing to be subjugated. I am confident that the majority of the UN member countries that cherish justice will vote for the right of legitimate representation of our government.

At the end of his speech, the prince president of Democratic Kampuchea read a message from Prum Ieng, former high-ranking official appointed by the Vietnamese aggressive administration in Phnom Penh as chief of the Kampuchean Information Office in Stockholm, Sweden, who fled in mid-1982. In the message, Prum Ieng indignantly condemned the crimes committed by the Vietnamese aggressors in an attempt to exterminate the Kampuchean race and annex the Kampuchean territory.

26 October Address

BK311606 (Clandestine) Voice of Democratic Kampuchea in Cambodian to Kampuchea 2330 GMT 30 Oct 82

[26 October speech by Samdech Norodom Sihanouk, president of Democratic Kampuchea and head of the Democratic Kampuchean delegation to the 37th UN General Assembly -- read by announcer]

[Text] Before talking about the situation in Kampuchea, on behalf of the Kampuchean people and the Coalition Government of Democratic Kampuchea [CGDK] and in my own name, I would like to express profound gratitude to the many member states of the United Nations -- whose distinguished delegates are present here -- which yesterday afternoon, in front of this noble General Assembly, ensured justice and provided great anf firm support for the just cause of the Kampuchean people and for an independent, neutral and nonaligned Kampuchea. This gesture full of lofty political meaning will be forever inscribed in gold letters in the history of our country and in that of our struggle for the total liberation of our fatherland.

Mr Chairman, Mr Secretary General, distinguished delegates: Please allow me to touchingly thank the United Nations which has voted with an overwhelming majority over 3 successive years -- 1979, 1980 and 1981 -- to pass resolutions for a correct and just solution to the Kampuchean problem. These resolutions demand: 1) the unconditional withdrawal of all foreign troops from Kampuchea; 2) recognition of the sovereignty and right to self-determination of the Kampuchean people; 3) free general elections under the supervision of the United Nations.

As a sovereign state, Kampuchea has the full right to refuse UN supervision, but our country is willing to accept this supervision in order to fully guarantee that the election will be held in a truly democratic manner. This will deprive the Vietnamese of a pretext for not withdrawing their soldiers from Kampuchea and not letting Kampuchea recover its independence. Currently, people are saying that they are trying to find a way to solve the Kampuchean problem politically. But let me point out that the way to solve the Kampuchean prolem politically already exists.

It is contained in successive UN resolutions and in the declaration of the 1981 International Conference on Kampuchea willingly attended by 93 countries. This is the way to solve the Kampuchean problem and it is a good, correct, just and reasonable way. There is nothing else to add or take away from it. The problem is how to get that country which invaded, controlled and illegally put its colonial yoke on Kampuchea for the past almost 4 years to clearly respect and implement it. That country is the Socialist Republic of Vietnam, which is a member of the United Nations. Vietnam is bound by the UN Charter. If it is sincere and reasonable, Vietnam must abide by the decision of the United Nations. What is the point of Vietnam staying in our United Nations if it violates UN principles and orders, and contemptuously scorns the decision of the overwhelming majority of the UN member states?

We all know that Vietnam has stationed many aggressor troops in Kampuchea and has sent its own people to occupy territory in various regions of our country in order to achieve its Indochinese federation -- including Laos -- which the Hanoi party called Viet Minh has wanted for a long time. But this Indochinese federation -- with Vietnam as master and Kampuchea and Laos as stupid puppets -- we certainly cannot accept.

Our people and government will absolutely not abandon their struggle for national liberation as long as the Vietnamese soldiers have not been completely withdrawn from the territory of our country and as long as we still have not recovered the right to decide our own destiny. Vietnam and its supporters are beginning to realize that their difficulties are increasing. The Vietnamese economy -- which even in normal times is not good -- is getting worse because of Vietnam's war of aggression in Kampuchea, while the morale of the Vietnamese soldiers fighting in Kampuchea is getting lower and lower.

Increasing numbers of Vietnamese soldiers are dissatisfied with their superiors' orders to invade a small country which used to provide all kinds of assistance and support to Vietnam when the Vietnamese were struggling for their national liberation. These Vietnamese soldiers are not happy to act as guards defending the Phnom Penh regime which is not supported at all by the people and which has no political life whatsoever. These Vietnamese soldiers also clearly see that our Kampuchean combatants have been and are making things very difficult for them. Kampuchean territory is burning them everywhere.

As Kampuchean patriots, we have no alternative but to fight in order to liberate the territory of our country, while the Hanoi leaders do have a choice. Apart from their greedy expansionist ambitions, no one is forcing the Vietnamese to keep their forces in the territory of our country, which only causes them great losses. If the Hanoi leaders are realistic people, they would sincerely implement the declaration of the 1981 International Conference on Kampuchea tomorrow. If they did this, the Kampuchean problem would be solved.

Vietnam should know that in the war it has imposed on us, we bear no grudges against the Vietnamese people. We only aspire to live in peace and friendship with all our neighboring countries, in particular with Vietnam, as well as with other countries the world over.

After reading the statement of Di Lamthol, a high-ranking official of the Vietnamese authorities' Foreign Ministry in Phnom Penh who recently defected to the border region of Thailand, denouncing the Hanoi yoke of domination in Phnom Penh, the samdech president of Democratic Kampuchea said:

Currently, almost 1 million Kampuchean people have fled their country to seek refuge abroad. These Kampuchean refugees -- despite still being loyal to their fatherland -- refuse to return to their homeland and live under Vietnam's colonial yoke. In Kampuchea, my compatriots -- including peasants who most love their fields and land -- only wait for the chance to defect from Heng Samrin and Hun Sen, who are slaves at the feet of Hanoi and Moscow. In the liberated zones in Kampuchea, the CGDK daily receives many Kampucheans who have fled the zones controlled by the Vietnamese army.

The problems which confront us are the supply of food and medicine to these refugees and the supply of weapons to the tens of thousands of combatants who have volunteered to join in the just and necessary struggle to liberate the country on the battlefield. Now I would like to declare once again in front of this noble General Assembly that my government and people will always be faithful -- now and in the future -- to the ideals of peace which have always been those of our Kampuchean race and nation. If Vietnam withdraws all its soldiers from Kampuchea in accordance with the UN resolutions, our government is ready to sign a treaty of peace and nonaggression with Vietnam which would recognize and respect the sovereignty of the two neighboring nations in their present boundaries. Thus peace and reconciliation would return to the Indochinese Peninsula and the risk of war spreading would also disappear.

Mr Chairman, Mr Secretary General, distinguished delegates: This year is the fourth time that our United Nations has passed this draft resolution sponsored by 48 member states demanding that Vietnam stop its aggression in Kampuchea, withdraw all its troops from Kampuchea and let the Kampuchean people freely decide their own destiny in accordance with successive UN resolutions on Kampuchea and the declaration of the International Conference on Kampuchea.

On behalf of the Kampuchean people who have suffered most painfully from Vietnam's act of aggression against and anexation of Kampuchea, and on behalf of the Government of Democratic Kampuchea, I would like today to express warm gratitude to all the countries which have united in sponsoring this draft resolution -- including the ASEAN countries which initiated it -- which His Excellency General Carlos Romulo, minister of foreign affairs of the Philippines, has just clearly and eloquently introduced.

I appeal to all the distinguished delegates who represent peace- and justice-loving countries to provide their precious assistance and support for this draft resolution. An active vote to support this draft resolution will contribute to making Vietnam return to reason and respect the principles and laws of international relations between states. I would like to thank all the distinguished delegates in advance for their great and noble assistance and support which the Kampuchean nation and people will never forget. Thank you very much indeed for your attention.

POST: SIHANOUK, DK TO LAUNCH 'DIPLOMATIC OFFENSIVE'

BK300544 Bangkok BANGKOK POST in English 30 Oct 82 p 3

[Excerpts] The Democratic Kampuchea [DK] Government is now planning to post ambassadors to as many friendly countries as possible, THE BANGKOK POST was told yesterday. Following the DK's overwhelming victory in the United Nation's General Assembly over its seating problem, Prince Norodom Sihanouk, who is the president of the Khmer coalition government, is now preparing to launch a new diplomatic offensive to widen the DK's international support base, a reliable source said. According to the source, Prince Sihanouk, who is now in Paris to celebrate his 60th birthday with his family, is expected to stop over in Thailand sometime next month before going to Kampuchea, where a cabinet meeting is scheduled to be held. The cabinet meeting's agenda will include Prince Sihanouk's new move to establish formal diplomatic relations with as many countries as possible to which DK ambassadors are to be posted, the source said. According to the source, ASEAN countries, particularly Thailand, are Prince Sihanouk's priority.

The source said that the DK's new diplomatic campaign is solely attributed to the prince's desire for a political rather than a military solution to his country's problems.

The source also revealed Sihanouk is of the opinion that while the Khmer Rouge's efforts to drive the Vietnamese out of Kampuchea was praiseworthy, international pressure and negotiations are more decisive factors in forcing the Vietnamese to pull out. But, the source added, Sihanouk did not totally rule out the significance of battle forces as long as their presence can sustain the war to remind the world community that the Vietnamese are illegally occupying Kampuchea and that the Vietnamese-Heng Samrin forces have not been able to wipe out the DK forces.

PREM ON U.S. DEFENSE SECRETARY'S IMPENDING VISIT

BK310426 Bangkok Domestic Service in Thai 0000 GMT 30 Oct 82

[Text] Prime Minister Gen Prem Tinsulanon told a press conference at Government House yesterday that the chairman of the World Bank who visited Thailand recently praised Thailand as one of those countries whose economic administration has been in the right direction. He firmly believed that the economic situation in Thailand will gradually improve.

The prime minister explained that the price of 3,000 baht per ton of rice set by the government for the coming harvest season is not the floor price under the government's support program. It is the level set for the goverbment to intervene in the market if rice prices fall below that point. From its observation of the paddy situation in the rice exporting neighboring countries and in the world market, the Commerce Ministry believed that rice prices this year would be better than last year. The Rice Policy Committee, with the prime minister himself as chairman, will see to it that farmers get reasonable prices for their produce, and it has assigned the Commerce Ministry and the Agriculture and Cooperatives Ministry to take measures to this effect.

The prime minister said his forthcoming 17-20 November visit to the PRC is made at the invitation of the Chinese premier. He will hold talks with the Chinese leaders on questions related to Thailand's security and China. China is a big country with a population of over a billion, and its influence on the region is, therefore, quite considerable. The prime minister believes his meeting with the Chinese leaders will benefit Thailand, bilateral relations and the situation in the region.

Asked about the resignation of Deputy Commerce Minister Thawi Kraikhup, the prime minister said that Thawi Kraikhup had not done anything wrong to benefit himself. He praised the former deputy commerce minister's decision and the political spirit he displayed. The prime minister said he would not appoint a new deputy commerce minister to fill the vacancy.

A reporter referred to the prime minister's statement that he would not stand in the forthcoming elections and would not join any political party, and asked whether that means the prime minister would give up all political posts once his present term of premiership is over. The prime minister said that he is a Thai citizen with the same kind of personal responsibility toward the country as any Thai.

Asked about the coming visit to Thailand by the U.S. secretary of defense, the prime minister said he is scheduled to meet with the visitor on 2 November at Government House. Two major subjects for talks with the U.S. defense secretary will be regional security and Thai-U.S. cooperation. The prime minister said he will be frank in the upcoming talks and will report on its outcome to the press, if they are not on secret matters.

Asked about the resignation by several MP's in recent days, the prime minister said that only when more than half of the total number of legislators resign will there be a need to dissolve the parliament. If only a small number resign, there should be no problem.

U.S. TO DOUBLE STAFF TO PROCESS REFUGEES

[Text] The United States Government will double the number of staff it employs to process refugees applying for resettlement in the United States, visiting U.S. Attorney General William French Smith told Thailand's Foreign Minister Sitthi Sawetsila yesterday.

Mr Smith's statement was made after Sitthi told him that U.S. procedures for processing refugees were quite slow despite Washington's pledge to resettle more refugees in the U.S. The U.S. promised to accept as many as 64,000 Indochinese refugees from Thailand and other Southeast Asian countries for resettlement next year.

ACM Sitthi said that Mr Smith sympathised with Thailand's problems concerning refugees because he had seen the situation himself when he visited Kamput refugee camp in Chanthaburi and Phanat Nikhom refugee processing centre in Chon Buri on Wednesday.

At yesterday's meeting between ACM Sitthi and Mr Smith, the two men discussed cooperation between the U.S. and Thailand on narcotics suppression. Praising Thailand's efforts in suppressing the production of drugs at their source, the U.S. attorney general promised to cooperate with Thailand by suppressing the demand for illicit drugs in the United States. ACM Sitthi also briefed Mr Smith on the current Border Patrol Police campaign against remnants of the Shan United Army and its heroin refineries along the rugged Thai-Burmese border.

PRASONG NOTES UNHCR PLEDGE FOR REFUGEE PROGRAMS

BK271210 Bangkok Voice of Free Asia in English 1100 GMT 26 Oct 82

[Text] According to Secretary General of the National Security Council Squadron Leader Prasong Sunsiri, a pledge of 713 million baht to finance the refugee program in Thailand next year has been made by the UNHCR. Mr Prasong told reporters at Don Muang Airport upon his return from Geneva that the pledge was made during the annual conference of the UNHCR held in Geneva from 11-20 October.

During the conference, Thailand expressed concern over declining rates of refugees resettled in third countries. He also informed the conference of the threat of another major influx of Kampuchean refugees resulting from another Vietnamese military offensive. Mr Prasong said he stressed the need for more assistance for the over 80,000 Thai people on the border affected by fighting and a concentration of Kampuchean refugees concentrated in the area.

Thailand now shoulders more than 175,000 Indochinese refugees living in the camps and another 300,000 Kampucheans taking refuge along the Thai-Kampuchean border, he said. In his meeting with Mr Poul Hartling, the UNHCR chief promised to send one of his deputies to study the migration of refugees in Thailand, Mr Prasong said, adding that the 713 million baht budget to be provided by the UNHCR will be used mainly for food and public health services for the refugees.

After the conference in Geneva, Mr Prasong traveled to Rome where he met with officials of the Food and Agriculture Organization and with the World Food Program to discuss the needs for the 300,000 Kampucheans residing on the border. Prasong said the budget approved by the UNHCR for Thailand should be adequate if more refugees are resettled in third countries next year.

PATROLS TO BE INCREASED TO DETER SRV BOAT PEOPLE

BK311435 Bangkok Domestic Service in English 0000 GMT 31 Oct 82

[Text] The Supreme Command Headquarters has announced that it will step up patrol work along the country's coastline in order to prevent more Vietnamese boat refugees from entering Thailand. The move followed an official report that a number of more than 6,000 Vietnamese boat people are heading to Singapore, Malaysia and Thailand. The report also said that the departure of these boat people was made in an abrupt way and without reason.

In the announcement the Supreme Command says that although Thailand used to accept boat refugees into some of its refugee camps, these camps have currently been closed. Besides, it says, Thailand has already asked the United Nations to inform the Vietnamese that the country will not allow any refugee arriving here after August 1981 to be resettled in third countries in order to discourage them from entering here.

The Supreme Command notes that the departure from Vietnam of such a large number of people indicates that the Vietnamese administrators fail to solve their internal problems. Therefore, the Supreme Command says that Vietnamese rulers may switch to pushing their people to neighboring countries in an effort to create new problems after their recent failure to discredit the Democratic Kampuchean Coalition Government in the United Nations.

UN GENERAL ASSEMBLY VOTE ON KAMPUCHEA SCORED

Foreign Ministry Statement

OW301807 Hanoi VNA in English 1552 GMT 30 Oct 82

[Text] Hanoi, VNA, October 30 -- Vietnam considers as "null and void" the resolution adopted by the U.N. General Assembly on October 28 on the so-called "Kampuchean situation."

This stance was made clear by a Foreign Ministry spokesman in a statement released here today. The statement says that the erroneous U.N. resolution is aimed at seeking to impose an absurd political solution on the Kampuchean people. "Like the previous resolution", the statement says, "this U.N. resolution completely distorts the real situation in Kampuchea, negating all the great achievements recorded by the Kampuchean people in their revival and in the defence of national independence and sovereignty over the past three years since they ousted the genocidal regime of the sanguinary Pol Pot gang.

"The United Nations has once again been manipulated to serve the Chinese expansionists in collusion with the U.S. imperialists and other reactionary forces to oppose the rebirth of the Kampuchean people and the other two Indochinese countries, undermine the trend of dialogue between the Indochinese and ASEAN countries, and jeopardize peace and stability in Southeast Asia.

"The U.N.'s adoption of this resolution was a gross infringement on the sovereignty of the People's Republic of Kampuchea and a blatant interference in the Kampuchean people's internal affairs, and ran counter to the U.N. Charter and the fundamental principles of international law. Such a resolution is completely null and void."

The statement says: "The situation in Kampuchea is starkly clear. The Kampuchean people are completely controlling their country and their own destiny. The achievements in all fields of the Kampuchean people over the past three years are very great and marvelous. People of conscience throughout the world have expressed their joy and admiration for these achievements. The Government of the People's Republic of Kampuchea has won increasing trust and love from the Kampuchean people, its international prestige has been further heightened, and it has effectively brought into full play its role in handling domestic and foreign affairs and is worthy of its position as the only legal and authentic representative of the Kampuchean people. Nothing can check the Kampuchean people's steady advance.

"The U.N.'s adoption of this erroneous resolution has further hindered efforts to stabilize the situation in Southeast Asia and damaged the U.N.'s prestige."

The statement says: "The government of the Socialist Republic of Vietnam fully supports the statement of October 29 by the Kampuchean Foreign Ministry's spokesman categorically rejecting the resolution adopted by the U.N. General Assembly on October 28 on the so-called 'Kampuchean situation'.

"Proceeding from their sincere desire for making Southeast Asia a region of peace and stability, Vietnam, Laos and Kampuchea have time and again demonstrated their good will and advanced many fair and logical proposals, especially the important initiatives put forth recently by the conference of the foreign ministers of the three Indochinese countries in Ho Chi Minh City on July 6-7, 1982 aimed at negotiating with concerned countries on a solution to peace and stability in Southeast Asia on the basis of respect for each other's legitimate interests, equality, mutual agreement, non-imposition and non-interfernce from outside. These proposals have been highly valued and backed by broad public opinion throughout the world. They have paved the way for a correct settlement of all disputes and differences between the Indochinese and A.S.E.A.N. countries."

"All attempts by the imperialists and reactionary forces against the Kampuchean people and the other two Indochinese nations, against the trend to dialogue between the Indochinese and A.S.E.A.N. countries, against peace and stability in Southeast Asia, are doomed to failure," the statement says.

NHAN DAN Comment

OW300759 Hanoi VNA in English 0718 GMT 30 Oct 82

[Text] Hanoi, VNA, October 30 -- NHAN DAN today describes as an erroneous decision the adoption by the U.N. General Assembly on Thursday of the ASEAN-sponsored resolution on the so-called "Kampuchean situation."

The paper says that in his recent note to the U.N. secretary-general, Kampuchean Foreign Minister Hun Sen stressed that there was no such thing as a "Kampuchean problem" and, therefore, the U.N. debate was a gross interference in the internal affairs of Kampuchea and ran counter to the U.N. Charter.

NHAN DAN rejects the allegation that the presence of the Vietnamese military forces in Kampuchea is the cause of regional instability. "The presence of Vietnamese troops in Kampuchea", it stresses, "is in conformity with the Vietnam-Kampuchea treaty of peace, friendship and cooperation. It aims to cope with the threat from Chinese expansionism in collusion with U.S. imperialists. It is not a threat to anyone, not to Thailand's security, either, whereas actions mounted from Thailand by Polpotians and other Khmer reactionaries, stooges of Beijing and Washington, have continuously strained the situation on the Thai-Kampuchean border".

The paper goes on: "More people in the world have seen that the root cause of the so-called Kampuchean problem' is China's opposition to Vietnam and the other Indochinese countries. Latest developments have made it stark clear that the threat comes from Beijing, which has tried every means to undermine the Indochinese and ASEAN countries' dialogue for a solution to peace and stability in Southeast Asia".

"To secure peace and stability", NHAN DAN says, "the first thing to do is to put an immediate end to all hostile activities of the reactionaries in the Chinese leadership in collusion with the U.S. imperialists against the independence, sovereignty and security of other Southeast Asian countries".

The paper recalls the proposals of the sixth conference of the Indochinese Foreign Ministers last July for a non-aggression treaty with China, for the establishment of a security zone along the Thai-Kampuchean borders, and for an international conference on Southeast Asia including nine regional states and six other countries.

"These proposals", the paper says, "have received warm welcome from progressive public opinion throughout the world as sound basis for dialogue. Indeed, they show the correct way for settling all disputes and differences between the Indochinese and ASEAN countries since they take into consideration both sides' concerns and are based on mutual respect for each other's legitimate interests, equality, mutual agreement, non-imposition and non-interference. To demonstrate their good will, Vietnam and the People's Republic of Kampuchea have taken the first step by withdrawing part of the Vietnamese forces from Kampuchea". "Indochina leaves the door wide open for dialogue and negotiations", NHAN DAN says: "The point now is to proceed from reality and respect the legitimate interests of the peoples of Kampuchea and other Indochinese countries. Any attempt to protect the genocidal clique of Pol Pot, impose the rule of Chinese expansionism and further the interests of U.S. imperialism is doomed to failures".

NHAN DAN stresses that far from upsetting the situation in Kampuchea, the erroneous U.N. resolutions will lead to another impasse.

Radio Commentary

BK311204 Hanoi Domestic Service in Vietnamese 1430 GMT 30 Oct 82

["Some Observations," by station commentator (Nguyen Chi Dung)]

[Text] Dear friends: So, for the fourth time in a row the UN forum has been abused by bad forces in the furtherance of their selfish and dubious designs. As on the three previous occasions, the resolution which just passed in the United Nations was another erroneous decision by a majority acting erroneously under pressure.

It was already illegal for the United Nations to call a debate on issues involving the sovereignty of Kampuchea without being requested to do so by the legal administration of Kampuchea and without the participation of this country. Therefore, right from the start and by its nature, the outcome of this erroneous act naturally has no valididy whatsoever.

Just as on the previous occasions, the resolution which passed in the United Nations is erroneously based on a prejudiced assessment of the causes of tension in Southeast Asia, and it is because of such prejudice that this resolution absurdly sets forth irrational and biased demands. This resolution, though bearing the seal of approval of the United Nations, is in reality a jumbled collection of the obsolete viewpoints of China, the United States and their followers on issues concerning the three Indochinese countries, which have been rejected many times by the Indochinese countries themselves.

Moreover, although this resolution was formally sponsored by the ASEAN countries, its real authors were none other than the United States and China. The ASEAN countries, acting naturally and with varying degrees of motivation, did nothing but quote from scripts written by others. Therefore, it is safe to say that this is more proof of te scheme to abuse the United Nations to impose the viewpoints of one party on another. Thus this resolution is unjust and one-sided.

It is certain that when they pooled their forces to pressure the United Nations into passing this resolution, a number of persons within the ruling circles of China, the United States and their satellite forces knew full well that their irrational demands would not be binding on anyone. Nevertheless, they wanted to abuse the UN forum to discredit the Indochinese countries and create a pretext for interfering in the internal affairs of the Kampuchean people and for coping with the just and practical peace initiatives of the three Indochinese countries which are winning more and more sympathy from broad sections of public opinion.

By analyzing some points, we will see more clearly the one-sidedness and the basic errors of the inventors of this unhealthy resolution. They have repeatedly griped about the presence of foreign troops in Kampuchea but they cannot muster enough courage to talk about the illegal occupation of Vietnam's Hoang Sa Archipelago by Chinese troops or about the presence of U.S. troops in the Philippines. They point out that Vietnam now deploys some of its soldiers in Kampuchea but they dare not mention the root causes and direct reasons for an action which we, ourselves, did not want to take. They demand that we withdraw our troops from Kampuchea but fail to demand that China respond to our proposal for signing bilateral or multilateral treaties of peaceful coexistence between the Indochinese countries and the PRC.

They thoughtlessly claim that the deployment of foreign forces at the Thai-Kampuchean border will maintain tension in the region, but if this is true, why do they not demand that Thailand respond to Kampuchea's proposal for establishing a security zone along the common border where no foreign troops -- only the national troops of Thailand and Kampuchea -- will be present? They say irresponsibly that due to instability in Kampuchea, many Kampucheans have been forced to flee to the Thai-Kampuchean border, but why do they no demand that the Thai authorities respond to Kampuchea's proposal for holding bilateral discussions at any level and any time to repatriate the Khmer people who, chiefly by mistake, are now living a wretched life in refugee camps in Thailand? They simply want to maintain this situation in order to draw money from international organizations and create a source of reinforcements for the forces of Khmer rebels which are operating clandestinely on Thai soil.

Furthermore, the resolution just passed by the United Nations also deals at length with the Kampuchean people's so-called right to self-determination, the principle of nonintervention in Kampuchea's internal affairs, an overall political solution to the Kampuchean question and even with the sovereignty and territorial integrity of Kampuchea.

So what principle of nonintervention allows them to band together and set up a genocidal government in disguise, named the Coalition Government of Democratic Kampuchea, in order to oppose and undermine the revival of the Khmer nation? Now suppose someone does the same with the groups of Maoist rebels in the ASEAN countries -- would they stand for it?

They talk about a political solution and the territorial sovereignty of Kampuchea while they increase their arms supplies to the various groups of Khmer bandits, providing them with sanctuaries and regularly sending them back to Kampuchea for sabotage activities. Here, it is obvious that selfishness and hypocrisy have prompted them to utter words that primarily contradict their current deeds.

Also in the same resolution, some persons in the ruling circles of China, the United States and their satellite forces did not fail to advertise the so-called International Conference on Kampuchea which they unilaterally convened in July last year. The reason for this is very simple. Although the conference was soon forgotten by public opinion after its conclusion because of its one-sided imposition, they still want to hold onto this conference to legalize its convocation and turn its structure into the legal basis for applying pressure on the three Indochinese countries. But this is only their wishful thinking, for nothing can be more ridiculous than the fact that an international conference that was designed to solve problems directly involving the Indochinese countries was not attended by those very countries themselves.

Thus, the United Nations has for the fourth time acted under pressure to pass erroneous resolutions on the Indochinese countries. Naturally, the marvelous revival of the Khmer nation as well as the lasting and pure solidarity between the three Indochinese peoples is in no way affected by such preposterous UN resolutions. We hold that this unhealthy product, far from having any practical value, only impairs the prestige and reputation of the United Nations. Of course, except for the masterminds -- a number of persons within the ruling circles of China and the United States and some other political speculators -- it is certain that not a few persons acted against their better judgment as well as that of their own peoples, and it is regrettable that they voted under pressure.

Once again, we totally reject the resolution just passed by the United Nations. This resolution opens no bright prospect for settling problems concerning peace and stability in Southeast Asia. The path called for in this resolution is a blind alley that will only lead to an impasse.

UN REPRESENTATIVE REJECTS CHARGES ON KAMPUCHEA

OW301725 Hanoi VNA in English 1549 GMT 30 Oct 82

[Text] Hanoi, VNA, October 30 -- At the last meeting on Thursday of the United Nations on the Kampuchean situation, Ambassador Le Kim Chung rejected the slanderous charge of some delegates that Vietnam had committed aggression and violated the principles of the U.N. Charter. The Vietnamese representative denounced the crimes perpetrated by the Chinese-backed Pol Pot gang and said: "So long as the United Nations Organization maintains the representatives of the Pol Pot gang in whatever form, and so long as it tries to impose its unilateral resolutions upon the Kampuchean people, contrary to the legitimate interests and basic national rights of this people, and contrary to the fundamental principles of the U.N. Charter, Vietnam and the other Indochinese countries will never recognize those resolutions, and the U.N. itself will continue to prove incapable of playing an active role in the cause of peace, stability and cooperation in Southeast Asia, in accordance with its obligation".

PRC SAID CONTINUING 'ARMED PROVOCATIONS'

OW301659 Hanoi VNA in English 1603 GMT 30 Oct 82

[Text] Hanoi, VNA, October 28 -- Chinese troops have over the past few days made a series of armed provocations against the Vietnamese people in Sino-Vietnamese border areas.

On October 20, the Chinese troops fired many 12.7-mm machinegun rounds on the Sin Man area (Ha Tuyen Province), killing a number of cattle.

On October 22-23, more than 30 Chinese troops, together with many groups of militiamen, intruded into the Phong Sinh area, Hai Ninh District (Quang Ninh Province) and the border post 92 area in Tra Linh District (Cao Bang Province), felling trees and taking them away. Also on these two days, Chinese troops fired dozens of 12.7-mm machinegun and mortar rounds on the Bat Xat area (Hoang Lin Son Province), destroying a number of local people's houses and killing many cattle.

On October 25-26, Chinese troops opened fire on the areas of border posts 49 and 52 in Cao Loc District (Lang Son Province).

Successively on October 22, 23, 25 and 27, Chinese troops fired 12.7-mm machinegun and mortar rounds on the Thi Hoa area in Ha Lang District (Cao Bang Province), wounding many people, damaging dozens of hectares of rice fields, while using powerful loud-speakers to spread slanders against Vietnam and threaten the local people's normal life.

Many Chinese spies and commandos have also been smuggled into the Cao Loc area (Lang Son Province), the Bat Sat and Pha Long areas (Hoang Lien Son Province), the Binh Lieu area (Quang Ninh Province) and the Trung Khanh area (Cao Bang Province) for sabotage activities.

VNA REJECTS BBC REPORT ON BOAT PEOPLE INCREASE

OW291740 Hanoi VNA in English 1546 GMT 29 Oct 82

[Text] Hanoi, VNA, October 29 -- The BBC last night broadcast a report quoting a source from Singapore as saying that the number of Vietnamese "boat people" was increasing and that at present, 6,000 Vietnamese in 100 boats are on the way to Singapore, Thailand and Malaysia.

VIETNAM NEWS AGENCY (VNA) is authorized to flatly reject that report, which is but an ill-intentioned fabrication.

CHARGES ON USE OF CHEMICAL WEAPONS REJECTED

U.S. Charges Rejected

BK311616 Hanoi Domestic Service in Vietnamese 1430 GMT 31 Oct 82

[Text] For more than a week, at the debates of the Political and Security Committee on Disarmament, delegates from many countries have directly or indirectly criticized the United States for seeking to obstruct disarmament.

In the 29 October afternoon session, Ambassador Vo Anh Tuan of the SRV delegation spoke about the Vietnamese people's wish to live in peace, which was reflected in the participation by 15 million people of different walks of life in signature-collecting drives and in various discussions and meetings held to express approval of peace and disarmament.

Rejecting slanderous U.S. allegations about the so-called use of chemical weapons in Kampuchea and Afghanistan, Ambassador Vo Anh Tuan said that irrefutable facts have shown that since the end of World War II, the United States has always been the leader in the production of new weapons and weapon systems, thus intensifying the arms race.

Voicing support for the Soviet proposals for disarmament, our country's delegate stressed that the Soviet Union's new proposal for an immediate end to all nuclear tests along with basic provisions of an agreement on complete and absolute ban of nuclear weapons tests can help extricate the international community from the current deadlock.

Thai Charge Rejected by VNA

BK011506 Hanoi Domestic Service in Vietnamese 1430 GMT 1 Nov 82

[Text] Radio Beijing on 30 October quoted a report by a Thai army general as saying that Vietnam recently sent more than 100 trucks carrying chemical weapons to the Kampuchean-Thai border in preparation for its military activities in the coming dry season.

VIETNAM NEWS AGENCY is authorized to totally reject this malicious fabrication. It is aimed at serving the dangerous policy of the U.S. imperialists -- those who are currently stepping up the production of chemical weapons -- and the schemes of the reactionaries among the Beijing ruling circles to create confrontation between the Indochinese and ASEAN countries.

BREZHNEV REMARKS ON SINO-SOVIET RELATIONS CITED

BK301438 Hanoi International Service in English 1000 GMT 29 Oct 82

[Text] Soviet President Leonid Brezhnev has declared that the policy of the Soviet Union is to consolidate the international security and detente.

Speaking in the Kremlin recently, he pointed out that (?the policy of) the United States and its followers is to aggravate the complexity to maximum. They increased the military buildup, especially nuclear weapons, to gain military superiority.

On Sino-Soviet relations, Soviet (?President) Leonid Brezhnev said: The Soviet Union sincerely wishes to normalize relations with China and will do all it can for this goal. Beijing often talks about normalization but in fact, there is no fundamental change in China's foreign policy.

NEW INTERNATIONAL INFORMATION ORDER SUPPORTED

OW290735 Hanoi VNA in English 0718 GMT 29 Oct 82

[Text] Hanoi, VNA, October 29 -- "The developing countries need their own information system in order to continue their struggle against colonialism," stated the Vietnamese representative at the meeting of the U.N. Special Political Committee on October 27.

The Vietnam representative voiced strong support for a new international information order, stressing that the domination of Western news agencies allowed them to violate the rights of the peoples of the developing countries by misinformation.

"In Southeast Asia," he pointed out, "the 'Voice of Free Asia' as well as the press and radio of a hegemonistic nation give a predominant place to slanderous propaganda against the countries of Indochina, encouraging citizens of these countries to flee abroad by so doing, hindering the efforts of the governments of Indochina and the H.C.R. [High Commissioner for Refugees] at orderly and legal emigration."

"It is important," he said in conclusion, "to correct the imbalance favouring Western developed countries that exists in the geographical distribution in the Department of Public Information (D.P.I.), and the U.N should aid the developing countries to establish conditions that will permit the development of techniques by which they can best utilize their proper resources."

BRIEFS

KAMPUCHEAN CITY DELEGATION -- Hanoi, VNA, 15 Oct -- A delegation of the Kampuchean port city of Kompong Som led by Choumho, secretary of the party committee and chairman of the people's committee of the city, recently visited the Vietnamese port city of Haiphong. It was welcomed by Doan Duy Thanh, secretary of the party committee, and Nguyen Dan, chairman of the People's Committee of Haiphong, and others. The Kampuchean delegation toured several cultural and economic institutions and attended a mass meeting in its honour. [Text] [Hanoi VNA in English 1524 GMT 14 Oct 82 OW]

SRV FOREIGN MINISTER CONTINUES JAKARTA VISIT

Mokhtar-Thach Talks

BK291413 Jakarta Domestic Service in Indonesian 1200 GMT 29 Oct 82

[Text] Foreign Minister Mokhtar Kusumaatmaja and Vietnamese Foreign Minister Nguyen Co Thach held a 3-hour meeting at the Foreign Affairs Department in Jakarta today. Speaking to reporters after the meeting, Minister Mokhtar said that his talks with Nguyen Co Thach had proceeded well in a frank and friendly atmosphere. However, he declined any comment when asked by reporters if there was any new development in their talks on the Kampuchean question. Foreign Minister Mokhtar Kusumaatmaja was scheduled to host a dinner in honor of his Vietnamese guest this evening.

Trade Talks Held

BK300855 Jakarta OANA in English 0828 GMT 30 Oct 82

[Text] Jakarta, Oct. 30 (ANTARA/OANA) -- Visiting Vietnamese Foreign Minister Nguyen Co Thach paid a courtesy call on Trade and Cooperatives Minister Radius Prawiro here today. Shukri Alumuddin, spokesman of the Department of Trade and Cooperatives, said that Co Thach had expressed a desire of his country to import textiles and urea fertilizer from Indonesia. In turn, Vietnam would like to export phosphate rock and cement to Indonesia after 1984 as it was committed by a number of export contracts at present with other countries, the spokesman added.

Minister Radius Prawiro had explained to his visitor the financing of export of textiles and urea fertilizer to Vietnam would be studied, as at present the Indonesian Government would only be able to extend export credits for a six-month period.

Vietnam needed about 50 million meters of textiles a year, of which part were imported from India. In the past Vietnam imported this commodity from the Chinese People's Republic and the Soviet Union. Minister Radius Prawiro during the meeting was flanked by Didit Alwi, Director for Imports, Department of Trade and Cooperatives and Shukri Alimuddin.

Report on AFP Interview

BK310942 Hong Kong AFP in English 0917 GMT 31 Oct 82

[Text] Jakarta, Oct. 31 (AFP) -- by Gilles Bertin -- A possible Sino-Soviet rapproachement was a "positive factor for the cause of peace and peaceful co-existence," Vietnamese Foreign Minister Nguyen Co Thach said today in an exclusive interview with AGENCE FRANCE-PRESSE. The Vietnamese foreign minister is in Indonesia for an official four-day visit.

Regarding an eventual change in Vietnamese politics in the face of a Sino-Soviet reconciliation, Mr. Thach said: "We are an independent country. Our politics are not based on the relations between other countries. We still hope for normalisation of our relations with China." "Our aim", he added, "is to patiently work for peace and stability in Southeast Asia." "At the same time, Vietnam is prepared should anyone want to teach us a lesson," Mr. Thach said, in an apparent reference to China's attack on Vietnam in February 1979, when Beijing said it would "teach Vietnam a lesson."

Commenting on the recent United Nations vote which retained the Democratic Kampuchean coalition of anti-Vietnamese forces in Cambodia's U.N. seat, Mr. Thach said: "20 years of favorable votes for Taiwan in the United Nations did nothing to change the situation in China; on the contrary, the situation in China changed the vote in the United Nations."

"Four years of favorable votes for Pol Pot in the United Nations cannot change the situation in Kampuchea. We will not wait that many years to change the vote in the United Nations. We are optimists," the minister said.

Concerning his stay in Indonesia, Mr. Thach said he believed the goals of his visit had been realised: "Better comprehension, continuation of talks and development of bilateral relations". Indonesian Foreign Minister Mokhtar Kusumaatmaja had accepted an invitation to visit Vietnam, he added.

On the vexed question of the Natunas Islands border dispute between Indonesia and Vietnam, Mr. Co Thach said the islands were Indonesian. "We have agreed to hold the seventh round of negotiations for the continental shelf during the first few months of 1983," he said. The Natunas Islands, located south of the China Sea, are rich in oil and natural gas.

In conclusion, Mr. Thach stressed that his country "was the victim of wars of aggression for 35 years while all other countries in the world enjoy the longest period of peace in this century. Peace for Vietnam is more valuable than ever."

Thai Holds Press Conference

BK010859 Jakarta OANA in English 0832 GMT 1 Nov 82

[Text] Jakarta, Nov. 1 (ANTARA/OANA) -- Vietnamese Foreign Minister Nguyen Co Thach said his talks with his Indonesian counterpart, Mokhtar Kusummaatmaja, also concerned possibilities of cooperation in oil explorations. Speaking at a press conference here today, Co Thach said with Mokhtat he also discussed the problem of the petroleum-rich Natuna Islands. But he smiled broadly when asked about the status of the island group, and simply said that Natuna belonged to Indonesia. Vietnam, as is generally known, had been claiming that Natuna belonged to it. Foreign Minister Mokhtat Kusummatmaja was reported to have told the press that it is about time to settle the problem. Both sides, he said, shared the view that the problem should be settled soon. Mokhtar said that it would be no use to leave the problem unsolved because it would result at the expense of Vietnam. If the problem of oil exploration is solved, Indonesia is prepared to give her assistnce in consideration that Indonesia is well experienced in the oil ventures.

According to the Indonesian foreign minister, the Natuna issue remains a technical problem in the sense that both Indonesian and Vietnamese foreign ministers have not directly interfered in the matter. Mokhtar said that both sides intentionally leave the problem as a technical issue so that political repercussions will not come to the surface in case troubles arise.

Asked about the topic of discussion with President Suharto, Foreign Minister Co Thach described it as "very interesting". But he refused to reveal the results of the talks he held with the Indonesian president, saying that they are "state secrets".

Co Thach said he refused the holding of an international conference on Kampuchea. The Vietnamese foreign minister preferred the Kampuchean issue to be discussed on a regional level. Co Thach said that an international conference on Kampuchea would only give recognition of Pol Pot and facilitate his comeback to Kampuchea.

The Vietnamese foreign minister will leave Jakarta this afternoon.

Additional Details

BK010951 Hong Kong AFP in English 0925 GMT 1 Nov 82

[Text] Jakarta, Nov. 1 (AFP) -- Vietnamese Foreign Minister Nguyen Co Thach today said Vietnam would welcome foreign aid for the development of the country provided it was given unconditionally.

"We are prepared to accept foreign aid for the current reconstruction in Vietnam, if it has no political strings," he told a news conference at the end of a four-day visit to Indonesia. But he stressed that Vietnam would not be willing to sell its independence just for aid. He admitted that Vietnam had encountered many difficulties in its development efforts. "We are aware that we have made mistakes and but now we want to correct them," he said. Vietnam had been hit by natural disasters such as a typhoon that had caused harvest failure, he said, adding that the situation now had started to improve.

Answering a question, Mr. Thach said he was satisfied with his visit to Indonesia. "I am happy and satisfied because we have had better understanding on regional issues, including the Cambodian problem," he said. But he refused to go into details on his talks with President Suharto "because it is still a secret."

Mr. Thach reaffirmed that Vietnamese troops in Cambodia would be withdrawn if China abandoned its hostile policy towards Vietnam. He said he noted that border incidents between China and Vietnam had been decreasing. There were some 100 incidents per month in 1980, 50 per month last year and this year until August between 10 and 15 per month, he said. "This could be a good sign, but on the contrary it could be the eve of a storm. But I could be wrong. I hope it is a good sign," he said.

Mr. Thach described the anti-Vietnamese coalition government under Prince Norodom Sihanouk as cosmetics for the Khmer Rouge regime of Pol Pot. He said Vietnamese forces would not be able to eliminate the Khmer Rouge totally "because the Khmer Rouge enjoys support from the other part of the border (meaning Thailand)." It was not necessary for Vietnam to launch an offensive against the Khmer Rouge, he said, and added: "We respect the sovereignty of the other part of the border and they (Khmer Rouge) are just like a skin disease."

Meanwhile, Indonesian Foreign Minister Mokhtar Kusumaatmaja told AFP this afternoon that nothing new had emerged from his talks with Mr. Nguyen Co Thach since the Vietnamese foreign minister had "offered nothing new." Asked when he would visit Vietnam where he has been invited by Mr. Thach, Mr. Mochtar said: "It remains to be seen when I go there, of course if there is something to be discussed."

About the continental shelf above the Natunas Islands which has been a subject of dispute with Vietnam, Mr. Mokhtar told AFP that "the differences had considerably dwindled after meeting six times so that the remaining area in dispute or over which there are overlapping claims is around 42,000 square kilometres." "The seventh talks must be held and it is the turn of Vietnam to be host. I hope the next meeting will resolve the problem. We have until now kept the talks on a technical not political level. It is the first time that the foreign ministers talked about the boundaries."

Mr. Thach and his five-member party left this afternoon for home via Bangkok.

INDIA'S MOVE ON E. TIMOR ISSUE AT UN WELCOMED

BK301337 Jakarta Domestic Service in Indonesian 1200 GMT 30 Oct 82

[Excerpts] India has again urged the UN General Assembly not to include the East Timor issue on its agenda, because this constitutes interference in Indonesia's internal affairs. The call was made by India's representative Kamal Nath during the UN General Assembly Fourth Committee session in New York yesterday. The Indian representative pointed out that the East Timor people have exercised their rights for self-determination in 1976 by declaring their integration with Indonesia. This declaration is a historical fact which cannot be erased or turned back to the past.

Indonesia welcomes the Indian move to regard the East Timor issue as settled and should no longer be discussed at the UN General Assembly. Foreign Minister Mokhtar Kusumaatmaja told reporters in Jakarta today that we must be cautious in our future strategy since Portugal is launching a worldwide diplomatic offensive on the issue.
